20TH YEAR. NO. 16. EAST LIVERPOOL, O., TUESDAY, JANUARY 20, 1903. TWO CENTS.

LITIGATION EXPECTED BEFORE SETTLEMENT

Prospect That the Pennsylvania Avenue Matter Will Be Bitterly Fought in Court.

SOME STRONG LEGAL POINTS ARE RAISED

From facts gained by a News Review reporter it seems assured that before the questions arising from the improvement of Pennsylvania avenue have been settled there will be an unlimited amount of argument and controversy and in all probability bitter litigation.

From the day that it was made public that an equalization board was to be appointed to equalize the assessments made by the assessing board, the report of which was accepted by council, interested property holders in the East End have had in consideration the advisability of employing an attorney to defend their rights, and when the council at its last meeting rejected the report of the board they without hesitation decided that it was high time that they were carrying out their proposed plans. Attorney W. F Lones, of Wellsville, was associated with Attorney J. E. Davis, who had previously been retained.

Mr. Lones at once interested himself in the case and came to East Liverpool to make a thorough investigation. Just what he discovered is not known, but it is said that when he makes known his findings to the city council many surprises will be in evidence and that a new phase to the numerous questions involved will be apparent.

A conversation with Mr. Lones revealed the fact that some unexpected truths will be sprung at the proper time and that they will without doubt fall among the parties in ignorance as bomb shells.

"I cannot at the present time give out anything that would be of much interest to the residents of your city," said the attorney. "I can say, however, that we intend to take care of our side of the question, and that the courts will have the opportunity of deciding the matter if a mutual agreement cannot be decided upon."

It is known positively that there are several strong points that have not been adhered to by the council that may result in much litigation, and if they are taken up by the East End citizens, and there is every assurance that they will be, the city will be compelled to make a strong fight or it will lose almost without a struggle on

PARENTS UNABLE TO MAKE WANTS KNOWN

EAST END CHILD SUFFERING FROM SCARLET FEVER.

Both Father And Mother Mutes And Without Means—A Pathetic Case.

A most pathetic case came to light yesterday when an appeal was made to the township trustees for assistance in the manner of food and fuel for a family under quarantine in the East End, a child being afflicted with the disease, scarlet fever, which has been prevalent in that section of the city for several months.

The family referred to is that of Frank Sells. Early yesterday morning Sanitary Policeman Burgess was summoned to the home by a physician who ordered that the house be placed under quartine. The officer, upon his arrival, met an obstacle altogether unexpected.

The family consists of three members, his wife and the child which lies suffering. Both the man and wife are mutes and under the present circumstances the affliction renders them entirely unable to secure means for a proper sustenance, and but for the kindly assistance of the trustees and the sanitary officer the little child would probably have died for the want of proper medical attention.

The case is one of the most pitiful that has come into the hands of the trustees for some time, owing to the almost helpless condition of the parents and the critical condition of the child.

CLOTHING TAKEN IN HIS ABSENCE

A Sebring Potters' Room Was Broken Into And Robbed On Sunday.

Sebring, January 20.—(Special.)—While absent from home over Sunday the room of Frank Watson, a well known potter, was broken open and a quantity of clothing, together with money, were stolen. Mr. Watson did not discover his loss until he returned to Sebring last evening, and at once began an investigation. When he had finished there were well grounded suspicions that a young man who recently left the city had paid the room a visit before departing, and the matter will be further looked into.

If the offense can be laid against the individual in question it will add another to a long list of crimes for which he will be compelel to answer when caught.

SEBRING WOMAN VICTIM OF PAINFUL ACCIDENT.

Scalding Contents of a Kitchen Utensil Upset Upon Mrs. John Horton.

Sebring, January 20.—(Special.)—Mrs. John Horton, wife of the boss of the decorating department at the potteries here, met with a painful accident yesterday while engaged at her usual household duties. She was in the act of removing a pot of boiling water from the stove when, in some unaccountable manner it overturned the contents striking her in the face and breast.

For a time she was blinded and the pain was very severe. Medical aid was summoned and the lady made as comfortable as possible. Yesterday afternoon and last night she suffered excruciating pain, but is slightly improved.

Mrs. Horton is very well known in East Liverpool, where she formerly resided.

WORKHOUSE SENTENCE FOR A SALEM YOUTH

Charles Owens, Guilty of Larceny, Gets 60 Days at Canton.

Lisbon, January 20.—(Special.)—Charles Owens, of Salem, was arraigned in probate court this morning and pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny. Judge Boone sentenced him to the Canton workhouse for 60 days, to stand committed until the costs are paid.

IN A SERIOUS STATE

Young Woman Being Cared for By Township Trustees May Not Survive.

Miss Orpha Osborne, the young lady who was removed from a boarding house near the corner of Third and Market streets by the township trustees and taken to the home of Mrs. Green, where she could be properly cared for while suffering with typhoid fever, is in a precarious condition. Last night her temperature had gone up to 104 and the chances are not very good for her recovery. Her sister Mabel is assisting in caring for her. The home of these girls is said to be at Imperial, Pa.

The mother is dead and the father married again. It is stated that he is a well known citizen of that city and that the news of his daughter's illness has never reached him.

EARLY DATES ARE IN FAVOR

Republican State Convention May Be Held Some Time Next May.

DEMOCRATS WILL FOLLOW

With State Gathering Shortly Afterward—An Important Campaign is Ahead And Both Sides Want Ample Time to Prepare For It.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, January 20.—It is believed both of the leading parties will hold early conventions this year. The leaders favor this and the Republicans may meet as early as May, with the Democrats following close in their wake. Sentiment is general on this point, in order to give ample time in which to prepare for the fall campaign. This will be an important year politically. The voters will be called upon to elect a governor, attorney general, judge of the supreme court, treasurer of state, member of board of public works and a legislature which will elect a United States senator. The fall election will only precede by a few months the opening of what will be an intensely interesting presidential campaign. It is predicted national issues will figure largely in the Ohio campaign.

If General Dick is not made the Republican candidate for governor he will doubtless continue to serve in the capacity of chairman of the Republican state committee, with John R. Malloy filling his usual berth of secretary. It has not been decided who shall manage the campaign for the Democracy. Congressman Harvey C. Garber, of the Fourth district, who was the party's chairman last year is one of the availables this year. His candidacy would probably be opposed by the McLean wing of the party, he and the Cincinnati man being bad friends.

Senator Warren G. Harding, of Marion, has created a temporary stir by announcing his candidacy for governor. There is no sponsorship for his candidacy, he says, and in making the announcement he simply yielded to the judgment of friends who have urged him to enter the race.

MRS. HEALY'S REMAINS EXPECTED HERE TODAY

Her Sister And Her Husband Will Accompany the Body to This City.

The mystery surrounding the death of Mrs. Healy, better known to East Liverpool as Mary King, at New York has not yet been unveiled. The theory that she was murdered has been accepted locally and the many who knew her are anxiously waiting for further developments. According to a telegram received by the News Review last evening the remains will reach this city on the 4 o'clock train this afternoon. The telegram reads as follows:

"Mary Healy, who died in New York, will arrive Tuesday afternoon, accompanied by her husband and sister, Julia King."

MANY VISITORS AT MERCER HOME

Large Numbers Gaze Upon the Features of the Dead Ball Player.

Hundreds of people called at the Mercer home on Fifth street between the hours of 2 and 4 o'clock this afternoon to view the remains of the dead ball player. They saw him as in a peaceful sleep, almost as they had known him in life. Tonight between 7 and 9 o'clock many more will call to see their dead friend.

Surrounding the bier are the many beautiful floral offerings and a profusion of cut flowers.

Elks Will Entertain.

The local lodge of Elks will entertain Lewis P. Metzger, of Salem, D. D. G. E. R., next Thursday evening, and a stag social will be given in his honor. W. E. Wells will preside and there will be addresses by several prominent members.

Order of Appraisement.

Lisbon, January 20.—(Special.)—An order of appraisement has been issued to J. F. Ward, guardian of Hazel and Bruce M. Barton, of Center township.

ANNUAL CONVENTION OF OHIO MUNICIPALITIES TO BE HELD NEXT MONTH

An Important Meeting at Dayton at Which This City Ought to Be Represented.

The sixth annual convention of Ohio municipalities will be held February 10, 11, and 12, at Dayton. The question of sending representatives from this city to that convention may be discussed at the meeting of council tonight. This league had done a vast amount of hard work along municipal lines and many knotty problems have been explained at their meetings. East Liverpool has never yet had a representative at any of the conventions held by the league although every municipality in the state is urged to send delegates.

Usually the mayor or city solicitor and sometimes both are sent to represent a city. Since the adoption of the new code in Ohio many questions are liable to arise which puzzle the city councilmen. Many times these are of such a nature that it requires considerable study on the part of the solicitor to explain them. These are just the sort of questions that are discussed at the conventions held by the league. The changes made by the new code will throw many city legislative bodies into chaos unless the members have made a study of the code in detail. As that document is rather lengthy but few have had the time to give it as much attention as it should have.

It is possible that the council tonight may take some action toward selecting delegates to attend the convention to be held next month. The bringing together of the mayor, solicitors and councilmen of so many different municipalities of the state can not help being of great benefit to them. A good program has been arranged for this convention and timely topics will be discussed by able men, well up on city affairs and city government.

Dayton, where the convention is to be held, is a beautiful city of 80,000 inhabitants, well equipped to entertain a convention of this kind. It probably enjoys the distinction of having more electric lines running in it than in any other city, large or small, in the state. While there the delegates would have an opportunity to spend their spare time in various county seat towns about the size of East Liverpool and getting valuable suggestions in regard to city affairs in general.

LIFE CRUSHED OUT BY STREET CAR

Mrs. Alice Orr, Late of This City, Met With a Violent Death in Allegheny.

The westbound train yesterday afternoon bore to this city the remains of Mrs. Alice Orr, a resident of the city from childhood until last March, who, while crossing a crowded thoroughfare in Allegheny last Saturday afternoon suddenly became confused in an attempt to make a way through the throngs and was run down and killed by a street car.

Full particulars of the terrible accident could not be obtained this morning, no one having accompanied the body who had been informed. It was learned, however, that after the spark of life had been crushed out of the body she was removed to the morgue and that it lay there for two days before identification was made.

A young lady working with Mrs Orr at the home of George Boswell, Buena Vista street, Allegheny, identified the body early yesterday morning. She read in Saturday evening's paper of an unknown woman being killed by a street car. Although Mrs. Orr, who left the home shortly after noon Saturday, had not returned it did not occur to her that the woman at the morgue might be Mrs. Orr until Monday morning when she immediately started to investigate. She found several mutilated women lying on the cold slabs and was about to depart without success when she recognized the clothing of one of the inanimate forms to be that worn by her friend. The authorities accepted her arguments as a valid identification and it was later made positive by Carl Weeks, a son by a former marriage.

Mrs. Orr for several years prior to leaving for Allegheny was employed in the warehouse department at the Knowles, Taylor & Knowles china works. She was a highly respected woman and a consistent member of the First Presbyterian church. The funeral services will be conducted Thursday by Rev. C. G. Jordan. She is survived by three children: Carl Weeks, the son who is employed in Pittsburg; Mrs. Mary Atkins, of the East End, this city, and Miss Flossie Orr, who makes her home with her grandmother on Robinson street.

SENTENCES IMPOSED IN COURT

Salem Youth Goes to Reformatory for Stealing. Fines in Liquor Cases.

Lisbon, January 20.—(Special.)—After a brief criminal session yesterday afternoon court adjourned until 9:30 this morning.

Amos Whitacre, aged 17, of Salem who had previously pleaded not guilty to a charge of having stolen some bank checks from the satchel of M. E Welsh, a traveling man, at the Greiner Brainard hotel at Salem, decided to change his plea and pleaded guilty to the charge. The penalty for Whitacre's crime is from one to seven years in the penitentiary. The judge sentenced him to the reformatory.

The cases of the three Lisbon saloonists, indicted for selling to minors were also disposed of. Harry Davis, of the Hostetter bar; Daniel J. Jobs and Edward Hicklin, each pleaded guilty to selling to minors. It being Davis first offense he was let off with a fine of $15 and costs. Jobs and Hicklin both having been up before were assessed $25 and costs each.

A continuation of the case against John Michaels, of East Liverpool, charged with selling to a minor, was asked for by his attorney on account of the absence of an important witness. The court consented to pass the case out of the present assignment.

The case against James Walters, of East Liverpool, was also passed.

Chief Turner, of Salem, came here again yesterday afternoon, having in his custody Charles Owens, who was bound over for breaking into Thomas Williams' plumbing shop in Salem and stealing a revolver and a razor. Owens was first released from jail a few days ago, where he had languished for some time on a charge of attempted robbery. When he left he told his fellow prisoners he would be back soon.

BENEFIT GAME YIELDED $1,500

BALL PLAYERS RAISE THAT SUM FOR MERCER'S MOTHER.

Attendance Was Large At the San Francisco Contest at Base-Ball.

San Francisco, January 20.—The benefit game played here yesterday between the All Americans and Nationals attracted the largest crowd that has witnessed any of the games. The appearance of the two local baseball favorites, Joe Corbett and Hans Iberg, as pitchers, and of Bill Lange, as umpire, drew a big crowd to the diamond Saturday afternoon, but even more powerful was the feeling that the attendance would help the mother of Winnie Mercer, the popular pitcher who recently committed suicide here. The game was well played and resulted in this score: American, 5; National, 3.

The amount realized will be about $1,500, as everyone gave their services free.

Executor Resigns.

Lisbon, January 20.—(Special.)—John Gamble, as executor of the estate of the late John Gamble, of Franklin township, has resigned and James P. Gamble has been appointed administrator under bond of $4,000.

LISBON POSTMASTERS WILL BE BENEFITED

Former Officials to Get Money Under a Resolution Introduced By Senator Hanna.

Columbus, January 20.—Under a resolution introduced by Senator Hanna which will be adopted by congress, between $115,000 and $125,000 will be paid to Ohio postmasters who served in the 60's and 70's, because of a misinterpretation of the postoffice department of a law relating to the compensation of postmasters.

Two Lisbon postmasters will profit by the resolution—H. W. Brown, who will receive $302, and John Robison who will receive $423.

POSTMASTERS NAMED FOR RE-APPOINTMENT

Congressman Tayler yesterday recommended the appointment of Postmaster W. H. Surles, East Liverpool; T. R. Snowden, Wellsville; George A. Alaback, East Palestine; E. F. Moore Lisbon; George E. McDonald, Minerva.

Licensed to Wed.

Lisbon, January 20.—(Special.)—Joseph Linzey and Margaret A. Franklin, both of East Palestine, have been licensed to marry.

ROLLED ALONG AND KILLED BY TRAIN OF COAL CARS

Lisbon, January 20.—(Special.)—Roy Nulf, the 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar E. Nulf, of New Waterford, met with a horrible death in the Fairfield Coal company's mine near that village yesterday. He was employed as "trip" boy in the mines, and was riding on the front end of a string of empty coal cars which were being hauled back into the mines by the weight of a loaded train of cars which were approaching the mouth on another track. The end of a broken rail raised as the string of empties approached him, and when the first car struck it the shock threw Young Nulf forward on the track in front of the cars.

The empties were being propelled with resistless force by the weight of the loaded cars and pushed Nulf along in front, bumping him on the cross ties and other obstructions until every bone in his body was broken.

Funeral services will be held from the New Waterford M. E. church, tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock under the auspices of the Mine Workers' union. Burial at New Waterford.

IMPORTANT SALE OF COAL LAND

Sterling Mining Company Gets Possession of a Valuable Tract at Salineville.

Salineville, January 20.—(Special)—The Sterling Mining company has purchased the Mary E. McDonald farm of 80 acres, which is underlaid with coal. The consideration was $5,000.

The farm lies between the property of the company and other valuable coal lands. It is near the railroad and is considered the key to a tract of 1,000 acres of valuable coal land lying just over the border in Carroll county.

PRISONERS IN TERROR

Over a Fire Which Came Near Burning Them And Toronto City Hall.

Toronto, January 20.—The city hall came near being destroyed by fire yesterday morning. The loss will be about $500. There were three prisoners in the jail part of the building and their cries of distress and terror aroused Marshal Dye, who rescued them. The interior of the building was badly scorched.

Judge Moore Better.

Lisbon, January 20.—(Special.)—The condition of Judge J. G. Moore is slightly improved today, and his friends are much encouraged.

SEBRING POTTER STRANGELY MISSING

EDWARD KENNEDY, A PACKER, GONE UNDER A CLOUD.

Alleged That He Took His Roommate's Money And Also Owed for Board.

Sebring, January 20.—(Special.)—Edward Kennedy, a packer at one of the local potteries and formerly of East Liverpool, has disappeared from this city, it is reported, and under peculiar circumstances. Kennedy roomed with Edward Mellor at the Sebring hotel, and it is alleged that last night he went to the room and packed his grip. This morning Mellor announced that $25 in money belonging to him was missing from the aprtment.

It is also stated that D. C. Morrison, the landlord of the hotel, is Kennedy's creditor to the extent of two weeks' board and that about $47 of borrowed money is owing to other local parties.

His Injuries Were Fatal.

Flagman Charles G. Myers, of Cleveland, the young C. & P. brakeman, who was injured Thursday night at Irondale, is dead at the Alliance hospital, where he was taken soon after the accident.

LISBON POSTMASTERS WILL BE BENEFITED

Former Officials to Get Money Under a Resolution Introduced By Senator Hanna.

Columbus, January 20.—Under a resolution introduced by Senator Hanna which will be adopted by congress, between $115,000 and $125,000 will be paid to Ohio postmasters who served in the 60's and 70's, because of a misinterpretation of the postoffice department of a law relating to the compensation of postmasters.

Two Lisbon postmasters will profit by the resolution—H. W. Brown, who will receive $302, and John Robison who will receive $423.

Congressman Tayler yesterday recommended the appointment of Postmaster W. H. Surles, East Liverpool; T. R. Snowden, Wellsville; George A. Alaback, East Palestine; E. F. Moore Lisbon; George E. McDonald, Minerva.

Licensed to Wed.

Lisbon, January 20.—(Special.)—Joseph Linzey and Margaret A. Franklin, both of East Palestine, have been licensed to marry.

CLOTHING TAKEN IN HIS ABSENCE

A Sebring Potters' Room Was Broken Into And Robbed On Sunday.

Sebring, January 20.—(Special.)—While absent from home over Sunday the room of Frank Watson, a well known potter, was broken open and a quantity of clothing, together with money, were stolen. Mr. Watson did not discover his loss until he returned to Sebring last evening, and at once began an investigation. When he had finished there were well grounded suspicions that a young man who recently left the city had paid the room a visit before departing, and the matter will be further looked into.

If the offense can be laid against the individual in question it will add another to a long list of crimes for which he will be compelel to answer when caught.

ROLLED ALONG AND KILLED BY TRAIN OF COAL CARS

Lisbon, January 20.—(Special.)—Roy Nulf, the 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar E. Nulf, of New Waterford, met with a horrible death in the Fairfield Coal company's mine near that village yesterday. He was employed as "trip" boy in the mines, and was riding on the front end of a string of empty coal cars which were being hauled back into the mines by the weight of a loaded train of cars which were approaching the mouth on another track. The end of a broken rail raised as the string of empties approached him, and when the first car struck it the shock threw Young Nulf forward on the track in front of the cars.

The empties were being propelled with resistless force by the weight of the loaded cars and pushed Nulf along in front, bumping him on the cross ties and other obstructions until every bone in his body was broken.

Funeral services will be held from the New Waterford M. E. church, tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock under the auspices of the Mine Workers' union. Burial at New Waterford.

MRS. HEALY'S REMAINS EXPECTED HERE TODAY

Her Sister And Her Husband Will Accompany the Body to This City.

The mystery surrounding the death of Mrs. Healy, better known to East Liverpool as Mary King, at New York has not yet been unveiled. The theory that she was murdered has been accepted locally and the many who knew her are anxiously waiting for further developments. According to a telegram received by the News Review last evening the remains will reach this city on the 4 o'clock train this afternoon. The telegram reads as follows:

"Mary Healy, who died in New York, will arrive Tuesday afternoon, accompanied by her husband and sister, Julia King."

Large Numbers Gaze Upon the Features of the Dead Ball Player.

Hundreds of people called at the Mercer home on Fifth street between the hours of 2 and 4 o'clock this afternoon to view the remains of the dead ball player. They saw him as in a peaceful sleep, almost as they had known him in life. Tonight between 7 and 9 o'clock many more will call to see their dead friend.

Surrounding the bier are the many beautiful floral offerings and a profusion of cut flowers.

Elks Will Entertain.

The local lodge of Elks will entertain Lewis P. Metzger, of Salem, D. D. G. E. R., next Thursday evening, and a stag social will be given in his honor. W. E. Wells will preside and there will be addresses by several prominent members.

Order of Appraisement.

IMPORTANT SALE OF COAL LAND

Sterling Mining Company Gets Possession of a Valuable Tract at Salineville.

Salineville, January 20.—(Special.)—The Sterling Mining company has purchased the Mary E. McDonald farm of 80 acres, which is underlaid with coal. The consideration was $5,000.

The farm lies between the property of the company and other valuable coal lands. It is near the railroad and is considered the key to a tract of 1,000 acres of valuable coal land lying just over the border in Carroll county.

PRISONERS IN TERROR

Over a Fire Which Came Near Burning Them And Toronto City Hall.

Toronto, January 20.—The city hall came near being destroyed by fire yesterday morning. The loss will be about $500. There were three prisoners in the jail part of the building and their cries of distress and terror aroused Marshal Dye, who rescued them. The interior of the building was badly scorched.

Judge Moore Better.

Lisbon, January 20.—(Special.)—The condition of Judge J. G. Moore is slightly improved today, and his friends are much encouraged.

SEBRING POTTER STRANGELY MISSING

EDWARD KENNEDY, A PACKER, GONE UNDER A CLOUD.

Alleged That He Took His Roommate's Money And Also Owed for Board.

Sebring, January 20.—(Special.)—Edward Kennedy, a packer at one of the local potteries and formerly of East Liverpool, has disappeared from this city, it is reported, and under peculiar circumstances. Kennedy roomed with Edward Mellor at the Sebring hotel, and it is alleged that last night he went to the room and packed his grip. This morning Mellor announced that $25 in money belonging to him was missing from the aprtment.

It is also stated that D. C. Morrison, the landlord of the hotel, is Kennedy's creditor to the extent of two weeks' board and that about $47 of borrowed money is owing to other local parties.

His Injuries Were Fatal.

SOME STRONG LEGAL POINTS ARE RAISED

From facts gained by a News Review reporter it seems assured that before the questions arising from the improvement of Pennsylvania avenue have been settled there will be an unlimited amount of argument and controversy and in all probability bitter litigation.

From the day that it was made public that an equalization board was to be appointed to equalize the assessments made by the assessing board, the report of which was accepted by council, interested property holders in the East End have had in consideration the advisability of employing an attorney to defend their rights, and when the council at its last meeting rejected the report of the board they without hesitation decided that it was high time that they were carrying out their proposed plans. Attorney W. F. Lones, of Wellsville, was associated with Attorney J. E. Davis, who had previously been retained.

Mr. Lones at once interested himself in the case and came to East Liverpool to make a thorough investigation. Just what he discovered is not known, but it is said that when he makes known his findings to the city council many surprises will be in evidence and that a new phase to the numerous questions involved will be apparent.

A conversation with Mr. Lones revealed the fact that some unexpected truths will be sprung at the proper time and that they will without doubt fall among the parties in ignorance as bomb shells.

"I cannot at the present time give out anything that would be of much interest to the residents of your city," said the attorney. "I can say, however, that we intend to take care of our side of the question, and that the courts will have the opportunity of deciding the matter if a mutual agreement cannot be decided upon."

It is known positively that there are several strong points that have not been adhered to by the council that may result in much litigation, and if they are taken up by the East End citizens, and there is every assurance that they will be, the city will be compelled to make a strong fight or it will lose almost without a struggle on

PICTORIAL PHASES OF THE FIGHT AGAINST THE GAMBLERS IN NEW YORK.

PARENTS UNABLE TO MAKE WANTS KNOWN

EAST END CHILD SUFFERING FROM SCARLET FEVER.

Both Father And Mother Mutes And Without Means—A Pathetic Case.

A most pathetic case came to light yesterday when an appeal was made to the township trustees for assistance in the manner of food and fuel for a family under quarantine in the East End, a child being afflicted with the disease, scarlet fever, which has been prevalent in that section of the city for several months.

The family referred to is that of Frank Sells. Early yesterday morning Sanitary Policeman Burgess was summoned to the home by a physician, who ordered that the house be placed under quartine. The officer, upon his arrival, met an obstacle altogether unexpected.

The family consists of three members, his wife and the child which lies suffering. Both the man and wife are mutes and under the present circumstances the affliction renders them entirely unable to secure means for a proper sustenance, and but for the kindly assistance of the trustees and the sanitary officer the little child would probably have died for the want of proper medical attention.

The case is one of the most pitiful that has come into the hands of the trustees for some time, owing to the almost helpless condition of the parents and the critical condition of the child.

BADLY SCALDED BY HOT SOUP

Scalding Contents of a Kitchen Utensil Upset Upon Mrs. John Horton.

Sebring, January 20.—(Special.)—Mrs. John Horton, wife of the boss of the decorating department at the potteries here, met with a painful accident yesterday while engaged at her usual household duties. She was in the act of removing a pot of boiling water from the stove when, in some unaccountable manner it overturned the contents striking her in the face and breast.

For a time she was blinded and the pain was very severe. Medical aid was summoned and the lady made as comfortable as possible. Yesterday afternoon and last night she suffered excruciating pain, but is slightly improved.

Mrs. Horton is very well known in East Liverpool, where she formerly resided.

WORKHOUSE SENTENCE FOR A SALEM YOUTH

Charles Owens, Guilty of Larceny, Gets 60 Days at Canton.

Lisbon, January 20.—(Special.)—Charles Owens, of Salem, was arraigned in probate court this morning and pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny. Judge Boone sentenced him to the Canton workhouse for 60 days, to stand committed until the costs are paid.

IN A SERIOUS STATE

Young Woman Being Cared for By Township Trustees May Not Survive.

Miss Orpha Osborne, the young lady who was removed from a boarding house near the corner of Third and Market streets by the township trustees and taken to the home of Mrs. Green, where she could be properly cared for while suffering with typhoid fever, is in a precarious condition. Last night her temperature had gone up to 104 and the chances are not very good for her recovery. Her sister Mabel is assisting in caring for her. The home of these girls is said to be at Imperial, Pa.

The mother is dead and the father married again. It is stated that he is a well known citizen of that city and that the news of his daughter's illness has never reached him.

EARLY DATES ARE IN FAVOR

Republican State Convention May Be Held Some Time Next May.

DEMOCRATS WILL FOLLOW

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, January 20.—It is believed both of the leading parties will hold early conventions this year. The leaders favor this and the Republicans may meet as early as May, with the Democrats following close in their wake. Sentiment is general on this point, in order to give ample time in which to prepare for the fall campaign. This will be an important year politically. The voters will be called upon to elect a governor, attorney general judge of the supreme court, treasurer of state, member of board of public works and a legislature which will elect a United States senator. The fall election will only precede by a few months the opening of what will be an intensely interesting presidential campaign. It is predicted national issues will figure largely in the Ohio campaign.

If General Dick is not made the Republican candidate for governor he will doubtless continue to serve in the capacity of chairman of the Republican state committee, with John R. Malloy filling his usual berth of secretary. It has not been decided who shall manage the campaign for the Democracy. Congressman Harvey C. Garber, of the Fourth district, who was the party's chairman last year is one of the availables this year. His candidacy would probably be opposed by the McLean wing of the party, he and the Cincinnati man being bad friends.

Senator Warrne G. Harding, of Marion, has created a temporary stir by announcing his candidacy for governor. There is no sponsorship for his candidacy, he says, and in making the announcement he simply yielded to the judgment of friends who have urged him to enter the race.

ANNUAL CONVENTION OF OHIO MUNICIPALITIES TO BE HELD NEXT MONTH

An Important Meeting at Dayton at Which This City Ought to Be Represented.

The sixth annual convention of Ohio municipalities will be held February 10, 11, and 12, at Dayton. The question of sending representatives from this city to that convention may be discussed at the meeting of council tonight. This league had done a vast amount of hard work along municipal lines and many knotty problems have been explained at their meetings. East Liverpool has never yet had a representative at any of the conventions held by the league although every municipality in the state is urged to send delegates.

Usually the mayor or city solicitor and sometimes both are sent to represent a city. Since the acception of the new code in Ohio many questions are liable to arise which puzzle the city councilmen. Many times these are of such a nature that it requires considerable study on the part of the solicitor to explain them. These are just the sort of questions that are discussed at the conventions held by the league. The changes made by the new code will throw many city legislative bodies into chaos unless the members have made a study of the code in detail. As that document is rather lengthy but few have had the time to give it as much attention as it should have.

It is possible that the council tonight may take some action toward selecting delegates to attend the convention to be held next month. The bringing together of the mayor, solicitors and councilmen of so many different municipalities of the state can not help being of great benefit to them. A good program has been arranged for this convention and timely topics will be discussed by able men, well up on city affairs and city government.

Dayton, where the convention is to be held, is a beautiful city of 80,000 inhabitants, well equipped to entertain a convention of this kind. It probably enjoys the distinction of having more electric lines running in it than in any other city, large or small, in the state. While there the delegates would have an opportunity to spend their spare time in various county seat towns about the size of East Liverpool and getting valuable suggestions in regard to city affairs in general.

LIFE CRUSHED OUT BY STREET CAR

Mrs. Alice Orr, Late of This City, Met With a Violent Death in Allegheny.

The westbound train yesterday afternoon bore to this city the remains of Mrs. Alice Orr, a resident of the city from childhood until last March, who, while crossing a crowded thoroughfare in Allegheny last Saturday afternoon suddenly became confused in an attempt to make a way through the throngs and was run down and killed by a street car.

Full particulars of the terrible accident could not be obtained this morning, no one having accompanied the body who had been informed. It was learned, however, that after the spark of life had been crushed out of the body she was removed to the morgue and that it lay there for two days before identification was made.

A young lady working with Mrs. Orr at the home of George Boswell, Buena Vista street, Allegheny, identified the body early yesterday morning. She read in Saturday evening's paper of an unknown woman being killed by a street car. Although Mrs. Orr, who left the home shortly after noon Saturday, had not returned it did not occur to her that the woman at the morgue might be Mrs. Orr until Monday morning when she immediately started to investigate. She found several mutilated women lying on the cold slabs and was about to depart without success when she recognized the clothing of one of the inanimate forms to be that worn by her friend. The authorities accepted her arguments as a valid identification and it was later made positive by Carl Weeks, a son by a former marriage.

Mrs. Orr for several years prior to leaving for Allegheny was employed in the warehouse department at the Knowles, Taylor & Knowles china works. She was a highly respected woman and a consistent member of the First Presbyterian church. The funeral services will be conducted Thursday by Rev. C. G. Jordan. She is survived by three children: Carl Weeks, the son who is employed in Pittsburg; Mrs. Mary Atkins, of the East End, this city, and Miss Flossie Orr, who makes her home with her grandmother on Robinson street.

SENTENCES IMPOSED IN COURT

Salem Youth Goes to Reformatory for Stealing. Fines in Liquor Cases.

Lisbon, January 20.—(Special.)—After a brief criminal session yesterday afternoon court adjourned until 9:30 this morning.

Amos Whitacre, aged 17, of Salem who had previously pleaded not guilty to a charge of having stolen some bank checks from the satchel of M. E. Welsh, a traveling man, at the Greiner-Brainard hotel at Salem, decided to change his plea and pleaded guilty to the charge. The penalty for Whitacre's crime is from one to seven years in the penitentiary. The judge sentenced him to the reformatory.

The cases of the three Lisbon saloonists, indicted for selling to minors were also disposed of. Harry Davis, of the Hostetter bar; Daniel J. Jobs and Edward Hicklin, each pleaded guilty to selling to minors. It being Davis' first offense he was let off with a fine of $15 and costs. Jobs and Hicklin both having been up before were assessed $25 and costs each.

A continuation of the case against John Michaels, of East Liverpool, charged with selling to a minor, was asked for by his attorney on account of the absence of an important witness. The court consented to pass the case out of the present assignment.

The case against James Walters, of East Liverpool, was also passed.

Chief Turner, of Salem, came here again yesterday afternoon, having in his custody Charles Owens, who was bound over for breaking into Thomas Williams' plumbing shop in Salem and stealing a revolver and a razor. Owens was first released from jail a few days ago, where he had languished for some time on a charge of attempted robbery. When he left he told his fellow prisoners he would be back soon.

BENEFIT GAME YIELDED $1,500

BALL PLAYERS RAISE THAT SUM FOR MERCER'S MOTHER.

Attendance Was Large At the San Francisco Contest at Base-Ball.

San Francisco, January 20.—The benefit game played here yesterday between the All Americans and Nationals attracted the largest crowd that has witnessed any of the games. The appearance of the two local baseball favorites, Joe Corbett and Hans Iberg, as pitchers, and of Bill Lange, as umpire, drew a big crowd to the diamond Saturday afternoon, but even more powerful was the feeling that the attendance would help the mother of Winnie Mercer, the popular pitcher who recently committed suicide here. The game was well played and resulted in this score: American, 5; National, 3.

The amount realized will be about $1,500, as everyone gave their services free.

Executor Resigns.

Lisbon, January 20.—(Special.)—John Gamble, as executor of the estate of the late John Gamble, of Franklin township, has resigned and James P. Gamble has been appointed administrator under bond of $4,000.

WITH THE WORKMEN IN THE CLAY PLANTS

USE OF SAGGER CONES.

David C. Thomas, an experienced kiln fireman who has been employed at the United States pottery in Wellsville, is the first kiln fireman in this section to introduce the sagger cone system as a means of telling the temperature of the interior of a kiln which is being fired, and also telling when the kiln has been fired long enough. Mr. Thomas has been using the sagger cones, made by himself, in his work for the past year or so and has always found the system a very satisfactory one. Several East Liverpool potteries have become interested in Mr. Thomas' process and are now purchasing the cones from Mr. Thomas and using them in their own plants. Mr. Thomas first learned to use the system when attending the Ohio State university, and aside from those which are now being made there, none are made in any other place in the world excepting in Germany, where the sagger cones originated.

The sagger cones are about three inches in length and are made out of very delicate clay, which has been put through a process. About 30 of the cones are required for each kiln, each time that it is fired. The cones are placed in such a manner that they can readily be seen by the kiln fireman through the small doors on the sides of the kiln. When the fire is first turned on in the kiln the cones are almost perpendicular. When the kiln has been fired long enough the tapering ends of the cones will curl under until one end nearly touches the other. Mr. Thomas believes that the sagger cone system is the only scientific way of telling the temperature of a kiln. He has succeeded in interesting many pottery firms outside of those at East Liverpool.

FINE MODELING CLAY.

Kenton county, Ky., is now furnishing artists with a very high grade of modeling clay, which answers all purposes and which is superior to all clay exported here. A sample of the clay was recently submitted to J. C. Meyenberg, the well known Covington sculptor who designed the Egbert memorial tablet at Ft. Thomas, and he pronounced it first-class. Meyenberg is now using the clay exclusively for modeling purposes, as is also the Cincinati art school. Persons not acquainted with such matters might think that there is little profit in the quarrying of this clay, but it has become a lucrative business in Covington. Sculptors pay as much as $1 a barrel for the material, and as they use a liberal supply, quarrying men are finding the commodity quite valuable. There is a large number of sculptors in the southern part of Ohio who have tested this new clay thoroughly and they are so pleased with the results that they will henceforth use only the Kentucky clay. Sculptor Meyenberg has obtained the contract for making the allegorical figures for the Covington public library, and is at work on the designs now. They will be of life-size and will be placed around the walls. The fact that he will use the Covington clay in the modeling of the pieces has had a tendency to increase the value of the product.

NEW OFFICERS.

At the annual meeting of the New York Crockery board of trade new officers were elected as follows: President, Henry Wetle; first vice president, Lee Kohns; second vice president, James Davison; treasurer, Charles Holbrook; secretary, L. S Owens; executive committee, Messrs Butler, Doering, Anderson, Davison Holbrook, Kohns, Briggs; arbitration committee, Messrs. Steinman, Endermann, Swayzee; membership committee, Messrs. Divinger, Miller, Moe Kirchberger, Lyon; trustees for three years, Messrs. Webb, Abbott, Butler, Davison, R. H. Keller.

STUNNING SPECIALTIES.

The Homer Laughlin China company, at its New York salesroom, shows some stunning things in specialties and fancy prices in very light weights, which for warmth of coloring fineness of execution, and shapes leave little to be desired. The company has taken some of the prettiest shapes found in French china and put on them decorations of a very high grade and the result is a line of specialties totally different from anything heretofore attempted.

TRENTON PACKERS.

The packers' local, of Trenton, N. J. has elected the following new officers. President, William Devine; vice president, Patrick Caterson; recording secretary, William Stubbs; financial secretary, L. Cooper; treasurer, Thomas Haggerty; collector, John Meliff; statistician, George Gleaves; trustee, Michael Shanahan; inspector, D. O'Connell; guard, R. Devine.

AMONG THE WORKMEN.

Pat Hester, of Cartwright's, was off duty today.

Clyde McClain has taken a position as a tinter at the East Liverpool.

John Wasson has gone to work at the East Liverpool as a mould runner.

Will Birch, presser at the K., T. & K., new end, is suffering with the mumps.

Miss Maud Beach, of the Globe, is confined to her home on the Calcutta road with a serious illness.

Miss Annie Spade, from Cartwright's, is now finishing at the Union for Jiggerman Fred Goppert.

Elmer Davis, of the Thompson bisque, has resigned and will take a job in the new plant at Salineville.

James Wilson has resigned his position as Laughlin No. 1, to take a pressing bench at the D. E. McNicol.

Miss Orilla Treese, of the decorating room at the Thompson, has returned to work after a serious illness.

Miss Linda Hart, of the glost warehouse at the D. E. McNicol, has returned from a visit with relatives at Fairview.

Talcott Rudebaugh, of Thompson's was injured a few night ago in trying to board a moving street car in the East End.

Fred Goppert, jiggerman at the Union, was called to the home of his mother in Chester this morning by her serious illness. Her condition is regarded as critical.

The biscuit kilnmen at the Union are complaining about the strength of Arthur Owen's pipe. They say it is so strong that he has to chain it to the bench at night and it is necessary to keep a constant breeze through the kilnroom.

Thomas Shaw, a cup handler at Harker's, suffered a peculiar injury yesterday afternoon at West End park while skating. He was stooping to adjust his skates when his right hand was struck by another skater, inflicting a deep gash.

LETTER FROM WILL REED

To the Editor of the News Review:

Dear Sir:—Having heard that some people question the sincerity of Will Reed's offer to refund a purchaser's money if Mi-o-na does not cure dyspepsia, increase the flesh and restore health, I am writing you this letter to say over Will Reed's own signature that this offer is made in good faith and will be lived up to by me, both in the spirit and the letter.

So many of my customers have told me of the great good Mi-o-na has done them, that I am more thoroughly convinced than ever that there is but little risk to me in selling Mi-o-na under this guarantee.

Less than two out of every hundred call for a return of their money, and I cheerfully refund it.

The demand for Mi-o-na is increasing rapidly and I believe it is destined to be the most popular of all medicines. If it did not have unusual merit I certainly could not afford to guarantee it.

Please publish this in a prominent place so that your readers may see that they run no risk whatever in buying Mi-o-na, if they wish to gain in weight and be cured of dyspepsia.

Respectfully yours,

WILL REED.

HAD NO INTENTION OF RUNNING AWAY

What One of the Absent Minstrels Says Regarding the Movements of Bradley And Simpson.

The following letter received yesterday will no doubt set right a matter that has been given some publicity lately:

"Editor News Review:

"Having heard that Mr. Simpson and myself have gained no little notoriety recently through several published statements I have decided to write a few lines for the benefit of those who are ignorant of the true facts concerning the costumes which were used by the Twentieth Century Minstrels, and our subsequent departure from East Liverpool. In the first place, the costumes that are mentioned rightfully belong to us. They are said to have been owned by the persons who took part in the last three performances, each member owning a pro rata share. That is nonsense, as they were contracted for by Mr. Simpson and myself and were not paid for out of any 'treasury' of any organization, but were paid for out of the gate receipts. In fact, there was no treasury or organization to it. If the costumes had not been paid for out of the gate receipts Mr. Simpson and myself would have been held responsible, and nobody else. Therefore, I think we were justified in doing whatever we pleased with them whether we left East Liverpool or not.

"And about the full dress suits which we are accused of stealing, I will state here that we never had any intention of evil. I admit that we did take away with us two dress suits, one belonging to Mr. John Gardner, the other to Mr. Sloan, but we had previously gained permission from the above named gentlemen before doing so. So I venture to say that those two gentlemen would never have felt the least apprehension concerning their property. (If they do so now.) Had it not been for a few 'knockers' and 'sore heads'—'sore' simply because we had a trifle more ambition than they and because we did not inform them of our proposed departure.

"For the benefit of those 'soreheads' who are so interested in our personal welfare I will state here, that we are getting along very well, and I don't think we will be compelled to walk home either, as they would have people believe. Trusting this will suffice to explain our position, I am

"Yours Respectfully,

"ERNEST BRADLEY."

Messrs. Bradley and Simpson are now in Alliance, and if their present plans do not miscarry will soon stage a minstrel show, the cast for which will be made up from Alliance talent.

GREATEST PITCHER IN THE BUSINESS

What Dick Harley Says of His Dead Friend, Winnie Mercer.

A GENEROUS TRIBUTE PAID

The Popularity of the East Liverpool Boy Was as Great in Other Cities As at Home—Interesting Reminiscences.

Richard Harley, the clever fielder who played last year on the Detroit team, and who was the intimate friend and close companion of the late Winnie Mercer, feels his loss keenly and will miss him many times during the coming base ball season when he again joins the team that Winnie was to manage. The other members of the team will miss him, too.

"Winnie was the greatest pitcher in the business, bar none," Harley said to a News Review reporter last evening. "He was never known to be other than a perfect gentleman, on the field and off, and he won friends in every town he visited. He probably did not fully realize the great extent of his popularity, but if he did it did not change him in the least. He was always the same big-hearted, manly fellow, ever ready to do a kindness to a stranger as well as to a friend. 'Merc,' if there was any difference, was even more popular in Detroit than in Washington. His society was sought by the best people of the city, and he had hundreds of acquaintances among the wealthiest class of business men. He was the idol of the fans and he appreciated the good will and applause of the lowly as much as he did that of men with famous names. With President Angus, of the Detroit team, he was a great favorite and there was a warm friendship between the two men. Angus is a thorough sportsman and it was his ambition to own a pennant winning team. He looked to Mercer to accomplish this ambition.

"Mercer's selection as manager of the Detroit team, which by the way is one of the highest salaried in the two leagues, justifies the belief of his friends that his career in the base ball world was just beginning. He knew how to handle men and draw out the best there was in them and he did it rather by personal magnetism than the use of authority. From his first appearance on the diamond he was known as a heady player and he used his brains as well as his muscles in pitching. He learned the weak points of every batter who faced him and he was a stumbling block to many of the hardest hitters who ever wielded a bat.

"One of Mercer's best traits was his championship of young players. The lad who came into the big league had the warmest sort of encouragement from him. He has steadied many a nervous youngster and helped them to make good, and he would never permit them to be imposed upon. I have known several instances of him calling down experienced players who had attempted to lay the blame for mis plays on the youngsters. Mercer was a square fellow and he had no use for anybody who was not the same way No truer gentleman ever lived.

"After the teams had reached the coast and the conference between the big leagues had commenced, Mercer was greatly worried, for it looked for a time like he was to lose some of his star players. He feared this would handicap him and that he could not make the proper showing as manager, but this cloud cleared away in a few days when he received a telegram from President Angus that Detroit had fared exceptionally well in the treaty, and that instead of losing his best men he had gained Sam Crawford, the heavy hitting outfielder of the Cincinnati team. When this news came we often poked fun at Crawford in Mercer's presence, warning him that he would have to be good, now that his manager was around.

"Mercer was popular in all the towns we visited on the coast, particularly in San Francisco. In the latter city he made many friends and his companionship was much sought. His sad death cast a gloom over all. The remaining games of the schedule would have been abandoned had it not been that all the players desired to remain in the city and play in the benefit game on Sunday. Hundreds of seats had been sold before I left, some of them at $5 each.

"It seems to me that Mercer had everything to live for. His future was bright and there was no trouble in his life, so far as I or others of his friends knew, that would cause him to take his own life. I am firmly convinced that the deed was done while he was temporarily deranged, mentally."

When asked about the details of the tragedy Harley stated there was very little more to add to what he had given in the interview yesterday. "I know nothing of his movements of that last day after about 9 o'clock in the morning," he said. "I left the hotel and when I returned Mercer was out During the afternoon I heard several of the boys inquiring for him, but there was nothing unusual in his absence. The next time I saw him he was dead."

The reporter asked about the coroner's inquest, but the result could not be learned, as Harley had commenced his journey east before the verdict was rendered. On the day following the tragedy he visited the coroner's office.

"I saw the rubber hose there that was found in Mercer's room and the farewell letters he had written. All of them had been opened by the official in his investigations and I recognized Mercer's handwriting," Harley said. "In the letter to Tip O'Neil he gave a detailed statement of the individual accounts of the players, some of whom had overdrawn their accounts. The total amount in his hands at the time was not great, as all of us had been getting our share of the receipts from the game every week. A meeting was held and it was found that the accounts as given by Mercer were absolutely correct. The letter stated that the money due players could be found in the safe at the hotel, and this, too, was correct."

Seventh Victim.

San Juan, Jan. 20.—W. W. A. Schert, of Cleveland, O., who was the apprentice on the battleship Massachusetts, died here Sunday, the seventh victim of the explosion on the Massachusetts, Jan. 16. The funerals of Schert and A. S. Tacke, of St. Louis, who was killed in the same accident, took place yesterday and were attended with military honors. Detachments from the company of artillery and an infantry regiment stationed here, as well as marines from the warships, joined in the long funeral procession, in which also was a number of carriages that had been privately hired by sailors and others. Alexander N. Dassett, of Durham, N. C., and James G. Patterson, of Pittsburg, who were injured in the same accident, are still in a serious condition.

Four Burned to Death.

Morrissey, B. C., Jan. 20.—Four men were burned to death in a hotel fire here Sunday night. Four others are missing and it is believed they also perished in the flames. The Spooner hotel, leased by A. Johnson, caught fire by the overturning of a lamp in the barroom. The proprietor aroused the guests, most of whom escaped in their night clothes. All were coal miners or prospectors. It was impossible for the proprietor to reach all the rooms. The remains of the four men have not been identified. Johnson's loss is $4,000. Morrissey is a small coal mining town and has no fire protection.

Two Miners Imprisoned.

Pottsville, Jan. 20.—By a rush of coal two miners, Peter Yeslavige and Joseph Butcavage, were imprisoned at noon yesterday in a chamber of the Silver Creek colliery at New Philadelphia, owned by the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company. Rescuers went vigorously at work, and though hundreds of cars of coal had been removed up to last night the men had not been reached, and there are no indications whether the men are dead or alive. It may take several days' work to ascertain this.

Tired

No Sleep for Weeks Nervous, Weak.

Surgical Operation Wrecked My Nerves.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Restored My Health.

"A few years ago I had to submit to a surgical operation which caused me severe spinal trouble. After treatment I could not gain strength because of extreme nervousness. I took everything I could hear of that was supposed to be good for my trouble but all in vain. I had not had a night's sleep in weeks, when one day one of your circulars was thrown into our yard and after reading what your Nervine had done for others, I resolved to try it. The second night after taking it I slept soundly for the first time in many months and after taking a few bottles I was completely cured. I also used the Nerve Plaster for backache with very gratifying results. I shall always be grateful for the benefits received from Dr. Miles' Restorative Remedies."—Mrs. C. W. Beaman, Savannah, Mo.

"I wish to thank you for the good your medicine has done me. It has almost worked wonders in my case. I was subject to nervous headaches for a period of thirty years. I had doctored with several doctors and had taken a number of different kinds of patent medicines, all to no avail. I was discouraged for I could not get permanent relief. At last I began a trial of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and Nerve and Liver Pills. I am now completely cured and words cannot express my thankfulness to you and your medicine. If any one wishes to write to me personally I will gladly answer their letters."—J. W. Brant, Ingrahm, Ills.

WITH THE WORKMEN IN THE CLAY PLANTS

USE OF SAGGER CONES.

David C. Thomas, an experienced kiln fireman who has been employed at the United States pottery in Wellsville, is the first kiln fireman in this section to introduce the sagger cone system as a means of telling the temperature of the interior of a kiln which is being fired, and also telling when the kiln has been fired long enough. Mr. Thomas has been using the sagger cones, made by himself, in his work for the past year or so and has always found the system a very satisfactory one. Several East Liverpool potteries have become interested in Mr. Thomas' process and are now purchasing the cones from Mr. Thomas and using them in their own plants. Mr. Thomas first learned to use the system when attending the Ohio State university, and aside from those which are now being made there, none are made in any other place in the world excepting in Germany, where the sagger cones originated.

The sagger cones are about three inches in length and are made out of very delicate clay, which has been put through a process. About 30 of the cones are required for each kiln, each time that it is fired. The cones are placed in such a manner that they can readily be seen by the kiln fireman through the small doors on the sides of the kiln. When the fire is first turned on in the kiln the cones are almost perpendicular. When the kiln has been fired long enough the tapering ends of the cones will curl under until one end nearly touches the other. Mr. Thomas believes that the sagger cone system is the only scientific way of telling the temperature of a kiln. He has succeeded in interesting many pottery firms outside of those at East Liverpool.

FINE MODELING CLAY.

Kenton county, Ky., is now furnishing artists with a very high grade of modeling clay, which answers all purposes and which is superior to all clay exported here. A sample of the clay was recently submitted to J. C. Meyenberg, the well known Covington sculptor who designed the Egbert memorial tablet at Ft. Thomas, and he pronounced it first-class. Meyenberg is now using the clay exclusively for modeling purposes, as is also the Cincinati art school. Persons not acquainted with such matters might think that there is little profit in the quarrying of this clay, but it has become a lucrative business in Covington. Sculptors pay as much as $1 a barrel for the material, and as they use a liberal supply, quarrying men are finding the commodity quite valuable. There is a large number of sculptors in the southern part of Ohio who have tested this new clay thoroughly and they are so pleased with the results that they will henceforth use only the Kentucky clay. Sculptor Meyenberg has obtained the contract for making the allegorical figures for the Covington public library, and is at work on the designs now. They will be of life-size and will be placed around the walls. The fact that he will use the Covington clay in the modeling of the pieces has had a tendency to increase the value of the product.

NEW OFFICERS.

At the annual meeting of the New York Crockery board of trade new officers were elected as follows: President, Henry Wetle; first vice president, Lee Kohns; second vice president, James Davison; treasurer, Charles Holbrook; secretary, L. S Owens; executive committee, Messrs. Butler, Doering, Anderson, Davison Holbrook, Kohns, Briggs; arbitration committee, Messrs. Steinman, Endermann, Swayzee; membership committee, Messrs. Divinger, Miller, Moe Kirchberger, Lyon; trustees for three years, Messrs. Webb, Abbott, Butler, Davison, R. H. Keller.

STUNNING SPECIALTIES.

The Homer Laughlin China company, at its New York salesroom, shows some stunning things in specialties and fancy prices in very light weights, which for warmth of coloring fineness of execution, and shapes leave little to be desired. The company has taken some of the prettiest shapes found in French china and put on them decorations of a very high grade and the result is a line of specialties totally different from anything heretofore attempted.

TRENTON PACKERS.

The packers' local, of Trenton, N. J. has elected the following new officers. President, William Devine; vice president, Patrick Caterson; recording secretary, William Stubbs; financial secretary, L. Cooper; treasurer, Thomas Haggerty; collector, John Meliff; statistician, George Gleaves; trustee, Michael Shanahan; inspector, D. O'Connell; guard, R. Devine.

AMONG THE WORKMEN.

Pat Hester, of Cartwright's, was off duty today.

Clyde McClain has taken a position as a tinter at the East Liverpool.

John Wasson has gone to work at the East Liverpool as a mould runner.

Will Birch, presser at the K., T. & K., new end, is suffering with the mumps.

Miss Maud Beach, of the Globe, is confined to her home on the Calcutta road with a serious illness.

Miss Annie Spade, from Cartwright's, is now finishing at the Union for Jiggerman Fred Goppert.

Elmer Davis, of the Thompson bisque, has resigned and will take a job in the new plant at Salineville.

James Wilson has resigned his position as Laughlin No. 1, to take a pressing bench at the D. E. McNicol.

Miss Orilla Treese, of the decorating room at the Thompson, has returned to work after a serious illness.

Miss Linda Hart, of the glost warehouse at the D. E. McNicol, has returned from a visit with relatives at Fairview.

Talcott Rudebaugh, of Thompson's was injured a few night ago in trying to board a moving street car in the East End.

Fred Goppert, jiggerman at the Union, was called to the home of his mother in Chester this morning by her serious illness. Her condition is regarded as critical.

The biscuit kilnmen at the Union are complaining about the strength of Arthur Owen's pipe. They say it is so strong that he has to chain it to the bench at night and it is necessary to keep a constant breeze through the kilnroom.

Thomas Shaw, a cup handler at Harker's, suffered a peculiar injury yesterday afternoon at West End park while skating. He was stooping to adjust his skates when his right hand was struck by another skater, inflicting a deep gash.

LETTER FROM WILL REED

To the Editor of the News Review:

Dear Sir:—Having heard that some people question the sincerity of Will Reed's offer to refund a purchaser's money if Mi-o-na does not cure dyspepsia, increase the flesh and restore health, I am writing you this letter to say over Will Reed's own signature that this offer is made in good faith and will be lived up to by me, both in the spirit and the letter.

So many of my customers have told me of the great good Mi-o-na has done them, that I am more thoroughly convinced than ever that there is but little risk to me in selling Mi-o-na under this guarantee.

Less than two out of every hundred call for a return of their money, and I cheerfully refund it.

The demand for Mi-o-na is increasing rapidly and I believe it is destined to be the most popular of all medicines. If it did not have unusual merit I certainly could not afford to guarantee it.

Please publish this in a prominent place so that your readers may see that they run no risk whatever in buying Mi-o-na, if they wish to gain in weight and be cured of dyspepsia.

Respectfully yours,

WILL REED.

What One of the Absent Minstrels Says Regarding the Movements of Bradley And Simpson.

What Dick Harley Says of His Dead Friend, Winnie Mercer.

The Popularity of the East Liverpool Boy Was as Great in Other Cities As at Home—Interesting Reminiscences.

Richard Harley, the clever fielder who played last year on the Detroit team, and who was the intimate friend and close companion of the late Winnie Mercer, feels his loss keenly and will miss him many times during the coming base ball season when he again joins the team that Winnie was to manage. "Winnie was the greatest pitcher in the business, bar none," Harley said to a News Review reporter last evening. "He was never known to be other than a perfect gentleman, on the field and off, and he won friends in every town he visited. He probably did not fully realize the great extent of his popularity, but if he did it did not change him in the least. He was always the same big-hearted, manly fellow, ever ready to do a kindness to a stranger as well as to a friend. 'Merc,' if there was any difference, was even more popular in Detroit than in Washington. His society was sought by the best people of the city, and he had hundreds of acquaintances among the wealthiest class of business men. He was the idol of the fans and he appreciated the good will and applause of the lowly as much as he did that of men with famous names. With President Angus, of the Detroit team, he was a great favorite and there was a warm friendship between the two men. Angus is a thorough sportsman and it was his ambition to own a pennant winning team. He looked to Mercer to accomplish this ambition.

"Mercer's selection as manager of the Detroit team, which by the way is one of the highest salaried in the two leagues, justifies the belief of his friends that his career in the base ball world was just beginning. He knew how to handle men and draw out the best there was in them and he did it rather by personal magnetism than the use of authority. From his first appearance on the diamond he was known as a heady player and he used his brains as well as his muscles in pitching. He learned the weak points of every batter who faced him and he was a stumbling block to many of the hardest hitters who ever wielded a bat.

"One of Mercer's best traits was his championship of young players. The lad who came into the big league had the warmest sort of encouragement from him. He has steadied many a nervous youngster and helped them to make good, and he would never permit them to be imposed upon. I have known several instances of him calling down experienced players who had attempted to lay the blame for mis plays on the youngsters. Mercer was a square fellow and he had no use for anybody who was not the same way No truer gentleman ever lived.

"After the teams had reached the coast and the conference between the big leagues had commenced, Mercer was greatly worried, for it looked for a time like he was to lose some of his star players. He feared this would handicap him and that he could not make the proper showing as manager but this cloud cleared away in a few days when he received a telegram from President Angus that Detroit had fared exceptionally well in the treaty, and that instead of losing his best men he had gained Sam Crawford, the heavy hitting outfielder of the Cincinnati team. When this news came we often poked fun at Crawford in Mercer's presence, warning him that he would have to be good, now that his manager was around.

"Mercer was popular in all the towns we visited on the coast, particularly in San Francisco. In the latter city he made many friends and his companionship was much sought. His sad death cast a gloom over all. The remaining games of the schedule would have been abandoned had it not been that all the players desired to remain in the city and play in the benefit game on Sunday. Hundreds of seats had been sold before I left, some of them at $5 each.

"It seems to me that Mercer had everything to live for. His future was bright and there was no trouble in his life, so far as I or others of his friends knew, that would cause him to take his own life. I am firmly convinced that the deed was done while he was temporarily deranged, mentally."

When asked about the details of the tragedy Harley stated there was very little more to add to what he had given in the interview yesterday. "I know nothing of his movements of that last day after about 9 o'clock in the morning," he said. "I left the hotel and when I returned Mercer was out. During the afternoon I heard several of the boys inquiring for him, but there was nothing unusual in his absence. The next time I saw him he was dead."

The reporter asked about the coroner's inquest, but the result could not be learned, as Harley had commenced his journey east before the verdict was rendered. On the day following the tragedy he visited the coroner's office.

"I saw the rubber hose there that was found in Mercer's room and the farewell letters he had written. All of them had been opened by the official in his investigations and I recognized Mercer's handwriting," Harley said. "In the letter to Tip O'Neil he gave a detailed statement of the individual accounts of the players, some of whom had overdrawn their accounts. The total amount in his hands at the time was not great, as all of us had been getting our share of the receipts from the game every week. A meeting was held and it was found that the accounts as given by Mercer were absolutely correct. The letter stated that the money due players could be found in the safe at the hotel, and this, too, was correct."

Tired

No Sleep for Weeks Nervous, Weak.

Surgical Operation Wrecked My Nerves.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Restored My Health.

"A few years ago I had to submit to a surgical operation which caused me severe spinal trouble. After treatment I could not gain strength because of extreme nervousness. I took everything I could hear of that was supposed to be good for my trouble but all in vain. I had not had a night's sleep in weeks, when one day one of your circulars was thrown into our yard and after reading what your Nervine had done for others, I resolved to try it. The second night after taking it I slept soundly for the first time in many months and after taking a few bottles I was completely cured. I also used the Nerve Plaster for backache with very gratifying results. I shall always be grateful for the benefits received from Dr. Miles' Restorative Remedies."—Mrs. C. W. Beaman, Savannah, Mo.

"I wish to thank you for the good your medicine has done me. It has almost worked wonders in my case. I was subject to nervous headaches for a period of thirty years. I had doctored with several doctors and had taken a number of different kinds of patent medicines, all to no avail. I was discouraged for I could not get permanent relief. At last I began a trial of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and Nerve and Liver Pills. I am now completely cured and words cannot express my thankfulness to you and your medicine. If any one wishes to write to me personally I will gladly answer their letters."—J. W. Brant, Ingrahm, Ills.

Seventh Victim.

San Juan, Jan. 20.—W. W. A. Schert, of Cleveland, O., who was the apprentice on the battleship Massachusetts, died here Sunday, the seventh victim of the explosion on the Massachusetts, Jan. 16. The funerals of Schert and A. S. Tacke, of St. Louis, who was killed in the same accident, took place yesterday and were attended with military honors. Detachments from the company of artillery and an infantry regiment stationed here, as well as marines from the warships, joined in the long funeral procession, in which also was a number of carriages that had been privately hired by sailors and others. Alexander N. Dassett, of Durham, N. C., and James G. Patterson, of Pittsburg, who were injured in the same accident, are still in a serious condition.

Four Burned to Death.

Morrissey, B. C., Jan. 20.—Four men were burned to death in a hotel fire here Sunday night. Four others are missing and it is believed they also perished in the flames. The Spooner hotel, leased by A. Johnson, caught fire by the overturning of a lamp in the barroom. The proprietor aroused the guests, most of whom escaped in their night clothes. All were coal miners or prospectors. It was impossible for the proprietor to reach all the rooms. The remains of the four men have not been identified. Johnson's loss is $4,000. Morrissey is a small coal mining town and has no fire protection.

Two Miners Imprisoned.

Pottsville, Jan. 20.—By a rush of coal two miners, Peter Yeslavige and Joseph Butcavage, were imprisoned at noon yesterday in a chamber of the Silver Creek colliery at New Philadelphia, owned by the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company. Rescuers went vigorously at work, and though hundreds of cars of coal had been removed up to last night the men had not been reached, and there are no indications whether the men are dead or alive. It may take several days' work to ascertain this.

WITH THE WORKMEN IN THE CLAY PLANTS

USE OF SAGGER CONES.

David C. Thomas, an experienced kiln fireman who has been employed at the United States pottery in Wellsville, is the first kiln fireman in this section to introduce the sagger cone system as a means of telling the temperature of the interior of a kiln which is being fired, and also telling when the kiln has been fired long enough. Mr. Thomas has been using the sagger cones, made by himself, in his work for the past year or so and has always found the system a very satisfactory one. Several East Liverpool potteries have become interested in Mr. Thomas' process and are now purchasing the cones from Mr. Thomas and using them in their own plants. Mr. Thomas first learned to use the system when attending the Ohio State university, and aside from those which are now being made there, none are made in any other place in the world excepting in Germany, where the sagger cones originated.

The sagger cones are about three inches in length and are made out of very delicate clay, which has been put through a process. About 30 of the cones are required for each kiln, each time that it is fired. The cones are placed in such a manner that they can readily be seen by the kiln fireman through the small doors on the sides of the kiln. When the fire is first turned on in the kiln the cones are almost perpendicular. When the kiln has been fired long enough the tapering ends of the cones will curl under until one end nearly touches the other. Mr. Thomas believes that the sagger cone system is the only scientific way of telling the temperature of a kiln. He has succeeded in interesting many pottery firms outside of those at East Liverpool.

FINE MODELING CLAY.

Kenton county, Ky., is now furnishing artists with a very high grade of modeling clay, which answers all purposes and which is superior to all clay exported here. A sample of the clay was recently submitted to J. C. Meyenberg, the well known Covington sculptor who designed the Egbert memorial tablet at Ft. Thomas, and he pronounced it first-class. Meyenberg is now using the clay exclusively for modeling purposes, as is also the Cincinati art school. Persons not acquainted with such matters might think that there is little profit in the quarrying of this clay, but it has become a lucrative business in Covington. Sculptors pay as much as $1 a barrel for the material, and as they use a liberal supply, quarrying men are finding the commodity quite valuable. There is a large number of sculptors in the southern part of Ohio who have tested this new clay thoroughly and they are so pleased with the results that they will henceforth use only the Kentucky clay. Sculptor Meyenberg has obtained the contract for making the allegorical figures for the Covington public library, and is at work on the designs now. They will be of life-size and will be placed around the walls. The fact that he will use the Covington clay in the modeling of the pieces has had a tendency to increase the value of the product.

NEW OFFICERS.

At the annual meeting of the New York Crockery board of trade new officers were elected as follows: President, Henry Wetle; first vice president, Lee Kohns; second vice president, James Davison; treasurer, Charles Holbrook; secretary, L. S Owens; executive committee, Messrs. Butler, Doering, Anderson, Davison Holbrook, Kohns, Briggs; arbitration committee, Messrs. Steinman, Endermann, Swayzee; membership committee, Messrs. Divinger, Miller, Moe Kirchberger, Lyon; trustees for three years, Messrs. Webb, Abbott, Butler, Davison, R. H. Keller.

STUNNING SPECIALTIES.

The Homer Laughlin China company, at its New York salesroom, shows some stunning things in specialties and fancy prices in very light weights, which for warmth of coloring fineness of execution, and shapes leave little to be desired. The company has taken some of the prettiest shapes found in French china and put on them decorations of a very high grade and the result is a line of specialties totally different from anything heretofore attempted.

TRENTON PACKERS.

The packers' local, of Trenton, N. J. has elected the following new officers. President, William Devine; vice president, Patrick Caterson; recording secretary, William Stubbs; financial secretary, L. Cooper; treasurer, Thomas Haggerty; collector, John Meliff; statistician, George Gleaves; trustee, Michael Shanahan; inspector, D. O'Connell; guard, R. Devine.

AMONG THE WORKMEN.

Pat Hester, of Cartwright's, was off duty today.

Clyde McClain has taken a position as a tinter at the East Liverpool.

John Wasson has gone to work at the East Liverpool as a mould runner.

Will Birch, presser at the K., T. & K., new end, is suffering with the mumps.

Aaron Tunstall and Harry Martin have commenced work at the Sevres as saggermakers.

Miss Maud Beach, of the Globe, is confined to her home on the Calcutta road with a serious illness.

Miss Annie Spade, from Cartwright's, is now finishing at the Union for Jiggerman Fred Goppert.

Elmer Davis, of the Thompson bisque, has resigned and will take a job in the new plant at Salineville.

James Wilson has resigned his position as Laughlin No. 1, to take a pressing bench at the D. E. McNicol.

Miss Orilla Treese, of the decorating room at the Thompson, has returned to work after a serious illness.

Miss Linda Hart, of the glost warehouse at the D. E. McNicol, has returned from a visit with relatives at Fairview.

Talcott Rudebaugh, of Thompson's was injured a few night ago in trying to board a moving street car in the East End.

Fred Goppert, jiggerman at the Union, was called to the home of his mother in Chester this morning by her serious illness. Her condition is regarded as critical.

The biscuit kilnmen at the Union are complaining about the strength of Arthur Owen's pipe. They say it is so strong that he has to chain it to the bench at night and it is necessary to keep a constant breeze through the kilnroom.

Thomas Shaw, a cup handler at Harker's, suffered a peculiar injury yesterday afternoon at West End park while skating. He was stooping to adjust his skates when his right hand was struck by another skater, inflicting a deep gash.

LETTER FROM WILL REED

To the Editor of the News Review:

Dear Sir:—Having heard that some people question the sincerity of Will Reed's offer to refund a purchaser's money if Mi-o-na does not cure dyspepsia, increase the flesh and restore health, I am writing you this letter to say over Will Reed's own signature that this offer is made in good faith and will be lived up to by me, both in the spirit and the letter.

So many of my customers have told me of the great good Mi-o-na has done them, that I am more thoroughly convinced than ever that there is but little risk to me in selling Mi-o-na under this guarantee.

Less than two out of every hundred call for a return of their money, and I cheerfully refund it.

The demand for Mi-o-na is increasing rapidly and I believe it is destined to be the most popular of all medicines. If it did not have unusual merit I certainly could not afford to guarantee it.

Please publish this in a prominent place so that your readers may see that they run no risk whatever in buying Mi-o-na, if they wish to gain in weight and be cured of dyspepsia.

Respectfully yours,

HAD NO INTENTION OF RUNNING AWAY

What One of the Absent Minstrels Says Regarding the Movements of Bradley And Simpson.

The following letter received yesterday will no doubt set right a matter that has been given some publicity lately:

"Editor News Review:

"Having heard that Mr. Simpson and myself have gained no little notoriety recently through several published statements I have decided to write a few lines for the benefit of those who are ignorant of the true facts concerning the costumes which were used by the Twentieth Century Minstrels, and our subsequent departure from East Liverpool. In the first place, the costumes that are mentioned rightfully belong to us. They are said to have been owned by the persons who took part in the last three performances, each member owning a pro rata share. That is nonsense, as they were contracted for by Mr. Simpson and myself and were not paid for out of any 'treasury' of any organization, but were paid for out of the gate receipts. In fact, there was no treasury or organization to it. If the costumes had not been paid for out of the gate receipts Mr. Simpson and myself would have been held responsible, and nobody else. Therefore, I think we were justified in doing whatever we pleased with them whether we left East Liverpool or not.

"And about the full dress suits which we are accused of stealing, I will state here that we never had any intention of evil. I admit that we did take away with us two dress suits, one belonging to Mr. John Gardner, the other to Mr. Sloan, but we had previously gained permission from the above named gentlemen before doing so. So I venture to say that those two gentlemen would never have felt the least apprehension concerning their property. (If they do so now.) Had it not been for a few 'knockers' and 'sore heads'—'sore' simply because we had a trifle more ambition than they and because we did not inform them of our proposed departure.

"For the benefit of those 'soreheads' who are so interested in our personal welfare I will state here, that we are getting along very well, and I don't think we will be compelled to walk home either, as they would have people believe. Trusting this will suffice to explain our position, I am

"Yours Respectfully,

"ERNEST BRADLEY."

Messrs. Bradley and Simpson are now in Alliance, and if their present plans do not miscarry will soon stage a minstrel show, the cast for which will be made up from Alliance talent.

GREATEST PITCHER IN THE BUSINESS

What Dick Harley Says of His Dead Friend, Winnie Mercer.

A GENEROUS TRIBUTE PAID

The Popularity of the East Liverpool Boy Was as Great in Other Cities As at Home—Interesting Reminiscences.

Richard Harley, the clever fielder who played last year on the Detroit team, and who was the intimate friend and close companion of the late Winnie Mercer, feels his loss keenly and will miss him many times during the coming base ball season when he again joins the team that Winnie was to manage. The other members of the team will miss him, too.

"Winnie was the greatest pitcher in the business, bar none," Harley said to a News Review reporter last evening. "He was never known to be other than a perfect gentleman, on the field and off, and he won friends in every town he visited. He probably did not fully realize the great extent of his popularity, but if he did it did not change him in the least. He was always the same big-hearted, manly fellow, ever ready to do a kindness to a stranger as well as to a friend. He learned the weak points of every batter who faced him and he was a stumbling block to many of the hardest hitters who ever wielded a bat.

"One of Mercer's best traits was his championship of young players. The lad who came into the big league had the warmest sort of encouragement from him. He has steadied many a nervous youngster and helped them to make good, and he would never permit them to be imposed upon. I have known several instances of him calling down experienced players who had attempted to lay the blame for misplays on the youngsters. Mercer was a square fellow and he had no use for anybody who was not the same way. No truer gentleman ever lived.

"After the teams had reached the coast and the conference between the big leagues had commenced, Mercer was greatly worried, for it looked for a time like he was to lose some of his star players. He feared this would handicap him and that he could not make the proper showing as manager but this cloud cleared away in a few days when he received a telegram from President Angus that Detroit had fared exceptionally well in the treaty, and that instead of losing his best men he had gained Sam Crawford, the heavy hitting outfielder of the Cincinnati team. When this news came we often poked fun at Crawford in Mercer's presence, warning him that he would have to be good, now that his manager was around.

"Mercer was popular in all the towns we visited on the coast, particularly in San Francisco. In the latter city he made many friends and his companionship was much sought. His sad death cast a gloom over all. The remaining games of the schedule would have been abandoned had it not been that all the players desired to remain in the city and play in the benefit game on Sunday. Hundreds of seats had been sold before I left, some of them at $5 each.

"It seems to me that Mercer had everything to live for. His future was bright and there was no trouble in his life, so far as I or others of his friends knew, that would cause him to take his own life. I am firmly convinced that the deed was done while he was temporarily deranged, mentally."

When asked about the details of the tragedy Harley stated there was very little more to add to what he had given in the interview yesterday. "I know nothing of his movements of that last day after about 9 o'clock in the morning," he said. "I left the hotel and when I returned Mercer was out. During the afternoon I heard several of the boys inquiring for him, but there was nothing unusual in his absence. The next time I saw him he was dead."

The reporter asked about the coroner's inquest, but the result could not be learned, as Harley had commenced his journey east before the verdict was rendered. On the day following the tragedy he visited the coroner's office.

"I saw the rubber hose there that was found in Mercer's room and the farewell letters he had written. All of them had been opened by the official in his investigations and I recognized Mercer's handwriting," Harley said. "In the letter to Tip O'Neil he gave a detailed statement of the individual accounts of the players, some of whom had overdrawn their accounts. The total amount in his hands at the time was not great, as all of us had been getting our share of the receipts from the game every week. A meeting was held and it was found that the accounts as given by Mercer were absolutely correct. The letter stated that the money due players could be found in the safe at the hotel, and this, too, was correct."

COUNTY AND NEIGHBORHOOD

Monaca, Pa., is to have a new street car line and a $15,000 hotel.

It is recorded in Beaver county that in 1820 Jacob Courtney gave John Dunlap $62.50 and 136 wool hats for a house and lot valued at $300.

Captain J. B. Storer, a prominent business man and veteran of the civil war, is dead of paralysis, aged 64. He was postmaster of Akron for 12 years.

John W. Manning, Salineville, has been granted a $12 pension.

The Pittsburg Gazette says: The Follansbee Bros.' company has ordered stopped the work of construction on its new tin plate and sheet mills which were being put up at Mahan station, W. Va., and it is reported that the enterprise has been abandoned through purchase of the property by the United States Steel corporation.

Tired

No Sleep for Weeks Nervous, Weak.

Surgical Operation Wrecked My Nerves.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Restored My Health.

"A few years ago I had to submit to a surgical operation which caused me severe spinal trouble. After treatment I could not gain strength because of extreme nervousness. I took everything I could hear of that was supposed to be good for my trouble but all in vain. I had not had a night's sleep in weeks, when one day one of your circulars was thrown into our yard and after reading what your Nervine had done for others, I resolved to try it. The second night after taking it I slept soundly for the first time in many months and after taking a few bottles I was completely cured. I also used the Nerve Plaster for backache with very gratifying results. I shall always be grateful for the benefits received from Dr. Miles' Restorative Remedies."—Mrs. C. W. Beaman, Savannah, Mo.

"I wish to thank you for the good your medicine has done me. It has almost worked wonders in my case. I was subject to nervous headaches for a period of thirty years. I had doctored with several doctors and had taken a number of different kinds of patent medicines, all to no avail. I was discouraged for I could not get permanent relief. At last I began a trial of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and Nerve and Liver Pills. I am now completely cured and words cannot express my thankfulness to you and your medicine. If any one wishes to write to me personally I will gladly answer their letters."—J. W. Brant, Ingrahm, Ills.

Seventh Victim.

San Juan, Jan. 20.—W. W. A. Schert, of Cleveland, O., who was the apprentice on the battleship Massachusetts, died here Sunday, the seventh victim of the explosion on the Massachusetts, Jan. 16. The funerals of Schert and A. S. Tacke, of St. Louis, who was killed in the same accident, took place yesterday and were attended with military honors. Detachments from the company of artillery and an infantry regiment stationed here, as well as marines from the warships, joined in the long funeral procession, in which also was a number of carriages that had been privately hired by sailors and others. Alexander N. Dassett, of Durham, N. C., and James G. Patterson, of Pittsburg, who were injured in the same accident, are still in a serious condition.

Four Burned to Death.

Morrissey, B. C., Jan. 20.—Four men were burned to death in a hotel fire here Sunday night. Four others are missing and it is believed they also perished in the flames. The Spooner hotel, leased by A. Johnson, caught fire by the overturning of a lamp in the barroom. The proprietor aroused the guests, most of whom escaped in their night clothes. All were coal miners or prospectors. It was impossible for the proprietor to reach all the rooms. The remains of the four men have not been identified. Johnson's loss is $4,000. Morrissey is a small coal mining town and has no fire protection.

Two Miners Imprisoned.

Pottsville, Jan. 20.—By a rush of coal two miners, Peter Yeslavige and Joseph Butcavage, were imprisoned at noon yesterday in a chamber of the Silver Creek colliery at New Philadelphia, owned by the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company. Rescuers went vigorously at work, and though hundreds of cars of coal had been removed up to last night the men had not been reached, and there are no indications whether the men are dead or alive. It may take several days' work to ascertain this.

A STRANGER TAKEN IN

He Went Out Again And With Him a Boarder's $30 Suit And Other Articles.

Joseph Barnard, a boarder at W. C. Smith's boarding house in the East End, is minus a good suit of clothes, the result of a stranger stopping at the boarding house a few days ago. This stranger represented that he was working on the C. & P. and requested a room which was given him. In the morning he left early without awakening the landlord or any of the boarders.

With him went a new suit of clothes worth $30 and a few other articles of wearing apparel. The fellow who is suspected of taking the clothes was heavy set, dark complexioned and wore very good clothes.

In a Critical Condition.

Philip Dorst is still in a very critical condition at his home on Maryland avenue. Mr. Dorst has been suffering with heart trouble for several weeks and being well up in years it is feared by the family that he will be unable to survive. For some time he has had great difficulty in sleeping but recently fell asleep and did not awaken for almost 24 hours. However, it seems that the sleep brought very little real rest with it as his condition was somewhat weaker after awakening.

Church Well Filled.

The first meeting of the special services now being held at the Erie street M. E. church was held last night by Rev. G. W. Orcutt. The church was fairly well filled and considerable interest appeared to be manifested. These meetings will be conducted for two weeks by Rev. Mr. Orcutt and after that time he will be assisted by the other members of the conference quartet, who earned quite a reputation for themselves at the last session of the Steubenville conference.

REALM OF SPORTS

SICKNESS AND INJURIES AMONG AMERICANS AND NATIONALS.

Culmination Came In Mercer's Death —Kind Words For the Dead Pitcher.

The tragic ending of Winnie Mercer's brilliant career on the baseball diamond, says the San Francisco Daily Post, will cause thousands of sporting men all over the United States to regret the death of the great ball player. Mercer's untimely end caps the climax of misfortunes which have haunted the Nationals and the All American aggregation of stars since their arrival on this coast.

One or more of the pitchers have been continually on the sick list from one cause or another from the moment the teams set foot on California soil. Hard luck worked against the combination all the time and now the saddest event that has ever happened to a ball team puts a damper on the exhibition trip of the two teams.

When the teams arrived in Los Angeles there was among the number a complete set of pitchers, infielders and outfielders. The boys were not in Los Angeles long before Mike Kahoe, the catcher of the National team, fell downstairs and was so badly injured that he had to stay on the bench for two weeks.

From Los Angeles the ball players went to Sacramento to play exhibition games in that city. They were there but a few days when Willie Keeler, the famous Brooklyn outfielder and the star of the National team, fell out of a buggy and broke a bone in his back.

At first the injury was thought to be a slight one, and Keeler came to this city with the intention of playing with his club. He began to grow worse, however, and consulted a physician. The medical man, upon making a thorough examination of the injury, ordered Keeler to return at once to Brooklyn and rest up, otherwse he could never appear on the diamond again.

With Keeler at the time of his injury was Joe Cantillion, the manager of the All American team. Cantillion was also injured in the buggy accident and was forced to go east with Keeler and leave the burden of business of the American team rest on the shoulders of Mercer.

Following close on the injury of Keeler and Cantillion Jimmy Williams, the American second baseman, next fell a victim to the hard luck which haunted the stars. He sprained his ankle while playing a game at Sacramento and has been unable to don a uniform since.

As soon as the two clubs arrived in this city Kahoe was again hurt, this time having his hand torn by being hit by a foul tip. Dick Cooley, the National center fielder, was then taken ill and had to be sent to his home in Boston. Topsy Hartzell sprained his wrist and was out of the game for a week, and then Charley Dexter broke his collar bone. He is still confined to his room.

It seemed that Fate had dealt harshly enough with the ball tossers till last Monday night, when the news of the death of Winnie Mercer was flashed over the country. This cast a shadow of gloom over Mercer's team mates, and they are wondering if anything else will happen ere they conclude their visit in thins city.

Winnie Mercer was a credit to the ballplaying fraternity. He was a gentleman on the field as well as off. He was beloved by all who came in contact with him for his manly qualities and good fellowship. Mercer was considered the handsomest man on the diamond. The game loses one of its finest men it has ever had in the death of the old Washington favorite.

A GREAT RACE

Between a Racehorse And a Passenger Train, the Horse Winning in Long Stretch.

To the Sporting Editor, News Review:

Did a racehorse ever beat a passenger train going at full speed?

JOE PATCHEN.

East Liverpool, Jan. 19.

Yes, at the Lakeside track in Indiana. It so happened that a race was being run when the "limited" on the Fort Wayne railroad came in sight at top speed. (The tracks parallel the Lakeside course at the far turn.) The leader in the race and the express struck the stretch of straight track on even turns, and, according to an eyewitness, the horse beat the train two lengths.

Noted Driver Dead.

J. A. McCausland, breeder of racing horses and a driver with an international reputation, is dead of peritonitis at Denver. He was 42 years old. Mr. McCausland was a native of Greensboro, Pa., but had lived in Colorado and Wyoming for 25 years.

SPORTING MISCELLANY.

Fort Erie offers a purse of $25,000 for a 20-round boxing contest between Jeffries and Corbett.

"Gus" Tuttle, a member of the New York stock exchange, and well known as manager of the late "Jack" Dempsey, is dead of bronchial pneumonia aged 47.

The contest between "Joe" Choynski and Peter Maher has been postponed until January 26.

"Patsy" Sweeny may fight the winner of the Kennedy-Bowser 10-round contest January 26.

Dislocated Her Shoulder.

Mrs. Johanna Soderholm, of Fergus Falls, Minn., fell and dislocated her shoulder. She had a surgeon get it back in place as soon as possible, but it was quite sore and pained her very much. Her son mentioned that he had seen Chamberlain's Pain Balm advertised for sprains and soreness, and she asked him to buy her a bottle of it, which he did. It quickly relieved her and enabled her to sleep which she had not done for several days. The son was so much pleased with the relief it gave his mother that he has since recommended it to many others. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger.

B. C. ANSLEY SUCCESSFUL

Induced Dr. Howard Company to Make Special Price.

After a great deal of effort and correspondence, B. C. Ansley, the popular druggist, has succeeded in getting the Dr. Howard Co. to make a special half price introductory offer on the regular fifty-cent size of their celebrated specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia.

This medicine is a recent discovery for the cure of all diseases of the stomach and bowels. It not only gives quick relief, but it makes permanent cures.

Dr. Howard's specific has been so remarkably successful in curing constipation, dyspepsia and all liver troubles, that B. C. Ansley is willing to return the price paid in every case where it does not give relief.

The old fashioned idea of dosing with mineral waters, cathartic pills or harsh purgatives will soon be a thing of the past. The best physicians are prescribing Dr. Howard's specific because it really gives the desired results and on account of the small and pleasant dose that is needed.

Headaches, coated tongue, dizziness gas on stomach, specks before the eyes, constipation, and all forms of liver and stomach trouble are soon cured by this scientific medicine.

So great is the demand for this specific, that B. C. Ansley has been able to secure only a limited supply, and every one who is troubled with dyspepsia, constipation or liver trouble should call upon him at once, or send 25 cents and get sixty doses of the best medicine ever made, on this special half-price offer, with his personal guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure.

WHAT WOMEN ARE WEARING

Kilted Skirts—Walking Costumes. Kid Hats.

Women are wearing silk, satin or brocade evening petticoats in preference to those composed of cambric and lace. Zenana is of course a favorite winter material and obtainable in delightful shades, but it is better for dressing gowns and peignoirs, for even with shaped bands you cannot do away with a certain amount of thickness.

Cloth walking dresses in brown are much in favor, and they mostly boast the flat kilted skirts. Again, many of the bolero coats show plaits, these being loose either at the front or at the back. Plaits indeed are a fad just now, but they must be fitted and arranged so that their lines follow those of the figure they are to adorn or else disaster will lurk in every fold.

Kid hats are perhaps more new than pretty, though they are useful when devoted to motoring, and one of these in gray, bound with black braid and with bows and ends of braid at the back, has been especially designed for such exercise.

The up to date hat and muff shown in the cut are designed to correspond with the coat of light putty colored cloth. The hat is draped in the popular three cornered shape, with the edge of sable. There is a large ruche of ribbon and a bunch of violets under the brim. The muff is of the same cloth, with two large ruffles in each side, two bands of sable and a large fall of lace and violets on the left side.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FASHION NOTES.

Evening Garnitures—Elaborate Effects the Keynote.

There is a dearth of novelties in evening attire, but the soft textures still prevail, and there is a rage for spotted or speckled net. The slips or foundations worn with net chiffon and transparent skirts are still gored and edged with fussy frills, but the top is cut and fitted in sheath fashion. Slips with separate flounces of the godet order are only worn with heavier or nontransparent materials, as the line of heading is too obtrusive.

The floral garnitures are exceedingly lovely this winter and gain much in effect from a judicious mixture of ribbon. What, for instance, can be lovelier for a net gown than a cluster of salmon pink chrysanthemums resting on a few loops of flame colored satin ribbon and then wandering off into a slender trail of stems from which descend smaller buds and knots of ribbon? Exquisite garnitures of violets are made up with narrow pale blue ribbon.

The elaborate nightgown here shown might also be used for a negligee and will be found especially useful for a convalescent. It is made of nainsook, banded with lace insertion. Some of these form a pointed effect on the yoke. The rest outlines the bolero of all over lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Constipation Will Undermine Your Health.

Mull's Grape Tonic Cures Constipation.

When the sewer of a city becomes stopped up, the refuse backs into the streets where it decays and rots, spreading disease-creating germs throughout the entire city. An epidemic of sickness follows. It is the same way when the bowels fail to work. The undigested food backs into the system and there it rots and decays. From this festering mass the blood saps up all the disease germs, and at every heart beat carries them to every tissue, just as the water works of a city forces impure water into every house. The only way to cure a condition like this is to cure the constipation. Pills and the ordinary cathartics will do no good.

MULL'S GRAPE TONIC

which permanently cures the affliction. The tonic properties contained in the grape go into every afflicted tissue and creates strength and health. It will quickly restore lost flesh and make rich, red blood. As a laxative its action is immediate and positive, gentle and natural. Mull's Grape Tonic is guaranteed or money back.

A STRANGER TAKEN IN

He Went Out Again And With Him a Boarder's $30 Suit And Other Articles.

Joseph Barnard, a boarder at W. C. Smith's boarding house in the East End, is minus a good suit of clothes, the result of a stranger stopping at the boarding house a few days ago. This stranger represented that he was working on the C. & P. and requested a room which was given him. In the morning he left early without awakening the landlord or any of the boarders.

With him went a new suit of clothes worth $30 and a few other articles of wearing apparel. The fellow who is suspected of taking the clothes was heavy set, dark complexioned and wore very good clothes.

In a Critical Condition.

Philip Dorst is still in a very critical condition at his home on Maryland avenue. Mr. Dorst has been suffering with heart trouble for several weeks and being well up in years it is feared by the family that he will be unable to survive. For some time he has had great difficulty in sleeping but recently fell asleep and did not awaken for almost 24 hours. However, it seems that the sleep brought very little real rest with it as his condition was somewhat weaker after awakening.

Church Well Filled.

The first meeting of the special services now being held at the Erie street M. E. church was held last night by Rev. G. W. Orcutt. The church was fairly well filled and considerable interest appeared to be manifested. These meetings will be conducted for two weeks by Rev. Mr. Orcutt and after that time he will be assisted by the other members of the conference quartet, who earned quite a reputation for themselves at the last session of the Steubenville conference.

Culmination Came In Mercer's Death —Kind Words For the Dead Pitcher.

The tragic ending of Winnie Mercer's brilliant career on the baseball diamond, says the San Francisco Daily Post, will cause thousands of sporting men all over the United States to regret the death of the great ball player. Mercer's untimely end caps the climax of misfortunes which have haunted the Nationals and the All American aggregation of stars since their arrival on this coast.

One or more of the pitchers have been continually on the sick list from one cause or another from the moment the teams set foot on California soil. Hard luck worked against the combination all the time and now the saddest event that has ever happened to a ball team puts a damper on the exhibition trip of the two teams.

When the teams arrived in Los Angeles there was among the number a complete set of pitchers, infielders and outfielders. The boys were not in Los Angeles long before Mike Kahoe, the catcher of the National team, fell downstairs and was so badly injured that he had to stay on the bench for two weeks.

From Los Angeles the ball players went to Sacramento to play exhibition games in that city. They were there but a few days when Willie Keeler, the famous Brooklyn outfielder and the star of the National team, fell out of a buggy and broke a bone in his back.

At first the injury was thought to be a slight one, and Keeler came to this city with the intention of playing with his club. He began to grow worse, however, and consulted a physician. The medical man, upon making a thorough examination of the injury, ordered Keeler to return at once to Brooklyn and rest up, otherwse he could never appear on the diamond again.

With Keeler at the time of his injury was Joe Cantillion, the manager of the All American team. Cantillion was also injured in the buggy accident and was forced to go east with Keeler and leave the burden of business of the American team rest on the shoulders of Mercer.

Following close on the injury of Keeler and Cantillion Jimmy Williams, the American second baseman, next fell a victim to the hard luck which haunted the stars. He sprained his ankle while playing a game at Sacramento and has been unable to don a uniform since.

As soon as the two clubs arrived in this city Kahoe was again hurt, this time having his hand torn by being hit by a foul tip. Dick Cooley, the National center fielder, was then taken ill and had to be sent to his home in Boston. Topsy Hartzell sprained his wrist and was out of the game for a week, and then Charley Dexter broke his collar bone. He is still confined to his room.

It seemed that Fate had dealt harshly enough with the ball tossers till last Monday night when the news of the death of Winnie Mercer was flashed over the country. This cast a shadow of gloom over Mercer's team mates, and they are wondering if anything else will happen ere they conclude their visit in thins city.

Winnie Mercer was a credit to the ballplaying fraternity. He was a gentleman on the field as well as off. He was beloved by all who came in contact with him for his manly qualities and good fellowship. Mercer was considered the handsomest man on the diamond. The game loses one of its finest men it has ever had in the death of the old Washington favorite.

A GREAT RACE

Between a Racehorse And a Passenger Train, the Horse Winning in Long Stretch.

To the Sporting Editor, News Review:

Did a racehorse ever beat a passenger train going at full speed?

East Liverpool, Jan. 19.

Yes, at the Lakeside track in Indiana. It so happened that a race was being run when the "limited" on the Fort Wayne railroad came in sight at top speed. (The tracks parallel the Lakeside course at the far turn.) The leader in the race and the express struck the stretch of straight track on even turns, and, according to an eyewitness, the horse beat the train two lengths.

B. C. ANSLEY SUCCESSFUL

Induced Dr. Howard Company to Make Special Price.

After a great deal of effort and correspondence, B. C. Ansley, the popular druggist, has succeeded in getting the Dr. Howard Co. to make a special half price introductory offer on the regular fifty-cent size of their celebrated specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia.

This medicine is a recent discovery for the cure of all diseases of the stomach and bowels. It not only gives quick relief, but it makes permanent cures.

Dr. Howard's specific has been so remarkably successful in curing constipation, dyspepsia and all liver troubles, that B. C. Ansley is willing to return the price paid in every case where it does not give relief.

The old fashioned idea of dosing with mineral waters, cathartic pills or harsh purgatives will soon be a thing of the past. The best physicians are prescribing Dr. Howard's specific because it really gives the desired results and on account of the small and pleasant dose that is needed.

Headaches, coated tongue, dizziness gas on stomach, specks before the eyes, constipation, and all forms of liver and stomach trouble are soon cured by this scientific medicine.

So great is the demand for this specific, that B. C. Ansley has been able to secure only a limited supply, and every one who is troubled with dyspepsia, constipation or liver trouble should call upon him at once, or send 25 cents and get sixty doses of the best medicine ever made, on this special half-price offer, with his personal guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure.

WHAT WOMEN ARE WEARING

Kilted Skirts—Walking Costumes. Kid Hats.

Women are wearing silk, satin or brocade evening petticoats in preference to those composed of cambric and lace. Zenana is of course a favorite winter material and obtainable in delightful shades, but it is better for dressing gowns and peignoirs, for even with shaped bands you cannot do away with a certain amount of thickness.

Cloth walking dresses in brown are much in favor, and they mostly boast the flat kilted skirts. Again, many of the bolero coats show plaits, these being loose either at the front or at the back. Plaits indeed are a fad just now, but they must be fitted and arranged so that their lines follow those of the figure they are to adorn or else disaster will lurk in every fold.

Kid hats are perhaps more new than pretty, though they are useful when devoted to motoring, and one of these in gray, bound with black braid and with bows and ends of braid at the back, has been especially designed for such exercise.

The up to date hat and muff shown in the cut are designed to correspond with the coat of light putty colored cloth. The hat is draped in the popular three cornered shape, with the edge of sable. There is a large ruche of ribbon and a bunch of violets under the brim. The muff is of the same cloth, with two large ruffles in each side, two bands of sable and a large fall of lace and violets on the left side.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FASHION NOTES.

Evening Garnitures—Elaborate Effects the Keynote.

There is a dearth of novelties in evening attire, but the soft textures still prevail, and there is a rage for spotted or speckled net. The slips or foundations worn with net chiffon and transparent skirts are still gored and edged with fussy frills, but the top is cut and fitted in sheath fashion. Slips with separate flounces of the godet order are only worn with heavier or nontransparent materials, as the line of heading is too obtrusive.

The floral garnitures are exceedingly lovely this winter and gain much in effect from a judicious mixture of ribbon. What, for instance, can be lovelier for a net gown than a cluster of salmon pink chrysanthemums resting on a few loops of flame colored satin ribbon and then wandering off into a slender trail of stems from which descend smaller buds and knots of ribbon? Exquisite garnitures of violets are made up with narrow pale blue ribbon.

The elaborate nightgown here shown might also be used for a negligee and will be found especially useful for a convalescent. It is made of nainsook, banded with lace insertion. Some of these form a pointed effect on the yoke. The rest outlines the bolero of all over lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

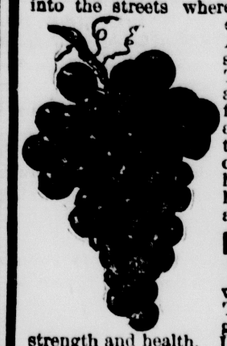
Mull's Grape Tonic Cures Constipation.

When the sewer of a city becomes stopped up, the refuse backs into the streets where it decays and rots, spreading disease-creating germs throughout the entire city. An epidemic of sickness follows. It is the same way when the bowels fail to work. The undigested food backs into the system and there it rots and decays. From this festering mass the blood saps up all the disease germs, and at every heart beat carries them to every tissue, just as the water works of a city forces impure water into every house. The only way to cure a condition like this is to cure the constipation. Pills and the ordinary cathartics will do no good.



MULL'S GRAPE TONIC

which permanently cures the affliction. The tonic properties contained in the grape go into every afflicted tissue and creates strength and health. It will quickly restore lost flesh and make rich, red blood. As a laxative its action is immediate and positive, gentle and natural. Mull's Grape Tonic is guaranteed or money back.

B. C. ANSLEY SUCCESSFUL

Induced Dr. Howard Company to Make Special Price.

After a great deal of effort and correspondence, B. C. Ansley, the popular druggist, has succeeded in getting the Dr. Howard Co. to make a special half price introductory offer on the regular fifty-cent size of their celebrated specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia.

This medicine is a recent discovery for the cure of all diseases of the stomach and bowels. It not only gives quick relief, but it makes permanent cures.

Dr. Howard's specific has been so remarkably successful in curing constipation, dyspepsia and all liver troubles, that B. C. Ansley is willing to return the price paid in every case where it does not give relief.

The old fashioned idea of dosing with mineral waters, cathartic pills or harsh purgatives will soon be a thing of the past. The best physicians are prescribing Dr. Howard's specific because it really gives the desired results and on account of the small and pleasant dose that is needed.

Headaches, coated tongue, dizziness gas on stomach, specks before the eyes, constipation, and all forms of liver and stomach trouble are soon cured by this scientific medicine.

So great is the demand for this specific, that B. C. Ansley has been able to secure only a limited supply, and every one who is troubled with dyspepsia, constipation or liver trouble should call upon him at once, or send 25 cents and get sixty doses of the best medicine ever made, on this special half-price offer, with his personal guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure.

WHAT WOMEN ARE WEARING

Kilted Skirts—Walking Costumes. Kid Hats.

Women are wearing silk, satin or brocade evening petticoats in preference to those composed of cambric and lace. Zenana is of course a favorite winter material and obtainable in delightful shades, but it is better for dressing gowns and peignoirs, for even with shaped bands you cannot do away with a certain amount of thickness.

Cloth walking dresses in brown are much in favor, and they mostly boast the flat kilted skirts. Again, many of the bolero coats show plaits, these being loose either at the front or at the back. Plaits indeed are a fad just now, but they must be fitted and arranged so that their lines follow those of the figure they are to adorn or else disaster will lurk in every fold.

Kid hats are perhaps more new than pretty, though they are useful when devoted to motoring, and one of these in gray, bound with black braid and with bows and ends of braid at the back, has been especially designed for such exercise.

The up to date hat and muff shown in the cut are designed to correspond with the coat of light putty colored cloth. The hat is draped in the popular three cornered shape, with the edge of sable. There is a large ruche of ribbon and a bunch of violets under the brim. The muff is of the same cloth, with two large ruffles in each side, two bands of sable and a large fall of lace and violets on the left side.

FASHION NOTES.

Evening Garnitures—Elaborate Effects the Keynote.

There is a dearth of novelties in evening attire, but the soft textures still prevail, and there is a rage for spotted or speckled net. The slips or foundations worn with net chiffon and transparent skirts are still gored and edged with fussy frills, but the top is cut and fitted in sheath fashion. Slips with separate flounces of the godet order are only worn with heavier or nontransparent materials, as the line of heading is too obtrusive.

The floral garnitures are exceedingly lovely this winter and gain much in effect from a judicious mixture of ribbon. What, for instance, can be lovelier for a net gown than a cluster of salmon pink chrysanthemums resting on a few loops of flame colored satin ribbon and then wandering off into a slender trail of stems from which descend smaller buds and knots of ribbon? Exquisite garnitures of violets are made up with narrow pale blue ribbon.

The elaborate nightgown here shown might also be used for a negligee and will be found especially useful for a convalescent. It is made of nainsook, banded with lace insertion. Some of these form a pointed effect on the yoke. The rest outlines the bolero of all over lace.

Constipation Will Undermine Your Health.

Mull's Grape Tonic Cures Constipation.

When the sewer of a city becomes stopped up, the refuse backs into the streets where it decays and rots, spreading disease-creating germs throughout the entire city. An epidemic of sickness follows. It is the same way when the bowels fail to work. The undigested food backs into the system and there it rots and decays. From this festering mass the blood saps up all the disease germs, and at every heart beat carries them to every tissue, just as the water works of a city forces impure water into every house. The only way to cure a condition like this is to cure the constipation. Pills and the ordinary cathartics will do no good.

which permanently cures the affliction. The tonic properties contained in the grape go into every afflicted tissue and creates strength and health. It will quickly restore lost flesh and make rich, red blood. As a laxative its action is immediate and positive, gentle and natural. Mull's Grape Tonic is guaranteed or money back.

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES UNION LABEL COUNCIL EAST LIVERPOOL O.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 20, 1903.

A glance at the roster of the governors of the country's 45 states in these opening weeks of 1903 shows the Democracy in a feebler condition than it has been at almost any previous time since the foundation of the Republican party. Seldom has the Democratic party in the nation at large cut so small a figure as at this time. In the entrances and exits of governors at the beginning of 1903 there are left only four states outside of the south which are presided over by non-Republicans. One of these states, Montana elected its governor in 1900, and as the term in that state is four years, he has a respite until the beginning of 1905. If Montana had elected a governor in 1902 he would have been a Republican. The other states of the north and west which have Democratic governors are Rhode Island, Nevada and Oregon. Rhode Island was lost to the Republicans on governor in 1902 through a temporary schism in the party, aided by a socialist diversion. Nevada elected a fusionist, as it has been doing for several years. The Democrats, through a Republican factional fight on governor in Oregon captured that official by a very small margin in 1902, the Republicans carrying all the rest of the officers by large pluralities. All these states, with possibly one exception, can safely be counted in the Republican column in 1904. No wonder Democratic leaders are few and hard to find!

There are those who hold that a lie is never justifiable, but Rev. Dr. Frank Gunsaulus, of Chicago, evidently does not think so. In the midst of his sermon last Sunday, he stopped quietly and said that, owing to physical suffering, he was unable to proceed with his discourse. He therefore requested the congregation to receive the benediction and pass out. Now the truth was that Dr. Gunsaulus was just as well able to preach as ever, but he had discovered smoke in the church and feared a conflagration and a panic. Fortunately his alarm was groundless, but his action raises a fine point in ethics which Chicago is discussing as earnestly as if it were a corner in corn. The weight of testimony indicates that Dr. Gunsaulus will be acquitted of the charge of conduct unbecoming a minister, should he ever be tried for it.

A recent outbreak of typhoid fever in England is said to have been traced to bacteria in oysters. An eminent London physician declares that the oyster is "a potential torpedo in the bowels." Maybe, but those who like him will continue to place him there, and if they first take the precaution to cook him thoroughly they need not fear either typhoid or an explosion.

The lieutenant governor of South Carolina is a murderer and it is probable that the Tillman family is permanently retired from politics.

The stuff that the Cleveland physician uses to bring back the spark of life after it has vanished is called adrenalin. The suggestion that it be used on the Democratic party in Ohio is well meant, but it comes too late. Adrenalin must be used promptly. It has no effect on anything that has been dead for months.

President Roosevelt, King Edward and Marconi have made successful use of the wireless telegraph to send messages between Cape Cod and Cornwall. The day is not far distant when everyday folk will be using it, giving no thought and attracting no attention.

Russell Sage declares that he has never paid to have his shoes shined. He doesn't say whose blacking and brush he borrowed.

Mayor's court reports indicate that another swearing-off season would be a good thing for the old timers.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Sophia L. Goppert.

Mrs. Sophia L. Goppert, aged 61, died at her home in lower Chester this morning at 9:15 o'clock after an illness lasting a year or more from a tumor of the stomach. Mrs. Goppert was born in Saxony, Germany, but 45 years ago came to this country, locating at Allegheny. There she married Frederick Goppert about 38 years ago. Twelve years later they moved to Hancock county and since that time have lived in Chester. A few years after coming there Mr. Goppert died. Three children survive Mrs. Goppert, Fred and George and Mrs. Kate Grimm. The funeral arrangements have not been completed, but they will probably be held Saturday. The deceased was a member of the St. John's Evangelical Lutheran church and Rev. J. G. Reinartz will officiate at the funeral services. The interment will take place at Spring Grove cemetery.

Edward Burnside.

Eddie Burnside, a well known farmer and stockman, residing four miles south of Salineville, died at his home Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, from heart failure, after a sickness extending over a period of three weeks. He was in his sixty-seventh year. He was born in Ireland, and came to this country with his parents at an early age. He came to Salineville with his parents and has been a resident of that community all his life. While a boy, going to school in that town, while playing with a number of boys he met with an accident that left him a cripple all his life. He owned at the time of his death a well stocked form of 80 acres well improved. The funeral services took place today at 11 o'clock at the Monroeville church, interment at the cemetery adjoining the church. He leaves a sister and brother. He lived with his sister all his life.

Nichalo Barranti.

Nichalo Barranti, the Italian who operated a fruit stand in the East End on Mulberry street, died this morning at the hospital in Steubenville at 1 o'clock. Barranti was about 55 to 60 years of age and had been a resident of the East End for several years. He has been in poor health for several months. Steadily growing worse he was taken to the Steubenville hospital last week. The change failed to benefit him and his son was notified yesterday to come down at once. He left yesterday afternoon and will bring the remains back today. The funeral will be held at Wellsville tomorrow. Interment at the Catholic cemetery.

Mrs. John Finley.

Mrs. John Finley died at her home Friday morning. The deceased lived with her husband's family about one and one-half miles west of Salineville on the Hanover road. She had been sick from a complication of diseases. She was born in England, and came to this country with her husband about 17 years ago. She lived in Salineville with the exception of a few years in East Liverpool. She returned from East Liverpool to Salineville about a year ago. Besides a husband she leaves 11 children, the oldest not more than 17. The funeral took place yesterday forenoon, services being conducted by Rev. Father McMahon. Interment at St. Patrick's cemetery, Salineville.

Thomas C. Hague.

Thomas C. Hague, formerly of this city, died this morning at the state hospital, Massillon. He was 44 years of age and well known in this city. He had been at the hospital about 18 months. The body will be brought to this city to the home of a half-brother, James C. Douglas, who lives near the city hall. The funeral arrangements have not been made at this time. Besides the relative above mentioned his mother, Mrs. Mary J. Hague; a sister, Miss Maggie, and Mrs. John Gilchrist, of this city, survive him.

FREE SCHOLARSHIPS

For Boys And Girls Who Show an Enterprising Spirit.

Fathers and mothers will naturally be interested in knowing how their boys and girls may obtain free scholarships in some of the leading educational institutions of the country, and they ought to be pleased to learn how easy the plan is.

The plan is this: The boy and girl each, who secure the largest number of subscribers to the Pittsburg Sunday Gazette up to June 30 will be given first choice from the list of schools announced in the Gazette. The boy and girl, each, having the second largest number will have second choice, and so on until the list is exhausted. But to every boy and girl who enters this competition will be given 25 cents in cash for each new subscription obtained.

An additional special award is offered: To each boy and girl who sends in 50 new paid subscriptions will be given a gentleman's or lady's gold filled hunting-case watch. Both are excellent timepieces, guaranteed by a leading Pittsburg jeweler.

The Pittsburg Sunday Gazette is the best Sunday paper published in western Pennsylvania, being fully equal to the leading New York Sunday newspapers.

A bright boy or girl should earn a fair salary getting subscribers at 25 cents each, and besides have a chance to secure one of the special rewards—a free scholarship or a watch. Contracts for scholarships have been executed, or are now pending with the University of Pennsylvania, Western University of Pennsylvania, Bucknell university, Washington & Jefferson college and many other institutions. The scholarships are worth from $150 to $1,040 each.

This contest will be run from February 1 to June 30, 1903. Subscription blanks will be ready January 31. For blanks or information call or address The Educational Department, The Gazette, Pittsburg, Pa.

Loss $66,000.

Scranton, Pa., Jan. 20.—An overheated flue caused a fire in the hardware store of Bell & Brown, on Main street, Carbondale, yesterday afternoon, which burned so fiercely for a time that it was feared a good portion of the business part of the town would be destroyed. The fire was subdued after destroying the building in which it started, the adjoining store of J. J. Reigleluth and several barns in the rear of the stores. The loss is estimated at $66,000.

Terrible Work With Shotgun.

Newark, O., Jan. 20.—At Joseph Stotthart's home near Outville, yesterday, Elmer Artz shot and killed Zacnarian Hunt, aged 50, shot and injured Mrs. Stotthart and her daughter Mary and then killed himself with a shotgun. Artz and the girl quarreled and Hurt, who went into the home, was shot down.

Big Fire at Scranton.

Scranton, Pa., Jan. 20.—The large brick department stores of the Ambrose Mulley estate and William Chappell were destroyed yesterday morning, entailing a loss of over $200,000. The fire started in the cellar of the Mulley store, at 1902-4-6 North Main avenue, and spread to the Chappell store, adjoining, at 1908-10-12-14, the same average. The Muley loss was $90,000; Chappell's, $100,000, and the loss to surrounding property damaged by the flames, in the neighborhood of $15,000. The loss is about three-fourths covered by insurance. The cause of the fire is not known.

Pending Appeal.

Freehold, N. J., Jan. 20.—Dr. Charles C. Hendricks, convicted with Samuel Stanton of conspiracy to secure for Laura Bigsar the whole estate of Henry M. Bennett and sentenced to two years and six months in jail, was yesterday released on bail, pending an appeal.

Panther Maintains Blockade.

Maracaibo, Venezuela, Jan. 20.—There is no communication between Maracaibo and the fort of San Carlos, which was shelled on Saturday by the German cruiser Panther and which returned the fire, with the result that the warship retreated in the direction of Curacao. One hundred and twenty shots were fired from the fort during the engagement and the walls of the fort were slightly damaged. The Panther has resumed her position at the entrance of Lake Maracaibo, where she maintains the blockade. The reports that the German gunboat at the time of the engagement was trying to force the entrance of the lake in order to capture the Venezuelan gunboat Miranda, which is in hiding there, are generally believed here. The Venezuelan government has given out a statement to this effect.

Two Burned to Death.

Pittsburg, Jan. 20.—Two persons were burned to death in a fire at Nos. 1406 and 1408 Fifth avenue yesterday morning and a number of others had narrow escapes from cremation. Both buildings were destroyed and several small buildings in the rear were slightly burned. The total loss entailed by the fire was about $40,000. The dead: Hersh Trachenberg, 73 years old; Mrs. Bessie Trachenberg, 73 years old.

Terrible Deed of Aged Woman.

Oakland, Ia., Jan. 20.—Mrs. William Hanna, Sunday night, brained her husband with a hammer, cut his throat from ear to ear with a butcher knife and then killed herself by cutting her throat. She was 78 years old and her husband 76, and, according to a note left to her son, she committed the crime because she feared her husband would die and leave her penniless.

Jumped from Express.

Harrisburg, Jan. 20.—Peter Knapp, aged 30 years, a native of Germany, living at 1604 Mt. Vernon street, Philadelphia, suicided by jumping from the Atlantic express yesterday morning shortly after the train left Harrisburg. The body was picked up near Middletown and has been brought to this city and his relatives notified.

Mills Shut Down.

Lancaster, Pa., Jan. 20.—Owing to the coal shortage the Susquehanna iron and steel mills at Columbia, employing 1,500 men, had to shut down yesterday.

Team Owners' Union.

Mansfield, O., Jan. 20.—The Team Owners' International union held its first national convetion here yesterday with delegates present from various parts of the country. The principal address last night was delivered by A. D. Fassett, of Toledo, ex-member of the Ohio labor commission.

Among other defects pointed out by the East Enders is that the city council passed the resolution for the improvement when there was not sufficient money in that particular fund to pay for it. It is held by some that the argument will not stand, but if the law according to the revised statutes which follows, is weighed, the argument may not be found so weak after all:

"No contract, agreement or other obligation involving the expenditure of money shall be entered into, nor shall any ordinance, resolution or order for the appropriation or expenditure of money, be passed by the council or by any board or officer of a municipal corporation, unless the auditor of the corporation, and if there is no auditor the clerk thereof, shall first certify that the money required for the contract, agreement or other obligation, or to pay the appropriation or expenditure, is in the treasury to the credit of the fund from which it is to be drawn and not appropriated for any other purpose, which certificate shall be filed and immediately recorded and the sum so certified shall not thereafter be considered unappropriated until the corporation is discharged from the contract, agreement or obligations, or so long as the ordinance resolution or order is in force, and all contracts, agreements or other obligations and all ordinances, resolutions and orders entered into or passed contrary to the provisions of this section shall be void."

Another argument that can be presented is that the report of the assessing board was not in conformity with a late decision of the supreme court. This court held that the report of the assessing board must designate the property in every instance and that it shall make an explanation of its work by detail to the letter. This, it is said, the assessing board failed to do, but as the equalization board filled all requirements so admirably, it is thought that the work of the latter will be placed against that of the first and thereby conclude the argument.

Many [illegible] much interest in the matter, and they will await the result in anxious anticipation.

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES UNION LABEL COUNCIL E. LIVERPOOL, O.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 20, 1903.

A glance at the roster of the governors of the country's 45 states in these opening weeks of 1903 shows the Democracy in a feebler condition than it has been at almost any previous time since the foundation of the Republican party. Seldom has the Democratic party in the nation at large cut so small a figure as at this time. In the entrances and exits of governors at the beginning of 1903 there are left only four states outside of the south which are presided over by non-Republicans. One of these states, Montana elected its governor in 1900, and as the term in that state is four years, he has a respite until the beginning of 1905. If Montana had elected a governor in 1902 he would have been a Republican. The other states of the north and west which have Democratic governors are Rhode Island, Nevada and Oregon. Rhode Island was lost to the Republicans on governor in 1902 through a temporary schism in the party, aided by a socialist diversion. Nevada elected a fusionist, as it has been doing for several years. The Democrats, through a Republican factional fight on governor in Oregon captured that official by a very small margin in 1902, the Republicans carrying all the rest of the officers by large pluralities. All these states, with possibly one exception, can safely be counted in the Republican column in 1904. No wonder Democratic leaders are few and hard to find!

There are those who hold that a lie is never justifiable, but Rev. Dr. Frank Gunsaulus, of Chicago, evidently does not think so. In the midst of his sermon last Sunday, he stopped quietly and said that, owing to physical suffering, he was unable to proceed with his discourse. He therefore requested the congregation to receive the benediction and pass out. Now the truth was that Dr. Gunsaulus was just as well able to preach as ever, but he had discovered smoke in the church and feared a conflagration and a panic. Fortunately his alarm was groundless, but his action raises a fine point in ethics which Chicago is discussing as earnestly as if it were a corner in corn. The weight of testimony indicates that Dr. Gunsaulus will be acquitted of the charge of conduct unbecoming a minister, should he ever be tried for it.

A recent outbreak of typhoid fever in England is said to have been traced to bacteria in oysters. An eminent London physician declares that the oyster is "a potential torpedo in the bowels." Maybe, but those who like him will continue to place him there, and if they first take the precaution to cook him thoroughly they need not fear either typhoid or an explosion.

The lieutenant governor of South Carolina is a murderer and it is probable that the Tillman family is permanently retired from politics.

The stuff that the Cleveland physician uses to bring back the spark of life after it has vanished is called adrenalin. The suggestion that it be used on the Democratic party in Ohio is well meant, but it comes too late. Adrenalin must be used promptly. It has no effect on anything that has been dead for months.

President Roosevelt, King Edward and Marconi have made successful use of the wireless telegraph to send messages between Cape Cod and Cornwall. The day is not far distant when everyday folk will be using it, giving no thought and attracting no attention.

Russell Sage declares that he has never paid to have his shoes shined. He doesn't say whose blacking and brush he borrowed.

Mayor's court reports indicate that another swearing-off season would be a good thing for the old timers.

Mrs. Sophia L. Goppert.

Mrs. Sophia L. Goppert, aged 61, died at her home in lower Chester this morning at 9:15 o'clock after an illness lasting a year or more from a tumor of the stomach. Mrs. Goppert was born in Saxony, Germany, but 45 years ago came to this country, locating at Allegheny. There she married Frederick Goppert about 38 years ago. Twelve years later they moved to Hancock county and since that time have lived in Chester. A few years after coming there Mr. Goppert died. Three children curvive Mrs. Goppert, Fred and George and Mrs. Kate Grimm. The funeral arrangements have not been completed, but they will probably be held Saturday. The deceased was a member of the St John's Evangelical Lutheran church and Rev. J. G. Reinartz will officiate at the funeral services. The interment will take place at Spring Grove cemetery.

Edward Burnside.

Eddie Burnside, a well known farmer and stockman, residing four miles south of Salineville, died at his home Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, from heart failure, after a sickness extending over a period of three weeks. He was in his sixty-seventh year. He was born in Ireland, and came to this country with his parents at an early age. He came to Salineville with his parents and has been a resident of that community all his life. While a boy, going to school in that town, while playing with a number of boys he met with an accident that left him a cripple all his life. He owned at the time of his death a well stocked form of 80 acres well improved. The funeral services took place today at 11 oclock at the Monroeville church, interment at the cemetery adjoining the church. He leaves a sister and brother. He lived with his sister all his life.

Nichalo Barranti.

Nichalo Barranti, the Italian who operated a fruit stand in the East End on Mulberry street, died this morning at the hospital in Steubenville at 1 o'clock. Barranti was about 55 to 60 years of age and had been a resident of the East End for several years. He has been in poor health for several months. Steadily growing worse he was taken to the Steubenville hospital last week. The change failed to benefit him and his son was notified yesterday to come down at once. He left yesterday afternoon and will bring the remains back today. The funeral will be held at Wellsville tomorrow. Interment at the Catholic cemetery.

Mrs. John Finley.

Mrs. John Finley died at her home Friday morning. The deceased lived with her husband's family about one and one-half miles west of Salineville on the Hanover road. She had been sick from a complication of diseases. She was born in England, and came to this country with her husband about 17 years ago. She lived in Salineville with the exception of a few years in East Liverpool. She returned from East Liverpool to Salineville about a year ago. Besides a husband she leaves 11 children, the oldest not more than 17. The funeral took place yesterday forenoon, services being conducted by Rev. Father McMahon. Interment at St. Patrick's cemetery, Salineville.

Thomas C. Hague.

Thomas C. Hague, formerly of this city, died this morning at the state hospital, Massillon. He was 44 years of age and well known in this city. He had been at the hospital about 18 months. The body will be brought to this city to the home of a half-brother, James C. Douglas, who lives near the city hall. The funeral arrangements have not been made at this time. Besides the relative above mentioned his mother, Mrs. Mary J. Hague; a sister, Miss Maggie, and Mrs. John Gilchrist, of this city, survive him.

RIGHT CARE -- OF -- TEETH

Brushing once a week won't do at all. If you let your children grow up that way, they'll have bad teeth, sure. Get a good tooth brush—we have an extra good one, guaranteed, at 25c.—and a good Tooth Powder—we put up one which is so good that we will refund the money if you don't like it. Price 25c.—use these two daily, not once in a while, and your teeth will have the right care.

FREE SCHOLARSHIPS

For Boys And Girls Who Show an Enterprising Spirit.

Fathers and mothers will naturally be interested in knowing how their boys and girls may obtain free scholarships in some of the leading educational institutions of the country, and they ought to be pleased to learn how easy the plan is.

The plan is this: The boy and girl each, who secure the largest number of subscribers to the Pittsburg Sunday Gazette up to June 30 will be given first choice from the list of schools announced in the Gazette. The boy and girl, each, having the second largest number will have second choice, and so on until the list is exhausted. But to every boy and girl who enters this competition will be given 25 cents in cash for each new subscription obtained.

An additional special award is offered: To each boy and girl who sends in 50 new paid subscriptions will be given a gentleman's or lady's gold filled hunting-case watch. Both are excellent timepieces, guaranteed by a leading Pittsburg jeweler.

The Pittsburg Sunday Gazette is the best Sunday paper published in western Pennsylvania, being fully equal to the leading New York Sunday newspapers.

A bright boy or girl should earn a fair salary getting subscribers at 25 cents each, and besides have a chance to secure one of the special rewards—a free scholarship or a watch. Contracts for scholarships have been executed, or are now pending with the University of Pennsylvania, Western University of Pennsylvania, Bucknell university, Washington & Jefferson college and many other institutions. The scolarships are worth from $150 to $1,040 each.

This contest will be run from February 1 to June 30, 1903. Subscription blanks will be ready January 31. For blanks or information call or address The Educational Department, The Gazette, Pittsburg, Pa.

Loss $66,000.

Scranton, Pa., Jan. 20.—An overheated flue caused a fire in the hardware store of Bell & Brown, on Main street, Carbondale, yesterday afternoon, which burned so fiercely for a time that it was feared a good portion of the business part of the town would be destroyed. The fire was subdued after destroying the building in which it started, the adjoining store of J. J. Reigleluth and several barns in the rear of the stores. The loss is estimated at $66,000.

Terrible Work With Shotgun.

Newark, O., Jan. 20.—At Joseph Stotthart's home near Outville, yesterday, Elmer Artz shot and killed Zacnarian Hunt, aged 50, shot and injured Mrs. Stotthart and her daughter Mary and then killed himself with a shotgun. Artz and the girl quareled and Hurt, who went into the home, was shot down.

Big Fire at Scranton.

Scranton, Pa., Jan. 20.—The large brick department stores of the Ambrose Mulley estate and William Chappell were destroyed yesterday morning, entailing a loss of over $200,000. The fire started in the cellar of the Mulley store, at 1902-4-6 North Main avenue, and spread to the Chappell store, adjoining, at 1908-10-12-14, the same avenue. The Muley loss was $90,000; Chappell's, $100,000, and the loss to surrounding property damaged by the flames, in the neighborhood of $15,000. The loss is about three-fourths covered by insurance. The cause of the fire is not known.

Pending Appeal.

Freehold, N. J., Jan. 20.—Dr. Charles C Hendricks, convicted with Samuel Stanton of conspiracy to secure for Laura Bigsar the whole estate of Henry M. Bennett and sentenced to two years and six months in jail, was yesterday released on bail, pending an appeal.

Will and Harry Wood, sons of Mr and Mrs. John T. Wood, are ill at their home on Lisbon street.

Mrs. Joseph Chambers, who has been visiting relatives here, has returned to her home in Bellaire.

James Murphy, the paving contractor, and three of his men, left today for San Antonio, Texas, where he has secured some contracts.

Panther Maintains Blockade.

Maracaibo, Venezuela, Jan. 20.—There is no communication between Maracaibo and the fort of San Carlos, which was shelled on Saturday by the German cruiser Panther and which returned the fire, with the result that the warship retreated in the direction of Curacao. One hundred and twenty shots were fired from the fort during the engagement and the walls of the fort were slightly damaged. The Panther has resumed her position at the entrance of Lake Maracaibo, where she maintains the blockade. The reports that the German gunboat at the time of the engagement was trying to force the entrance of the lake in order to capture the Venezuelan gunboat Miranda, which is in hiding there, are generally believed here. The Venezuelan government has given out a statement to this effect.

Two Burned to Death.

Pittsburg, Jan. 20.—Two persons were burned to death in a fire at Nos. 1406 and 1408 Fifth avenue yesterday morning and a number of others had narrow escapes from cremation. Both buildings were destroyed and several small buildings in the rear were slightly burned. The total loss entailed by the fire was about $40,000. The dead: Hersh Trachenberg, 70 years old; Mrs. Bessie Trachenberg, 73 years old.

Terrible Deed of Aged Woman.

Oakland, Ia., Jan. 20.—Mrs. William Hanna, Sunday night, brained her husband with a hammer, cut his throat from ear to ear with a butcher knife and then killed herself by cutting her throat. She was 78 years old and her husband 76, and, according to a note left to her son, she committed the crime because she feared her husband would die and leave her penniless.

Jumped From Express.

Harrisburg, Jan. 20.—Peter Knapp, aged 30 years, a native of Germany, living at 1604 Mt. Vernon street, Philadelphia, suicided by jumping from the Atlantic express yesterday morning shortly after the train left Harrisburg. The body was picked up near Middletown and has been brought to this city and his relatives notified.

Mills Shut Down.

Lancaster, Pa., Jan. 20.—Owing to the coal shortage the Susquehanna iron and steel mills at Columbia, employing 1,500 men, had to shut down yesterday.

Team Owners' Union.

Mansfield, O., Jan. 20.—The Team Owners' International union held its first national convetion here yesterday with delegates present from various parts of the country. The principal address last night was delivered by A. D. Fassett, of Toledo, ex-member of the Ohio labor commission.

Lectured to 3,000.

Cleveland, Jan. 20.—General William Booth [illegible] of the Salvation Army, lectured in this city last night on "The Past, Present and Future of the Salvation Army." The lecture was heard by 3,000 people.

Among other defects pointed out by the East Enders is that the city council passed the resolution for the improvement when there was not sufficient money in that particular fund to pay for it. It is held by some that the argument will not stand, but if the law according to the revised statutes which follows, is weighed, the argument may not be found so weak after all:

"No contract, agreement or other obligation involving the expenditure of money shall be entered into, nor shall any ordinance, resolution or order for the appropriation or expenditure of money, be passed by the council or by any board or officer of a municipal corporation, unless the auditor of the corporation, and if there is no auditor the clerk thereof, shall first certify that the money required for the contract, agreement or other obligation, or to pay the appropriation or expenditure, is in the treasury to the credit of the fund from which it is to be drawn and not appropriated for any other purpose, which certificate shall be filed and immediately recorded and the sum so certified shall not thereafter be considered unappropriated until the corporation is discharged from the contract, agreement or obligations, or so long as the ordinance resolution or order is in force, and all contracts, agreements or other obligations and all ordinances, resolutions and orders entered into or passed contrary to the provisions of this section shall be void."

Another argument that can be presented is that the report of the assessing board was not in conformity with a late decision of the supreme court. This court held that the report of the assessing board must designate the property in every instance and that it shall make an explanation of its work by detail to the letter. This, it is said, the assessing board failed to do, but as the equalization board filled all requirements so admirably, it is thought that the work of the latter will be placed against that of the first and thereby conclude the argument.

Many people have expressed much interest in the matter, and they will await the result in anxious anticipation.

For Boys And Girls Who Show an Enterprising Spirit.

Fathers and mothers will naturally be interested in knowing how their boys and girls may obtain free scholarships in some of the leading educational institutions of the country, and they ought to be pleased to learn how easy the plan is.

The plan is this: The boy and girl each, who secure the largest number of subscribers to the Pittsburg Sunday Gazette up to June 30 will be given first choice from the list of schools announced in the Gazette. The boy and girl, each, having the second largest number will have second choice, and so on until the list is exhausted. But to every boy and girl who enters this competition will be given 25 cents in cash for each new subscription obtained.

An additional special award is offered: To each boy and girl who sends in 50 new paid subscriptions will be given a gentleman's or lady's gold filled hunting-case watch. Both are excellent timepieces, guaranteed by a leading Pittsburg jeweler.

The Pittsburg Sunday Gazette is the best Sunday paper published in western Pennsylvania, being fully equal to the leading New York Sunday newspapers.

A bright boy or girl should earn a fair salary getting subscribers at 25 cents each, and besides have a chance to secure one of the special rewards—a free scholarship or a watch. Contracts for scholarships have been executed, or are now pending with the University of Pennsylvania, Western University of Pennsylvania, Bucknell University, Washington & Jefferson college and many other institutions. The scholarships are worth from $150 to $1,040 each.

This contest will be run from February 1 to June 30, 1903. Subscription blanks will be ready January 31. For blanks or information call or address The Educational Department, The Gazette, Pittsburg, Pa.

Loss $66,000.

Scranton, Pa., Jan. 20.—An overheated flue caused a fire in the hardware store of Bell & Brown, on Main street, Carbondale, yesterday afternoon, which burned so fiercely for a time that it was feared a good portion of the business part of the town would be destroyed. The fire was subdued after destroying the building in which it started, the adjoining store of J. J. Reigleluth and several barns in the rear of the stores. The loss is estimated at $66,000.

Terrible Work With Shotgun.

Newark, O., Jan. 20.—At Joseph Stotthart's home near Outville, yesterday, Elmer Artz shot and killed Zacharian Hunt, aged 50, shot and injured Mrs. Stotthart and her daughter Mary and then killed himself with a shotgun. Artz and the girl quarreled and Hurt, who went into the home, was shot down.

Big Fire at Scranton.

Scranton, Pa., Jan. 20.—The large brick department stores of the Ambrose Mulley estate and William Chappell were destroyed yesterday morning, entailing a loss of over $200,000. The fire started in the cellar of the Mulley store, at 1902-4-6 North Main avenue, and spread to the Chappell store, adjoining, at 1908-10-12-14, the same avenue. The Muley loss was $90,000; Chappell's, $100,000, and the loss to surrounding property damaged by the flames, in the neighborhood of $15,000. The loss is about three-fourths covered by insurance. The cause of the fire is not known.

Pending Appeal.

Freehold, N. J., Jan. 20.—Dr. Charles C. Hendricks, convicted with Samuel Stanton of conspiracy to secure for Laura Bigear the whole estate of Henry M. Bennett and sentenced to two years and six months in jail, was yesterday released on bail, pending an appeal.

Mrs. Joseph Chambers, who has been visiting relatives here, has returned to her home in Bellaire.

James Murphy, the paving contractor, and three of his men, left today for San Antonio, Texas, where he has secured some contracts.

Panther Maintains Blockade.

Maracaibo, Venezuela, Jan. 20.—There is no communication between Maracaibo and the fort of San Carlos, which was shelled on Saturday by the German cruiser Panther and which returned the fire, with the result that the warship retreated in the direction of Curacao. One hundred and twenty shots were fired from the fort during the engagement and the walls of the fort were slightly damaged. The Panther has resumed her position at the entrance of Lake Maracaibo, where she maintains the blockade. The reports that the German gunboat at the time of the engagement was trying to force the entrance of the lake in order to capture the Venezuelan gunboat Miranda, which is in hiding there, are generally believed here. The Venezuelan government has given out a statement to this effect.

Two Burned to Death.

Pittsburg, Jan. 20.—Two persons were burned to death in a fire at Nos. 1406 and 1408 Fifth avenue yesterday morning and a number of others had narrow escapes from cremation. Both buildings were destroyed and several small buildings in the rear were slightly burned. The total loss entailed by the fire was about $40,000. The dead: Hersh Trachenberg, 70 years old; Mrs. Bessie Trachenberg, 73 years old.

Terrible Deed of Aged Woman.

Oakland, Ia., Jan. 20.—Mrs. William Hanna, Sunday night, brained her husband with a hammer, cut his throat from ear to ear with a butcher knife and then killed herself by cutting her throat. She was 78 years old and her husband 76, and, according to a note left to her son, she committed the crime because she feared her husband would die and leave her penniless.

Jumped From Express.

Harrisburg, Jan. 20.—Peter Knapp, aged 20 years, a native of Germany, living at 1604 Mt. Vernon street, Philadelphia, suicided by jumping from the Atlantic express yesterday morning shortly after the train left Harrisburg. The body was picked up near Middletown and has been brought to this city and his relatives notified.

Mills Shut Down.

Lancaster, Pa., Jan. 20.—Owing to the coal shortage the Susquehanna iron and steel mills at Columbia, employing 1,500 men, had to shut down yesterday.

Team Owners' Union.

Mansfield, O., Jan. 20.—The Team Owners' International union held its first national convetion here yesterday with delegates present from various parts of the country. The principal address last night was delivered by A. D. Fassett, of Toledo, ex-member of the Ohio labor commission.

Lectured to 3,000.

Cleveland, Jan. 20.—General William Booth's representative and head of the Salvation Army, lectured in this city last night on "The Past, Present and Future of the Salvation Army." The lecture was heard by 3,000 people.

tne part of the prosecuting aggregation.

Among other defects pointed out by the East Enders is that the city council passed the resolution for the improvement when there was not sufficient money in that particular fund to pay for it. It is held by some that the argument will not stand, but if the law according to the revised statutes which follows, is weighed, the argument may not be found so weak after all:

"No contract, agreement or other obligation involving the expenditure of money shall be entered into, nor shall any ordinance, resolution or order for the appropriation or expenditure of money, be passed by the council or by any board or officer of a municipal corporation, unless the auditor of the corporation, and if there is no auditor the clerk thereof, shall first certify that the money required for the contract, agreement or other obligation, or to pay the appropriation or expenditure, is in the treasury to the credit of the fund from which it is to be drawn and not appropriated for any other purpose, which certificate shall be filed and immediately recorded and the sum so certified shall not thereafter be considered unappropriated until the corporation is discharged from the contract, agreement or obligations, or so long as the ordinance resolution or order is in force, and all contracts, agreements or other obligations and all ordinances, resolutions and orders entered into or passed contrary to the provisions of this section shall be void."

Another argument that can be presented is that the report of the assessing board was not in conformity with a late decision of the supreme court. This court held that the report of the assessing board must designate the property in every instance and that it shall make an explanation of its work by detail to the letter. This, it is said, the assessing board failed to do, but as the equalization board filed all requirements so admirably, it is thought that the work of the latter will be placed against that of the first and there it would do the argument at.

Many people have expressed much interest in the matter, and they will await the result in anxious anticipation.

WELLSVILLE

IN THE HIGH SCHOOL

Notes of Interest Concerning an Institution of Which Wellsville Is Proud.

The regular monthly meeting of the teachers of all of the public schools of Wellsville was held last evening at the central building on Ninth street.

Many of the scholars of the Wellsville high school are enjoying the benefits of the Carnegie library at East Liverpool and spend many nights in the sister city at the library.

Yesterday was the first day of the latter half of the school year. In view of this fact the freshman class of the high school who have finished the study of civil government, began the study of botany; the sophomore class who have finished the study of physical geography, began the study of English history and geometry; the senior class have commenced the study of ancient history.

Way B. Davidson has been appointed librarian of the high school library and succeeds Corydon Arnold. Albert Goetz is now the assistant librarian.

The junior class of the high school have been talking considerably lately of holding an entertainment in the form of a play at the local opera house this coming spring. Miss Mason, the principal of the school, is at the head of the movement.

About $250 is being expended by the high school for electrical apparatus for the school laboratory.

In Police Court.

J. A. Williams and H. Heppard, two boiler makers, who were arrested last Saturday evening by Chief Houser and Officer Snyder on a charge of being drunk and disorderly, appeared before Mayor Fogo last evening at 7 o'clock. William was fined $4.60, which he paid. Heppard was not fined, but may be brought before the mayor again later. Albert Wheaton, who was arrested Sunday evening on a similar charge, appeared before the mayor yesterday afternoon and pleaded guilty. He was fined $4.50, but was unable to pay and may have to work out his fine.

Preparing for Rural Delivery.

Edward G. Bunting, the new rural free delivery carrier, who is to take the route out of this city on February 2, went over his route today and registered the names of every person to who he is to deliver mail. The route covers over 20 miles of territory, and is considerably longer than the average free delivery route. Mr. Bunting has already ordered a closed wagon for the purpose and will probably receive the same before February 2.

Potters' Union Meetings.

The regular meeting of local union No. 55, N. B. of O. P., was held last evening in Potters' hall. Only a few were present and the meeting was a short one. No business which can be made public was transacted. Local union No. 24, N. B. of O. P., will hold its regular meeting this evening in the same hall. The meeting is to be followed by a smoker which is to be purely a stag affair. An interesting program will be given.

Mrs. Fife's Funeral.

The funeral of the late Mrs. John Fife, of Eleventh and Commerce streets, who died Sunday evening, was held at 10 o'clock this morning from the residence of her grandson, Frank Burbick, of Eleventh and Short streets. Interment was made at the Madison Presbyterian church cemetery.

NAVIGATION AGAIN RESUMED ON THE OHIO

Boats Again Running, But Under Some Disadvantages—River Notes.

Navigation on the Ohio river was partially resumed today, although considerable ice remains in the stream and has been stiffened up again by the cold weather. The Allegheny is frozen over.

The Keystone State left Pittsburg yesterday, but grounded near Lock No 5, half a mile above Rochester. The Queen City was called to her assistance and after several hours of work floated her this morning. The Queen City will be down on her regular time tomorrow afternoon. None of the other packets have resumed.

The stage here is about 7 feet and falling slowly. Business is quiet along the wharf, although heavy shipments are awaiting the boats.

Captain Gus Martindill has booked passage for two prominent local people for the Queen City's excursion trip to New Orleans on February 14.

Captain James Sanford, of the steamer Queen City, visited Captain Thomas Calhoun, at Georgetown, Pa., yesterday and says that he is recovering from an attack of pneumonia. It will be some time before Captain Calhoun will be able to assume command of the Virginia.

Needed Them All.

A well known authoress was once talking with a dilapidated bachelor, who retained little but his conceit.

"It is time now," he said pompously, "for me to settle down as a married man, but I want so much. I want youth, health, wealth, of course; beauty, grace"—

"Yes," said his fair listener sympathetically, "you poor man, you do want them all."

Prophetic.

Shirt Sleeves to Shirt Sleeves.

Oliver Wendell Holmes counted only three generations between shirt sleeves and shirt sleeves. A daughter of Tolstoi in an interview with Henry Norman expressed the same idea in these words: "No Russian ever 'founds a family,' as you say. A man makes his fortune; his son lavishes it; his son disperses it."

SOUTH SIDE

GOODS IN THE STREET

Evicted Tenant Lets Them Lie And Says He Will Have Constable Arrested.

Another chapter in the John Barr ejectment case, which has been hanging fire for weeks in Chester, transpired yesterday. Barr lived in one of the houses in the Rolling Mill Land addition and suit was brought against him by C. A. Smith, trustee, to eject him from the house. The suit was decided against Barr and he was ordered to vacate. For some time he paid no attention to the order. Later the matter was placed in the hands of J. H. Allison, the constable, and Barr was again told to get out. He removed a part of his household goods to a small house on the hill but left a part of them there.

Constable Allison with several deputies removed the balance of his goods yesterday and left them on the street. Barr was informed of the action but refused to move the goods and they are still lying on the street. He said that he expected to cause the arrest of the constable and his helpers but no affidavits have yet been filed.

PROFIT SHARING PLAN

Meets With Some Opposition Among Employes of Chester Tinplate Mill.

The movement on the part of the officials of the American Tin Plate company to have the employes of that company subscribe for stock is meeting with considerable opposition in Chester. Quite a number of the mill men subscribed for a number of the shares which are sold to them below the market quotation of the stock. However, it seems that the stock is not being subscribed for in as large quantities as expected, and inquiries reveal the fact that the terms of the sale of the stock are objectionable to many of the men.

They claim that there is a clause in the contract to which they are to subscribe in which it states that they can not dispose of any of their stock except to the company. The men claim that this is unjust as they undoubtedly would be able to sell to a better advantage to outside paries should they ever wish to dispose of the stock.

NO CLUE YET

To the New Cumberland Robbers—Believed They Came This Way.

Every effort is being made to locate the gang of robbers who looted the safe of A. W. Scott, the New Cumberland jeweler and druggist. Sheriff C. F. Allison has learned that three men were seen driving in a buggy towards Chester Sunday morning and the night watchman at the bridge said that two men crossed the bridge early Sunday morning who were wrapped up so that their faces could not be seen. He also said that it was possible that someone was under the robe in the buggy but he did not notice carefully.

These men had about time enough to drive to Chester from New Cumberland. The police here were instructed and notified and an attempt will be made to follow this clue, but so far nothing definite has developed.

Church Organization.

Tonight the organization of the Presbyterian church in Chester will be effected. Rev. J. R. Hosick, of Hookstown, Rev. D. A. Greene, of Fairview, and Rev. Mr. Bigger, of Wheeling, will be present at the meeting which will be held at 7:30. An interesting evening is anticipated.

Not Able to Work.

Ben. F. Sayers, who was injured at the Taylor, Smith & Taylor pottery a few days ago by an exploding lamp, and who had a hand badly burned, is able to be out again. He will be unable to go to work for several days but hopes to be able ta take his place again i na week or so.

CHESTER NOTES.

Charles Kochert is in Monroe county, O., on business.

Mrs. J. W. Hunter, of Beaver Falls, Pa., is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Thomas Ward, of Carolina avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Maple, of Indiana avenue, are entertaining their daughter, Mrs. Ella Mausser, of Barnesville.

M. A. Logan, of Chester, was called to Coraopolis this morning on account of the death of his brother, J. E. Logan which occured yesterday.

Rev. W. B. Gillis married Miss Minnie Smith, of Calcutta, and Mr. D. D. Pullins, of the East End, a few days ago at the parsonage. The wedding was not announced and was just heard of yesterday. The couple will reside in the East End.

HARD'S. THE BIG STORE.

THE WIFE ACCUSES HUSBAND OF BIGAMY

Sensational Charge Filed With the Police By a Well Known Woman.

Bent upon revenge, declaring that it alone would console her, a well known woman of the city, living on Fairview street appeared at central police station and denounced her husband, also well known locally, as a bigamist. At first she was so angry that it was hard for her to restrain herself, but after relating a part of her story her feminine nature prevailed and it was while hot tears were streaming down her cheeks that she finished.

She stated that her husband, to whom she had been married for quite awhile, had cruelly deserted her and their child during the month of November and had married a young girl of Beaver county, Pa. Though not positive, it was her impression that the husband and his wife No. 2, are now living in this city and that he is working in a local pottery. Being almost in destitute circumstances she applied to the city officials for help in bringing her husband to justice. She wants him apprehended and punished. Her case is a most pitiable one. Her physical condition will not permit laborious work and she is solely dependent upon relatives for a living.

The police have taken the matter in hand. An investigation was made yesterday but it did not result in the finding of a clue as to his location, and it is thought probable that the poor woman may be mistaken in her opinion.

It was learned this morning that the woman was misinformed as to where her husband married his second wife. In telephonic communication with the clerk of Beaver county it was discovered that no man by his name had been issued a license during the year 1902.

Two Remarkable Epitaphs.

The two most remarkable epitaphs in the United States are those of Daniel Barrow, formerly of Sacramento, and of Hank Monk, Horace Greeley's stage driver. The former reads as follows: "Here is laid Daniel Barrow, who was born in Sorrow and Borrowed little from nature except his name and his love to mankind and his hatred for reptiles. Who was nevertheless a gentleman and a dead shot, who through a long life never killed his man except in self defense or by accident, and who, when he at last went under beneath the bullets of his cowardly enemies in Jeff Morris' saloon, did so in the sure and certain hope of a glorious and everlasting morrow."

Hank Monk's epitaph reads thus: "Sacred to the memory of Hank Monk, the whitest, biggest hearted and best known stage driver in the west, who was kind to all and brought ill to none. He lived in a strange era and was a hero, and the wheels of his coach are now ringing on the golden streets."

Ancient Football.

Philip Stubbes wrote in 1583 in his book on "The Anatomie of Abuses:"

"For as concerning football I protest unto you it may rather be called a freendly kinde of fight than a play of recreation; a bloody and murthering practice than a felowly sporte of pastyme. For doth not every one lye in waight for his Adversarie, seeking to overthrow him and to picke him on his nose, though it be on hard stones, so that by this meanes sometimes their necks are broken, sometimes their backs, sometimes their legs, sometimes their arms, sometimes one part thrust out of joynt, sometimes another; sometimes the noses gush out with blood, sometimes their eyes start out, sighting, brawling, contention, quarrel picking, murther, homicide and great effusion of blood, as experience dayly teacheth."

Chinese Justice.

The China Times relates an extraordinary case of Chinese "justice."

A Mr. Jen was betrothed to Miss Han and paid his money to the woman's parents. Then he called on the parents to have the contract fulfilled and was told that the promised one was the bride of another.

Having paid his money he considered he was entitled to the girl and went to her husband's house to carry her off, but she was not at home. He then laid his case before the magistrate.

The girl was arrested and sentenced to be "kua-ed," the magistrate arguing, "If you are so wicked at twenty years of age, at the age of eighty you will be a menace to the Celestial empire."

The process of kua-ing is very similar to the ling-chih, or slicing to death punishment.

The Population of the Moon.

There is plenty of authority for believing that there is a man in the moon. In fact, there is authority for believing that there are women and other animals there. Dante declares that Cain was banished to the moon and that he can be seen there at any time. Chaucer declares that the man in the moon was guilty of larceny and that he carries a thorn bush. Shakespeare loads him with thorns and gives him a dog. According to the general version, he was banished there for gathering sticks on Sunday, and the Germans have amplified this theory by giving him a woman who had been caught churning butter on Sunday.

A Cheeky Customer.

"I had a unique but tantalizing experience the other day," said a clerk who works in a hair store. "A man came into our place and asked to look at some false beards. Of course he was accommodated, and he spent over an hour going over the lot, trying them on and examining himself in a glass. He took up my time, and after he had examined everything in that line in the store he thanked me and said he was considering whether to raise a beard or not and wished to see how he would look in the different styles."

There Was No Unnecessary Delay

There had been trouble between Mr. William Scott and Mr. Samuel Brown at Red Dog City, and Mr. William Scott started out one evening to locate the exact whereabouts of the other gentleman. When he had done so, he bustled into the saloon with the remark:

"Sorry to disturb anybody, but I'll get through with this matter as quick as possible."

He had scarcely entered when there was a pop! pop! pop! lasting for sixty seconds. Then the fusillade ceased, and the smoke lifted up to reveal two dead men lying on the floor.

"Boys," said the saloonist to the men who crowded in, "it was a fair fout and a genteel fout. They died like reglar gentlemen."

The crowd stared at the faces of the dead and nodded approval.

"And they shall be buried like gentlemen," continued the man. "Here, you Chinese heathen, take this dollar and go out and dig two holes and plant these gentlemen on their backs and give 'em elbow room to shake hands in the next world!" M. QUAD.

WELLSVILLE

IN THE HIGH SCHOOL

Notes of Interest Concerning an Institution of Which Wellsville Is Proud.

The regular monthly meeting of the teachers of all of the public schools of Wellsville was held last evening at the central building on Ninth street.

Many of the scholars of the Wellsville high school are enjoying the benefits of the Carnegie library at East Liverpool and spend many nights in the sister city at the library.

Yesterday was the first day of the latter half of the school year. In view of this fact the freshman class of the high school who have finished the study of civil government, began the study of botany; the sophomore class who have finished the study of physical geography, began the study of English history and geometry; the senior class have commenced the study of ancient history.

Way B. Davidson has been appointed librarian of the high school library and succeeds Corydon Arnold. Albert Goetz is now the assistant librarian

The junior class of the high school have been talking considerably lately of holding an entertainment in the form of a play at the local opera house this coming spring. Miss Mason, the principal of the school, is at the head of the movement.

About $250 is being expended by the high school for electrical apparatus for the school laboratory.

In Police Court.

J. A. Williams and H. Heppard, two boiler makers, who were arrested last Saturday evening by Chief Houser and Officer Snyder on a charge of being drunk and disorderly, appeared before Mayor Fogo last evening at 7 o'clock. William was fined $4.60, which he paid. Heppard was not fined, but may be brought before the mayor again later. Albert Wheaton, who was arrested Sunday evening on a similar charge, appeared before the mayor yesterday afternoon and pleaded guilty. He was fined $4.30, but was unable to pay and may have to work out his fine.

Preparing for Rural Delivery.

Edward G. Bunting, the new rural free delivery carrier, who is to take the route out of this city on February 2, went over his route today and registered the enames of every person to who he is to deliver mail. The route covers over 20 miles of territory, and is considerably longer than the average free delivery route. Mr. Bunting has already ordered a closed wagon for the purpose and will probably receive the same before February 2.

Potters' Union Meetings.

The regular meeting of local union No. 55, N. B. of O. P., was held last evening in Potters' hall. Only a few were present and the meeting was a short one. No business which can be made public was transacted. Local union No. 24, N. B. of O. P., will hold its regular meeting this evening in the same hall. The meeting is to be followed by a smoker which is to be purely a stag affair. An interesting program will be given.

Mrs. Fife's Funeral.

The funeral of the late Mrs. John Fife, of Eleventh and Commerce streets, who died Sunday evening, was held at 10 o'clock this morning from the residence of her grandson, Frank Burbick, of Eleventh and Short streets. Interment was made at the Madison Presbyterian church cemetery.

NAVIGATION AGAIN RESUMED ON THE OHIO

Boats Again Running, But Under Some Disadvantages—River Notes.

Navigation on the Ohio river was partially resumed today, although considerable ice remains in the stream and has been stiffened up again by the cold weather. The Allegheny is frozen over.

The Keystone State left Pittsburg yesterday, but grounded near Lock No 5, half a mile above Rochester. The Queen City was called to her assistance and after several hours of work floated her this morning. The Queen City will be down on her regular time tomorrow afternoon. None of the other packets have resumed.

The stage here is about 7 feet and falling slowly. Business is quiet along the wharf, although heavy shipments are awaiting the boats.

Captain Gus Martindill has booked passage for two prominent local people for the Queen City's excursion trip to New Orleans on February 14.

Captain James Sanford, of the steamer Queen City, visited Captain Thomas Calhoun, at Georgetown, Pa., yesterday and says that he is recovering from an attack of pneumonia. It will be some time before Captain Calhoun will be able to assume command of the Virginia.

Needed Them All.

A well known authoress was once talking with a dilapidated bachelor, who retained little but his conceit.

"It is time now," he said pompously, "for me to settle down as a married man, but I want so much. I want youth, health, wealth, of course; beauty, grace"--

"Yes," said his fair listener sympathetically, "you poor man, you do want them all."

Prophetic.

Shirt Sleeves to Shirt Sleeves.

Oliver Wendell Holmes counted only three generations between shirt sleeves and shirt sleeves. A daughter of Tolstoi in an interview with Henry Norman expressed the same idea in these words: "No Russian ever 'founds a family,' as you say. A man makes his fortune; his son lavishes it; his son disperses it."

Marks Time.

Nodd—Your baby isn't three months old yet, is he?

Todd—Oh, yes. To be exact, I have been awake now just ninety-six nights. —Life.

SOUTH SIDE

Evicted Tenant Lets Them Lie And Says He Will Have Constable Arrested.

Another chapter in the John Barr ejectment case, which has been hanging fire for weeks in Chester, transpired yesterday. Barr lived in one of the houses in the Rolling Mill Land addition and suit was brought against him by C. A. Smith, trustee, to eject him from the house. The suit was decided against Barr and he was ordered to vacate. For some time he paid no attention to the order. Later the matter was placed in the hands of J. H. Allison, the constable, and Barr was again told to get out. He removed a part of his household goods to a small house on the hill but left a part of them there.

Constable Allison with several deputies removed the balance of his goods yesterday and left them on the street. Barr was informed of the action but refused to move the goods and they are still lying on the street. He said that he expected to cause the arrest of the constable and his helpers but no affidavits have yet been filed.

PROFIT SHARING PLAN

Meets With Some Opposition Among Employes of Chester Tinplate Mill.

The movement on the part of the officials of the American Tin Plate company to have the employes of that company subscribe for stock is meeting with considerable opposition in Chester. Quite a number of the mill men subscribed for a number of the shares which are sold to them below the market quotation of the stock. However, it seems that the stock is not being subscribed for in as large quantities as expected, and inquiries reveal the fact that the terms of the sale of the stock are objectionable to many of the men.

They claim that there is a clause in the contract to which they are to subscribe in which it states that they can not dispose of any of their stock except to the company. The men claim that this is unjust, as they undoubtedly would be able to sell to a better advantage to outside paries should they ever wish to dispose of the stock.

NO CLUE YET

To the New Cumberland Robbers—Believed They Came This Way.

Every effort is being made to locate the gang of robbers who looted the safe of A. W. Scott, the New Cumberland jeweler and druggist. Sheriff C. F. Allison has learned that three men were seen driving in a buggy towards Chester Sunday morning and the night watchman at the bridge said that two men crossed the bridge early Sunday morning who were wrapped up so that their faces could not be seen. He also said that it was possible that someone was under the robe in the buggy but he did not notice carefully.

These men had about time enough to drive to Chester from New Cumberland. The police here were instructed and notified and an attempt will be made to follow this clue, but so far nothing definite has developed.

Church Organization.

Tonight the organization of the Presbyterian church in Chester will be effected. Rev. J. R. Hosick, of Hookstown, Rev. D. A. Greene, of Fairview, and Rev. Mr. Bigger, of Wheeling, will be present at the meeting which will be held at 7:30. An interesting evening is anticipated.

Not Able to Work.

Ben. F. Sayers, who was injured at the Taylor, Smith & Taylor pottery a few days ago by an exploding lamp, and who had a hand badly burned, is able to be out again. He will be unable to go to work for several days but hopes to be able to take his place again in a week or so.

CHESTER NOTES.

Charles Kochert is in Monroe county, O., on business.

Mrs. J. W. Hunter, of Beaver Falls Pa., is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Thomas Ward, of Carolina avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Maple, of Indiana avenue, are entertaining their daughter, Mrs. Ella Mausser, of Barnesville.

M. A. Logan, of Chester, was called to Coraopolis this morning on account of the death of his brother, J. E. Logan which occured yesterday.

Rev. W. B. Gillis married Miss Minnie Smith, of Calcutta, and Mr. D. D. Pullins, of the East End, a few days ago at the parsonage. The wedding was not announced and was just heard of yesterday. The couple will reside in the East End.

THE WIFE ACCUSES HUSBAND OF BIGAMY

Sensational Charge Filed With the Police By a Well Known Woman.

Bent upon revenge, declaring that it alone would console her, a well known woman of the city, living on Fairview street appeared at central police station and denounced her husband, also well known locally, as a bigamist. At first she was so angry that it was hard for her to restrain herself, but after relating a part of her story her feminine nature prevailed and it was while hot tears were streaming down her cheeks that she finished.

She stated that her husband, to whom she had been married for quite awhile, had cruelly deserted her and their child during the month of November and had married a young girl of Beaver county, Pa. Though not positive, it was her impression, that the husband and his wife No. 2, are now living in this city and that he is working in a local pottery. Being almost in destitute circumstances she applied to the city officials for help in bringing her husband to justice. She wants him apprehended and punished. Her case is a most pitiable one. Her physical condition will not permit laborious work and she is solely dependent upon relatives for a living.

The police have taken the matter in hand. An investigation was made yesterday but it did not result in the finding of a clue as to his location, and it is thought probable that the poor woman may be mistaken in her opinion.

It was learned this morning that the woman was misinformed as to where her husband married his second wife. In telephonic communication with the clerk of Beaver county it was discovered that no man by his name had been issued a license during the year 1902.

Two Remarkable Epitaphs.

The two most remarkable epitaphs in the United States are those of Daniel Barrow, formerly of Sacramento, and of Hank Monk, Horace Greeley's stage driver. The former reads as follows: "Here is laid Daniel Barrow, who was born in Sorrow and Borrowed little from nature except his name and his love to mankind and his hatred for redskins. Who was nevertheless a gentleman and a dead shot, who through a long life never killed his man except in self defense or by accident, and who, when he at last went under beneath the bullets of his cowardly enemies in Jeff Morris' saloon, did so in the sure and certain hope of a glorious and everlasting morrow."

Hank Monk's epitaph reads thus: "Sacred to the memory of Hank Monk, the whitest, biggest hearted and best known stage driver in the west, who was kind to all and brought ill to none. He lived in a strange era and was a hero, and the wheels of his coach are now ringing on the golden streets."

Ancient Football.

Philip Stubbes wrote in 1583 in his book on "The Anatomie of Abuses:"

"For as concerning football I protest unto you it may rather be called a freendly kinde of fight than a play of recreation; a bloody and murthering practice than a felowly sporte of pastyme. For dooth not every one lye in waight for his Adverserie, seeking to overthrow him and to picke him on his nose, though it be on hard stones, so that by this meanes sometimes their necks are broken, sometimes their backs, sometimes their legs, sometimes their arms, sometimes one part thrust out of joynt, sometimes another; sometimes the noses gush out with blood, sometimes their eyes start out—fighting, brawling, contention, quarrel picking, murther, homicide and great effusion of blood, as experience dayly teacheth."

Chinese Justice.

The China Times relates an extraordinary case of Chinese "justice."

A Mr. Jen was betrothed to Miss Han and paid his money to the woman's parents. Then he called on the parents to have the contract fulfilled and was told that the promised one was the bride of another.

Having paid his money he considered he was entitled to the girl and went to her husband's house to carry her off, but she was not at home. He then laid his case before the magistrate.

The girl was arrested and sentenced to be "kua-ed," the magistrate arguing, "If you are so wicked at twenty years of age, at the age of eighty you will be a menace to the Celestial empire."

The process of kua-ing is very similar to the ling-chih, or slicing to death punishment.

The Population of the Moon.

There is plenty of authority for believing that there is a man in the moon. In fact, there is authority for believing that there are women and other animals there. Dante declares that Cain was banished to the moon and that he can be seen there at any time. Chaucer declares that the man in the moon was guilty of larceny and that he carries a thorn bush. Shakespeare loads him with thorns and gives him a dog. According to the general version, he was banished there for gathering sticks on Sunday, and the Germans have amplified this theory by giving him a woman who had been caught churning butter on Sunday.

NAVIGATION AGAIN RESUMED ON THE OHIO

Boats Again Running, But Under Some Disadvantages—River Notes.

Navigation on the Ohio river was partially resumed today, although considerable ice remains in the stream and has been stiffened up again by the cold weather. The Allegheny is frozen over.

The Keystone State left Pittsburg yesterday, but grounded near Lock No 5, half a mile above Rochester. The Queen City was called to her assistance and after several hours of work floated her this morning. The Queen City will be down on her regular time tomorrow afternoon. None of the other packets have resumed.

The stage here is about 7 feet and falling slowly. Business is quiet along the wharf, although heavy shipments are awaiting the boats.

Captain Gus Martindill has booked passage for two prominent local people for the Queen City's excursion trip to New Orleans on February 14.

Captain James Sanford, of the steamer Queen City, visited Captain Thomas Calhoun, at Georgetown, Pa., yesterday and says that he is recovering from an attack of pneumonia. It will be some time before Captain Calhoun will be able to assume command of the Virginia.

Needed Them All.

A well known authoress was once talking with a dilapidated bachelor, who retained little but his conceit.

"It is time now," he said pompously, "for me to settle down as a married man, but I want so much. I want youth, health, wealth, of course; beauty, grace"--

"Yes," said his fair listener sympathetically, "you poor man, you do want them all."

Prophetic.

Shirt Sleeves to Shirt Sleeves.

Oliver Wendell Holmes counted only three generations between shirt sleeves and shirt sleeves. A daughter of Tolstoi in an interview with Henry Norman expressed the same idea in these words: "No Russian ever 'founds a family,' as you say. A man makes his fortune; his son lavishes it; his son disperses it."

SOUTH SIDE

Evicted Tenant Lets Them Lie And Says He Will Have Constable Arrested.

Another chapter in the John Barr ejectment case, which has been hanging fire for weeks in Chester, transpired yesterday. Barr lived in one of the houses in the Rolling Mill Land addition and suit was brought against him by C. A. Smith, trustee, to eject him from the house. The suit was decided against Barr and he was ordered to vacate. For some time he paid no attention to the order. Later the matter was placed in the hands of J. H. Allison, the constable, and Barr was again told to get out. He removed a part of his household goods to a small house on the hill but left a part of them there.

Constable Allison with several deputies removed the balance of his goods yesterday and left them on the street. Barr was informed of the action but refused to move the goods and they are still lying on the street. He said that he expected to cause the arrest of the constable and his helpers but no affidavits have yet been filed.

PROFIT SHARING PLAN

Meets With Some Opposition Among Employes of Chester Tinplate Mill.

The movement on the part of the officials of the American Tin Plate company to have the employes of that company subscribe for stock is meeting with considerable opposition in Chester. Quite a number of the mill men subscribed for a number of the shares which are sold to them below the market quotation of the stock. However, it seems that the stock is not being subscribed for in as large quantities as expected, and inquiries reveal the fact that the terms of the sale of the stock are objectionable to many of the men.

They claim that there is a clause in the contract to which they are to subscribe in which it states that they can not dispose of any of their stock except to the company. The men claim that this is unjust, as they undoubtedly would be able to sell to a better advantage to outside parties should they ever wish to dispose of the stock.

NO CLUE YET

To the New Cumberland Robbers—Believed They Came This Way.

Every effort is being made to locate the gang of robbers who looted the safe of A. W. Scott, the New Cumberland jeweler and druggist. Sheriff C. F. Allison has learned that three men were seen driving in a buggy towards Chester Sunday morning and the night watchman at the bridge said that two men crossed the bridge early Sunday morning who were wrapped up so that their faces could not be seen. He also said that it was possible that someone was under the robe in the buggy but he did not notice carefully.

These men had about time enough to drive to Chester from New Cumberland. The police here were instructed and notified and an attempt will be made to follow this clue, but so far nothing definite has developed.

Church Organization.

Tonight the organization of the Presbyterian church in Chester will be effected. Rev. J. R. Hosick, of Hookstown, Rev. D. A. Greene, of Fairview, and Rev. Mr. Bigger, of Wheeling, will be present at the meeting which will be held at 7:30. An interesting evening is anticipated.

Not Able to Work.

Ben. F. Sayers, who was injured at the Taylor, Smith & Taylor pottery a few days ago by an exploding lamp, and who had a hand badly burned, is able to be out again. He will be unable to go to work for several days but hopes to be able ta take his place again i na week or so.

CHESTER NOTES.

Charles Kochert is in Monroe county, O., on business.

Mrs. J. W. Hunter, of Beaver Falls, Pa., is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Thomas Ward, of Carolina avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Maple, of Indiana avenue, are entertaining their daughter, Mrs. Ella Mausser, of Barnesville.

M. A. Logan, of Chester, was called to Coraopolis this morning on account of the death of his brother, J. E. Logan which occured yesterday.

Rev. W. B. Gillis married Miss Minnie Smith, of Calcutta, and Mr. D. D. Pullins, of the East End, a few days ago at the parsonage. The wedding was not announced and was just heard of yesterday. The couple will reside in the East End.

HARD'S. THE BIG STORE.

THE WIFE ACCUSES HUSBAND OF BIGAMY

Sensational Charge Filed With the Police By a Well Known Woman.

Bent upon revenge, declaring that it alone would console her, a well known woman of the city, living on Fairview street appeared at central police station and denounced her husband, also well known locally, as a bigamist. At first she was so angry that it was hard for her to restrain herself, but after relating a part of her story her feminine nature prevailed and it was while hot tears were streaming down her cheeks that she finished.

She stated that her husband, to whom she had been married for quite awhile, had cruelly deserted her and their child during the month of November and had married a young girl of Beaver county, Pa. Though not positive, it was her impression, that the husband and his wife No. 2, are now living in this city and that he is working in a local pottery. Being almost in destitute circumstances she applied to the city officials for help in bringing her husband to justice. She wants him apprehended and punished. Her case is a most pitiable one. Her physical condition will not permit laborious work and she is solely dependent upon relatives for a living.

The police have taken the matter in hand. An investigation was made yesterday but it did not result in the finding of a clue as to his location, and it is thought probable that the poor woman may be mistaken in her opinion.

It was learned this morning that the woman was misinformed as to where her husband married his second wife. In telephonic communication with the clerk of Beaver county it was discovered that no man by his name had been issued a license during the year 1902.

Two Remarkable Epitaphs.

The two most remarkable epitaphs in the United States are those of Daniel Barrow, formerly of Sacramento, and of Hank Monk, Horace Greeley's stage driver. The former reads as follows: "Here is laid Daniel Barrow, who was born in Sorrow and Borrowed little from nature except his name and his love to mankind and his hatred for redskins. Who was nevertheless a gentleman and a dead shot, who through a long life never killed his man except in self defense or by accident, and who, when he at last went under beneath the bullets of his cowardly enemies in Jeff Morris' saloon, did so in the sure and certain hope of a glorious and everlasting morrow."

Hank Monk's epitaph reads thus: "Sacred to the memory of Hank Monk, the whitest, biggest hearted and best known stage driver in the west, who was kind to all and brought ill to none. He lived in a strange era and was a hero, and the wheels of his coach are now ringing on the golden streets."

Ancient Football.

Philip Stubbes wrote in 1583 in his book on "The Anatomie of Abuses:"

"For as concerning football I protest unto you it may rather be called a freendly kinde of fight than a play of recreation; a bloody and murthering practice than a felowly sporte of pastyme. For dooth not every one lye in waight for his Adverserie, seeking to overthrow him and to picke him on his nose, though it be on hard stones, so that by this meanes sometimes their necks are broken, sometimes their backs, sometimes their legs, sometimes their arms, sometimes one part thrust out of joynt, sometimes another; sometimes the noses gush out with blood, sometimes their eyes start out—fighting, brawling, contention, quarrel picking, murther, homicide and great effusion of blood, as experience dayly teacheth."

Chinese Justice.

The China Times relates an extraordinary case of Chinese "justice."

A Mr. Jen was betrothed to Miss Han and paid his money to the woman's parents. Then he called on the parents to have the contract fulfilled and was told that the promised one was the bride of another.

Having paid his money he considered he was entitled to the girl and went to her husband's house to carry her off, but she was not at home. He then laid his case before the magistrate.

The girl wife arrested and sentenced to be "kua-ed," the magistrate arguing, "If you are so wicked at twenty years of age, at the age of eighty you will be a menace to the Celestial empire."

The process of kua-ing is very similar to the ling-chih, or slicing to death punishment.

The Population of the Moon.

There is plenty of authority for believing that there is a man in the moon. In fact, there is authority for believing that there are women and other animals there. Dante declares that Cain was banished to the moon and that he can be seen there at any time. Chaucer declares that the man in the moon was guilty of larceny and that he carries a thorn bush. Shakespeare loads him with thorns and gives him a dog. According to the general version, he was banished there for gathering sticks on Sunday, and the Germans have amplified this theory by giving him a woman who had been caught churning butter on Sunday.

A Cheeky Customer.

"I had a unique but tantalizing experience the other day," said a clerk who works in a hair store. "A man came into our place and asked to look at some false beards. Of course he was accommodated, and he spent over an hour going over the lot, trying them on and examining himself in a glass. He took up my time, and after he had examined everything in that line in the store he thanked me and said he was considering whether to raise a beard or not and wished to see how he would look in the different styles."

There Was No Unnecessary Delay

There had been trouble between Mr. William Scott and Mr. Samuel Brown at Red Dog City, and Mr. William Scott started out one evening to locate the exact whereabouts of the other gentleman. When he had done so, he bustled into the saloon with the remark:

"Sorry to disturb anybody, but I'll get through with this matter as quick as possible."

He had scarcely entered when there was a pop! pop! pop! lasting for sixty seconds. Then the fusillade ceased, and the smoke lifted up to reveal two dead men lying on the floor.

"Boys," said the saloonist to the men who crowded in, "it was a fair fout and a genteel fout. They died like reglar gentlemen."

The crowd stared at the faces of the dead and nodded approval.

"And they shall be buried like gentlemen," continued the man. "Here, you Chinese heathen, take this dollar and go out and dig two holes and plant these gentlemen on their backs and give 'em elbow room to shake hands in the next world!" M. QUAD.

Each of the chief organs of the body is a link in the chain of life. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link, the body no stronger than its weakest organ. If there is weakness of heart or lungs, liver or kidneys, there is a weak link in the chain of life which may snap at any time. Often this so-called "weakness" is caused by lack of nutrition, the result of disease of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. Diseases of the stomach and its allied organs are cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. When the diseased stomach is cured, diseases of other organs which seem remote from the stomach but which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, are cured also.

"I was in poor health when I commenced taking Doctor Pierce's medicines," writes Mr. Elmer Lawler, of Volga, Jefferson Co., Ind. "I had stomach, kidney, heart, and lung troubles. Was not able to do any work. I had a severe cough and hemorrhage of the lungs, but after using your medicine a while I commenced to gain in strength and flesh and stopped coughing right away. Took about six bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I feel like a different person. I gladly recommend your medicine to all sufferers, for I know it cured me."

The use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets will cure that foul breath.

Governor Nash Says Stealing of Coal from Trains Must Be Stopped.

CHICAGO INDICTS FORTY-FIVE.

Sweeping Result of Investigation of Fuel Famine Made by Special Grand Jury—Shortage at Lancaster, Pa., Will Raise Street Car Fares.

Columbus, O., Jan. 20.—Governor Nash yesterday morning issued a proclamation calling upon the sheriffs, peace officers and citizens of Green county to enforce the laws of the state and maintain order in Xenia. The proclamation was the result of official information which came to the governor concerning the coal riots at that place. "It amounts to common rioting," said the governor. "If the people of Green county cannot maintain order and protect property rights, the power of the state will be invoked without delay in enforcing the law and restoring order."

Chicago, Jan. 20.—A true bill was returned yesterday morning against 45 coal operators and retailers charging conspiracy to do illegal acts injurious to public trade. The indictments are against both corporations and individuals doing business in Illinois and Indiana. Bail was fixed at $1,500.

Following is a list of the corporations and individuals against whom indictments were returned:

The Forty-Five.

Chicago, Wilmington and Vermilion Coal company, Big Four Coal company, Gardner Wilmington Coal company, Wilmington Star Mining company, Bell & Zoller Coal company, Murphy Keenan Coal company, Carbon Coal company, Tilmington Coal Mining company, Cardiff Coal company, Star Coal company, Streeter, Ill.; Braceville Coal company, Acme Coal company, Illinois Third Vein Coal company, Tenona Coal company, Devlin Coal company, Spring Valley Coal company, Marquette Third Vein Coal company, Oglesby Coal company, W. M. Sanford, C. S. Lusk, Frank E. Lukens, Gus Ancutt, E. H. Keeler, Frank McGrew, F. M. Durkee, C. L. Marston, R. C. Brown, Hugh Shirkie, J. J. Higgins, J. Smith Talley, Joseph Martin, Edward Shirkie, H. R. McClellan, John Shirkie, Walter S. Bogle, Bruilletts Creek Coal company, Oak Hill Coal and Mining company, Parke County Coal company, Nevins Coal company, Indiana Fuel company, McClelland Sons & Co., Crescent Coal and Mining company, Glenn Oak Coal and Mining company, Oak Bluff Mining company.

Certain combinations which it deems to be conspirators or combinations in restraint of trade within the meaning of the statutes are as follows:

Two Associations Exonerated.

The Northern Illinois Soft Coal association, the retail dealers' association of Illinois and Wisconsin, is a certain combination of Indiana coal operators with the Crescent Coal and Mining company. While not differing in character and scope from similar combinations in other lines of business, the jurors decided it their duty to present the foregoing indictments.

Other associations of operators and coal dealers were found to exist and to have more or less effect in the fixing of prices and restricting competition, but against whom the evidence did not warrant action. They are the Chicago Coal Exchange and the Chicago Track Dealers' association.

Coal Teamsters' Strike.

Cleveland, Jan. 20.—With the temperature a few degrees above zero and hundreds of families throughout the city in urgent need of fuel, a strike was declared yesterday by the teamsters' union No. 267, which is almost exclusively composed of drivers of coal delivery wagons. Practically every yard in the city is affected. The drivers demand advances averaging about $4 per week for each man.

London, Jan. 20.—Four steamers loaded with coal sailed from Blyth yesterday for America. The coal trade of Northumberland has been much stimulated by the American demand.

Stopping Discounts.

Lancaster, Pa., Jan. 20.—As a result of the high price of coal the Edison Electric Illuminating company yesterday discontinued the 20 per cent discount allowed for the prompt payment of bills, and the Lancaster Gas, Light and Fuel company cut its discount from 25 to 12½ per cent. The management of the traction lines in this city and county also announced yesterday that if the rates of coal are further increased they would be forced to raise the fares.

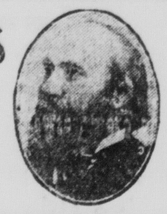
COMPEL THE BAD TRUSTS TO MAKE A SHOWDOWN



By JAMES J. HILL, President of the Great Northern Railroad

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT is all right, and his remedy for what are called trusts is all right, assuming that you want to encourage what is good and prevent what is bad. THERE ARE DIFFERENT KINDS OF TRUSTS. SOME OF THEM ARE FORMED FOR GOOD PURPOSES AND SERVE THE PUBLIC WELFARE, AND THE PRESIDENT AND MEMBERS OF CONGRESS AND OTHER INTELLIGENT PEOPLE OUGHT TO BE ABLE TO DISCRIMINATE BETWEEN HONEST AND DISHONEST CORPORATIONS. Take Herr Krupp, the great German ironmaster, who died the other day, as an example. He was a very rich and powerful and benevolent monopolist and made Germany richer and more prosperous and his 45,000 employees happy. There are other good monopolies.

THE LARGE NUMBER OF CONSOLIDATED CORPORATIONS ARE HONEST AND WELL MANAGED AND ARE FOR THE PUBLIC WELFARE.

Others, however, were organized for speculative purposes and capitalized at enormous figures to sell stock to people who don't know any better than to buy it, and such schemes ought to be crushed out. The remedy is simple. Compel them to make a showdown before they are allowed to put stock on the market. MAKE THEM SHOW WHAT THEY HAVE GOT AND WHAT IT IS WORTH. If a company in Rhode Island wants to sell stock in California, it ought to be required to give people out there an honest statement of its business, as national banks and insurance companies are compelled to do.

EDITOR N. G. GONZALES DEAD.

Colonel Tillman, When Informed of His Victim's Death, Is Said to Have Betrayed No Emotion.

Columbia, S. C., Jan. 20.—Editor N. G. Gonzales, who was shot by Lieutenant Governor Tillman last Thursday, died at 1 p. m. yesterday. Mrs. Gonzales was with her husband when death came.

Late yesterday afternoon an autopsy on the body was held by Dr. A. B. Knowlton, county physician of Richland, assisted by the attending physicians. Every vital organ was examined and found to be typically normal. It is understood that the finding of the autopsy will be that death was due to profound sceptic injection from the gangrenous condition of the tissue consequent upon bullet wounds. A coroner's jury, composed mainly of well known business men, viewed the body late yesterday afternoon, and then the inquest was adjourned until Thursday night. The body was taken to the residence of Mr. Gonzales.

Attorney Coleman L. Blease, who is said to be one of Colonel Tillman's lawyers, was present when the jury was at the hospital, but took no active part in the proceedings.

Soon after the death of Mr. Gonzales a telephone message carried the news to the county jailer and he apprised Colonel Tillman. It is stated that the latter received the intelligence without any expression or betokening any emotion one way or the other. He was asked last night if he would make a statement and replied, through his brother-in-law, ex-Judge Buchanan, that he had nothing to say.

The funeral will take place from Trinity Episcopal church at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Rt. Rev. Ellison Capers, bishop of the diocese of South Carolina, will conduct the rites. The active pallbearers will be 10 members of The States force.

Throughout yesterday and last night hundreds of telegrams of sympathy have poured in, not only from communities, newspapers and citizens from all over South Carolina, but from many American cities, north and south. Among them were expressions from Hugh S. Thompson, of New York, ex-governor of South Carolina, and the Cuban minister at Washington.

Last night the whole city of Columbia was in deep sorrow. There was no apparent anger or excitement, but an unnatural quiet, as though a great calamity had occurred.

SHOT HIMSELF THROUGH HEART

A. W. Barrett, at One Time Secretary of Legation at Caracas, Suicides at Washington.

Washington, Jan. 20.—A man apparently about 40 years of age, who had been living at the Ebbitt house here for a week and registered as L. Bruce, Ottawa, committed suicide in his room yesterday by shooting himself through the heart. His correct name is believed to be A. W. Barrett, as that name was signed to a letter which evidently had been written while he was contemplating the act, and the initials A. W. B. are on an umbrella which had been purchased in London in 1901. In the letter the man laid his misfortunes primarily to liquor and to his infatuation for a married woman, older than himself, on whom he said he spent all his money. His wife, it appears, had left him last August, and since then he said he had gone to the dogs rapidly. Reference is made in the letter to a Mr. May, presumably the suicide's father-in-law, who has a factory in Toronto.

Later information which the police have received is that Barrett is the brother of former Congressman W. E. Barrett, of Massachusetts. A telegram received from the latter said that Mr. Horace H. Atherton, the secretary to Representative W. E. Roberts, would care for the body of his brother. Mr. Atherton immediately recognized the body as that of Barrett when he saw it at the morgue.

The suicide at one time was secretary of legation at Caracas, Venezuela, when Mr. Scruggs filled the position of minister.

THE NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

Listless and Indeterminate Movement of Last Week Again in Evidence. Bonds Irregular.

New York, Jan. 20.—The scanty orders to buy stock which were found in brokers' offices yesterday morning confirmed the impression of the indifference of the public to the present stock market. While yesterday's opening dealings failed to show any buying demand from outside sources there was no eagerness to sell stocks. The consequence was the same listless and indeterminate movement that was increasingly manifest last week.

The Saturday bank statement, while favorable on its evidence, gave evidence of the requirements upon the money market resulting from the Reading deal, and was accepted as a warning that the resources of the money market, as they become replenished, are likely to be drawn upon by a syndicate for the pushing of projects held in abeyance. This project of syndicate requirements for money was enforced in its influence by a somewhat firmer tone in the money market and an advance in sterling exchange towards the gold export point.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $2,830,000.

United States 2s, registered, advanced ½, the 3s, regular, ¼, and the old 4s, regular, ⅜ per cent on call.

Three Injured in Wreck.

Toledo, Jan. 20.—Passenger train No. 3, on the Wheeling and Lake Erie railroad, due here at 9:20 o'clock last night, was partially wrecked in the yards at 9:10, and the engineer, fireman and baggageman were injured. None of the passengers were hurt. A yard engine, in hurrying on a side track out of the way of the passenger, collided with some box cars on the siding and two of them were thrown onto the main track directly in front of the approaching passenger train. The locomotive of the latter was derailed and badly wrecked and some damage done to the baggage car. Fireman H. A. Flint, of this city, jumped and was seriously hurt about the back and his head was cut. Baggageman H. J. Lowry, of Wheeling, sustained a broken shoulder, while Engineer Robert Cooper, of this city, escaped with some bruises to his head.

Contained Poison.

Reading, Pa., Jan. 20.—Ralph Roland Logan, aged 17, and A. Cameron Lance, aged 18, were rendered very ill late Sunday evening, after eating a sandwich and a cup of coffee obtained in a restaurant, from the effect of which the former died yesterday. Lance will recover, though he is still very weak. From all indications the sandwich and coffee contained poisonous matter of some kind. Coroner Moyer will hold an inquest.

Platt Renominated.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 20.—The joint Republican caucus last night nominated Thomas C. Platt to succeed himself as United States senator by a vote of 109 to 1 for Elihu Root, the latter cast by Assemblyman William A. Denison, of Jefferson. Senators Brackett, Brown and Elsberg, and Assemblyman Clark, of the Twenty-ninth New York district, were absent.

Mrs. Hughson, of Chicago, whose letter follows, is another woman in high position who owes her health to the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I suffered for several years with general weakness and bearing-down pains, caused by womb trouble. My appetite was fitful, and I would lie awake for hours, and could not sleep, until I seemed more weary in the morning than when I retired. After reading one of your advertisements I decided to try the merits of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am so glad I did. No one can describe the good it did me. I took three bottles faithfully, and besides building up my general health, it drove all disease and poison out of my body, and made me feel as spry and active as a young girl. Mrs. Pinkham's medicines are certainly all they are claimed to be."—MRS. M. E. HUGHSON, 347 East Ohio St., Chicago, Ill.

Mrs. Pinkham Tells How Ordinary Tasks Produce Displacements.

Apparently trifling incidents in woman's daily life frequently produce displacements of the womb. A slip on the stairs, lifting during menstruation, standing at a counter, running a sewing machine, or attending to the most ordinary tasks may result in displacement, and a train of serious evils is started.

The first indication of such trouble should be the signal for quick action. Don't let the condition become chronic through neglect or a mistaken idea that you can overcome it by exercise or leaving it alone.

More than a million women have regained health by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If the slightest trouble appears which you do not understand write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., for her advice, and a few timely words from her will show you the right thing to do. This advice costs you nothing, but it may mean life or happiness or both.

Mrs. Lelah Stowell, 177 Wellington St., Kingston, Ont., writes:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—You are indeed a godsend to women, and if they all knew what you could do for them, there would be no need of their dragging out miserable lives in agony.

"I suffered for years with bearing-down pains, womb trouble, nervousness, and excruciating headache, but a few bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made life look new and promising to me. I am light and happy, and I do not know what sickness is, and I now enjoy the best of health."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound can always be relied upon to restore health to women who thus suffer. It is a sovereign cure for the worst forms of female complaints,—that bearing-down feeling, weak back, falling and displacement of the womb, inflammation of the ovaries, and all troubles of the uterus or womb. It dissolves and expels tumors from the uterus in the early stage of development, and checks any tendency to cancerous humors. It subdues excitability, nervous prostration, and tones up the entire female system. Its record of cures is the greatest in the world, and should be relied upon with confidence.

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Strike Commission.

Philadelphia, Jan. 20.—The examination of Colonel P. A. Phillips, of Scranton, general superintendent of the mining department of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad company, took up the greater part of yesterday's session of the coal strike commission. Superintendent Phillips told of conditions in and about the collieries owned by the Lackawanna company. Like some of the other superintendents who have testified, he believed the men had a right to organize if they wanted to, but no person who is not employed by the company had a right to come into and tell the men or the company what they should do. Much of the witness' testimony was along the same line as that already given by other superintendents.

STOMACH LIVER LUNGS HEART

Each of the chief organs of the body is a link in the chain of life. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link, the body no stronger than its weakest organ. If there is weakness of heart or lungs, liver or kidneys, there is a weak link in the chain of life which may snap at any time. Often this so-called "weakness" is caused by lack of nutrition, the result of disease of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. Diseases of the stomach and its allied organs are cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. When the diseased stomach is cured, diseases of other organs which seem remote from the stomach but which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, are cured also.

"I was in poor health when I commenced taking Doctor Pierce's medicines," writes Mr. Elmer Lawler, of Volga, Jefferson Co., Ind. "I had stomach, kidney, heart, and lung troubles. Was not able to do any work. I had a severe cough and hemorrhage of the lungs, but after using your medicine a while I commenced to gain in strength and flesh, and stopped coughing right away. Took about six bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I feel like a different person. I gladly recommend your medicine to all sufferers, for I know it cured me."

The use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets will cure that foul breath.

Sweeping Result of Investigation of Fuel Famine Made by Special Grand Jury—Shortage at Lancaster, Pa., Will Raise Street Car Fares.

Columbus, O., Jan. 20.—Governor Nash yesterday morning issued a proclamation calling upon the sheriffs, peace officers and citizens of Green county to enforce the laws of the state and maintain order in Xenia. The proclamation was the result of official information which came to the governor concerning the coal riots at that place. "It amounts to common rioting," said the governor. "If the people of Green county cannot maintain order and protect property rights, the power of the state will be invoked without delay in enforcing the law and restoring order."

Chicago, Jan. 20.—A true bill was returned yesterday morning against 45 coal operators and retailers charging conspiracy to do illegal acts injurious to public trade. The indictments are against both corporations and individuals doing business in Illinois and Indiana. Bail was fixed at $1,500.

Following is a list of the corporations and individuals against whom indictments were returned:

The Forty-Five.

Chicago, Wilmington and Vermillion Coal company, Big Four Coal company, Gardner Wilmington Coal company, Wilmington Star Mining company, Bell & Zoller Coal company, Murphy Keenan Coal company, Carbon Coal company, Tilmington Coal Mining company, Cardiff Coal company, Star Coal company, Streeter, Ill.; Braceville Coal company, Acme Coal company, Illinois Third Vein Coal company, Tenona Coal company, Devlin Coal company, Spring Valley Coal company, Marquette Third Vein Coal company, Oglesby Coal company, W. M. Sanford, C. S. Lusk, Frank E. Lukens, Gus Ancutt, E. H. Keeler, Frank McGrew, F. M. Durkee, C. L. Marston, R. C. Brown, Hugh Shirkie, J. J. Higgins, J. Smith Talley, Joseph Martin, Edward Shirkie, H. R. McClellan, John Shirkie, Walter S. Bogle, Bruilletts Creek Coal company, Oak Hill Coal and Mining company, Parke County Coal company, Nevins Coal company, Indiana Fuel company, McClelland Sons & Co., Crescent Coal and Mining company, Glenn Oak Coal and Mining company, Oak Bluff Mining company.

Certain combinations which it deems to be conspirators or combinations in restraint of trade within the meaning of the statutes are as follows:

Two Associations Exonerated.

The Northern Illinois Soft Coal association, the retail dealers' association of Illinois and Wisconsin, is a certain combination of Indiana coal operators with the Crescent Coal and Mining company. While not differing in character and scope from similar combinations in other lines of business, the jurors decided it their duty to present the foregoing indictments.

Other associations of operators and coal dealers were found to exist and to have more or less effect in the fixing of prices and restricting competition, but against whom the evidence did not warrant action. They are the Chicago Coal Exchange and the Chicago Track Dealers' association.

Coal Teamsters' Strike.

Cleveland, Jan. 20.—With the temperature a few degrees above zero and hundreds of families throughout the city in urgent need of fuel, a strike was declared yesterday by the teamsters' union No. 267, which is almost exclusively composed of drivers of coal delivery wagons. Practically every yard in the city is affected. The drivers demand advances averaging about $4 per week for each man.

London, Jan. 20.—Four steamers loaded with coal sailed from Blyth yesterday for America. The coal trade of Northumberland has been much stimulated by the American demand.

Stopping Discounts.

Lancaster, Pa., Jan. 20.—As a result of the high price of coal the Edison Electric Illuminating company yesterday discontinued the 20 per cent discount allowed for the prompt payment of bills, and the Lancaster Gas, Light and Fuel company cut its discount from 25 to 12½ per cent. The management of the traction lines in this city and county also announced yesterday that if the rates of coal are further increased they would be forced to raise the fares.

Piles In order to prove to you that Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment is a certain and absolute cure for any form of itching, bleeding, or protruding piles, the manufacturers guarantee a cure. You can use it and if not cured get your money back. Mr. Casper Walton, laborer, Michigan City, Ind., says: "I work hard and lift a great deal. The strain brought on an attack of piles. They itched and they protruded and bled. Nothing helped them until I used Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment. That cured them." 50c. a box at all dealers, or DR. A. W. CHASE MEDICINE CO., Buffalo, N.Y.

By JAMES J. HILL, President of the Great Northern Railroad

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT is all right, and his remedy for what are called trusts is all right, assuming that you want to encourage what is good and prevent what is bad. THERE ARE DIFFERENT KINDS OF TRUSTS. SOME OF THEM ARE FORMED FOR GOOD PURPOSES AND SERVE THE PUBLIC WELFARE, AND THE PRESIDENT AND MEMBERS OF CONGRESS AND OTHER INTELLIGENT PEOPLE OUGHT TO BE ABLE TO DISCRIMINATE BETWEEN HONEST AND DISHONEST CORPORATIONS. Take Herr Krupp, the great German ironmaster, who died the other day, as an example. He was a very rich and powerful and benevolent monopolist and made Germany richer and more prosperous and his 45,000 employees happy. There are other good monopolies.

THE LARGE NUMBER OF CONSOLIDATED CORPORATIONS ARE HONEST AND WELL MANAGED AND ARE FOR THE PUBLIC WELFARE.

Others, however, were organized for speculative purposes and capitalized at enormous figures to sell stock to people who don't know any better than to buy it, and such schemes ought to be crushed out. The remedy is simple. Compel them to make a showdown before they are allowed to put stock on the market. MAKE THEM SHOW WHAT THEY HAVE GOT AND WHAT IT IS WORTH. If a company in Rhode Island wants to sell stock in California, it ought to be required to give people out there an honest statement of its business, as national banks and insurance companies are compelled to do.

EDITOR N. G. GONZALES DEAD.

Colonel Tillman, When Informed of His Victim's Death, Is Said to Have Betrayed No Emotion.

Columbia, S. C., Jan. 20.—Editor N. G. Gonzales, who was shot by Lieutenant Governor Tillman last Thursday, died at 1 p. m. yesterday. Mrs. Gonzales was with her husband when death came.

Late yesterday afternoon an autopsy on the body was held by Dr. A. B. Knowlton, county physician of Richland, assisted by the attending physicians. Every vital organ was examined and found to be typically normal. It is understood that the finding of the autopsy will be that death was due to profound sceptic injection from the gangrenous condition of the tissue consequent upon bullet wounds. A coroner's jury, composed mainly of well-known business men, viewed the body late yesterday afternoon, and then the inquest was adjourned until Thursday night. The body was taken to the residence of Mr. Gonzales.

Attorney Coleman L. Blease, who is said to be one of Colonel Tillman's lawyers, was present when the jury was at the hospital, but took no active part in the proceedings.

Soon after the death of Mr. Gonzales a telephone message carried the news to the county jailer and he apprised Colonel Tillman. It is stated that the latter received the intelligence without any expression or betokening any emotion one way or the other. He was asked last night if he would make a statement and replied, through his brother-in-law, ex-Judge Buchanan, that he had nothing to say.

The funeral will take place from Trinity Episcopal church at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Rt. Rev. Ellison Capers, bishop of the diocese of South Carolina, will conduct the rites. The active pallbearers will be 10 members of The States force.

Throughout yesterday and last night hundreds of telegrams of sympathy have poured in, not only from communities, newspapers and citizens from all over South Carolina, but from many American cities, north and south. Among them were expressions from Hugh S. Thompson, of New York, ex-governor of South Carolina, and the Cuban minister at Washington.

Last night the whole city of Columbia was in deep sorrow. There was no apparent anger or excitement, but an unnatural quiet, as though a great calamity had occurred.

SHOT HIMSELF THROUGH HEART

A. W. Barrett, at One Time Secretary of Legation at Caracas, Suicides at Washington.

Washington, Jan. 20.—A man apparently about 40 years of age, who had been living at the Ebbitt house here for a week and registered as L. Bruce, Ottawa, committed suicide in his room yesterday by shooting himself through the heart. His correct name is believed to be A. W. Barrett, as that name was signed to a letter which evidently had been written while he was contemplating the act, and the initials A. W. B. are on an umbrella which had been purchased in London in 1901. In the letter the man laid his misfortunes primarily to liquor and to his infatuation for a married woman, older than himself, on whom he said he spent all his money. His wife, it appears, had left him last August, and since then he said he had gone to the dogs rapidly. Reference is made in the letter to a Mr. May, presumably the suicide's father-in-law, who has a factory in Toronto.

Later information which the police have received is that Barrett is the brother of former Congressman W. E. Barrett, of Massachusetts. A telegram received from the latter said that Mr. Horace H. Atherton, the secretary to Representative W. E. Roberts, would care for the body of his brother. Mr. Atherton immediately recognized the body as that of Barrett when he saw it at the morgue.

The suicide at one time was secretary of legation at Caracas, Venezuela, when Mr. Scroggs filled the position of minister.

THE NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

Listless and Indeterminate Movement of Last Week Again in Evidence. Bonds Irregular.

New York, Jan. 20.—The scanty orders to buy stock which were found in brokers' offices yesterday morning confirmed the impression of the indifference of the public to the present stock market. While yesterday's opening dealings failed to show any buying demand from outside sources there was no eagerness to sell stocks. The consequence was the same listless and indeterminate movement that was increasingly manifest last week.

The Saturday bank statement, while favorable on its evidence, gave evidence of the requirements upon the money market resulting from the Reading deal, and was accepted as a warning that the resources of the money market, as they become replenished, are likely to be drawn upon by a syndicate for the pushing of projects held in abeyance. This project of syndicate requirements for money was enforced in its influence by a somewhat firmer tone in the money market and an advance in sterling exchange towards the gold export point.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $2,830,000.

United States 2s, registered, advanced ½, the 3s, regular, ¼, and the old 4s, regular, ⅜ per cent on call.

Three Injured in Wreck.

Toledo, Jan. 20.—Passenger train No. 3, on the Wheeling and Lake Erie railroad, due here at 9:20 o'clock last night, was partially wrecked in the yards at 9:10, and the engineer, fireman and baggageman were injured. None of the passengers were hurt. A yard engine, in hurrying on a side track out of the way of the passenger, collided with some box cars on the siding and two of them were thrown onto the main track directly in front of the approaching passenger train. The locomotive of the latter was derailed and badly wrecked and some damage done to the baggage car. Fireman H. A. Flint, of this city, jumped and was seriously hurt about the back and his head was cut. Baggageman H. J. Lowry, of Wheeling, sustained a broken shoulder, while Engineer Robert Cooper, of this city, escaped with some bruises to his head.

Contained Poison.

Reading, Pa., Jan. 20.—Ralph Roland Logan, aged 17, and A. Cameron Lance, aged 18, were rendered very ill late Sunday evening, after eating a sandwich and a cup of coffee obtained in a restaurant, from the effect of which the former died yesterday. Lance will recover, though he is still very weak. From all indications the sandwich and coffee contained poisonous matter of some kind. Coroner Moyer will hold an inquest.

Platt Renominated.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 20.—The joint Republican caucus last night nominated Thomas C. Platt to succeed himself as United States senator by a vote of 109 to 1 for Elihu Root, the latter cast by Assemblyman William A. Denison, of Jefferson. Senators Brackett, Brown and Elsberg, and Assemblyman Clark, of the Twenty-ninth New York district, were absent.

Mrs. Hughson, of Chicago, whose letter follows, is another woman in high position who owes her health to the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I suffered for several years with general weakness and bearing-down pains, caused by womb trouble. My appetite was fitful, and I would lie awake for hours, and could not sleep, until I seemed more weary in the morning than when I retired. After reading one of your advertisements I decided to try the merits of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am so glad I did. No one can describe the good it did me. I took three bottles faithfully, and besides building up my general health, it drove all disease and poison out of my body, and made me feel as spry and active as a young girl. Mrs. Pinkham's medicines are certainly all they are claimed to be."—MRS. M. E. HUGHSON, 347 East Ohio St., Chicago, Ill.

Mrs. Pinkham Tells How Ordinary Tasks Produce Displacements.

Apparently trifling incidents in woman's daily life frequently produce displacements of the womb. A slip on the stairs, lifting during menstruation, standing at a counter, running a sewing machine, or attending to the most ordinary tasks may result in displacement, and a train of serious evils is started.

The first indication of such trouble should be the signal for quick action. Don't let the condition become chronic through neglect or a mistaken idea that you can overcome it by exercise or leaving it alone.

More than a million women have regained health by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If the slightest trouble appears which you do not understand write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., for her advice, and a few timely words from her will show you the right thing to do. This advice costs you nothing, but it may mean life or happiness or both.

Mrs. Lelah Stowell, 177 Wellington St., Kingston, Ont., writes:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—You are indeed a godsend to women, and if they all knew what you could do for them, there would be no need of their dragging out miserable lives in agony.

"I suffered for years with bearing-down pains, womb trouble, nervousness, and excruciating headache, but a few bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made life look new and promising to me. I am light and happy, and I do not know what sickness is, and I now enjoy the best of health."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound can always be relied upon to restore health to women who thus suffer. It is a sovereign cure for the worst forms of female complaints,—that bearing-down feeling, weak back, falling and displacement of the womb, inflammation of the ovaries, and all troubles of the uterus or womb. It dissolves and expels tumors from the uterus in the early stage of development, and checks any tendency to cancerous humors. It subdues excitability, nervous prostration, and tones up the entire female system. Its record of cures is the greatest in the world, and should be relied upon with confidence.

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness.

Strike Commission.

Philadelphia, Jan. 20.—The examination of Colonel P. A. Phillips, of Scranton, general superintendent of the mining department of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad company, took up the greater part of yesterday's session of the coal strike commission. Superintendent Phillips told of conditions in and about the collieries owned by the Lackawanna company. Like some of the other superintendents who have testified, he believed the men had a right to organize if they wanted to, but no person who is not employed by the company had a right to come into and tell the men or the company what they should do. Much of the witness' testimony was along the same line as that already given by other superintendents.

Each of the chief organs of the body is a link in the chain of life. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link, the body no stronger than its weakest organ. If there is weakness of heart or lungs, liver or kidneys, there is a weak link in the chain of life which may snap at any time. Often this so-called "weakness" is caused by lack of nutrition, the result of disease of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. Diseases of the stomach and its allied organs are cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. When the diseased stomach is cured, diseases of other organs which seem remote from the stomach but which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, are cured also.

"I was in poor health when I commenced taking Doctor Pierce's medicines," writes Mr. Elmer Lawler, of Volga, Jefferson Co., Ind. "I had stomach, kidney, heart, and lung troubles. Was not able to do any work. I had a severe cough and hemorrhage of the lungs, but after using your medicine a while I commenced to gain in strength and flesh, and stopped coughing right away. Took about six bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I feel like a different person. I gladly recommend your medicine to all sufferers, for I know it cured me."

The use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets will cure that foul breath.

Sweeping Result of Investigation of Fuel Famine Made by Special Grand Jury—Shortage at Lancaster, Pa., Will Raise Street Car Fares.

Columbus, O., Jan. 20.—Governor Nash yesterday morning issued a proclamation calling upon the sheriffs, peace officers and citizens of Green county to enforce the laws of the state and maintain order in Xenia. The proclamation was the result of official information which came to the governor concerning the coal riots at that place. "It amounts to common rioting," said the governor. "If the people of Green county cannot maintain order and protect property rights, the power of the state will be invoked without delay in enforcing the law and restoring order."

Chicago, Jan. 20.—A true bill was returned yesterday morning against 45 coal operators and retailers charging conspiracy to do illegal acts injurious to public trade. The indictments are against both corporations and individuals doing business in Illinois and Indiana. Bail was fixed at $1,500.

Following is a list of the corporations and individuals against whom indictments were returned:

The Forty-Five.

Chicago, Wilmington and Vermillion Coal company, Big Four Coal company, Gardner Wilmington Coal company, Wilmington Star Mining company, Bell & Zoller Coal company, Murphy Keenan Coal company, Carbon Coal company, Tilmington Coal Mining company, Cardiff Coal company, Star Coal company, Streeter, Ill.; Braceville Coal company, Acme Coal company, Illinois Third Vein Coal company, Tenona Coal company, Devlin Coal company, Spring Valley Coal company, Marquette Third Vein Coal company, Oglesby Coal company, W. M. Sanford, C. S. Lusk, Frank E. Lukens, Gus Ancutt, E. H. Keeler, Frank McGrew, F. M. Durkee, C. L. Marston, R. C. Brown, Hugh Shirkie, J. J. Higgins, J. Smith Talley, Joseph Martin, Edward Shirkie, H. R. McClellan, John Shirkie, Walter S. Bogle, Bruilletts Creek Coal company, Oak Hill Coal and Mining company, Parke County Coal company, Nevins Coal company, Indiana Fuel company, McClelland Sons & Co., Crescent Coal and Mining company, Glenn Oak Coal and Mining company, Oak Bluff Mining company.

Certain combinations which it deems to be conspirators or combinations in restraint of trade within the meaning of the statutes are as follows:

Two Associations Exonerated.

The Northern Illinois Soft Coal association, the retail dealers' association of Illinois and Wisconsin, is a certain combination of Indiana coal operators with the Crescent Coal and Mining company. While not differing in character and scope from similar combinations in other lines of business, the jurors decided it their duty to present the foregoing indictments.

Other associations of operators and coal dealers were found to exist and to have more or less effect in the fixing of prices and restricting competition, but against whom the evidence did not warrant action. They are the Chicago Coal Exchange and the Chicago Track Dealers' association.

Coal Teamsters' Strike.

Cleveland, Jan. 20.—With the temperature a few degrees above zero and hundreds of families throughout the city in urgent need of fuel, a strike was declared yesterday by the teamsters' union No. 267, which is almost exclusively composed of drivers of coal delivery wagons. Practically every yard in the city is affected. The drivers demand advances averaging about $4 per week for each man.

London, Jan. 20.—Four steamers loaded with coal sailed from Blyth yesterday for America. The coal trade of Northumberland has been much stimulated by the American demand.

Stopping Discounts.

Lancaster, Pa., Jan. 20.—As a result of the high price of coal the Edison Electric Illuminating company yesterday discontinued the 20 per cent discount allowed for the prompt payment of bills, and the Lancaster Gas, Light and Fuel company cut its discount from 25 to 12½ per cent. The management of the traction lines in this city and county also announced yesterday that if the rates of coal are further increased they would be forced to raise the fares.

Piles

You can use it and if not cured get your money back. Mr. Casper Walton, laborer, Michigan City, Ind., says: "I work hard and lift a great deal. The strain brought on an attack of piles. They itched and they protruded and bled. Nothing helped them until I used Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment. That cured them." 50c. a box at all dealers, or DR. A. W. CHASE MEDICINE CO., Buffalo, N. Y.

By JAMES J. HILL, President of the Great Northern Railroad

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT is all right, and his remedy for what are called trusts is all right, assuming that you want to encourage what is good and prevent what is bad. THERE ARE DIFFERENT KINDS OF TRUSTS. SOME OF THEM ARE FORMED FOR GOOD PURPOSES AND SERVE THE PUBLIC WELFARE, AND THE PRESIDENT AND MEMBERS OF CONGRESS AND OTHER INTELLIGENT PEOPLE OUGHT TO BE ABLE TO DISCRIMINATE BETWEEN HONEST AND DISHONEST CORPORATIONS. Take Herr Krupp, the great German ironmaster, who died the other day, as an example. He was a very rich and powerful and benevolent monopolist and made Germany richer and more prosperous and his 45,000 employees happy. There are other good monopolies.

THE LARGE NUMBER OF CONSOLIDATED CORPORATIONS ARE HONEST AND WELL MANAGED AND ARE FOR THE PUBLIC WELFARE.

Others, however, were organized for speculative purposes and capitalized at enormous figures to sell stock to people who don't know any better than to buy it, and such schemes ought to be crushed out. The remedy is simple. Compel them to make a showdown before they are allowed to put stock on the market. MAKE THEM SHOW WHAT THEY HAVE GOT AND WHAT IT IS WORTH. If a company in Rhode Island wants to sell stock in California, it ought to be required to give people out there an honest statement of its business, as national banks and insurance companies are compelled to do.

EDITOR N. C. GONZALES DEAD.

Colonel Tillman, When Informed of His Victim's Death, Is Said to Have Betrayed No Emotion.

Columbia, S. C., Jan. 20.—Editor N. G. Gonzales, who was shot by Lieutenant Governor Tillman last Thursday, died at 1 p. m. yesterday. Mrs. Gonzales was with her husband when death came.

Late yesterday afternoon an autopsy on the body was held by Dr. A. B. Knowlton, county physician of Richland, assisted by the attending physicians. Every vital organ was examined and found to be typically normal. It is understood that the finding of the autopsy will be that death was due to profound sceptic injection from the gangrenous condition of the tissue consequent upon bullet wounds. A coroner's jury, composed mainly of well known business men, viewed the body late yesterday afternoon, and then the inquest was adjourned until Thursday night. The body was taken to the residence of Mr. Gonzales.

Attorney Coleman L. Blease, who is said to be one of Colonel Tillman's lawyers, was present when the jury was at the hospital, but took no active part in the proceedings.

Soon after the death of Mr. Gonzales a telephone message carried the news to the county jailer and he apprised Colonel Tillman. It is stated that the latter received the intelligence without any expression or betokening any emotion one way or the other. He was asked last night if he would make a statement and replied, through his brother-in-law, ex-Judge Buchanan, that he had nothing to say.

The funeral will take place from Trinity Episcopal church at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Rt. Rev. Ellison Capers, bishop of the diocese of South Carolina, will conduct the rites. The active pallbearers will be 10 members of The States force.

Throughout yesterday and last night hundreds of telegrams of sympathy have poured in, not only from communities, newspapers and citizens from all over South Carolina, but from many American cities, north and south. Among them were expressions from Hugh S. Thompson, of New York, ex-governor of South Carolina, and the Cuban minister at Washington.

Last night the whole city of Columbia was in deep sorrow. There was no apparent anger or excitement, but an unnatural quiet, as though a great calamity had occurred.

SHOT HIMSELF THROUGH HEART

A. W. Barrett, at One Time Secretary of Legation at Caracas, Suicides at Washington.

Washington, Jan. 20.—A man apparently about 40 years of age, who had been living at the Ebbitt house here for a week and registered as L. Bruce, Ottawa, committed suicide in his room yesterday by shooting himself through the heart. His correct name is believed to be A. W. Barrett, as that name was signed to a letter which evidently had been written while he was contemplating the act, and the initials A. W. B. are on an umbrella which had been purchased in London in 1901. In the letter the man laid his misfortunes primarily to liquor and to his infatuation for a married woman, older than himself, on whom he said he spent all his money. His wife, it appears, had left him last August, and since then he said he had gone to the dogs rapidly. Reference is made in the letter to a Mr. May, presumably the suicide's father-in-law, who has a factory in Toronto.

Later information which the police have received is that Barrett is the brother of former Congressman W. E. Barrett, of Massachusetts. A telegram received from the latter said that Mr. Horace H. Atherton, the secretary to Representative W. E. Roberts, would care for the body of his brother. Mr. Atherton immediately recognized the body as that of Barrett when he saw it at the morgue.

The suicide at one time was secretary of legation at Caracas, Venezuela, when Mr. Scroggs filled the position of minister.

THE NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

Listless and Indeterminate Movement of Last Week Again in Evidence. Bonds Irregular.

New York, Jan. 20.—The scanty orders to buy stock which were found in brokers' offices yesterday morning confirmed the impression of the indifference of the public to the present stock market. While yesterday's opening dealings failed to show any buying demand from outside sources there was no eagerness to sell stocks. The consequence was the same listless and indeterminate movement that was increasingly manifest last week.

The Saturday bank statement, while favorable on its evidence, gave evidence of the requirements upon the money market resulting from the Reading deal, and was accepted as a warning that the resources of the money market, as they become replenished, are likely to be drawn upon by a syndicate for the pushing of projects held in abeyance. This project of syndicate requirements for money was enforced in its influence by a somewhat firmer tone in the money market and an advance in sterling exchange towards the gold export point.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $2,830,000.

United States 2s, registered, advanced ⅛, the 3s, regular, ¼, and the old 4s, regular, ⅜ per cent on call.

Three Injured in Wreck.

Toledo, Jan. 20.—Passenger train No. 3, on the Wheeling and Lake Erie railroad, due here at 9:20 o'clock last night, was partially wrecked in the yards at 9:10, and the engineer, fireman and baggageman were injured. None of the passengers were hurt. A yard engine, in hurrying on a side track out of the way of the passenger, collided with some box cars on the siding and two of them were thrown onto the main track directly in front of the approaching passenger train. The locomotive of the latter was derailed and badly wrecked and some damage done to the baggage car. Fireman H. A. Flint, of this city, jumped and was seriously hurt about the back and his head was cut. Baggageman H. J. Lowry, of Wheeling, sustained a broken shoulder, while Engineer Robert Cooper, of this city, escaped with some bruises to his head.

Contained Poison.

Reading, Pa., Jan. 20.—Ralph Roland Logan, aged 17, and A. Cameron Lance, aged 18, were rendered very ill late Sunday evening, after eating a sandwich and a cup of coffee obtained in a restaurant, from the effect of which the former died yesterday. Lance will recover, though he is still very weak. From all indications the sandwich and coffee contained poisonous matter of some kind. Coroner Moyer will hold an inquest.

Platt Renominated.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 20.—The joint Republican caucus last night nominated Thomas C. Platt to succeed himself as United States senator by a vote of 109 to 1 for Elihu Root, the latter cast by Assemblyman William A. Denison, of Jefferson. Senators Brackett, Brown and Elsberg, and Assemblyman Clark, of the Twenty-ninth New York district, were absent.

Mrs. Hughson, of Chicago, whose letter follows, is another woman in high position who owes her health to the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I suffered for several years with general weakness and bearing-down pains, caused by womb trouble. My appetite was fitful, and I would lie awake for hours, and could not sleep, until I seemed more weary in the morning than when I retired. After reading one of your advertisements I decided to try the merits of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am so glad I did. No one can describe the good it did me. I took three bottles faithfully, and besides building up my general health, it drove all disease and poison out of my body, and made me feel as spry and active as a young girl. Mrs. Pinkham's medicines are certainly all they are claimed to be."—MRS. M. E. HUGHSON, 347 East Ohio St., Chicago, Ill.

Mrs. Pinkham Tells How Ordinary Tasks Produce Displacements.

Apparently trifling incidents in woman's daily life frequently produce displacements of the womb. A slip on the stairs, lifting during menstruation, standing at a counter, running a sewing machine, or attending to the most ordinary tasks may result in displacement, and a train of serious evils is started. Don't let the condition become chronic through neglect or a mistaken idea that you can overcome it by exercise or leaving it alone.

More than a million women have regained health by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If the slightest trouble appears which you do not understand write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., for her advice, and a few timely words from her will show you the right thing to do. This advice costs you nothing, but it may mean life or happiness or both.

Mrs. Lelah Stowell, 177 Wellington St., Kingston, Ont., writes:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—You are indeed a godsend to women, and if they all knew what you could do for them, there would be no need of their dragging out miserable lives in agony.

"I suffered for years with bearing-down pains, womb trouble, nervousness, and excruciating headache, but a few bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made life look new and promising to me. I am light and happy, and I do not know what sickness is, and I now enjoy the best of health."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound can always be relied upon to restore health to women who thus suffer. It is a sovereign cure for the worst forms of female complaints,—that bearing-down feeling, weak back, falling and displacement of the womb, inflammation of the ovaries, and all troubles of the uterus or womb. It dissolves and expels tumors from the uterus in the early stage of development, and checks any tendency to cancerous humors. It subdues excitability, nervous prostration, and tones up the entire female system. Its record of cures is the greatest in the world, and should be relied upon with confidence.

Strike Commission.

Philadelphia, Jan. 20.—The examination of Colonel P. A. Phillips, of Scranton, general superintendent of the mining department of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad company, took up the greater part of yesterday's session of the coal strike commission. Superintendent Phillips told of conditions in and about the collieries owned by the Lackawanna company. Like some of the other superintendents who have testified, he believed the men had a right to organize if they wanted to, but no person who is not employed by the company had a right to come into and tell the men or the company what they should do. Much of the witness' testimony was along the same line as that already given by other superintendents.

MR. BAILEY OBJECTED

Opposed to Consideration by Unanimous Consent of Bills from Republican Side.

CUBAN RECIPROCITY CONSIDERED

Anti-Trust Bill Needs Further Work to Make it a Finished Measure. House Had a Busy Day and Transacted Much Business.

Washington, Jan. 20.—Mr., Bailey Texas, objected to consideration by unanimous consent of all bills from the Republican side, on the ground that the senators from New York had interfered with a matter purely local to the state of Texas. A discussion arose which was terminated by Mr. McCullom moving an executive session to consider the Cuban reciprocity treaty. After half an hour in executive session the doors were reopened and Mr. Foraker continued his remarks favoring statehood for Oklahoma, Arizona and New Mexico. The senate at 5:20 adjourned until today.

In the House.

The house transacted considerable business yesterday. Several miscellaneous measures were passed, among them the senate Hawaiian fire claims bill. The consular and diplomatic appropriation bill, the third of the regular budgets, was passed and fair progress was made with the District of Columbia appropriation bill. During consideration of the diplomatic bill Mr. McClelland (N. Y.) precipitated a discussion concerning our diplomatic and consular service, which took a wide range and led to some rather scandalous charges against our consular representatives in Mexico by Mr. Slayden, of Texas.

Mr. McClellan submitted figures to show that our consulates, compared with those of other first-class countries, were underpaid, but overmanned. Mr. Grosvenor, of Ohio, declared the charges against our consular officials were unjustified, maintaining that it was the opinion of European publicists that we had the most efficient consular service in the world.

Anti-Trust Bill Not Ready.

Representatives Littlefield, Overstreet and Powers, of Massachusetts, Republican members of the trusts sub-committee of the house judiciary committee, had a conference with the attorney general yesterday for the purpose of final consideration of the bill the sub-committee will report to the full committee. It was found at the close of the conference that further work would be necessary to make the bill a finished measure.

Cuban Reciprocity.

The senate devoted two brief executive sessions yesterday to the Cuban reciprocity treaty. At the first session the treaty was read at length and at the second session Senator Cullom, who, as chairman of the senate committee on foreign relations, has charge of the treaty, made a statement of its purport and effect. Senator Bacon, also a member of the foreign relations committee, gave notice that he would have some amendments to the treaty to offer, and asked the privilege of making them public, following the example of the senate in making the treaty itself public. This request was denied after considerable discussion, on the ground that it would be impolitic and unwise. Senator Cullom's statement was exhaustive. He produced a mass of figures to show the extent of the commerce between the United States and Cuba, and gave reasons for a belief he expressed that the ratification of the treaty would cause a rapid increase in the trade between the two countries.

Refused to Pay Fine.

Concord, Mass., Jan. 20.—Dr. Harry O. Thompson, veterinarian employed by the United States government, who was fined $15 for alleged cruelty in killing cattle, withdrew his appeal yesterday and refused to pay the fine and was ordered taken to Cambridge

DON'T OVERLOOK THIS

A Careful Perusal Will Prove Its Value to Every East Liverpool Reader.

The average man is a doubter and there is little wonder that this is so. Misrepresentations make people skeptics. Now-a-days the public ask for better evidence than the testimony of strangers. Here is proof that should convince every East Liverpool reader.

Mr. Samuel Mayer, who is an employe of the McNicol pottery, whose place of residence is 183 Bank street, says: "My health was fairly good until my kidneys began troubling me, causing my back to ache a good part of the time and to get sore and lame across the loins. The pain was often sharp and penetrating especially when stooping or lifting, and I never got rid of the trouble until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at the W. & W. pharmacy and tried them. When I had taken one box the soreness and pains in the back and other symptons of kidney distress passed away."

jail. The sheriff was served with a writ of habeas corpus and the case will go before the United States court. The cattle killed had been condemned by the government as having foot and mouth disease. The arrest and imposition of a fine under the circumstances is considered a serious matter by the department of agriculture which has been engaged in stamping out the cattle infection in this state.

DISASTROUS CLEVELAND FIRE.

Two Burned to Death and Two Injured and Others Were Rescued With Difficulty.

Cleveland, Jan. 20.—Fire early yesterday destroyed two adjoining apartment houses near the corner of Euclid avenue and Andrews street, East Cleveland, resulting in the death of at least two persons and the injury of several others.

The dead: Mrs. Guy Norton, 20 years old, burned to death; Mrs. Jessie Dickey, widow, 45 years old, burned to death.

The injured: Miss Clara Jackson servant girl, badly burned; Guy Norton, badly burned, in a serious condition; Rev. N. W. Shoup, pastor the the Windemere Methodist church, slightly burned.

The origin of the fire is unknown. The fifty tenants of the two buildings were asleep when the flames broke out. A panic ensued among them when they were finally aroused, and many were rescued with the greatest difficulty, nearly all escaping in their night clothes. The total pecuniary loss is about $60,000, partially covered by insurance.

ENGINEER AND FIREMAN KILLED

Freight Engine Blew Up and Lake Shore Limited Had Narrow Escape from Wreckage.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 20.—Engine 1767, of the New York Central, drawing the Melrose freight, blew up near Castleton last night, and besides killing Patrick Kemmey, the engineer, and George Woolcock, the fireman, nearly wrecked the Lake Shore limited, bound north. The freight was several miles from Albany at the time of the disaster, and before Conductor Randall could regain his self-possession and send out his crew with warnings the Lake Shore limited, with its big load of passengers, was in the block and rushing toward the spot piled high with wreckage.

The engineer of the limited saw the light of the burning engine and put on his brakes, bringing his train to a standstill close to the wreck. Assistance was lent by passengers and the train crews. Head Brakeman Mattoon, of West Albany, was found to be missing also, but it is thought he may have rushed back to flag the train. The limited had not reached Albany at midnight last night, although it was due at 8:40 p. m. It carries only passengers for west of Buffalo, and the railroad officials at midnight said none were injured.

Remarkable Surgical Operation.

St. Louis, Jan. 20.—A remarkable surgical operation was performed at the city hospital Sunday night to save the life of Edward Spilker, aged 19, who had attempted suicide by shooting himself in the left breast. An aperture was made and between pulsations the wound in the heart was closed with three stitches. The bullet had also perforated the apex of the left lung. A portion of an inch and a half square was cut away, a heavy silk ligature tied about the lung, draining tubes being established and the chest cavity closed. The patient speedily rallied and it is believed he will recover.

Does Not Fear Strike.

Cleveland, Jan. 20.—General Manager Taussig, of the Wheeling and Lake Erie railroad, yesterday said relative to the reports of a possible strike on that railroad: "Our trainmen have no idea of declaring a strike. The relations between the road and its employes are harmonious. The readjustment of the wage scale will take up the rest of the time of this week, and will probably result in an increase of wages, but as to how great the increase will be is not yet determined."

VI.—Habits Which Give Names.

THE Indians were accustomed to wait until their young men did something of note before naming them. But we—how did we get our names? This is too deep a subject to go into here, but whenever we see a new place or thing we apply the rule of the Indians and name it. First we rely upon the deep wells of our childish memories and christen it after what we have known that is similar to it. If some peculiar trait or property strikes us, we name it after that. For instance, when we first observed those green bugs hopping among the grass we most appropriately called them grasshoppers. Later other large bugs came and sang in great numbers on the trees. We had read in our Bibles of the plague of the locusts and gave them that name, although they were not locusts at all. Indeed, it is the grasshoppers that belong to the dread locust family.

Plants have been classified by botanists and dignified with long Latin

names describing their likenesses and peculiarities. Latin words are hard to remember, so plants in most instances were given common names centuries ago, and those names still are theirs. Very frequently it is the appearance, too, which is embodied in the name. Again, it is some habit peculiar to itself which gave it.

There is the Solomon's seal. Jerking it roughly, out comes the root or what seems to be the root. It is the real stem or root stalk. At regular intervals upon it are little round places, scars, just like a seal. We had the memory of our Bibles. What more appropriate than Solomon's seal? Each scar shows the limit of a year's growth. They are the marks left by the different stems above ground, showing where each year one shot up to the sunlight above and died down, leaving, as it detached its dead self, this scar.

The plant is a familiar one in the spring, with its single graceful bending stem and handsome leaves zigzagged up each side. Little yellow pairs of flower bells dangle from beneath the leaves and are followed later in the summer by blue berries.

There is another plant much like it which blooms at the same time. It is called the false Solomon's seal. Children, noticing the manner in which the leaves are arranged on the stem, have sometimes called it Jacob's ladder, although that name is not generally accepted. There are two great differences between the false and the true. The false has no seals, and instead of the pair of yellow flowers there is a feathery cluster of white ones at the top of the stem.

There is the horse chestnut. Did you ever consider how it came to have that name? Look at the branches in the winter, when they are bare. Where the leaves of the past year grew are little marks, scars which seem rather to be the shape of a horse's hoof. It is the outline, the imprint, of the old leaves as they detached themselves thread by thread from their fastenings to make room for the baby bud beneath. Hamilton Gibson thinks that the whole end of the branch is shaped like a horse's leg, with the buds and turns at the end for hoof and fetlock.

Around the sunflower there is the halo of legend as well as habit to give it a name. The story, according to Greek mythology, is this: Clytie, a water nymph, fell in love with Apollo, who is the sun. He would not deign to notice her, and she stood upon the bank with her eyes fixed upon the sun from morning to evening for nine long days. Her feet became rooted to the ground and her face a yellow flower which ever followed the course of the sun.

Indeed, it is this habit of facing so directly toward the sun, as much as that its shape is that of the popular emblem representing the orb, which causes it to be called the sunflower. The plant was also held in sacred esteem by the ancient Peruvians, who were known as the children of the sun and were its worshipers. The sunflower belongs in the garden, but there are many varieties of the sunflower running wild everywhere.

The sycamore owes two of its names to habits. It is the plane tree because of its way of holding up its leaves so flatly and the buttonwood tree because the round, corky pieces inside the balls to which the seeds of the ball are attached are like old fashioned buttons. This tree starts up at twilight in a ghostly manner. Its trunk is very white, the thin outer part having been sloughed off in great patches.

Creeping over the stones in a moss-like manner where there is a little soil to nourish it is the stonecrop. It is to this habit that the plant owes its name; also its Latin one, sedum, which comes from the word meaning to sit—i. e., on the rocks. It is the orpine, too, and some kinds grow in gardens and over old walls, but there are some in the woods. They have small fleshy leaves. The three leaved stonecrop shows pure white starry flowers in the early spring. They are built on the plan of the chickweed and recall snowflakes much magnified.

The jewelweed loves damp places. It has straight and hollow stems and many leaves, especially toward the top. The oddly shaped rich red flowers hang daintily among and below the leaves like little jewels in a green setting. In the early morning crystal globules of dew hang along the edges of the leaves like a rim of diamonds as they flash with the first touch of the sun. When held in the ever near water, the leaves retain a silvery, jewel-like appearance on the under side. From this it is called silver leaf, and the whole list of habits warrants the name jewelweed. The other species has pale yellow flowers, and hence is not so pretty. Its peculiarity in sowing its seeds might almost be included with its habits, which give it its name, but I am not telling now how plants take care of their seeds, and enough is enough.

The scarlet pimpernel is of an odd color, a coppery red terra cotta, but both flower and leaves are very small. The flower is very sensitive, closing its petals whenever a cloud passes over the sun and opening again when the sun shines from behind. On a bright day it begins to unfold about sunrise and is spread out by 9 o'clock. At about 3 it begins to close and at sundown is shut. So much does it fear storms and closes so hastily, to use the sensitive outside of the petal for an umbrella, that it is called the poor man's weather glass and, on account of its regularity, the shepherd's clock.

A climbing vine in country places is the hog peanut. Its leaflets are three in number, rounded at the bottom and pointed at the end. Its stem is hairy, as are the pods, which are about an inch long. The flowers, which are shaped rather like those of the sweet pea, are small and hang in light purple or white clusters. Fearing that the blossoms were not sufficient, because of the few seeds procured from them, to insure its multiplication, this vine, like the violet, bid some flowers, which will always be closed, and worked hard to produce others. This second set of pods from the hidden or cleistogomous flowers, are just at the surface of the earth or more often just below, for they fancy they are more secure when buried. The hogs are very fond of them, and, wandering through the lane, pursuing their ordinary vocation of rooting, they easily turn up the pods and greedily devour them. Thus the name hog peanut.

Along the hillsides in the spring are bushes with drooping clusters of

racemes of greenish white flowers at the ends of the branches, which later develop into beautiful nile green pods. It is the bladder nut, so called because it swells up the pod to such unnecessary proportions for the tiny seeds or nuts within. While young and tender they make amusing playthings, exploding with a loud noise when pinched. Later they stiffen and harden, and the loosened seeds within rattle about, making splendid rattles for children. There are but one or two nuts in each of the three divisions.

So plants, like men, have habits, cultivated for cause or for the effects they wish to bring about for their own ultimate good. The determining forces are sometimes too delicate to detect, but their habits have aided largely in giving recognizable character and distinction of kind.

ODD FURS.

Handsome Coats Are Made of Greenland Seal.

Some odd new skins have appeared on the fur market. Greenland seal is the latest, and it is remarkably pretty. Cream of tone and spotted of surface, it somehow suggests the leopard's skin, yet lacks its harshness when supplied with a collar of skunk or black fox, for it really makes most smart little jackets.

A recent costume was composed of a skirt of mastic cloth and a blouse of surah silk of the same tones. The latter was trimmed with elaborate decorations of Chinese embroidery, having tassels of many colors pendent from straps on the shoulder. A Greenland seal coat lined with mastic satin and a marquis hat of bright colored velvet, the brim upturned, completed the costume, which also had the muff matching the seal coat. This was made in the latest style, large in size, trimmed with bands of skunk on either side.

A pretty three-quarter length evening coat is here shown. It is made of white cloth, with the revers and cuffs strapped in a darker material.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's catarrh cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from ten drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Gentlemen.—Rheumatism is certainly one of the most tedious and painful troubles one can suffer from. I have laid awake many a night and shed many a tear from pain caused by rheumatism. LIFE  PLANT

FOR KIDNEY TROUBLE

—READ WHAT HE SAYS—

East Liverpool, Ohio, Nov. 19th, 1902.

The Life Plant Co.,
Canton, Ohio.

Gentlemen:—I have used nearly two bottles of LIFE PLANT and must say it is a fine medicine for the kidneys. It is the best medicine I have ever taken and I recommend it to all who are suffering from kidney diseases.

F. F. EDWARDS, 136 Third St.

Kidney diseases are very common and very dangerous. They cause more deaths than any other affliction, and yet they can be cured, quickly and easily by taking LIFE PLANT. An improper treatment is worse than none. It excites the kidneys to unusual action for a time, causing a seeming benefit, but the result is increased weakness.

LIFE PLANT leaves you permanently cured or your money is refunded. Whatever the stage of your trouble, your druggist will warrant that LIFE PLANT will succeed with you.

The fearful fatality caused by kidney diseases is the result of neglect and wrong treatment. Commence now by using the only guaranteed treatment, LIFE PLANT. It's a wonder.

MR. BAILEY OBJECTED

Opposed to Consideration by Unanimous Consent of Bills from Republican Side.

Anti-Trust Bill Needs Further Work to Make it a Finished Measure. House Had a Busy Day and Transacted Much Business.

Washington, Jan. 20.—Mr. Bailey Texas, objected to consideration by unanimous consent of all bills from the Republican side, on the ground that the senators from New York had interfered with a matter purely local to the state of Texas. A discussion arose which was terminated by Mr. McCullom moving an executive session to consider the Cuban reciprocity treaty. After half an hour in executive session the doors were reopened and Mr. Foraker continued his remarks favoring statehood for Oklahoma, Arizona and New Mexico. The senate at 5:20 adjourned until today.

In the House.

The house transacted considerable business yesterday. Several miscellaneous measures were passed, among them the senate Hawaiian fire claims bill. The consular and diplomatic appropriation bill, the third of the regular budgets, was passed and fair progress was made with the District of Columbia appropriation bill. During consideration of the diplomatic bill Mr. McClelland (N. Y.) precipitated a discussion concerning our diplomatic and consular service, which took a wide range and led to some rather scandalous charges against our consular representatives in Mexico by Mr. Slayden, of Texas.

Mr. McClellan submitted figures to show that our consulates, compared with those of other first-class countries, were underpaid, but overmanned. Mr. Grosvenor, of Ohio, declared the charges against our consular officials were unjustified, maintaining that it was the opinion of European publicists that we had the most efficient consular service in the world.

Anti-Trust Bill Not Ready.

Representatives Littlefield, Overstreet and Powers, of Massachusetts, Republican members of the trusts sub-committee of the house judiciary committee, had a conference with the attorney general yesterday for the purpose of final consideration of the bill the sub-committee will report to the full committee. It was found at the close of the conference that further work would be necessary to make the bill a finished measure.

Cuban Reciprocity.

The senate devoted two brief executive sessions yesterday to the Cuban reciprocity treaty. At the first session the treaty was read at length and at the second session Senator Cullom, who, as chairman of the senate committee on foreign relations, has charge of the treaty, made a statement of its purport and effect. Senator Bacon, also a member of the foreign relations committee, gave notice that he would have some amendments to the treaty to offer, and asked the privilege of making them public, following the example of the senate in making the treaty itself public. This request was denied after considerable discussion, on the ground that it would be impolitic and unwise. Senator Cullom's statement was exhaustive. He produced a mass of figures to show the extent of the commerce between the United States and Cuba, and gave reasons for a belief he expressed that the ratification of the treaty would cause a rapid increase in the trade between the two countries.

Refused to Pay Fine.

Concord, Mass., Jan. 20.—Dr. Harry O. Thompson, veterinarian employed by the United States government, who was fined $15 for alleged cruelty in killing cattle, withdrew his appeal yesterday and refused to pay the fine and was ordered taken to Cambridge jail. The sheriff was served with a writ of habeas corpus and the case will go before the United States court. The cattle killed had been condemned by the government as having foot and mouth disease. The arrest and imposition of a fine under the circumstances is considered a serious matter by the department of agriculture which has been engaged in stamping out the cattle infection in this state.

DISASTROUS CLEVELAND FIRE.

Two Burned to Death and Two Injured and Others Were Rescued With Difficulty.

Cleveland, Jan. 20.—Fire early yesterday destroyed two adjoining apartment houses near the corner of Euclid avenue and Andrews street, East Cleveland, resulting in the death of at least two persons and the injury of several others.

The dead: Mrs. Guy Norton, 20 years old, burned to death; Mrs. Jessie Dickey, widow, 45 years old, burned to death.

The injured: Miss Clara Jackson servant girl, badly burned; Guy Norton, badly burned, in a serious condition; Rev. N. W. Shoup, pastor the the Windemere Methodist church, slightly burned.

The origin of the fire is unknown. The fifty tenants of the two buildings were asleep when the flames broke out. A panic ensued among them when they were finally aroused, and many were rescued with the greatest difficulty, nearly all escaping in their night clothes. The total pecuniary loss is about $60,000, partially covered by insurance.

Freight Engine Blew Up and Lake Shore Limited Had Narrow Escape from Wreckage.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 20.—Engine 1767, of the New York Central, drawing the Melrose freight, blew up near Castleton last night, and besides killing Patrick Kemmey, the engineer, and George Woolcock, the fireman, nearly wrecked the Lake Shore limited, bound north. The freight was several miles from Albany at the time of the disaster, and before Conductor Randall could regain his self-possession and send out his crew with warnings the Lake Shore limited, with its big load of passengers, was in the block and rushing toward the spot piled high with wreckage.

The engineer of the limited saw the light of the burning engine and put on his brakes, bringing his train to a standstill close to the wreck. Assistance was lent by passengers and the train crews. Head Brakeman Mattoon, of West Albany, was found to be missing also, but it is thought he may have rushed back to flag the train. The limited had not reached Albany at midnight last night, although it was due at 8:40 p. m. It carries only passengers for west of Buffalo, and the railroad officials at midnight said none were injured.

Remarkable Surgical Operation.

St. Louis, Jan. 20.—A remarkable surgical operation was performed at the city hospital Sunday night to save the life of Edward Spilker, aged 19, who had attempted suicide by shooting himself in the left breast. An aperture was made and between pulsations the wound in the heart was closed with three stitches. The bullet had also perforated the apex of the left lung. A portion of an inch and a half square was cut away, a heavy silk ligature tied about the lung, draining tubes being established and the chest cavity closed. The patient speedily rallied and it is believed he will recover.

Does Not Fear Strike.

Cleveland, Jan. 20.—General Manager Taussig, of the Wheeling and Lake Erie railroad, yesterday said relative to the reports of a possible strike on that railroad: "Our trainmen have no idea of declaring a strike. The relations between the road and its employes are harmonious. The readjustment of the wage scale will take up the rest of the time of this week, and will probably result in an increase of wages, but as to how great the increase will be is not yet determined."

VI.—Habits Which Give Names.

THE Indians were accustomed to wait until their young men did something of note before naming them. But we—how did we get our names? This is too deep a subject to go into here, but whenever we see a new place or thing we apply the rule of the Indians and name it. First we rely upon the deep wells of our childish memories and christen it after what we have known that is similar to it. If some peculiar trait or property strikes us, we name it after that. For instance, when we first observed those green bugs hopping among the grass we most appropriately called them grasshoppers. Later other large bugs came and sang in great numbers on the trees. We had read in our Bibles of the plague of the locusts and gave them that name, although they were not locusts at all. Indeed, it is the grasshoppers that belong to the dread locust family.

Plants have been classified by botanists and dignified with long Latin

names describing their likenesses and peculiarities. Latin words are hard to remember, so plants in most instances were given common names centuries ago, and those names still are theirs. Very frequently it is the appearance, too, which is embodied in the name. Again, it is some habit peculiar to itself which gave it.

There is the Solomon's seal. Jerking it roughly, out comes the root or what seems to be the root. It is the real stem or root stalk. At regular intervals upon it are little round places, scars, just like a seal. We had the memory of our Bibles. What more appropriate than Solomon's seal? Each scar shows the limit of a year's growth. They are the marks left by the different stems above ground, showing where each year one shot up to the sunlight above and died down, leaving, as it detached its dead self, this scar.

The plant is a familiar one in the spring, with its single graceful bending stem and handsome leaves zigzagged up each side. Little yellow pairs of flower bells dangle from beneath the leaves and are followed later in the summer by blue berries.

There is another plant much like it which blooms at the same time. It is called the false Solomon's seal. Children, noticing the manner in which the leaves are arranged on the stem, have sometimes called it Jacob's ladder, although that name is not generally accepted. There are two great differences between the false and the true. The false has no seals, and instead of the pair of yellow flowers there is a feathery cluster of white ones at the top of the stem.

There is the horse chestnut. Did you ever consider how it came to have that name? Look at the branches in the winter, when they are bare. Where the leaves of the past year grew are little marks, scars which seem rather to be the shape of a horse's hoof. It is the outline, the imprint, of the old leaves as they detached themselves thread by thread from their fastenings to make room for the baby bud beneath. Hamilton Gibson thinks that the whole end of the branch is shaped like a horse's leg, with the buds and turns at the end for hoof and fetlock.

Around the sunflower there is the halo of legend as well as habit to give it a name. The story, according to Greek mythology, is this: Clytie, a water nymph, fell in love with Apollo, who is the sun. He would not deign to notice her, and she stood upon the bank with her eyes fixed upon the sun from morning to evening for nine long days. Her feet became rooted to the ground and her face a yellow flower which ever followed the course of the sun.

Indeed, it is this habit of facing so directly toward the sun, as much as that its shape is that of the popular emblem representing the orb, which causes it to be called the sunflower. The plant was also held in sacred esteem by the ancient Peruvians, who were known as the children of the sun and were its worshipers. The sunflower belongs in the garden, but there are many varieties of the sunflower running wild everywhere.

The sycamore owes two of its names to habits. It is the plane tree because of its way of holding up its leaves so flatly and the buttonwood tree because the round, corky pieces inside the balls to which the seeds of the ball are attached are like old fashioned buttons. This tree starts up at twilight in a ghostly manner. Its trunk is very white, the thin outer part having been sloughed off in great patches.

Creeping over the stones in a moss-like manner where there is a little soil to nourish it is the stonecrop. It is to this habit that the plant owes its name; also its Latin one, sedum, which comes from the word meaning to sit—i. e., on the rocks. It is the orpine, too, and some kinds grow in gardens and over old walls, but there are some in the woods. They have small fleshy leaves. The three leaved stonecrop shows pure white starry flowers in the early spring. They are built on the plan of the chickweed and recall snowflakes much magnified.

The jewelweed loves damp places. It has straight and hollow stems and many leaves, especially toward the top. The oddly shaped rich red flowers hang daintily among and below the leaves like little jewels in a green setting. In the early morning crystal globules of dew hang along the edges of the leaves like a rim of diamonds as they flash with the first touch of the sun. When held in the ever near water, the leaves retain a silvery, jewel-like appearance on the under side. From this it is called silver leaf, and the whole list of habits warrants the name jewelweed. The other species has pale yellow flowers, and hence is not so pretty. Its peculiarity in sowing its seeds might almost be included with its habits, which give it its name, but I am not telling now how plants take care of their seeds, and enough is enough.

The scarlet pimpernel is of an odd color, a coppery red terra cotta, but both flower and leaves are very small. The flower is very sensitive, closing its petals whenever a cloud passes over the sun and opening again when the sun shines from behind. On a bright day it begins to unfold about sunrise and is spread out by 9 o'clock. At about 3 it begins to close and at sundown is shut. So much does it fear storms and closes so hastily, to use the sensitive outside of the petal for an umbrella, that it is called the poor man's weather glass and, on account of its regularity, the shepherd's clock.

A climbing vine in country places is the hog peanut. Its leaflets are three in number, rounded at the bottom and pointed at the end. Its stem is hairy, as are the pods, which are about an inch long. The flowers, which are shaped rather like those of the sweet pea, are small and hang in light purple or white clusters. Fearing that the blossoms were not sufficient, because of the few seeds procured from them, to insure its multiplication, this vine, like the violet, bid some flowers, which will always be closed, and worked hard to produce others. This second set of pods from the hidden or cleistogomous flowers, are just at the surface of the earth or more often just below, for they fancy they are more secure when buried. The hogs are very fond of them, and, wandering through the lane, pursuing their ordinary vocation of rooting, they easily turn up the pods and greedily devour them. Thus the name hog peanut.

racemes of greenish white flowers at the ends of the branches, which later develop into beautiful nile green pods. It is the bladder nut, so called because it swells up the pod to such unnecessary proportions for the tiny seeds or nuts within. While young and tender they make amusing playthings, exploding with a loud noise when pinched. Later they stiffen and harden, and the loosened seeds within rattle about, making splendid rattles for children. There are but one or two nuts in each of the three divisions.

So plants, like men, have habits, cultivated for cause or for the effects they wish to bring about for their own ultimate good. The determining forces are sometimes too delicate to detect, but their habits have aided largely in giving recognizable character and distinction of kind.

Handsome Coats Are Made of Greenland Seal.

Some odd new skins have appeared on the fur market. Greenland seal is the latest, and it is remarkably pretty. Cream of tone and spotted of surface, it somehow suggests the leopard's skin, yet lacks its harshness when supplied with a collar of skunk or black fox, for it really makes most smart little jackets.

A recent costume was composed of a skirt of mastic cloth and a blouse of surah silk of the same tones. The latter was trimmed with elaborate decorations of Chinese embroidery, having tassels of many colors pendent from straps on the shoulder. A Greenland seal coat lined with mastic satin and a marquis hat of bright colored velvet, the brim upturned, completed the costume, which also had the muff matching the seal coat. This was made in the latest style, large in size, trimmed with bands of skunk on either side.

A pretty three-quarter length evening coat is here shown. It is made of white cloth, with the revers and cuffs strapped in a darker material.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's catarrh cure, manufactured by F. J. THE Indians were accustomed to wait until their young men did something of note before naming them. But we—how did we get our names? This is too deep a subject to go into here, but whenever we see a new place or thing we apply the rule of the Indians and name it. First we rely upon the deep wells of our childish memories and christen it after what we have known that is similar to it. If some peculiar trait or property strikes us, we name it after that. For instance, when we first observed those green bugs hopping among the grass we most appropriately called them grasshoppers. Later other large bugs came and sang in great numbers on the trees. We had read in our Bibles of the plague of the locusts and gave them that name, although they were not locusts at all. Indeed, it is the grasshoppers that belong to the dread locust family.

Plants have been classified by botanists and dignified with long Latin

names describing their likenesses and peculiarities. Latin words are hard to remember, so plants in most instances were given common names centuries ago, and those names still are theirs. Very frequently it is the appearance, too, which is embodied in the name. Again, it is some habit peculiar to itself which gave it.

There is the Solomon's seal. Jerking it roughly, out comes the root or what seems to be the root. It is the real stem or root stalk. At regular intervals upon it are little round places, scars, just like a seal. We had the memory of our Bibles. What more appropriate than Solomon's seal? Each scar shows the limit of a year's growth. They are the marks left by the different stems above ground, showing where each year one shot up to the sunlight above and died down, leaving, as it detached its dead self, this scar.

The plant is a familiar one in the spring, with its single graceful bending stem and handsome leaves zigzagged up each side. Little yellow pairs of flower bells dangle from beneath the leaves and are followed later in the summer by blue berries.

There is another plant much like it which blooms at the same time. It is called the false Solomon's seal. Children, noticing the manner in which the leaves are arranged on the stem, have sometimes called it Jacob's ladder, although that name is not generally accepted. There are two great differences between the false and the true. The false has no seals, and instead of the pair of yellow flowers there is a feathery cluster of white ones at the top of the stem.

There is the horse chestnut. Did you ever consider how it came to have that name? Look at the branches in the winter, when they are bare. Where the leaves of the past year grew are little marks, scars which seem rather to be the shape of a horse's hoof. It is the outline, the imprint, of the old leaves as they detached themselves thread by thread from their fastenings to make room for the baby bud beneath. Hamilton Gibson thinks that the whole end of the branch is shaped like a horse's leg, with the buds and turns at the end for hoof and fetlock.

Around the sunflower there is the halo of legend as well as habit to give it a name. The story, according to Greek mythology, is this: Clytie, a water nymph, fell in love with Apollo, who is the sun. He would not deign to notice her, and she stood upon the bank with her eyes fixed upon the sun from morning to evening for nine long days. Her feet became rooted to the ground and her face a yellow flower which ever followed the course of the sun.

Indeed, it is this habit of facing so directly toward the sun, as much as that its shape is that of the popular emblem representing the orb, which causes it to be called the sunflower. The plant was also held in sacred esteem by the ancient Peruvians, who were known as the children of the sun and were its worshipers. The sunflower belongs in the garden, but there are many varieties of the sunflower running wild everywhere.

The sycamore owes two of its names to habits. It is the plane tree because of its way of holding up its leaves so flatly and the buttonwood tree because the round, corky pieces inside the balls to which the seeds of the ball are attached are like old fashioned buttons. This tree starts up at twilight in a ghostly manner. Its trunk is very white, the thin outer part having been sloughed off in great patches.

Creeping over the stones in a moss-like manner where there is a little soil to nourish it is the stonecrop. It is to this habit that the plant owes its name; also its Latin one, sedum, which comes from the word meaning to sit—i. e., on the rocks. It is the orpine, too, and some kinds grow in gardens and over old walls, but there are some in the woods. They have small fleshy leaves. The three leaved stonecrop shows pure white starry flowers in the early spring. They are built on the plan of the chickweed and recall snowflakes much magnified.

The jewelweed loves damp places. It has straight and hollow stems and many leaves, especially toward the top. The oddly shaped rich red flowers hang daintily among and below the leaves like little jewels in a green setting. In the early morning crystal globules of dew hang along the edges of the leaves like a rim of diamonds as they flash with the first touch of the sun. When held in the ever near water, the leaves retain a silvery, jewel-like appearance on the under side. From this it is called silver leaf, and the whole list of habits warrants the name jewelweed. The other species has pale yellow flowers, and hence is not so pretty. Its peculiarity in sowing its seeds might almost be included with its habits, which give it its name, but I am not telling now how plants take care of their seeds, and enough is enough.

The scarlet pimpernel is of an odd color, a coppery red terra cotta, but both flower and leaves are very small. The flower is very sensitive, closing its petals whenever a cloud passes over the sun and opening again when the sun shines from behind. On a bright day it begins to unfold about sunrise and is spread out by 9 o'clock. At about 3 it begins to close and at sundown is shut. So much does it fear storms and closes so hastily, to use the sensitive outside of the petal for an umbrella, that it is called the poor man's weather glass and, on account of its regularity, the shepherd's clock.

A climbing vine in country places is the hog peanut. Its leaflets are three in number, rounded at the bottom and pointed at the end. Its stem is hairy, as are the pods, which are about an inch long. The flowers, which are shaped rather like those of the sweet pea, are small and hang in light purple or white clusters. Fearing that the blossoms were not sufficient, because of the few seeds procured from them, to insure its multiplication, this vine, like the violet, bid some flowers, which will always be closed, and worked hard to produce others. This second set of pods from the hidden or cleistogomous flowers, are just at the surface of the earth or more often just below, for they fancy they are more secure when buried. The hogs are very fond of them, and, wandering through the lane, pursuing their ordinary vocation of rooting, they easily turn up the pods and greedily devour them. Thus the name hog peanut.

racemes of greenish white flowers at the ends of the branches, which later develop into beautiful nile green pods. It is the bladder nut, so called because it swells up the pod to such unnecessary proportions for the tiny seeds or nuts within. While young and tender they make amusing playthings, exploding with a loud noise when pinched. Later they stiffen and harden, and the loosened seeds within rattle about, making splendid rattles for children. There are but one or two nuts in each of the three divisions.

So plants, like men, have habits, cultivated for cause or for the effects they wish to bring about for their own ultimate good. The determining forces are sometimes too delicate to detect, but their habits have aided largely in giving recognizable character and distinction of kind.

ODD FURS.

Handsome Coats Are Made of Greenland Seal.

Some odd new skins have appeared on the fur market. Greenland seal is the latest, and it is remarkably pretty. Cream of tone and spotted of surface, it somehow suggests the leopard's skin, yet lacks its harshness when supplied with a collar of skunk or black fox, for it really makes most smart little jackets.

A recent costume was composed of a skirt of mastic cloth and a blouse of surah silk of the same tones. The latter was trimmed with elaborate decorations of Chinese embroidery, having tassels of many colors pendent from straps on the shoulder. A Greenland seal coat lined with mastic satin and a marquis hat of bright colored velvet, the brim upturned, completed the costume, which also had the muff matching the seal coat. This was made in the latest style, large in size, trimmed with bands of skunk on either side.

A pretty three-quarter length evening coat is here shown. It is made of white cloth, with the revers and cuffs strapped in a darker material.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's catarrh cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from ten drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Gentlemen.—Rheumatism is certainly one of the most tedious and painful troubles one can suffer from. I have laid awake many a night and shed many a tear from pain caused by rheumatism. The doctor said it was an excess of uric acid in my system which caused my joints to swell, also my hands, so that I could not use them. A neighbor who had been using told me of the great help derived from its use, and I decided to give it a trial. I used it without any visible results for three weeks, but the fourth the swelling began to diminish, and in six weeks I was like a new woman; my rheumatism gone. I thank and bless you a thousand times for this reliable medicine you have placed before the public.

Sincerely yours, MAMIE O'BRIEN, 180 S. Halsted St.

The author of this letter is only one of hundreds who have written us words of praise as to the qualities of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

N. B.—Although Dr. W. B. Caldwell did not prepare the formula for Syrup Pepsin with the expectation of making it a rheumatic cure, it is nevertheless true that certain ingredients of the medicine are used by practitioners in the treatment of rheumatism, and in a great many cases, of which the above is a notable example, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has been known to effect a permanent cure.

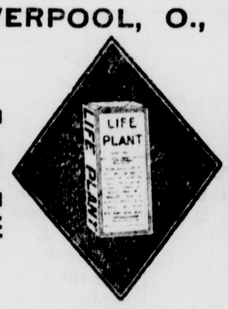
F. F. EDWARDS, PROPRIETOR OF THE HOTEL EDWARDS OF EAST LIVERPOOL, O., RECOMMENDS

LIFE PLANT



FOR KIDNEY TROUBLE

—READ WHAT HE SAYS—

East Liverpool, Ohio, Nov. 19th, 1902.

The Life Plant Co.,
Canton, Ohio.

Gentlemen:—I have used nearly two bottles of LIFE PLANT and must say it is a fine medicine for the kidneys. It is the best medicine I have ever taken and I recommend it to all who are suffering from kidney diseases.

F. F. EDWARDS, 136 Third St.

Kidney diseases are very common and very dangerous. They cause more deaths than any other affliction, and yet they can be cured, quickly and easily by taking LIFE PLANT. An improper treatment is worse than none. It excites the kidneys to unusual action for a time, causing a seeming benefit, but the result is increased weakness.

LIFE PLANT leaves you permanently cured or your money is refunded. Whatever the stage of your trouble, your druggist will warrant that LIFE PLANT will succeed with you.

The fearful fatality caused by kidney diseases is the result of neglect and wrong treatment. Commence now by using the only guaranteed treatment, LIFE PLANT. It's a wonder.

SOCIAL EVENTS

A PLEASANT PARTY

William Blythe Agreeably Entertains a Number of Young Gentlemen.

William Blythe last evening entertained a party of his young friends at his pleasant home on College street. Progressive euchre was the order of the evening, and the number present was just sufficient to fill three tables. The honors were equally divided between Bailey Gipner and Alfred Cartwright on the one side and Blaine Cochran and Ernest Thompson for the other.

A most delightful evening was spent. The guests were all prominent young men, and the fact that the affair was in the form of a stag party lent a touch of novelty to the occasion making it one of rare and complete enjoyment.

PRAISE SERVICE

Interesting Program For Woman's Missionary Thursday Afternoon.

The Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary society will hold its annual praise service at the First Presbyterian church Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. An interesting program has been prepared. Mrs. Watson will read a paper on the topics of the month, "A Forward Movement on the Mission Field;" Mrs. Mills Bennett, a paper entitled "Heroines in Mission Work;" Miss McClung will talk of her work as assistant to the pastor.

There will be special music with vocal selections by Mrs. John Thompson and Mrs. Spencer. A large attendance is expected.

Coming Wedding.

Lisbon, January 20.—(Special)—Invitations are out for the marriage of Dr. Charles Dickens Williams, of Cleveland, and Miss Anna Martin, of Lisbon. The wedding will take place in the presence of about 40 guests at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Mary Agnes Martin, in this place at noon, on January 28.

Coming Organ Recital.

The organ recital to be given at St. Stephen's church promises to be a great success. Prof. Paris Myers, said to be the best organist in the state, will contribute. With him will be the wonderful boy soloist of St. Matthew's, Wheeling. The recital will take place at St. Stephen's Thursday evening, January 29.

To Entertain.

Prof. R. E. Rayman will entertain his primary Sunday school class at his home next Thursday evening.

THE IMPERIALS WON THE SERIES

No Difficulty Was Confronted in Slaughtering the Peerless Aggregation.

There was an enthusiastic crowd at the Imperial bowling alleys last evening when the Peerless and Imperial teams played a one-sided series of games. The latter aggregation gave the members of the Peerless team a walloping that they will not soon forget, winning three straight games by nearly 200 pins. The large number of witnesses to the contest displayed enthusiasm until the second game was nearing an end, when it was seen that the Imperials could not be bested. The individual scores follow:

Imperials—McEldowney, 162, 255, 195; Craig, 143, 190, 153; Rigby, 141, 174, 221; Carnahan, 179, 118, 177; E. Clark, 195, 166, 163.

WAS GREAT OVATION.

President Mitchell Given Grandest Reception Ever Offered a Labor Leader.

DELEGATES MAKE RAFTERS RING

Ohio and West Virginia Miners Will Demand an Increase of 25 Per Cent. While Those of Indiana and Illinois Will Ask for 20 Per Cent.

Indianapolis, Jan. 20.—The fourteenth annual convention of the United Mine Workers of America was convened yesterday with an impromptu demonstration in honor of President Mitchell, greater and more enthusiastic than any other ovation ever offered a leader of organized labor. As President Mitchell entered the hall the thousand delegates leaped to their feet and cheered and applauded until the rafters rang.

When quiet was restored Mayor Bookwalter, in welcoming President Mitchell, caused a second outburst by his tribute to the chief executive of the organization. President Mitchell replied briefly, and before he regained his seat he was invited to be the guest of honor at a reception given for him last night.

Annual Report Not Read.

Although President Mitchell's annual report was not read yesterday afternoon, as was intended, it was given out last night that chief among his recommendations will be advice to the bituminous miners to demand a substantial advance.

As a result of this report there were numerous informal meetings of delegates last night devoted to a discussion of the various instructions with which they come to the convention. Delegates from the West Virginia field will insist upon a demand for 25 per cent increase. Delegates from Indiana and Illinois are more conservative and will ask for only a 20 per cent advance. The Pennsylvania delegation will place its demands upon the same basis. Ohio, however, will join West Virginia and insist upon the 25 per cent increase.

Delegation Non-Communicative.

The Pittsburg delegation, headed by Pat Dolan, was averse to making public the text of the particular instructions under which it is seated. Uriah Bellingham, of the same district, was equally non-communicative.

It is not yet known when the subject of the advance will be brought to the attention of the convention. That matter will be determined by the rules of the committee composed of J. P. Gallagher, of Hazleton, Pa., and William Dodd, of Pittsburg.

President Mitchell was officially recognized yesterday by the Indiana general assembly. In a resolution adopted by the house of representatives he was welcomed back to Indiana and invited to address the members at his convenience. Committees were appointed to wait upon him and learn when he could appear before the two branches.

REVIVAL SERVICES

Great Interest Manifested in the Meetings at the First M. E. Church.

The revival service at the First M. E. church last night was attended by a fair audience. Rev. Dr. Pratt preached a telling sermon from the text, "Behold I stand and knock at the door." There were a large number of conversions and quite a number of accessions to the church at the service last night.

Great interest was manifested by those present and a large amount of personal work was done by the members in the congregation. These meetings will be continued all week and possibly longer.

A Maniac's Poem.

Probably the mass of prison poetry which has been written on stools and bedposts and scratched on prison walls far exceeds that which has found expression on paper, and many a "mute, inglorious Milton" has begun and finished his poetical career with these "lost to sight" productions.

There is in existence a short poem, said to have been scratched by a maniac on the wall of his cell, which runs thus:

Could I with ink the ocean fill,
Were all the world of parchment made,
Were every reed on earth a quill
And every man a scribe by trade,
To write the love of God alone
Would drain that ocean dry;
Nor could the scroll contain the whole,
Though stretched from sky to sky.

The authenticity of this being the work of a maniac has often been questioned because of the beauty of its expression and its sound reason, but the story stands.—All the Year Round.

Cambronne and His Needle.

The famous General Cambronne had a talent not rare in the French army. He knew how to use a needle. I knew an old lady who preserved with care a Brittany costume he made her for a fancy ball. She spoke of it as a beautiful fit at the time he measured her for it. The ornamental stitching on the corsage and apron formed designs invented by the general as he stitched, though he was of an age when the inventive faculty is dull. "What should I do to prevent tedium killing me," he once said in the hearing of this lady, "were it not for my needle?" He had little book education and never had any taste for reading. He was too sober to seek liveliness in drink, and too good a citizen to seek to play a part as a politician. He also had a loom with which he wove tapestry and furnished some beautiful things to his relatives.—Paris Cor. London News.

An Enduring Record.

Standing side by side in an old Long Island cemetery are four tombstones. They commemorate the virtues of the successive wives of one of the town's inhabitants. A peculiar thing about the monuments is that not alone do they perpetuate the memory of each of his helpmates, but they serve as a sort of financial barometer to record the husband's rising fortunes.

The first wife had a modest little headstone. The second wife's memorial was on the same order, but it was at least two feet taller. The third wife differed both as to style and size, being greatly superior to either of the others, while to the fourth and last was granted the distinction of a granite shaft.

SOCIAL EVENTS

A PLEASANT PARTY

William Blythe Agreeably Entertains a Number of Young Gentlemen.

William Blythe last evening entertained a party of his young friends at his pleasant home on College street. Progressive euchre was the order of the evening, and the number present was just sufficient to fill three tables. The honors were equally divided between Bailey Gipner and Alfred Cartwright on the one side and Blaine Cochran and Ernest Thompson for the other.

A most delightful evening was spent. The guests were all prominent young men, and the fact that the affair was in the form of a stag party lent a touch of novelty to the occasion, making it one of rare and complete enjoyment.

PRAISE SERVICE

Interesting Program For Woman's Missionary Thursday Afternoon.

The Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary society will hold its annual praise service at the First Presbyterian church Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. An interesting program has been prepared. Mrs. Watson will read a paper on the topics of the month, "A Forward Movement on the Mission Field;" Mrs. Mills Bennett, a paper entitled "Heroines in Mission Work;" Miss McClung will talk of her work as assistant to the pastor.

There will be special music with vocal selections by Mrs. John Thompson and Mrs. Spencer. A large attendance is expected.

Coming Wedding.

Lisbon, January 20.—(Special)—Invitations are out for the marriage of Dr. Charles Dickens Williams, of Cleveland, and Miss Anna Martin, of Lisbon. The wedding will take place in the presence of about 40 guests at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Mary Agnes Martin, in this place at noon, on January 28.

Coming Organ Recital.

The organ recital to be given at St. Stephen's church promises to be a great success. Prof. Paris Myers, said to be the best organist in the state, will contribute. With him will be the wonderful boy soloist of St. Matthew's, Wheeling. The recital will take place at St. Stephen's Thursday evening, January 29.

To Entertain.

Prof. R. E. Rayman will entertain his primary Sunday school class at his home next Thursday evening.

No Difficulty Was Confronted in Slaughtering the Peerless Aggregation.

There was an enthusiastic crowd at the Imperial bowling alleys last evening when the Peerless and Imperial teams played a one-sided series of games. The latter aggregation gave the members of the Peerless team a warning that they will not soon forget, rolling three straight games by nearly 100 pins. The large number of witnesses to the contest displayed enthusiasm until the second game was nearing an end, when it was seen that the Imperials could not be bested. The individual scores follow:

Imperials—McEldowney, 162, 255, 195; Craig, 143, 190, 153; Rigby, 141, 174, 221; Carnahan, 179, 118, 177; E. Clark, 195, 166, 163.

WAS GREAT OVATION.

President Mitchel. Given Grandest Reception Ever Offered a Labor Leader.

DELEGATES MAKE RAFTERS RING

Ohio and West Virginia Miners Will Demand an Increase of 25 Per Cent. While Those of Indiana and Illinois Will Ask for 20 Per Cent.

Indianapolis, Jan. 20.—The fourteenth annual convention of the United Mine Workers of America was convened yesterday with an impromptu demonstration in honor of President Mitchell, greater and more enthusiastic than any other ovation ever offered a leader of organized labor. As President Mitchell entered the hall the thousand delegates leaped to their feet and cheered and applauded until the rafters rang.

When quiet was restored Mayor Bookwalter, in welcoming President Mitchell, caused a second outburst by his tribute to the chief executive of the organization. President Mitchell replied briefly, and before he regained his seat he was invited to be the guest of honor at a reception given for him last night.

Annual Report Not Read.

Although President Mitchell's annual report was not read yesterday afternoon, as was intended, it was given out last night that chief among his recommendations will be advice to the bituminous miners to demand a substantial advance.

As a result of this report there were numerous informal meetings of delegates last night devoted to a discussion of the various instructions with which they come to the convention. Delegates from the West Virginia field will insist upon a demand for 25 per cent increase. Delegates from Indiana and Illinois are more conservative and will ask for only a 20 per cent advance. The Pennsylvania delegation will place its demands upon the same basis. Ohio, however, will join West Virginia and insist upon the 25 per cent increase.

Delegation Non-Communicative.

The Pittsburg delegation, headed by Pat Dolan, was averse to making public the text of the particular instructions under which it is seated. Uriah Bellingham, of the same district, was equally non-communicative.

It is not yet known when the subject of the advance will be brought to the attention of the convention. That matter will be determined by the rules of the committee composed of J. P. Gallagher, of Hazleton, Pa., and William Dodd, of Pittsburg.

President Mitchell was officially recognized yesterday by the Indiana general assembly. In a resolution adopted by the house of representatives he was welcomed back to Indiana and invited to address the members at his convenience. Committees were appointed to wait upon him and learn when he could appear before the two branches.

REVIVAL SERVICES

Great Interest Manifested in the Meetings at the First M. E. Church.

The revival service at the First M E. church last night was attended by a fair audience. Rev. Dr. Pratt preached a telling sermon from the text, "Behold I stand and knock at the door. There were a large number of conversions and quite a number of accessions to the church at the service last night.

Great interest was manifested by those present and a large amount of personal work was done by the members in the congregation. These meetings will be continued all week and possibly longer.

A Maniac's Poem.

Probably the mass of prison poetry which has been written on stools and bedposts and scratched on prison walls far exceeds that which has found expression on paper, and many a "mute, inglorious Milton" has begun and finished his poetical career with these "lost to sight" productions.

There is in existence a short poem, said to have been scratched by a maniac on the wall of his cell, which runs thus:

Could I with ink the ocean fill,
Were all the world of parchment made,
Were every reed on earth a quill
And every man a scribe by trade,
To write the love of God alone
Would drain that ocean dry;
Nor could the scroll contain the whole,
Though stretched from sky to sky.

The authenticity of this being the work of a maniac has often been questioned because of the beauty of its expression and its sound reason, but the story stands.—All the Year Round.

Cambronne and His Needle.

The famous General Cambronne had a talent not rare in the French army. He knew how to use a needle. I knew an old lady who preserved with care a Brittany costume he made her for a fancy ball. She spoke of it as a beautiful fit at the time he measured her for it. The ornamental stitching on the corsage and apron formed designs invented by the general as he stitched, though he was of an age when the inventive faculty is dull. "What should I do to prevent tedium killing me," he once said in the hearing of this lady, "were it not for my needle?" He had little book education and never had any taste for reading. He was too sober to seek liveliness in drink, and too good a citizen to seek to play a part as a politician. He also had a loom with which he wove tapestry and furnished some beautiful things to his relatives.—Paris Cor. London News.

An Enduring Record.

Standing side by side in an old Long Island cemetery are four tombstones. They commemorate the virtues of the successive wives of one of the town's inhabitants. A peculiar thing about the monuments is that not alone do they perpetuate the memory of each of his helpmates, but they serve as a sort of financial barometer to record the husband's rising fortunes.

The first wife had a modest little headstone. The second wife's memorial was on the same order, but it was at least two feet taller. The third wife differed both as to style and size, being greatly superior to either of the others, while to the fourth and last was granted the distinction of a granite shaft.

The organ recital to be given at St. Stephen's church promises to be a great success. Prof. Paris Myers, said to be the best organist in the state, will contribute. With him will be the wonderful boy soloist of St. Matthew's, Wheeling. The recital will take place at St. Stephen's Thursday evening, January 29.

To Entertain.

Prof. R. E. Rayman will entertain his primary Sunday school class at his home next Thursday evening.

No Difficulty Was Confronted in Slaughtering the Peerless Aggregation.

There was an enthusiastic crowd at the Imperial bowling alleys last evening when the Peerless and Imperial teams played a one-sided series of games. The latter aggregation gave the members of the Peerless team a walloping that they will not soon forget, whaling three straight games by nearly 100 pins. The large number of witnesses to the contest displayed enthusiasm until the second game was nearing an end, when it was seen that the Imperials could not be bested. The individual scores follow:

Imperials—McEldowney, 162, 255, 195; Craig, 143, 190, 153; Rigby, 141, 174, 221; Carnahan, 179, 118, 177; E. Clark, 195, 166, 163.

WAS GREAT OVATION.

President Mitchel Given Grandest Reception Ever Offered a Labor Leader.

DELEGATES MAKE RAFTERS RING

Ohio and West Virginia Miners Will Demand an Increase of 25 Per Cent. While Those of Indiana and Illinois Will Ask for 20 Per Cent.

Indianapolis, Jan. 20.—The fourteenth annual convention of the United Mine Workers of America was convened yesterday with an impromptu demonstration in honor of President Mitchell, greater and more enthusiastic than any other ovation ever offered a leader of organized labor. As President Mitchell entered the hall the thousand delegates leaped to their feet and cheered and applauded until the rafters rang.

When quiet was restored Mayor Bookwalter, in welcoming President Mitchell, caused a second outburst by his tribute to the chief executive of the organization. President Mitchell replied briefly, and before he regained his seat he was invited to be the guest of honor at a reception given for him last night.

Annual Report Not Read.

Although President Mitchell's annual report was not read yesterday afternoon, as was intended, it was given out last night that chief among his recommendations will be advice to the bituminous miners to demand a substantial advance.

As a result of this report there were numerous informal meetings of delegates last night devoted to a discussion of the various instructions with which they come to the convention. Delegates from the West Virginia field will insist upon a demand for 25 per cent increase. Delegates from Indiana and Illinois are more conservative and will ask for only a 20 per cent advance. The Pennsylvania delegation will place its demands upon the same basis. Ohio, however, will join West Virginia and insist upon the 25 per cent increase.

Delegation Non-Communicative.

The Pittsburg delegation, headed by Pat Dolan, was averse to making public the text of the particular instructions under which it is seated. Uriah Bellingham, of the same district, was equally non-communicative.

It is not yet known when the subject of the advance will be brought to the attention of the convention. That matter will be determined by the rules of the committee composed of J. P. Gallagher, of Hazleton, Pa., and William Dodd, of Pittsburg.

President Mitchell was officially recognized yesterday by the Indiana general assembly. In a resolution adopted by the house of representatives he was welcomed back to Indiana and invited to address the members at his convenience. Committees were appointed to wait upon him and learn when he could appear before the two branches.

REVIVAL SERVICES

Great Interest Manifested in the Meetings at the First M. E. Church.

The revival service at the First M. E. church last night was attended by a fair audience. Rev. Dr. Pratt preached a telling sermon from the text, "Behold I stand and knock at the door. There were a large number of conversions and quite a number of accessions to the church at the service last night.

Great interest was manifested by those present and a large amount of personal work was done by the members in the congregation. These meetings will be continued all week and possibly longer.

A Maniac's Poem.

Probably the mass of prison poetry which has been written on stools and bedposts and scratched on prison walls far exceeds that which has found expression on paper, and many a "mute, inglorious Milton" has begun and finished his poetical career with these "lost to sight" productions.

There is in existence a short poem, said to have been scratched by a maniac on the wall of his cell, which runs thus:

Could I with ink the ocean fill,
Were all the world of parchment made,
Were every reed on earth a quill
And every man a scribe by trade,
To write the love of God alone
Would drain that ocean dry;
Nor could the scroll contain the whole,
Though stretched from sky to sky.

The authenticity of this being the work of a maniac has often been questioned because of the beauty of its expression and its sound reason, but the story stands.—All the Year Round.

Cambronne and His Needle.

The famous General Cambronne had a talent not rare in the French army. He knew how to use a needle. I knew an old lady who preserved with care a Brittany costume he made her for a fancy ball. She spoke of it as a beautiful fit at the time he measured her for it. The ornamental stitching on the corsage and apron formed designs invented by the general as he stitched, though he was of an age when the inventive faculty is dull. "What should I do to prevent tedium killing me," he once said in the hearing of this lady, "were it not for my needle?" He had little book education and never had any taste for reading. He was too sober to seek liveliness in drink, and too good a citizen to seek to play a part as a politician. He also had a loom with which he wove tapestry and furnished some beautiful things to his relatives.—Paris Cor. London News.

An Enduring Record.

Standing side by side in an old Long Island cemetery are four tombstones. They commemorate the virtues of the successive wives of one of the town's inhabitants. A peculiar thing about the monuments is that not alone do they perpetuate the memory of each of his helpmates, but they serve as a sort of financial barometer to record the husband's rising fortunes.

The first wife had a modest little headstone. The second wife's memorial was on the same order, but it was at least two feet taller. The third wife differed both as to style and size, being greatly superior to either of the others, while to the fourth and last was granted the distinction of a granite shaft.

19TH YEAR. NO. 16. EAST LIVERPOOL, O., FRIDAY, JANUARY 13, 1903. TWO CENTS.

A BAD EFFECT UPON THE WARE

Trenton Manufacturers Do Not Like Soft Coal and Find It Expensive.

SCARCE AT ANY PRICE

Many Men Idle And Plants Threatened With Suspension—Governor Wants More Stringent Child Labor Laws The Elite Pottery Is Enlarging.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Trenton, N. J., January 16.—The deteriorating effect soft coal is having upon the production of pottery in this city is causing the manufacturers no little alarm. The condition has reached such a point that great quantities of ware fail to stand the test and is broken and thrown in the dump heap. The firing of the kilns with bituminous coal has been made necessary because of inability to get anthracite.

Most of the potteries have had to practically rebuild their kilns in order to burn soft coal, the staple fuel since the inauguration of the coal strike last May. This coal gives a very uneven heat and at times portions of biscuit kilns are drawn where the ware has not been thoroughly burned.

Trenton's pottery industry is passing through the worst phase of the coal situation and several plants are threatened with a suspension of operations. Orders are taken with no guarantee for delivery and the potteries have decided to enter into no agreements with jobbers until they are assured of a better coal supply. The little coal that can be obtained is used sparingly, to get out special orders. Many men are idle and the manufacturers are unable to induce the railroad companies to alleviate the distress. The embargo which the Pennsylvania Railroad company has placed upon eastern shipments of bituminous coal, save only to gas companies, has thrown the potters upon the mercy of the wholesale jobbers who have taken advantage of the order and raised the price to $10 a ton.

"Such exorbitant prices," said Charles A. May, president of the Maddock Pottery company, yesterday, "make it impossible to produce ware at a profit. We are playing a losing game and I don't propose to accept any more contract orders until the supply of coal becomes more plentiful. We appear to get no satisfaction from the railroad companies, who think we should rest content with a couple of cars a week."

The big plant of Thomas Maddock & Sons has only about 10 cars of coal and the chances for obtaining more are very slim. A similar condition exists at the plants controlled by the Trenton Potteries company. The mammoth wire plant of the John A. Roebling Son's Co., employing upwards of 3,000 men, is threatened with a suspension of operations.

Governor Murphy, in his annual message to the legislature, advocates more stringent laws for the prevention of child labor.

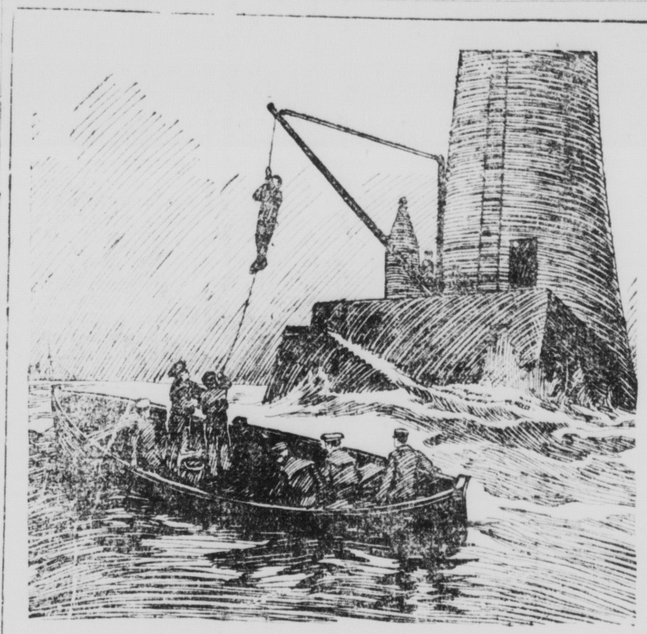
"Children should be protected from the heartlessness of parents," says the governor. "The present legal age for the employment of girls is 14 and of boys 12 years. I recommend that the legal age for the employment of boys be increased to 14. That is young enough, and is the age prescribed by Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York and eight other states. Children cannot be expected to go to school after the practical work of life is begun, and their mental, moral and physical welfare demands that the change recommended be made."

In accord with Governor Murphy's recommendation, the New Jersey State Federation of Labor has completed a bill which will be introduced in the legislature at an early date.

Now that the jiggermen and dishmakers are again within the jurisdiction of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, Vice President Hutchins is devoting his attention to organizing a local of general ware pressers. This was one of the original plans of the national executive board, but was retarded by the action of the jiggermen. In point of numbers the general ware pressers should form one of the largest locals in the city.

The jiggermen and dishmakers held their first business meeting since becoming a part of the Brotherhood last Tuesday night and admitted several new members.

In spite of the distressed condition of the coal supply the Elite Pottery company, the youngest pottery in the local field, is still adding to its plant. The shop began operations a few months ago with two kilns. Another was added about two months later and yesterday a contract was awarded for the erection of a fourth.



LIGHTHOUSE LIFE IN THE WINTER TIME.

Life in a lighthouse is not particularly exciting or pleasant in the summer, but in winter the loneliness is rendered even more irksome by fierce storms and bitter cold. There are 1,500 lighthouses and beacons under the control of the United States lighthouse establishment, and many of them are in very dangerous places—dangerous alike for the mariner and the keeper of the light. On stormy winter days the only means of communication between boats and lighthouses is a crane such as is shown in the picture above.

ATTEMPT TO WRECK THE LIMITED TRAIN

CONFESSED BY DISCHARGED FIREMAN AT ALLIANCE.

Perry S. Arnold Admits That He Placed Chain on Ft. Wayne in Front of the Express.

Alliance, January 16.—Perry S. Arnold, of this city, has made a confession to Pennsylvania railroad detectives that he was the party who placed the chain on the track which was discovered just in time to prevent the wrecking of the Twentieth Century limited one night about a week ago. He was at once bound over to court without bond, and as the crime took place in Mahoning county he was taken to jail at Youngstown. The maximum penalty for this act is imprisonment for 10 years or a fine of $2,500.

After several hours in the sweat box, and the introduction of two witnesses who saw Arnold carrying the chain half an hour before it was discovered, he admitted that he placed the chain on the track, and afterward gave the alarm, for the sole purpose of eliciting sympathy from the railroad company, and thus securing his reinstatement as a fireman on the road, from which position he had recently been discharged for cause.

He claimed he intended to remove the chain and thus secure commendation for saving the train.

Wanted to Gain Favor.

Alliance, O., Jan. 16.—Terrell S. Arnold was arrested yesterday and has confessed that he fastened a heavy chain around a rail on the Fort Wayne railroad track a week ago. His motive, he said, was to "discover" the obstruction in time to prevent a wreck, and thus gain favor with the railroad people and secure his position, that of fireman, from which he was discharged recently.

Fell Down Shaft.

Shenandoah, Pa., Jan. 16.—Michael Flaherty, employed as a laborer at Indian Ridge colliery at this place met a shocking death Wednesday night by falling down the shaft, a distance of 310 feet. His body was crushed into an unrecognizable mass. He was 27 years old and unmarried.

Woman Asphyxiated.

Philadelphia, Jan. 16.—Mrs. Dorothea Phine, aged 80 years, was asphyxiated by illuminating gas in her home in this city yesterday, and her son, William, aged 40 years, was overcome and is in a critical condition in a hospital.

A GRAND DAUGHTER OF GEN. GOMEZ

YOUNG LADY FROM CUBA A VISITOR IN THIS COUNTY.

Orphaned During the War That Gave Her Country Freedom—Member of Junta.

Salem, Jan. 16.—Miss Cuba Arrangurenurbenharodieadtyvelez, a remarkably intelligent and well-bred young Cuban girl, was in Salem for a short time yesterday. The young lady is a grand daughter of General Maximo Gomez, the famous Cuban general whose exploits during the late war between the Cubans and Spaniards brought him into international prominence. Miss Gomez, as her friends call her for short, was accompanied by her friend, Mrs. Charles Bour, nee Miss Jeannette Wolfgang, of Leetonia whose guest she has been for the past two weeks. The two were on their way to Pittsburg to spend several weeks with friends.

Miss Gomez's home is in Havana Cuba, but she has traveled over the world considerably and spends but little of her time there. She has visited most of the cities of importance in the United States, and spent some time in Mexico, where she was educated and has relatives. She has visited Europe on several occasions. On the whole, she is now pretty thoroughly Americanized, and it is not easy to distinguish her Spanish origin or her foreign nativity.

The prominence of her family in Cuba has tended to place her in public notice also, and she has served as a member of the Cuban commission to the Pan-American exposition, and expects to visit the big St. Louis fair in the same capacity. During the turbulous war times in Cuba, soon after her education had been completed in this country, she was a member of the famous Cuban Junta in New York city. It was while a member of this that she met Mrs. Bour, who was interested in a Cuban relief association which gave assistance to the Cubans at that time. Her father and mother were killed during the war. Her brothers were members of the patriot army.

Miss Gomez is a good conversationalist, and appears to be well up on the affairs of the Cuban government. She expects to go to Havana soon, and is endeavoring to get Mrs. Bour to make the trip with her.

Rikk Declared Intoxicating.

"Rikk" is declared to be an intoxicating beverage and its sale is prohibited in Allegheny county by the Brookes license law, so declares a jury in criminal court. The decision of the jury is a most important one, in that the defendant in the case was not the only person that has been selling the stuff in the vicinity of Campbell Station. The prosecution was to the directions of the judges of the criminal court.

Big Mines at Bridgeport.

Just as soon as the two big modern tipples can be built and the mines opened, Bridgeport is going to have one of the largest coal plants in this section of the country. The Moore's Run Coal company, capitalized at $100,000, under the laws of West Virginia, is the name of the corporation which will operate the plant.

SWORN ENEMIES MET

Lieutenant Governor Tillman, of South Carolina, Fatally Shoots Editor.

CHALLENGE TO DUEL IGNORED.

Tillman Was Arrested and Is Confined in the County Jail Pending the Outcome of Gonzales' Injuries—Affair Caused Great Excitement.

Columbia, S. C., Jan. 16.—In the very shadow of the South Carolina state house Lieutenant Governor James H. Tillman yesterday afternoon shot and probably mortally wounded Narcisso Gener Gonzales, founder and editor of the Columbia State, a newspaper, which since its inception has bitterly opposed the so-called Tillman faction in South Carolina politics. The two men have been sworn enemies for some years, and Tillman's animosity was accentuated by Gonzales' pronounced editorial opposition to him as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor during last fall's primary. In that campaign Gonzales made editorial reference to Tillman as a "liar, scoundrel and debauchee." A challenge to a duel followed, but Gonzales ignored it.

Gonzales Sent Message.

It is rumored that the immediate cause of the attack was a message sent Wednesday by Gonzales to Tillman. Wednesday night, at the Columbia hotel, Lieutenant Governor Tillman said to a group of his friends: "Gonzales has sent we word that when we meet again we shall settle our difficulties with pistols."

Gonzales' friends deny that he sent a message of any character to Tillman. Statements of the eye-witnesses to the tragedy are somewhat conflicting, and it cannot be stated positively whether or not any words passed between the men before the shot was fired.

Condition Critical.

The condition of the wounded man late last night was regarded by the surgeons as very critical. Tillman was arrested and is confined in the county jail, pending the outcome of Gonzales' injuries.

The affair caused great excitement in the city, which is filled with politicians, who are here to participate in the inauguration of the new state government. Lieutenant Governor Tillman's term will expire within a few days. Some expressions of a desire for summary vengeance were heard on the streets after the shooting, but nothing of a serious character occurred.

At 3 a. m. Mr. Gonzales was still resting quietly. His pulse was 114; respiration 30, and temperature 99 4-5.

NATIONAL LIVE STOCK BODY.

President Roosevelt's Suggestion to Settle Range Problem Endorsed by Rising Vote.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 16.—The National Live Stock association, at its annual convention here yesterday, by a rising vote, adopted a resolution endorsing President Roosevelt's suggestion that congress appoint a commission of experts to settle the range problem, which for years has been a bone of contention between cattle men and sheep men.

A resolution was adopted favoring an amendment of the interstate commerce law in such a way as to grant to the interstate commerce commission power to adjust freight rates after they have been found to be unequal and unjust and power to put into full force and effect its rulings.

An important resolution adopted asks congress to give the secretary of agriculture power to order the disinfection of imported skins and hides at the different ports of entry, and also to designate the ports at which hides may be brought into the country.

Other resolutions favor a 15-cent duty on pelts, pickled hides and skins, which are dutiable because they are partly manufactured, and endorse the proposed live stock exhibition at the St. Louis world's fair.

Before adjournment for the day was taken a new executive committee was named.

THE NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

Session Listless and Dealings Small. Time Money Rates Firm—Bonds Dull and Irregular.

New York, Jan. 16.—There was very little character in yesterday's stock market, as is sufficiently indicated by the volume of business, which fell to about the half million share mark. The continued liquidation in Reading created a bad impression upon speculative sentiment, and this impression was not dissipated by the marking up yesterday of Ontario and Western in the anthracite group and the advance in Chesapeake and Ohio and Hocking Valley in the soft coalers.

There was no disquieting element in the money situation unless it might be the indication that the Bank of England is disposed to build up its reserves and maintain the money rate. New York banks continued to gain cash, but the gains from the subtreasury are due to heavy payments on government contracts and for pensions, which are made in bulk in New York, but which are now about completed. Time money rates were reported rather firmer. None of the upword movements were well maintained and the closing was dull and easy at about the low level of the day.

Bonds were dull and irregular. Total sales, par value, $2,455,000.

United States 2s advanced ¼ and the new 4s, coupon, 1 per cent on the last call.

OHIO AGRICULTURALISTS MEET.

Resolutions Protesting Against "Manifest Slight" Adopted.

Columbus, O., Jan. 16.—The Ohio agricultural convention last night adopted a resolution protesting against "the manifest slight" to the agricultural interests of the country shown by two special bills now pending in congress, one of which appropriates $7,000,000 for a building for the department of justice and the other $1,500,000 for a new home for the department of agriculture. The resolutions further declare:

"That while we do not object to a generous appropriation for the department of justice, we do insist that agriculutre shall be generously endorsed."

Samuel Taylor, of Franklin county, and R. O. Hinsdale, of Medina, were elected members of the state board of agriculture. The board organized by electing Thadeus E. Cromley, of Pickaway county, president, and T. L. Calvert, of Clark, treasurer.

Anthracite Strike Hearing.

Philadelphia, Jan. 16.—Most of the testimony presented to the anthracite coal strike commission yesterday was of a corroborative nature, the Erie company, which has not yet concluded its case, producing numerous witnesses to prove that the miners' union is responsible for the alleged restriction of the hard coal production. The Erie company controls the Hillside Coal and Iron company and the Pennsylvania Coal company. During the examination of Edward Button, a foreman employed by the latter company, the fact was adduced that the practice of restricting the number of cars to be loaded daily by one man had been in operation as far back as 1895, long before the United Mine Workers of America entered the anthracite region. The union's responsibility rests with the enforcement of this rule and not with its inception.

Ohio Miners Blame Railroads.

Columbus, O., Jan. 16.—The Ohio miners in convention blame the coal carrying railroads for the shortage of coal in this state. Miners say they are ready to work at all times, but cannot get the cars for loading, and consequently are compelled to lay off two and three days a week. A resolution, presented by a Corning delegate, in favor of a general Saturday holiday, was tabled on account of the shortage of coal. President Harkins states that the Ohio miners are not ready to take up the question of government ownership of mines, but predicts that this will be a prominent issue in the near future.

Dealer Not Liable for Taxes.

Marietta, O., Jan. 16.—The circuit court yesterday decided that when a liquor dealer in Marietta sold goods to be delivered by express C. O. D. in another county, the dealer was not liable for taxes for sales in such county, as the sale was made in Marietta. The case was a suit by Athens county to collect taxes from a Marietta liquor dealer for goods sent into Athens county.

Invading Standard Oil Field.

Findlay, O., Jan. 16.—The National Refining company, of Cleveland, is laying an eight-mile pipe line from their refinery in this city to the heart of Marion township oil fields which have heretofore been operated by the Standard Oil company. This step of the National people is considered to be the opening gun of war between the two companies.

Killed as He Stepped Into Saloon.

Springfield, O., Jan. 16.—George Farrell, 26 years old, was killed yesterday by William Harris, chef of the Palace hotel, at noon, as he stepped into a saloon in the west end of the city. Harris says that he intended to kill Farrell because of the latter's relations with his wife.

Two Dead, Two Fatally Injured.

Shenandoah, Pa., Jan. 16.—An explosion of gas occurred at Packer No. 2 colliery yesterday, by which two men were instantly killed and two others so badly injured that their lives are despaired of. The dead are: Stiney Walakicz and William Koniaki. Both men were married and leave families. There were several other men in the mine at the time of the accident, but they escaped injury.

Tom L. Johnson Not a Candidate.

New York, Jan. 16.—Mayor Tom L. Johnson, of Cleveland, who is in this city, last night denied that he is a candidate for governor of Ohio, as reported to have been announced yesterday by Chairman William J. Frey, of the Ohio Democratic state committee. Mayor Johnson said: "I am not a candidate for the nomination, and if Mr. Frey has made any such announcement he has done so without my authorization or approval."

Rehearing Granted.

Harrisburg, Jan. 16.—The board of pardons decided to give Mrs. Kate Edwards, of Berks county, under sentence of death for murder, a rehearing. The new board under Governor Pennypacker will next hear the case.

Miss Agnes Miller, of Chicago, speaks to young women about dangers of the Menstrual Period—how to avoid pain and suffering and remove the cause by using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"To Young Women:—I suffered for six years with dysmenorrhea (painful periods), so much so that I dreaded every month, as I knew it meant three or four days of intense pain. The doctor said this was due to an inflamed condition of the uterine appendages caused by repeated and neglected colds.

"If young girls only realized how dangerous it is to take cold at this critical time, much suffering would be spared them. Thank God for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that was the only medicine which helped me any. Within three weeks after I started to take it, I noticed a marked improvement in my general health, and at the time of my next monthly period the pain had diminished considerably. I kept up the treatment, and was cured a month later. I am like another person since, I am in perfect health, my eyes are brighter, I have added 12 pounds to my weight, my color is good, and I feel light and happy."—Miss Agnes Miller, 25 Potomac Ave., Chicago, Ill.

The monthly sickness reflects the condition of a woman's health. Anything unusual at that time should have prompt and proper attention. Fifty thousand letters from women prove that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound regulates menstruation and makes those periods painless.

READ WHAT MISS LINDBECK SAYS:

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has greatly benefitted me. I will tell you how I suffered. My trouble was painful menstruation. I felt as each month went by that I was getting worse. I had severe bearing-down pains in my back and abdomen.

"A friend advised me to try Mrs. Pinkham's medicine. I did so and am now free from all pain during my periods."—Jessie C. Lindbeck, 1201 6th Street, Rockford, Ill.

SALINEVILLE

Salineville, January 16.—John S. Thompson was the grand juror from Washington township.

A car of coal for the accommodation of the miners' families has been placed on the J. W. Hunter switch by the Slope coal mines.

Attorney E. E. Black has resigned the superintendency of the Amsterdam coal mines.

Mrs. Fred S. Bunn has recovered from her late attack of tonsilitis and will soon return to her home in Youngstown.

A. C. Lewton, of Waitsville, accompanied by Henry Miller, of Scroggs field, was in town, and Mr. Miller rented the farm of R. G. Thompson near Waitsville for one year from the first of April next.

Robert Edgar Thompson, accompanied by Harry Dallas, left for East Liverpool to attend the Ohio Valley Business college, where they will take a course in business.

W. A. Thompson came over from Lisbon to be present at the annual election of directors of the Citizens' Banking company, of Salineville.

James E. Herbert, who was in the hotel fire at Chicago and leaped out of a fourth story window to save his life, is rapidly convalescing. He is able to wear a shoe now, but can bear but little weight on that foot.

A BAD EFFECT UPON THE WARE

Trenton Manufacturers Do Not Like Soft Coal and Find It Expensive.

SCARCE AT ANY PRICE

From a Staff Correspondent.

Trenton, N. J., January 16.—The deteriorating effect soft coal is having upon the production of pottery in this city is causing the manufacturers no little alarm. The condition has reached such a point that great quantities of ware fail to stand the test and is broken and thrown in the dump heap. The firing of the kilns with bituminous coal has been made necessary because of inability to get anthracite.

Most of the potteries have had to practically rebuild their kilns in order to burn soft coal, the staple fuel since the inauguration of the coal strike last May. This coal gives a very uneven heat and at times portions of biscuit kilns are drawn where the ware has not been thoroughly burned.

Trenton's pottery industry is passing through the worst phase of the coal situation and several plants are threatened with a suspension of operations. Orders are taken with no guarantee for delivery and the potteries have decided to enter into no agreements with jobbers until they are assured of a better coal supply. The little coal that can be obtained is used sparingly, to get out special orders. Many men are idle and the manufacturers are unable to induce the railroad companies to alleviate the distress. The embargo which the Pennsylvania Railroad company has placed upon eastern shipments of bituminous coal, save only to gas companies, has thrown the potters upon the mercy of the wholesale jobbers who have taken advantage of the order and raised the price to $10 a ton.

"Such exorbitant prices," said Charles A. May, president of the Maddock Pottery company, yesterday, "make it impossible to produce ware at a profit. We are playing a losing game and I don't propose to accept any more contract orders until the supply of coal becomes more plentiful. We appear to get no satisfaction from the railroad companies, who think we should rest content with a couple of cars a week."

The big plant of Thomas Maddock & Sons has only about 10 cars of coal and the chances for obtaining more are very slim. A similar condition exists at the plants controlled by the Trenton Potteries company. The mammoth wire plant of the John A. Roebling Son's Co., employing upwards of 3,000 men, is threatened with a suspension of operations.

Governor Murphy, in his annual message to the legislature, advocates more stringent laws for the prevention of child labor.

"Children should be protected from the heartlessness of parents," says the governor. "The present legal age for the employment of girls is 14 and of boys 12 years. I recommend that the legal age for the employment of boys be increased to 14. That is young enough, and is the age prescribed by Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York and eight other states. Children cannot be expected to go to school after the practical work of life is begun, and their mental, moral and physical welfare demands that the change recommended be made."

In accord with Governor Murphy's recommendation, the New Jersey State Federation of Labor has completed a bill which will be introduced in the legislature at an early date.

Now that the jiggermen and dishmakers are again within the jurisdiction of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, Vice President Hutchins is devoting his attention to organizing a local of general ware pressers. This was one of the original plans of the national executive board, but was retarded by the action of the jiggermen. In point of numbers the general ware pressers should form one of the largest locals in the city.

The jiggermen and dishmakers held their first business meeting since becoming a part of the Brotherhood last Tuesday night and admitted several new members.

In spite of the distressed condition of the coal supply the Elite Pottery company, the youngest pottery in the local field, is still adding to its plant. The shop began operations a few months ago with two kilns. Another was added about two months later and yesterday a contract was awarded for the erection of a fourth.

LIGHTHOUSE LIFE IN THE WINTER TIME.

Life in a lighthouse is not particularly exciting or pleasant in the summer, but in winter the loneliness is rendered even more irksome by fierce storms and bitter cold. There are 1,500 lighthouses and beacons under the control of the United States lighthouse establishment and many of them are in very dangerous places—dangerous alike for the mariner and the keeper of the light. On stormy winter days the only means of communication between boats and lighthouses is a crane such as is shown in the picture above.

ATTEMPT TO WRECK THE LIMITED TRAIN

CONFESSED BY DISCHARGED FIREMAN AT ALLIANCE.

Perry S. Arnold Admits That He Placed Chain on Ft. Wayne in Front of the Express.

Alliance, January 16.—Perry S. Arnold, of this city, has made a confession to Pennsylvania railroad detectives that he was the party who placed the chain on the track which was discovered just in time to prevent the wrecking of the Twentieth Century limited one night about a week ago. He was at once bound over to court without bond, and as the crime took place in Mahoning county he was taken to jail at Youngstown. The maximum penalty for this act is imprisonment for 10 years or a fine of $2,500.

After several hours in the sweat box, and the introduction of two witnesses who saw Arnold carrying the chain half an hour before it was discovered, he admitted that he placed the chain on the track, and afterward gave the alarm, for the sole purpose of eliciting sympathy from the railroad company, and thus securing his reinstatement as a fireman on the road, from which position he had recently been discharged for cause.

He claimed he intended to remove the chain and thus secure commendation for saving the train.

Wanted to Gain Favor.

Alliance, O., Jan. 16.—Terrell S. Arnold was arrested yesterday and has confessed that he fastened a heavy chain around a rail on the Fort Wayne railroad track a week ago. His motive, he said, was to "discover" the obstruction in time to prevent a wreck, and thus gain favor with the railroad people and secure his position, that of fireman, from which he was discharged recently.

Fell Down Shaft.

Shenandoah, Pa., Jan. 16.—Michael Flaherty, employed as a laborer at Indian Ridge colliery at this place met a shocking death Wednesday night by falling down the shaft, a distance of 310 feet. His body was crushed into an unrecognizable mass. He was 27 years old and unmarried.

Woman Asphyxiated.

Philadelphia, Jan. 16.—Mrs. Dorothea Phine, aged 80 years, was asphyxiated by illuminating gas in her home in this city yesterday, and her son, William, aged 40 years, was overcome and is in a critical condition in a hospital.

A GRAND DAUGHTER OF GEN. GOMEZ

YOUNG LADY FROM CUBA A VISITOR IN THIS COUNTY.

Salem, Jan. 16.—Miss Cuba Arrangurenurbenharodieadtyvelez, a remarkably intelligent and well-bred young Cuban girl, was in Salem for a short time yesterday. The young lady is a grand daughter of General Maximo Gomez, the famous Cuban general whose exploits during the late war between the Cubans and Spaniards brought him into international prominence. Miss Gomez, as her friends call her for short, was accompanied by her friend, Mrs. Charles Bour, nee Miss Jeannette Wolfgang, of Leetonia, whose guest she has been for the past two weeks. The two were on their way to Pittsburg to spend several weeks with friends.

Miss Gomez's home is in Havana, Cuba, but she has traveled over the world considerably and spends but little of her time there. She has visited most of the cities of importance in the United States, and spent some time in Mexico, where she was educated and has relatives. She has visited Europe on several occasions. On the whole, she is now pretty thoroughly Americanized, and it is not easy to distinguish her Spanish origin or her foreign nativity.

The prominence of her family in Cuba has tended to place her in public notice also, and she has served as a member of the Cuban commission to the Pan-American exposition, and expects to visit the big St. Louis fair in the same capacity. During the turbulous war times in Cuba, soon after her education had been completed in this country, she was a member of the famous Cuban Junta in New York city. It was while a member of this that she met Mrs. Bour, who was interested in a Cuban relief association which gave assistance to the Cubans at that time. Her father and mother were killed during the war. Her brothers were members of the patriot army.

Miss Gomez is a good conversationalist, and appears to be well up on the affairs of the Cuban government. She expects to go to Havana soon, and is endeavoring to get Mrs. Bour to make the trip with her.

"Rikk" is declared to be an intoxicating beverage and its sale is prohibited in Allegheny county by the Brookes license law, so declares a jury in criminal court. The decision of the jury is a most important one, in that the defendant in the case was not the only person that has been selling the stuff in the vicinity of Campbell Station. The prosecution was to the directions of the judges of the criminal court.

Big Mines at Bridgeport.

Just as soon as the two big modern tipples can be built and the mines opened, Bridgeport is going to have one of the largest coal plants in this section of the country. SWORN ENEMIES MET

Lieutenant Governor Tillman, of South Carolina, Fatally Shoots Editor.

Tillman Was Arrested and Is Confined in the County Jail Pending the Outcome of Gonzales' Injuries—Affair Caused Great Excitement.

Columbia, S. C., Jan. 16.—In the very shadow of the South Carolina state house Lieutenant Governor James H. Tillman yesterday afternoon shot and probably mortally wounded Narcisso Gener Gonzales, founder and editor of the Columbia State, a newspaper, which since its inception has bitterly opposed the so-called Tillman faction in South Carolina politics. The two men have been sworn enemies for some years, and Tillman's animosity was accentuated by Gonzales' pronounced editorial opposition to him as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor during last fall's primary. In that campaign Gonzales made editorial reference to Tillman as a "liar, scoundrel and debauchee." A challenge to a duel followed, but Gonzales ignored it.

Gonzales Sent Message.

It is rumored that the immediate cause of the attack was a message sent Wednesday by Gonzales to Tillman. Wednesday night, at the Columbia hotel, Lieutenant Governor Tillman said to a group of his friends: "Gonzales has sent we word that when we meet again we shall settle our difficulties with pistols."

Gonzales' friends deny that he sent a message of any character to Tillman. Statements of the eye-witnesses to the tragedy are somewhat conflicting, and it cannot be stated positively whether or not any words passed between the men before the shot was fired.

Condition Critical.

The condition of the wounded man late last night was regarded by the surgeons as very critical. Tillman was arrested and is confined in the county jail, pending the outcome of Gonzales' injuries.

The affair caused great excitement in the city, which is filled with politicians, who are here to participate in the inauguration of the new state government. Lieutenant Governor Tillman's term will expire within a few days. Some expressions of a desire for summary vengeance were heard on the streets after the shooting, but nothing of a serious character occurred.

At 3 a. m. Mr. Gonzales was still resting quietly. His pulse was 114; respiration 30, and temperature 99 4-5.

NATIONAL LIVE STOCK BODY.

President Roosevelt's Suggestion to Settle Range Problem Endorsed by Rising Vote.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 16.—The National Live Stock association, at its annual convention here yesterday, by a rising vote, adopted a resolution endorsing President Roosevelt's suggestion that congress appoint a commission of experts to settle the range problem, which for years has been a bone of contention between cattle men and sheep men.

A resolution was adopted favoring an amendment of the interstate commerce law in such a way as to grant to the interstate commerce commission power to adjust freight rates after they have been found to be unequal and unjust and power to put into full force and effect its rulings.

An important resolution adopted asks congress to give the secretary of agriculture power to order the disinfection of imported skins and hides at the different ports of entry, and also to designate the ports at which hides may be brought into the country.

Other resolutions favor a 15-cent duty on pelts, pickled hides and skins, which are dutiable because they are partly manufactured, and endorse the proposed live stock exhibition at the St. Louis world's fair.

Before adjournment for the day was taken a new executive committee was named.

THE NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

Session Listless and Dealings Small. Time Money Rates Firm—Bonds Dull and Irregular.

New York, Jan. 16.—There was very little character in yesterday's stock market, as is sufficiently indicated by the volume of business, which fell to about the half million share mark. The continued liquidation in Reading created a bad impression upon speculative sentiment, and this impression was not dissipated by the marking up yesterday of Ontario and Western in the anthracite group and the advance in Chesapeake and Ohio and Hocking Valley in the soft coalers.

There was no disquieting element in the money situation unless it might be the indication that the Bank of England is disposed to build up its reserves and maintain the money rate. New York banks continued to gain cash, but the gains from the subtreasury are due to heavy payments on government contracts and for pensions, which are made in bulk in New York, but which are now about completed. Time money rates were reported rather firmer. None of the upword movements were well maintained and the closing was dull and easy at about the low level of the day.

Bonds were dull and irregular. Total sales, par value, $2,435,000.

United States 2s advanced ¼ and the new 4s, coupon, 1 per cent on the last call.

OHIO AGRICULTURALISTS MEET.

Resolutions Protesting Against "Manifest Slight" Adopted.

Columbus, O., Jan. 16.—The Ohio agricultural convention last night adopted a resolution protesting against "the manifest slight" to the agricultural interests of the country shown by two special bills now pending in congress, one of which appropriates $7,000,000 for a building for the department of justice and the other $1,500,000 for a new home for the department of agriculture. The resolutions further declare:

"That while we do not object to a generous appropriation for the department of justice, we do insist that agriculture shall be generously endorsed."

Samuel Taylor, of Franklin county, and R. O. Hinsdale, of Medina, were elected members of the state board of agriculture. The board organized by electing Thadeus E. Cromley, of Pickaway county, president, and T. L. Calvert, of Clark, treasurer.

Many men are idle and the manufacturers are unable to induce the railroad companies to alleviate the distress. The embargo which the Pennsylvania Railroad company has placed upon eastern shipments of bituminous coal, save only to gas companies, has thrown the potters upon the mercy of the wholesale jobbers who have taken advantage of the order and raised the price to $10 a ton

"Such exorbitant prices," said Charles A. May, president of the Maddock Pottery company, yesterday "make it impossible to produce ware at a profit. We are playing a losing game and I don't propose to accept any more contract orders until the supply of coal becomes more plentiful. We appear to get no satisfaction from the railroad companies, who think we should rest content with a couple of cars a week."

The big plant of Thomas Maddock & Sons has only about 10 cars of coal and the chances for obtaining more are very slim. A similar condition exists at the plants controlled by the Trenton Potteries company. The mammoth wire plant of the John A Roebling Son's Co., employing upwards of 3,000 men, is threatened with a suspension of operations.

Governor Murphy, in his annual message to the legislature, advocates more stringent laws for the prevention of child labor.

"Children should be protected from the heartlessness of parents," says the governor. "The present legal age for the employment of girls is 14 and of boys 12 years. I recommend that the legal age for the employment of boys be increased to 14. That is young enough, and is the age prescribed by Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York and eight other states. Children cannot be expected to go to school after the practical work of life is begun, and their mental, moral and physical welfare demands that the change recommended be made."

In accord with Governor Murphy's recommendation, the New Jersey State Federation of Labor has completed a bill which will be introduced in the legislature at an early date.

Now that the jiggermen and dishmakers are again within the jurisdiction of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, Vice President Hutchins is devoting his attention to organizing a local of general ware pressers. This was one of the original plans of the national executive board, but was retarded by the action of the jiggermen. In point of numbers the general ware pressers should form one of the largest locals in the city.

The jiggermen and dishmakers held their first business meeting since becoming a part of the Brotherhood last Tuesday night and admitted several new members.

In spite of the distressed condition of the coal supply the Elite Pottery company, the youngest pottery in the local field, is still adding to its plant. The shop began operations a few months ago with two kilns. Another was added about two months later and yesterday a contract was awarded for the erection of a fourth.

LIGHTHOUSE LIFE IN THE WINTER TIME.

Life in a lighthouse is not particularly exciting or pleasant in the summer, but in winter the loneliness is rendered even more irksome by fierce storms and bitter cold. There are 1,500 lighthouses and beacons under the control of the United States lighthouse establishment and many of them are in very dangerous places—dangerous alike for the mariner and the keeper of the light. On stormy winter days the only means of communication between boats and lighthouses is a crane such as is shown in the picture above.

ATTEMPT TO WRECK THE LIMITED TRAIN

CONFESSED BY DISCHARGED FIREMAN AT ALLIANCE.

Perry S. Arnold Admits That He Placed Chain on Ft. Wayne in Front of the Express.

Alliance, January 16.—Perry S. Arnold, of this city, has made a confession to Pennsylvania railroad detectives that he was the party who placed the chain on the track which was discovered just in time to prevent the wrecking of the Twentieth Century limited one night about a week ago. He was at once bound over to court without bond, and as the crime took place in Mahoning county he was taken to jail at Youngstown. The maximum penalty for this act is imprisonment for 10 years or a fine of $2,500.

After several hours in the sweat box, and the introduction of two witnesses who saw Arnold carrying the chain half an hour before it was discovered, he admitted that he placed the chain on the track, and afterward gave the alarm, for the sole purpose of eliciting sympathy from the railroad company, and thus securing his reinstatement as a fireman on the road, from which position he had recently been discharged for cause.

He claimed he intended to remove the chain and thus secure commendation for saving the train.

Wanted to Gain Favor.

Alliance, O., Jan. 16.—Terrell S. Arnold was arrested yesterday and has confessed that he fastened a heavy chain around a rail on the Fort Wayne railroad track a week ago. His motive, he said, was to "discover" the obstruction in time to prevent a wreck, and thus gain favor with the railroad people and secure his position, that of fireman, from which he was discharged recently

Fell Down Shaft.

Shenandoah, Pa., Jan. 16.—Michael Flaherty, employed as a laborer at Indian Ridge colliery at this place met a shocking death Wednesday night by falling down the shaft, a distance of 310 feet. His body was crushed into an unrecognizable mass. He was 27 years old and unmarried.

Woman Asphyxiated.

Philadelphia, Jan. 16.—Mrs. Dorothea Phine, aged 80 years, was asphyxiated by illuminating gas in her home in this city yesterday, and her son, William, aged 40 years, was overcome and is in a critical condition in a hospital.

A GRAND DAUGHTER OF GEN. GOMEZ

YOUNG LADY FROM CUBA A VISITOR IN THIS COUNTY.

Salem, Jan. 16.—Miss Cuba Arrangurenurbenharodieadtyvelez, a remarkably intelligent and well-bred young Cuban girl, was in Salem for a short time yesterday. The young lady is a grand daughter of General Maximo Gomez, the famous Cuban general whose exploits during the late war between the Cubans and Spaniards brought him into international prominence Miss Gomez, as her friends call her for short, was accompanied by her friend, Mrs. Charles Bour, nee Miss Jeannette Wolfgang, of Leetonia whose guest she has been for the past two weeks. The two were on their way to Pittsburg to spend several weeks with friends.

Miss Gomez's home is in Havana Cuba, but she has traveled over the world considerably and spends but little of her time there. She has visited most of the cities of importance in the United States, and spent some time in Mexico, where she was educated and has relatives. She has visited Europe on several occasions. On the whole, she is now pretty thoroughly Americanized, and it is not easy to distinguish her Spanish origin or her foreign nativity.

The prominence of her family in Cuba has tended to place her in public notice also, and she has served as a member of the Cuban commission to the Pan-American exposition, and expects to visit the big St. Louis fair in the same capacity. During the turbulous war times in Cuba, soon after her education had been completed in this country, she was a member of the famous Cuban Junta in New York city. It was while a member of this that she met Mrs Bour, who was interested in a Cuban relief association which gave assistance to the Cubans at that time Her father and mother were killed during the war. Her brothers were members of the patriot army.

Miss Gomez is a good conversationalist, and appears to be well up on the affairs of the Cuban government. She expects to go to Havana soon, and is endeavoring to get Mrs. Bour to make the trip with her.

Rikk Declared Intoxicating.

"Rikk" is declared to be an intoxicating beverage and its sale is prohibited in Allegheny county by the Brookes license law, so declares a jury in criminal court. The decision of the jury is a most important one, in that the defendant in the case was not the only person that has been selling the stuff in the vicinity of Campbell Station. The prosecution was to the directions of the judges of the criminal court.

Big Mines at Bridgeport.

Just as soon as the two big modern tipples can be built and the mines opened, Bridgeport is going to have one of the largest coal plants in this section of the country. The Moore's Run Coal company, capitalized at $100,000, under the laws of West Virginia, is the name of the corporation which will operate the plant.

SWORN ENEMIES MET

Lieutenant Governor Tillman, of South Carolina, Fatally Shoots Editor.

CHALLENGE TO DUEL IGNORED.

Tillman Was Arrested and Is Confined in the County Jail Pending the Outcome of Gonzales' Injuries—Affair Caused Great Excitement.

Columbia, S. C., Jan. 16.—In the very shadow of the South Carolina state house Lieutenant Governor James H. Tillman yesterday afternoon shot and probably mortally wounded Narcisso Gener Gonzales, founder and editor of the Columbia State, a newspaper, which since its inception has bitterly opposed the so-called Tillman faction in South Carolina politics. The two men have been sworn enemies for some years, and Tillman's animosity was accentuated by Gonzales' pronounced editorial opposition to him as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor during last fall's primary. In that campaign Gonzales made editorial reference to Tillman as a "liar, scoundrel and debauchee." A challenge to a duel followed, but Gonzales ignored it.

Gonzales Sent Message.

It is rumored that the immediate cause of the attack was a message sent Wednesday by Gonzales to Tillman. Wednesday night, at the Columbia hotel, Lieutenant Governor Tillman said to a group of his friends: "Gonzales has sent we word that when we meet again we shall settle our difficulties with pistols."

Gonzales' friends deny that he sent a message of any character to Tillman. Statements of the eye-witnesses to the tragedy are somewhat conflicting, and it cannot be stated positively whether or not any words passed between the men before the shot was fired.

Condition Critical.

The condition of the wounded man late last night was regarded by the surgeons as very critical. Tillman was arrested and is confined in the county jail, pending the outcome of Gonzales' injuries.

The affair caused great excitement in the city, which is filled with politicians, who are here to participate in the inauguration of the new state government. Lieutenant Governor Tillman's term will expire within a few days. Some expressions of a desire for summary vengeance were heard on the streets after the shooting, but nothing of a serious character occurred.

At 3 a. m. Mr. Gonzales was still resting quietly. His pulse was 114; respiration 30, and temperature 99 4-5.

NATIONAL LIVE STOCK BODY.

President Roosevelt's Suggestion to Settle Range Problem Endorsed by Rising Vote.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 16.—The National Live Stock association, at its annual convention here yesterday, by a rising vote, adopted a resolution endorsing President Roosevelt's suggestion that congress appoint a commission of experts to settle the range problem, which for years has been a bone of contention between cattlemen and sheep men

A resolution was adopted favoring an amendment of the interstate commerce law in such a way as to grant to the interstate commerce commission power to adjust freight rates after they have been found to be unequal and unjust and power to put into full force and effect its rulings.

An important resolution adopted asks congress to give the secretary of agriculture power to order the disinfection of imported skins and hides at the different ports of entry, and also to designate the ports at which hides may be brought into the country.

Other resolutions favor a 15-cent duty on pelts, pickled hides and skins, which are dutiable because they are partly manufactured, and endorse the proposed live stock exhibition at the St. Louis world's fair.

Before adjournment for the day was taken a new executive committee was named.

THE NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

Session Listless and Dealings Small. Time Money Rates Firm—Bonds Dull and Irregular.

New York, Jan. 16.—There was very little character in yesterday's stock market, as is sufficiently indicated by the volume of business, which fell to about the half million share mark. The continued liquidation in Reading created a bad impression upon speculative sentiment, and this impression was not dissipated by the marking up yesterday of Ontario and Western in the anthracite group and the advance in Chesapeake and Ohio and Hocking Valley in the soft coalers.

There was no disquieting element in the money situation unless it might be the indication that the Bank of England is disposed to build up its reserves and maintain the money rate. New York banks continued to gain cash, but the gains from the subtreasury are due to heavy payments on government contracts and for pensions, which are made in bulk in New York, but which are now about completed. Time money rates were reported rather firmer. None of the upword movements were well maintained and the closing was dull and easy at about the low level of the day.

Bonds were dull and irregular. Total sales, par value, $2,435,000.

United States 2s advanced ½ and the new 4s, coupon, 1 per cent on the last call.

OHIO AGRICULTURALISTS MEET.

Resolutions Protesting Against "Manifest Slight" Adopted.

Columbus, O., Jan. 16.—The Ohio agricultural convention last night adopted a resolution protesting against "the manifest slight" to the agricultural interests of the country shown by two special bills now pending in congress, one of which appropriates $7,000,000 for a building for the department of justice and the other $1,500,000 for a new home for the department of agriculture. The resolutions further declare:

"That while we do not object to a generous appropriation for the department of justice, we do insist that agriculture shall be generously endorsed."

Samuel Taylor, of Franklin county, and R. O. Hinsdale, of Medina, were elected members of the state board of agriculture. The board organized by electing Thadeus E. Cromley, of Pickaway county, president, and T. L. Calvert, of Clark, treasurer.

Anthracite Strike Hearing.

Philadelphia, Jan. 16.—Most of the testimony presented to the anthracite coal strike commission yesterday was of a corroborative nature, the Erie company, which has not yet concluded its case, producing numerous witnesses to prove that the miners union is responsible for the alleged restriction of the hard coal production. The Erie company controls the Hillside Coal and Iron company and the Pennsylvania Coal company. During the examination of Edward Button, a foreman employed by the latter company, the fact was adduced that the practice of restricting the number of cars to be loaded daily by one man had been in operation as far back as 1895, long before the United Mine Workers of America entered the anthracite region. The union's responsibility rests with the enforcement of this rule and not with its inception.

Ohio Miners Blame Railroads.

Columbus, O., Jan. 16.—The Ohio miners in convention blame the coal carrying railroads for the shortage of coal in this state. Miners say they are ready to work at all times, but cannot get the cars for loading, and consequently are compelled to lay off two and three days a week. A resolution, presented by a Corning delegate, in favor of a general Saturday holiday, was tabled on account of the shortage of coal. President Harkins states that the Ohio miners are not ready to take up the question of government ownership of mines, but predicts that this will be a prominent issue in the near future.

Dealer Not Liable for Taxes.

Marietta, O., Jan. 16.—The circuit court yesterday decided that when a liquor dealer in Marietta sold goods to be delivered by express C. O. D. in another county, the dealer was not liable for taxes for sales in such county, as the sale was made in Marietta. The case was a suit by Athens county to collect taxes from a Marietta liquor dealer for goods sent into Athens county.

Invading Standard Oil Field.

Findlay, O., Jan. 16.—The National Refining company, of Cleveland, is laying an eight-mile pipe line from their refinery in this city to the heart of Marion township oil fields which have heretofore been operated by the Standard Oil company. This step of the National people is considered to be the opening gun of war between the two companies.

Killed as He Stepped Into Saloon.

Springfield, O., Jan. 16.—George Farrell, 26 years old, was killed yesterday by William Harris, chef of the Palace hotel, at noon, as he stepped into a saloon in the west end of the city. Harris says that he intended to kill Farrell because of the latter's relations with his wife.

Two Dead, Two Fatally Injured.

Shenandoah, Pa., Jan. 16.—An explosion of gas occurred at Packer No. 2 colliery yesterday, by which two men were instantly killed and two others so badly injured that their lives are despaired of. The dead are: Stiney Walakicz and William Koniaki. Both men were married and leave families. There were several other men in the mine at the time of the accident, but they escaped injury.

New York, Jan. 16.—Mayor Tom L. Johnson, of Cleveland, who is in this city, last night denied that he is a candidate for governor of Ohio, as reported to have been announced yesterday by Chairman William J Frey, of the Ohio Democratic state committee. Mayor Johnson said: "I am not a candidate for the nomination, and if Mr. Frey has made any such announcement he has done so without my authorization or approval."

Rehearing Granted.

Harrisburg, Jan. 16.—The board of pardons decided to give Mrs. Kate Edwards, of Berks county, under sentence of death for murder, a rehearing. The new board under Governor Pennypacker will next hear the case.

Miss Agnes Miller, of Chicago, speaks to young women about dangers of the Menstrual Period—how to avoid pain and suffering and remove the cause by using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"To Young Women:—I suffered for six years with dysmenorrhea (painful periods), so much so that I dreaded every month, as I knew it meant three or four days of intense pain. The doctor said this was due to an inflamed condition of the uterine appendages caused by repeated and neglected colds.

"If young girls only realized how dangerous it is to take cold at this critical time, much suffering would be spared them. Thank God for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that was the only medicine which helped me any. Within three weeks after I started to take it, I noticed a marked improvement in my general health, and at the time of my next monthly period the pain had diminished considerably. I kept up the treatment, and was cured a month later. I am like another person since. I am in perfect health, my eyes are brighter, I have added 12 pounds to my weight, my color is good, and I feel light and happy."—Miss Agnes Miller, 25 Potomac Ave., Chicago, Ill.

The monthly sickness reflects the condition of a woman's health. Anything unusual at that time should have prompt and proper attention. Fifty thousand letters from women prove that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound regulates menstruation and makes those periods painless.

READ WHAT MISS LINDBECK SAYS:

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has greatly benefitted me. I will tell you how I suffered. My trouble was painful menstruation. I felt as each month went by that I was getting worse. I had severe bearing-down pains in my back and abdomen.

"A friend advised me to try Mrs. Pinkham's medicine. I did so and am now free from all pain during my periods."—Jessie C. Lindbeck, 1201 6th Street, Rockford, Ill.

FREE ADVICE TO WOMEN.

Julia Marlowe
IN
"The Cavalier"

ANOTHER dramatized novel, "The Cavalier"—heaven defend us! I have never read the book, but I have seen the play, and with no less a person than Julia Marlowe in the star role. George W. Cable wrote "The Cavalier," and Paul Kester and George Middleton made a play of it. As to the merits of the novel I therefore cannot speak, but the play is interesting even if the gentlemen did borrow from Ouida, Gillette and Harriet Beecher Stowe. "Secret Service," Cigarette and Topsy are all there. There are some bits too manifestly machine made and theatric for a woman of the caliber of Julia Marlowe, and these really cheapen the grade of the play—for instance, the death scene of Captain Jewett. The prayer said by Charlotte Durand (Miss Marlowe) at his side, followed by her singing of "The Star Spangled Banner," was effective, but cheap. Then unseen soldiers joining in near the last and the opening of the scene disclosing the carload of Union prisoners who sang again the loved words to their dying captain—this strongly suggested the old animated song sheet idea. Pretty, but so out of place in a Julia Marlowe production!

The play is of the south near the close of the war, and before the curtain falls the struggle is over. It is, by the way, the only war story I have ever seen where the union of loving hearts at the finish does not closer bind north and south. Here the happy couple are both southerners. The northerner who figures in the love interest is Captain Jewett (E. L. Davenport), who, though enamored of Charlotte Durand, never tells her, and he is killed in the third act.

Miss Marlowe Is the Play.

Julia Marlowe as Charlotte Durand is the play. She is married in the first act to Captain Francis Oliver, a Confederate soldier, and immediately after the ceremony discovers that he is a traitor and spy. A fierce struggle first to make him do right before she fully grasps the truth that he is a villain ends in a battle with herself as to her duty, and when she resolves that she cannot deliver her husband of a few moments to drumhead court martial and death she sends him away never to return to her, throws herself into the cause he has dishonored and saves everything, discovers everything, helps everybody. When most at peace with herself, she is shocked by the reappearance of her husband, Captain Oliver (Frank Worthing), who as a wounded prisoner has been exchanged. Now she rightly suspects he is on some new mischief bent and tears the bandage from his arm to prove her worst fears true. The villain is in his old paths, and as she cannot betray him she determines not to let him move without her. Her wifely tears and prayers do not deceive him, and he succeeds in getting away to "guard" the ambulances containing treasure for paying soldiers and other southern expenses. This she knows means betrayal to the north, and she in part fails in her efforts to stop it.

Play Is Interesting.

The play has some interest, some very conventional spots, some brightness and many theatric situations. It is rather draggy at times, and the second act is incontinently long.

Julia Marlowe is a great actress in certain roles and as Juliet has no superior. In the lighter parts of Charlotte Durand she was simply a revelation, for she struck that difficult note between repression and overacting. In her scorn she was grand and withering, and her face was a study as she showed her contempt and loathing for her returned husband. In the third act there is a dance given for the Union officers stationed in the Gilmer residence to guard the wounded master of the southern home, and in this Charlotte is compelled as a blind to take part. She is watching for signals from the Louisiana shore and is held as a sort of prisoner until morning in her own home, her blackguard husband being now there in the Federal uniform. He is madly in love with his wife of a few moments, and it is six months since he was sent off. He is jealous of her interest in Lieutenant Ferry and knows that some signal of danger is arranged between them if she cannot get beyond the lines tonight. He watches from a window above unknown to her, and she has, just before the dance began, sent a red rose to Lieutenant Ferry to tell of her detention. Every moment she watches, smiles driven away by dread, followed by weary lines of anxiety, and finally the house is entered, and every man present covered by two to one. Unseen, Oliver advances until Charlotte discovers him and covers Ferry's body with her own, which receives the assassin's ball. Oliver escapes, dies later in a Union hospital, and she recovers to win the love of Ferry.

The work of Miss Marlowe in this dance was a study. Frank Worthing is seen in the best work of his career as Captain Oliver. The women of the cast were very poor and the men only fairly good except those mentioned above who sustained their roles creditably. I should like to see Julia Marlowe in some stronger role requiring more of her wonderful ability. "Queen Fiametta" may have overtaxed her, but she will never suffer from the strain of "The Cavalier," which, while it is all Charlotte Durand (Miss Marlowe's role), does not unduly call upon her powers.

Allen Nielsen's Latest.

This queer old earth, which for some months has been being motionless upon its theatrical axis, may again begin to whiz around at the rate of something less than 1,000 miles an hour, for a weighty question, a question the deep consideration of which has threatened to stagnate business everywhere, has at last been settled—Alice Nielsen did not declare that she would never more appear in comic opera. In addition to its effect upon the affairs of nations, think how Melba, Patti, Sembrich, Calve, Albani and the rest of the song birds will receive this announcement! But let them not exhibit too much elation, for Miss Nielsen, while she has said that she did not say that she would never again appear in comic opera, did not say that she had said that she had abandoned grand opera or her designs thereupon. (Puzzle.)

Seriously, when some overzealous friend announced that Miss Nielsen had done with comic opera for good and all her admirers were genuinely grieved, for they felt that she was throwing away a magnificent opportunity to make herself pre-eminent in a commendable and enormously profitable line and at the same time was about to embark in a field in which her work at the best could only be hoped to be commonplace, from the latter day grand opera standpoint.

Miss Nielsen is a chic creature, with a really fine voice for comic opera, but that does not mean that she would shine beside Eames and Melba and Sembrich. That she has determined that comic opera is her forte, if she has so decided, is a good thing alike for her and for the American theater going public.

LESTER WILSON, SPEEDY CYCLIST.

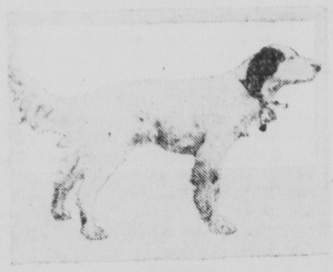
Wilson is one of the fairest and most popular speed purveyors in the cycle racing arena, and he has been offered a large sum of money to go abroad to ride in Paris, where it manifested a lively interest in affairs of the wheel. He is well satisfied with his profits on this side for the present, however, and it is more than probable that he will refuse to cross the pond.

CINCINNATI OPERA.

The Mascagni Grand Opera company will appear in the Cincinnati Music hall Jan. 7 and 8, in the evening and a matinee performance on the latter date. The operas to be given are "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Zanetto," double bill, "Iris," Mascagni's masterpiece, Japanese in character, and "Ratcliff," of Scotch delineation, one of Mascagni's best compositions.

Mascagni will conduct all the performances in person. The company will consist of 150 people, seventy of whom are in the orchestra and the remainder in the chorus. The soloists and orchestra will all be from Italy and of Mascagni's selection. The chorus is largely composed of New York music students.

SELKIRK FREDA, NOTED ENGLISH SETTER.



The dog show season is now at its height, and kennel clubs in all of the large cities are striving to outstrip rivals in entries and attendance. The accompanying illustration shows Selkirk Freda, a famous English setter that has won prizes in many cities. She is owned in Canada and is brought to "the States" every year.

Ice Sports

BY FREDERICK R. TOOMBS.

THE national skating championships will be very interesting this year. They will probably be held at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., about the middle of January, and besides a majority of the contestants of last year there will be on hand a half score of new performers anxious to follow in the skate tracks of the unsurpassed Donoghues, George Phillips, Sam Montgomery and other national champions of years past.

Among the men who are to compete are M. Wood of the Verona (N. J.) Skating club, who last season captured the one and three mile championships from an unusually large and speedy field of Americans and Canadians; R. Sager and W. W. Swan of the New York Athletic club, A. E. Pilkie of Montreal, who finished second in last year's half mile championship; G. Belefeuille of Rat Portage, who finished third in the half mile and one mile events; W. Coldwell of the Montreal A. A. A., Henry Taylor of Buffalo, J. E. Johnson of Newburg, N. Y.; F. J. Robson of the Toronto Y. M. C. A., Z. St. Marc of Montreal, etc.

A prominent absentee from the coming races will be Peter Sinnirud of the Verona (N. J.) Skating club, who won the half, five and ten mile championship races last January at Verona lake, near Montclair, N. J., and finished second in the three mile event. Sinnirud is better known as the "Terrible Swede." He says he has had enough amateur honors and so has decided to enter the races for the professional championships of the United States and Canada, to be held at Montreal Feb. 7.

Sinnirud should have no difficulty in winning a large slice of Canadian prize money. He clearly outclasses any other skater in the amateur ranks in either this country or the Dominion, and while the professional contests are faster than the amateur, the Swede will not find the difference too great for him to overcome.

Samuel Monigomery of the National Skating association, who will manage the coming amateur races, is of the opinion that the number of entries will exceed last year's record.

Ice Yachting.

Is there any man alive who believes he has never been really excited?

Is there any man who has never experienced a genuine thrill?

Is there any man who cannot scare up an appetite?

Is there any man who considers locomotives and automobiles the fastest machines built?

If a person exists to whom the foregoing queries apply, he should immediately take a sail on an ice yacht. Here is a sport as spectacular as the chariot races in the days of ancient Rome, as dangerous as ballooning, as fascinating to its followers as the turn of the roulette wheel to the habitual gambler and as exhilarating as only an active, outdoor winter pastime can be.

Small wonder is it, then, that at the present time we find hundreds of iceboat owners enjoying the rare sport at their command, and the famous speeding stretches in different parts of the country are daily the scenes of races and cruises in which the graceful tri-runnered craft skim the glistening surface at a rate of speed that would soon leave in the rear a mile a minute express train.

Wisconsin an Ice Yacht Center.

Although the eastern clubs seem to hold the balance of power in ice yachting affairs, westerners are pushing rapidly to the fore, and the lakes and rivers in the west and middle west afford unsurpassed facilities for the enjoyment of the sport. Wisconsin is one of the leading ice sport states, and on at least three lakes—Peewaukee, Monona and Oconomowoc—there are now in progress officially scheduled races. At Madison regattas are held every Saturday during the frozen season. There are a dozen or more ice yacht clubs in Wisconsin, and their development has brought into considerable prominence the building of the speedy craft. In Milwaukee there are several iceboat designers and contractors who are doing a large business.

In the east the interest centers in New York and New Jersey. Empire State enthusiasts flock to the Hudson river and Orange lake near Newburg. In Jersey their haven is the shallow Shrewsbury river, where was made the present world's mile record and where Joe Donoghue won some of his most notable skating victories. There is great rivalry between the New York and the Jersey yachtsmen, and every year their best boats are matched for the championship, which is now held by the Gothamites.

The Hockey Season.

Now that the hockey season is down upon us and thousands of strong limbed, ruddy cheeked young athletes are chasing the elusive puck it becomes of interest to consider, even if briefly, the nature of this game transplanted from Canada eight or nine years ago.

Each player in the official game of hockey, as played by the various leagues throughout the United States, is equipped with a stick curved at the end so that about six inches of the implement rests on the ice. Seven men constitute a team, and they are named as follows:

The Goalkeeper.

The goalkeeper defends the goal, which consists of two poles placed upright in the ice about six feet apart and five feet high. This player stands between the posts and, of course, uses every fair effort within his power and stick, hands and body to keep the puck (a small solid rubber disk) from being forced through the goal. Naturally the goalkeeper must be a man of great quickness in the use of eyes, hands and body. Also he must be absolutely fearless, for the puck is sent from every conceivable angle with terrific force and oftentimes the opposing forwards will combine and endeavor to rush the keeper off his feet. In a case of this kind the best thing for the man on guard to do is to brace himself strongly and meet the attack boldly, for the scrimmage that usually follows makes a football game look like the proverbial three dimes.

The man playing at point may be compared to the fullback on a football team when the latter is on the defensive. He is a secondary defense to the goal. His duty is to secure the puck from opposing forwards and send it back into their own territory. In doing this he tries to lift it high in the air and drive it back over the heads of his opponents. Although the puck lies flat on the ice under ordinary circumstances, it can by a dextrous turn of the wrist be sent flying through the air with great velocity. This maneuver is called "lifting," and every player should be able to accomplish it.

The Cover Point.

As his name suggests, the cover point's work is to cover or protect the point. He must break up formations of opposing forwards whenever possible. By doing this he gives the point an opportunity to wrest the puck from the attackers. The three foregoing positions I have described form the defensive division, and the players involved must never under any circumstances leave the goal unguarded.

The remaining four members of a team make up the offensive division. On them rests the duty of scoring goals, as is the case with the forwards in a basket ball team. To be sure, the forwards endeavor to keep down their opponents' score, but their chief duty is to make points. On their ability in this particular branch of the game rests the success of the team.

When the rink is of regulation size, four men are played on the forward line, but when the playing surface is small one of the quartet is sent back to act in conjunction with both forwards and backs, as the occasions present themselves. He is called a rover.

Duties of the Rover.

The puck is frequently shot behind the goal posts, and then it becomes the duty of the center forward to go after it and drive it to the rover, who has placed himself in front of the goal ready to send the puck between the posts on receiving it. Thus it is evident that the rover must always be ready to back up the whole forward line and take instant advantage of mistakes on either side.

The three forwards work together as much as possible. Combination plays are their forte and on them rests the responsibility for the development of team work. Their principal aim is to get through the opposing line and shoot goals. Inasmuch as they are on the jump from start to finish, it can readily be realized that their work is of a most trying nature. They must be fast, strong skaters and quick dodgers while carrying the puck.

So far as the rules are concerned, there is one on which all the others may be said to hinge. This is the offside regulation. It provides that every player must be on his side of the puck at all times—that is, he must have the puck between him and the goal he is attacking. The rule also states that each player must be "onside" when the puck is passed to him, as in old time chinney. When a player is offside, he must skate back until he gets back of the puck, or in other words, between the puck and the goal he is defending. He must do this quickly, for his team may be penalized by the referee if he "loafs offside."

Opportunities for fouling are frequent in hockey, and men should try to play a fair, clean game. Roughness should not be tolerated.

CHICAGO YACHT PLANS.

Chicago yachtsmen are preparing to go after two of the most famous trophies—barring the America's cup—on the continent next summer. First and nearest to the hearts of western amateurs comes the Canada's cup. The trial races at Rochester early in the season will, it is announced, be thrown open to outside clubs, and Chicago, which has been intimately associated with the Canada's cup throughout the history of that trophy, is planning to send a yacht to the Rochester contests which will be chosen challenger and race against the defending yacht at Toronto in August. The Seawanhaka cup is the second trophy figured on, and, unless plans go amiss, Chicago yachting experts will have their boats in the trial races at Manchester, Mass.

Fleet Captain G. H. Atkin of the Chicago Yacht club, owner and skipper of the Minota and one of the best known and most enthusiastic amateur sailors in that city, is the leading spirit in the plan to bring the Canada's cup to the United States. Fleet Captain Atkin's yacht did very good work a year ago in the trial races for the selection of a defender for the Canada's cup, and his energy has done much toward putting the Chicago Yacht club into the place it holds today.

Mr. Atkin proposes to form a syndicate which shall build a challenger for the cup. It is believed that no great difficulty will be found in raising funds sufficient for the purpose among the boat owners.

The type of boat which will contest for the Canada's cup will be of the forty foot class under the new restricted rules. This is taken to mean forty feet on the water line and sixty feet more or less over all. This will make the boats approach the size of the Vanenna.

FOR SWIMMERS' CRAMP.

If swimmers could be trained to keep cool under all circumstances, there would be comparatively little drowning among bathers and summer pleasure seekers. Cramp is usually assigned as the cause when some good swimmer drowns. But cramp ought in reality to be nothing serious. Usually it affects only an arm or a leg, or maybe only a hand or foot. Any moderately good swimmer can keep afloat with one arm, or even without the use of that, yet good swimmers are drowning every year as a result of cramp. If such fatalities were analyzed, they would be more properly classed as drownings from fright and loss of nerve. When a swimmer feels a leg or arm begin to cramp, he is frightened in most cases entirely out of his wits. He loses his head, begins to splash and paw and struggle and then goes down. What the swimmer should remember is that he can keep afloat with very little effort if he will turn on his back and keep his chest inflated. It is the simple matter of floating which every swimmer knows and finds very easy. If the swimmer will keep cool and float, the cramping limb will frequently relax after a little, and he will find himself as well as ever.

CHAMPION GEORGE BOTHNER EXECUTING A HAMMER LOCK.

George Bothner, the world's champion lightweight wrestler, is without question the most skillful mat performer in the arena today. Foreign and American experts alike have fallen a prey to his prowess, and fear of him has spread to such an extent that men in his own class refuse to challenge him. Consequently Bothner has been compelled to go outside of the lightweight division for engagements, meeting prominent heavyweights in handicap matches. In recent contests of this nature he defeated John Piening, the Brooklyn "Butcher Boy," and Tom Jenkins of Cleveland, the heavyweight champion, both having guaranteed to throw the slippery lightweight four times in an hour.

Bothner's specialty is defensive work. He can free himself from almost any kind of a hold, and his "head spins" are worth going miles to see. Bothner's exploits have given him high rank as an instructor, and his classes in the New York gymnasium of the Bothner-Elmer Health Culture school are always well attended.

Julia Marlowe IN "The Cavalier"

ANOTHER dramatized novel, "The Cavalier"—heaven defend us! I have never read the book, but I have seen the play, and with no less a person than Julia Marlowe in the star role. George W. Cable wrote "The Cavalier," and Paul Kester and George Middleton made a play of it. As to the merits of the novel I therefore cannot speak, but the play is interesting even if the gentlemen did borrow from Ouida, Gillette and Harriet Beecher Stowe. "Secret Service," Cigarette and Topsy are all there. There are some bits too manifestly machine made and theatric for a woman of the caliber of Julia Marlowe, and these really cheapen the grade of the play—for instance, the death scene of Captain Jewett. The prayer said by Charlotte Durand (Miss Marlowe) at his side, followed by her singing of "The Star Spangled Banner," was effective, but cheap. Then unseen soldiers joining in near the last and the opening of the scene disclosing the carload of Union prisoners who sang again the loved words to their dying captain—this strongly suggested the old animated song sheet idea. Pretty, but so out of place in a Julia Marlowe production!

The play is of the south near the close of the war, and before the curtain falls the struggle is over. It is, by the way, the only war story I have ever seen where the union of loving hearts at the finish does not closer bind north and south. Here the happy couple are both southerners. The northerner who figures in the love interest is Captain Jewett (E. L. Davenport), who, though enamored of Charlotte Durand, never tells her, and he is killed in the third act.

Miss Marlowe Is the Play.

Julia Marlowe as Charlotte Durand is the play. She is married in the first act to Captain Francis Oliver, a Confederate soldier, and immediately after the ceremony discovers that he is a traitor and spy. A fierce struggle first to make him do right before she fully grasps the truth that he is a villain ends in a battle with herself as to her duty, and when she resolves that she cannot deliver her husband of a few moments to drumhead court martial and death she sends him away never to return to her, throws herself into the cause he has dishonored and saves everything, discovers everything, helps everybody. When most at peace with herself, she is shocked by the reappearance of her husband, Captain Oliver (Frank Worthing), who as a wounded prisoner has been exchanged. Now she rightly suspects he is on some new mischief bent and tears the bandage from his arm to prove her worst fears true. The villain is in his old paths, and as she cannot betray him she determines not to let him move without her. Her wifely tears and prayers do not deceive him, and he succeeds in getting away to "guard" the ambulances containing treasure for paying soldiers and other southern expenses. This she knows means betrayal to the north, and she in part fails in her efforts to stop it.

Play Is Interesting.

The play has some interest, some very conventional spots, some brightness and many theatric situations. It is rather draggy at times, and the second act is incontinently long to stagnate business everywhere, has at last been settled—Alice Nielsen did not declare that she would never more appear in comic opera. In addition to its effect upon the affairs of nations, think how Melba, Patti, Sembrich, Calve, Albani and the rest of the song birds will receive this announcement! But let them not exhibit too much elation, for Miss Nielsen, while she has said that she did not say that she would never again appear in comic opera, did not say that she had said that she had abandoned grand opera or her designs thereupon. (Puzzle.)

Seriously, when some overzealous friend announced that Miss Nielsen had done with comic opera for good and all her admirers were genuinely grieved, for they felt that she was throwing away a magnificent opportunity to

Julia Marlowe is a great actress in certain roles and as Juliet has no superior. In the lighter parts of Charlotte Durand she was simply a revelation, for she struck that difficult note between repression and overacting. In her scorn she was grand and withering, and her face was a study as she showed her contempt and loathing for her returned husband. In the third act there is a dance given for the Union officers stationed in the Gilmer residence to guard the wounded master of the southern home, and in this Charlotte is compelled as a blind to take part. She is watching for signals from the Louisiana shore and is held as a sort of prisoner until morning in her own home, her blackguard husband being now there in the Federal uniform. He is madly in love with his wife of a few moments, and it is six months since he was sent off. He is jealous of her interest in Lieutenant Ferry and knows that some signal of danger is arranged between them if she cannot get beyond the lines tonight. He watches from a window above unknown to her, and she has, just before the dance began, sent a red rose to Lieutenant Ferry to tell of her detention. Every moment she watches, smiles driven away by dread, followed by weary lines of anxiety, and finally the house is entered, and every man present covered by two to one. Unseen, Oliver advances until Charlotte discovers him and covers Ferry's body with her own, which receives the assassin's ball. Oliver escapes, dies later in a Union hospital, and she recovers to win the love of Ferry.

The work of Miss Marlowe in this dance was a study. Frank Worthing is seen in the best work of his career as Captain Oliver. The women of the cast were very poor and the men only fairly good except those mentioned above, who sustained their roles creditably. I should like to see Julia Marlowe in some stronger role requiring more of her wonderful ability. "Queen Fiametta" may have overtaxed her, but she will never suffer from the strain of "The Cavalier," which, while it is all Charlotte Durand (Miss Marlowe's role), does not unduly call upon her powers.

Alice Nielsen's Latest.

This queer old earth, which for some months has been lying motionless upon its theatrical axis, may again begin to whiz around at the rate of something less than 1,000 miles an hour, for a weighty question, a question the deep consideration of which has threatened to make herself pre-eminent in a commendable and enormously profitable line and at the same time was about to embark in a field in which her work at the best could only be hoped to be commonplace, from the latter day grand opera standpoint.

Miss Nielsen is a chic creature, with a really fine voice for comic opera, but that does not mean that she would shine beside Eames and Melba and Sembrich. That she has determined that comic opera is her forte, if she has so decided, is a good thing alike for her and for the American theater going public.

LESTER WILSON, SPEEDY CYCLIST.

Wilson is one of the fairest and most popular speed purveyors in the cycle racing arena, and he has been offered a large sum of money to go abroad to ride in Paris, where it manifested a lively interest in affairs of the wheel. He is well satisfied with his profits on this side for the present, however, and it is more than probable that he will refuse to cross the pond.

CINCINNATI OPERA.

The Mascagni Grand Opera company will appear in the Cincinnati Music hall Jan. 7 and 8, in the evening and a matinee performance on the latter date. The operas to be given are "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Zanetto," double bill, "Iris," Mascagni's masterpiece, Japanese in character, and "Ratcliff," of Scotch delineation, one of Mascagni's best compositions.

Mascagni will conduct all the performances in person. The company will consist of 160 people, seventy of whom are in the orchestra and the remainder in the chorus. The soloists and orchestra will all be from Italy and of Mascagni's selection. The chorus is largely composed of New York music students.

SELKIRK FREDA, NOTED ENGLISH SETTER.

The dog show season is now at its height, and kennel clubs in all of the large cities are striving to outstrip rivals in entries and attendance. Ice Sports

BY FREDERICK R. TOOMBS.

THE national skating championships will be very interesting this year. They will probably be held at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., about the middle of January, and besides a majority of the contestants of last year there will be on hand a half score of new performers anxious to follow in the skate tracks of the unsurpassed Donoghues, George Phillips, Sam Montgomery and other national champions of years past.

Among the men who are to compete are M. Wood of the Verona (N. J.) Skating club, who last season captured the one and three mile championships from an unusually large and speedy field of Americans and Canadians; R. Sager and W. W. Swan of the New York Athletic club, A. E. Pilkie of Montreal, who finished second in last year's half mile championship; G. Belefeuille of Rat Portage, who finished third in the half mile and one mile events; W. Coldwell of the Montreal A. A. A., Henry Taylor of Buffalo, J. E. Johnson of Newburg, N. Y., F. J. Robson of the Toronto Y. M. C. A., Z. St. Marc of Montreal, etc.

A prominent absentee from the coming races will be Peter Sinnirud of the Verona (N. J.) Skating club, who won the half, five and ten mile championship races last January at Verona lake, near Montclair, N. J., and finished second in the three mile event. Sinnirud is better known as the "Terrible Swede." He says he has had enough amateur honors and so has decided to enter the races for the professional championships of the United States and Canada, to be held at Montreal Feb. 7.

Sinnirud should have no difficulty in winning a large slice of Canadian prize money. He clearly outclasses any other skater in the amateur ranks in either this country or the Dominion, and while the professional contests are faster than the amateur, the Swede will not find the difference too great for him to overcome.

Samuel Monigomery of the National Skating association, who will manage the coming amateur races, is of the opinion that the number of entries will exceed last year's record.

Ice Yachting.

Is there any man alive who believes he has never been really excited?

Is there any man who has never experienced a genuine thrill?

Is there any man who cannot scare up an appetite?

Is there any man who considers locomotives and automobiles the fastest machines built?

If a person exists to whom the foregoing queries apply, he should immediately take a sail on an ice yacht. Here is a sport as spectacular as the chariot races in the days of ancient Rome, as dangerous as ballooning, as fascinating to its followers as the turn of the roulette wheel to the habitual gambler and as exhilarating as only an active, outdoor winter pastime can be.

Small wonder is it then, that at the present time we find hundreds of iceboat owners enjoying the rare sport at their command, and the famous speeding stretches in different parts of the country are daily the scenes of races and cruises in which the graceful trirunnered craft skim the glistening surface at a rate of speed that would soon leave in the rear a mile a minute express train.

Wisconsin an Ice Yacht Center.

Although the eastern clubs seem to hold the balance of power in ice yachting affairs, westerners are pushing rapidly to the fore, and the lakes and rivers in the west and middle west afford unsurpassed facilities for the enjoyment of the sport. Wisconsin is one of the leading ice sport states, and on at least three lakes—Peewaukee, Monona and Oconomowoc—there are now in progress officially scheduled races. At Madison regattas are held every Saturday during the frozen season. There are a dozen or more ice yacht clubs in Wisconsin, and their development has brought into considerable prominence the building of the speedy craft. In Milwaukee there are several iceboat designers and contractors, who are doing a large business.

In the east the interest centers in New York and New Jersey. Empire State enthusiasts flock to the Hudson river and Orange lake, near Newburg, in Jersey; their haven is the shallow Shrewsbury river, where was made the present world's mile record and where Joe Donoghue won some of his most notable skating victories. Julia Marlowe IN "The Cavalier"

ANOTHER dramatized novel, "The Cavalier"—heaven defend us! I have never read the book, but I have seen the play, and with no less a person than Julia Marlowe in the star role. George W. Cable wrote "The Cavalier," and Paul Kester and George Middleton made a play of it. As to the merits of the novel I therefore cannot speak, but the play is interesting even if the gentlemen did borrow from Ouida, Gillette and Harriet Beecher Stowe. "Secret Service," Cigarette and Topsy are all there. There are some bits too manifestly machine made and theatric for a woman of the caliber of Julia Marlowe, and these really cheapen the grade of the play—for instance, the death scene of Captain Jewett. The prayer said by Charlotte Durand (Miss Marlowe) at his side, followed by her singing of "The Star Spangled Banner," was effective, but cheap. Then unseen soldiers joining in near the last and the opening of the scene disclosing the carload of Union prisoners who sang again the loved words to their dying captain—this strongly suggested the old animated song sheet idea. Pretty, but so out of place in a Julia Marlowe production!

The play is of the south near the close of the war, and before the curtain falls the struggle is over. It is, by the way, the only war story I have ever seen where the union of loving hearts at the finish does not closer bind north and south. Here the happy couple are both southerners. The northerner who figures in the love interest is Captain Jewett (E. L. Davenport), who, though enamored of Charlotte Durand, never tells her, and he is killed in the third act.

Miss Marlowe Is the Play.

Julia Marlowe as Charlotte Durand is the play. She is married in the first act to Captain Francis Oliver, a Confederate soldier, and immediately after the ceremony discovers that he is a traitor and spy. A fierce struggle first to make him do right before she fully grasps the truth that he is a villain ends in a battle with herself as to her duty, and when she resolves that she cannot deliver her husband of a few moments to drumhead court martial and death she sends him away never to return to her, throws herself into the cause he has dishonored and saves everything, discovers everything, helps everybody. When most at peace with herself, she is shocked by the reappearance of her husband, Captain Oliver (Frank Worthing), who as a wounded prisoner has been exchanged. Now she rightly suspects he is on some new mischief bent and tears the bandage from his arm to prove her worst fears true. The villain is in his old paths, and as she cannot betray him she determines not to let him move without her. Her wifely tears and prayers do not deceive him, and he succeeds in getting away to "guard" the ambulances containing treasure for paying soldiers and other southern expenses. This she knows means betrayal to the north, and she in part fails in her efforts to stop it.

Play Is Interesting.

The play has some interest, some very conventional spots, some brightness and many theatric situations. It is rather draggy at times, and the second act is incontinently long

Julia Marlowe is a great actress in certain roles and as Juliet has no superior. In the lighter parts of Charlotte Durand she was simply a revelation, for she struck that difficult note between repression and overacting. In her scorn she was grand and withering, and her face was a study as she showed her contempt and loathing for her returned husband. In the third act there is a dance given for the Union officers stationed in the Gilmer residence to guard the wounded master of the southern home, and in this Charlotte is compelled as a blind to take part. She is watching for signals from the Louisiana shore and is held as a sort of prisoner until morning in her own home, her blackguard husband being now there in the Federal uniform. He is madly in love with his wife of a few moments, and it is six months since he was sent off. He is jealous of her interest in Lieutenant Ferry and knows that some signal of danger is arranged between them if she cannot get beyond the lines tonight. He watches from a window above unknown to her, and she has, just before the dance began, sent a red rose to Lieutenant Ferry to tell of her detention. Every moment she watches, smiles driven away by dread, followed by weary lines of anxiety, and finally the house is entered, and every man present covered by two to one. Unseen, Oliver advances until Charlotte discovers him and covers Ferry's body with her own, which receives the assassin's ball. Oliver escapes, dies later in a Union hospital, and she recovers to win the love of Ferry.

The work of Miss Marlowe in this dance was a study. Frank Worthing is seen in the best work of his career as Captain Oliver. The women of the cast were very poor and the men only fairly good except those mentioned above, who sustained their roles creditably. I should like to see Julia Marlowe in some stronger role requiring more of her wonderful ability. "Queen Fiametta" may have overtaxed her, but she will never suffer from the strain of "The Cavalier," which, while it is all Charlotte Durand (Miss Marlowe's role), does not unduly call upon her powers.

Alice Nielsen's Latest.

This queer old earth, which for some months has been lying motionless upon its theatrical axis, may again begin to whiz around at the rate of something less than 1,000 miles an hour, for a weighty question, a question the deep consideration of which has threatened to stagnate business everywhere, has at last been settled—Alice Nielsen did not declare that she would never more appear in comic opera. In addition to its effect upon the affairs of nations, think how Melba, Patti, Sembrich, Calve, Albani and the rest of the song birds will receive this announcement! But let them not exhibit too much elation, for Miss Nielsen, while she has said that she did not say that she would never again appear in comic opera, did not say that she had said that she had abandoned grand opera or her designs thereupon. (Puzzle.)

Seriously, when some overzealous friend announced that Miss Nielsen had done with comic opera for good and all her admirers were genuinely grieved, for they felt that she was throwing away a magnificent opportunity to

Ice Sports

BY FREDERICK R. TOOMBS.

THE national skating championships will be very interesting this year. They will probably be held at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., about the middle of January, and besides a majority of the contestants of last year there will be on hand a half score of new performers anxious to follow in the skate tracks of the unsurpassed Donoghues, George Phillips, Sam Montgomery and other national champions of years past.

Among the men who are to compete are M. Wood of the Verona (N. J.) Skating club, who last season captured the one and three mile championships from an unusually large and speedy field of Americans and Canadians; R. Sager and W. W. Swan of the New York Athletic club, A. E. Pilkie of Montreal, who finished second in last year's half mile championship; G. Belleruille of Rat Portage, who finished third in the half mile and one mile events; W. Coldwell of the Montreal A. A. A., Henry Taylor of Buffalo, J. E. Johnson of Newburg, N. Y.; F. J. Robson of the Toronto Y. M. C. A., Z. St. Marc of Montreal, etc.

A prominent absentee from the coming races will be Peter Sinnirud of the Verona (N. J.) Skating club, who won the half, five and ten mile championship races last January at Verona lake, near Montclair, N. J., and finished second in the three mile event. Sinnirud is better known as the "Terrible Swede." He says he has had enough amateur honors and so has decided to enter the races for the professional championships of the United States and Canada, to be held at Montreal Feb. 7.

Sinnirud should have no difficulty in winning a large slice of Canadian prize money. He clearly outclasses any other skater in the amateur ranks in either this country or the Dominion, and while the professional contests are faster than the amateur, the Swede will not find the difference too great for him to overcome.

Samuel Montgomery of the National Skating association, who will manage the coming amateur races, is of the opinion that the number of entries will exceed last year's record.

Ice Yachting.

Is there any man alive who believes he has never been really excited?

Is there any man who has never experienced a genuine thrill?

Is there any man who cannot scare up an appetite?

Is there any man who considers locomotives and automobiles the fastest machines built?

If a person exists to whom the foregoing queries apply, he should immediately take a sail on an ice yacht. Here is a sport as spectacular as the chariot races in the days of ancient Rome, as dangerous as ballooning, as fascinating to its followers as the turn of the roulette wheel to the habitual gambler and as exhilarating as only an active, outdoor winter pastime can be.

Small wonder is it, then, that at the present time we find hundreds of iceboat owners enjoying the rare sport at their command, and the famous speeding stretches in different parts of the country are daily the scenes of races and cruises in which the graceful trirunnered craft skim the glistening surface at a rate of speed that would soon leave in the rear a mile a minute express train.

Wisconsin an Ice Yacht Center.

Although the eastern clubs seem to hold the balance of power in ice yachting affairs, westerners are pushing rapidly to the fore, and the lakes and rivers in the west and middle west afford unsurpassed facilities for the enjoyment of the sport. Wisconsin is one of the leading ice sport states, and on at least three lakes—Peewaukee, Monona and Oconomowoc—there are now in progress officially scheduled races. At Madison regattas are held every Saturday during the frozen season. There are a dozen or more ice yacht clubs in Wisconsin, and their development has brought into considerable prominence the building of the speedy craft. In Milwaukee there are several iceboat designers and contractors, who are doing a large business.

In the east the interest centers in New York and New Jersey. Empire State enthusiasts flock to the Hudson river and Orange lake, near Newburg. In Jersey their haven is the shallow Shrewsbury river, where was made the present world's mile record and where Joe Donoghue won some of his most notable skating victories. There is great rivalry between the New York and the Jersey yachtsmen, and every year their best boats are matched for the championship, which is now held by the Gothamites.

The Hockey Season.

Now that the hockey season is down upon us and thousands of strong limbed, ruddy cheeked young athletes are chasing the elusive puck it becomes of interest to consider, even if briefly, the nature of this game transplanted from Canada eight or nine years ago.

Each player in the official game of hockey, as played by the various leagues throughout the United States, is equipped with a stick curved at the end so that about six inches of the implement rests on the ice. Seven men constitute a team, and they are named as follows:

The Goalkeeper.

The goalkeeper defends the goal, which consists of two poles placed upright in the ice about six feet apart and five feet high. This player stands between the posts and, of course, uses every fair effort within his power and stick, hands and body to keep the puck (a small solid rubber disk) from being forced through the goal. Naturally the goalkeeper must be a man of great quickness in the use of eyes, hands and body. Also he must be absolutely fearless, for the puck is sent from every conceivable angle with terrific force and oftentimes the opposing forwards will combine and endeavor to rush the keeper off his feet. In a case of this kind the best thing for the man on guard to do is to brace himself strongly and meet the attack boldly, for the scrimmage that usually follows makes a football game look like the proverbial three dimes.

The man playing at point may be compared to the fullback on a football team when the latter is on the defensive. He is a secondary defense to the goal. His duty is to secure the puck from opposing forwards and send it back into their own territory. In doing this he tries to lift it high in the air and drive it back over the heads of his opponents. Although the puck lies flat on the ice under ordinary circumstances, it can by a dextrous turn of the wrist be sent flying through the air with great velocity. This maneuver is called "lifting," and every player should be able to accomplish it.

The Cover Point.

As his name suggests, the cover point's work is to cover or protect the point. He must break up formations of opposing forwards whenever possible. By doing this he gives the point an opportunity to wrest the puck from the attackers. The three foregoing positions I have described form the defensive division, and the players involved must never under any circumstances leave the goal unguarded.

The remaining four members of a team make up the offensive division. On them rests the duty of scoring goals, as is the case with the forwards in a basket ball team. To be sure, the forwards endeavor to keep down their opponents' score, but their chief duty is to make points. On their ability in this particular branch of the game rests the success of the team.

When the rink is of regulation size, four men are played on the forward line, but when the playing surface is small one of the quartet is sent back to act in conjunction with both forwards and backs, as the occasions present themselves. He is called a rover.

Duties of the Rover.

The puck is frequently shot behind the goal posts, and then it becomes the duty of the center forward to go after it and drive it to the rover, who has placed himself in front of the goal ready to send the puck between the posts on receiving it. Thus it is evident that the rover must always be ready to back up the whole forward line and take instant advantage of mistakes on either side.

The three forwards work together as much as possible. Combination plays are their forte and on them rests the responsibility for the development of team work. Their principal aim is to get through the opposing line and shoot goals. Inasmuch as they are on the jump from start to finish, it can readily be realized that their work is of a most trying nature. They must be fast, strong skaters and quick dodgers while carrying the puck.

So far as the rules are concerned, there is one on which all the others may be said to hinge. This is the offside regulation. It provides that every player must be on his side of the puck at all times—that is, he must have the puck between him and the goal he is attacking. The rule also states that each player must be "onside" when the puck is passed to him, as in old time shinney. When a player is offside, he must skate back until he gets back of the puck, or in other words, between the puck and the goal he is defending. He must do this quickly, for his team may be penalized by the referee if he "loafs offside."

Opportunities for fouling are frequent in hockey, and men should try to play a fair, clean game. Roughness should not be tolerated.

CHICAGO YACHT PLANS.

Chicago yachtsmen are preparing to go after two of the most famous trophies—barring the America's cup—on the continent next summer. First and nearest to the hearts of western amateurs comes the Canada's cup. The trial races at Rochester early in the season will, it is announced, be thrown open to outside clubs, and Chicago, which has been intimately associated with the Canada's cup throughout the history of that trophy, is planning to send a yacht to the Rochester contests which will be chosen challenger and race against the defending yacht at Toronto in August. The Seawanhaka cup is the second trophy figured on, and, unless plans go amiss, Chicago yachting experts will have their boats in the trial races at Manchester, Mass.

Fleet Captain G. H. Atkin of the Chicago Yacht club, owner and skipper of the Minota and one of the best known and most enthusiastic amateur sailors in that city, is the leading spirit in the plan to bring the Canada's cup to the United States. Fleet Captain Atkin's yacht did very good work a year ago in the trial races for the selection of a defender for the Canada's cup, and his energy has done much toward putting the Chicago Yacht club into the place it holds today.

Mr. Atkin proposes to form a syndicate which shall build a challenger for the cup. It is believed that no great difficulty will be found in raising funds sufficient for the purpose among the boat owners.

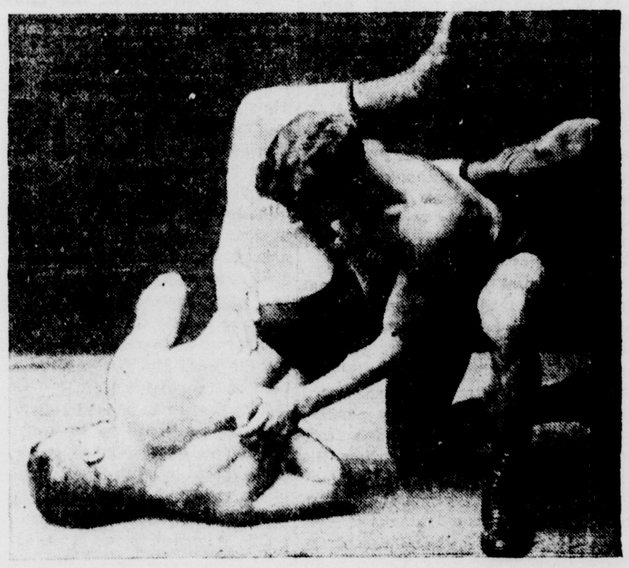
The type of boat which will contest for the Canada's cup will be of the forty foot class under the new restricted rules. This is taken to mean forty feet on the water line and sixty feet more or less over all. This will make the boats approach the size of the Vanenna.

FOR SWIMMERS' CRAMP.

If swimmers could be trained to keep cool under all circumstances, there would be comparatively little drowning among bathers and summer pleasure seekers. Cramp is usually assigned as the cause when some good swimmer drowns. But cramp ought in reality to be nothing serious. Usually it affects only an arm or a leg, or maybe only a hand or foot. Any moderately good swimmer can keep afloat with one arm, or even without the use of that, yet good swimmers are drowning every year as a result of cramp. If such fatalities were analyzed, they would be more properly classed as drownings from fright and loss of nerve. When a swimmer feels a leg or arm begin to cramp, he is frightened in most cases entirely out of his wits. He loses his head, begins to splash and paw and struggle and then goes down. What the swimmer should remember is that he can keep afloat with very little effort if he will turn on his back and keep his chest inflated. It is the simple matter of floating which every swimmer knows and finds very easy. If the swimmer will keep cool and float, the cramping limb will frequently relax after a little, and he will find himself as well as ever.

OPERA TO VAUDEVILLE.

Mme. Eugenie Mantelli, formerly contralto of Maurice Grau's Opera company, has gone into vaudeville. She has signed a contract with Robert Grau for a fifteen weeks' tour under his direction. She opened at Hyde & Behman's theater, Brooklyn, Dec. 1.

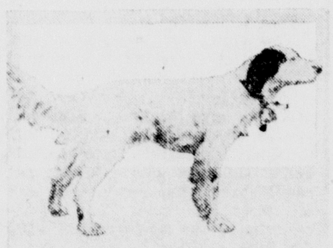


CHAMPION GEORGE BOTHNER EXECUTING A HAMMER LOCK.

George Bothner, the world's champion lightweight wrestler, is without question the most skillful mat performer in the arena today. Foreign and American experts alike have fallen a prey to his prowess, and fear of him has spread to such an extent that men in his own class refuse to challenge him. Consequently Bothner has been compelled to go outside of the lightweight division for engagements, meeting prominent heavyweights in handicap matches. In recent contests of this nature he defeated John Piening, the Brooklyn "Butcher Boy," and Tom Jenkins of Cleveland, the heavyweight champion, both having guaranteed to throw the slippery lightweight four times in an hour.

Bothner's specialty is defensive work. He can free himself from almost any kind of a hold, and his "head spins" are worth going miles to see. Bothner's exploits have given him high rank as an instructor, and his classes in the New York gymnasium of the Bothner-Elmer Health Culture school are always well attended.

SELKIRK FREDA, NOTED ENGLISH SETTER.



The dog show season is now at its height, and kennel clubs in all of the large cities are striving to outstrip rivals in entries and attendance. The accompanying illustration shows Selkirk Freda, a famous English setter that has won prizes in many cities. She is owned in Canada and is brought to "the States" every year.

V.—A Burst of Bloom.

WHEN Spring has painted the land in her tender, verdant colors and hung the trees with a green fringe, our delight in the whole and our growing accustomedness to the young season cause some of us to think less of the wild flowers because we have so many other beautiful things close at hand.

The most lovely of them all is the wild azalea, or false honeysuckle, of the eastern parts of our country, north and south. It is shrubby and from three to six feet in height. Its flower is not unlike that of the hothouse azalea—that is, it does not open widely from the very beginning of the petals, but holds them in a funnel form for some distance before opening wide and flat. Like the dweller in the hothouse, its pistil and its stamen protrude. It seems strange that this should have been called the Whitsunday flower by the early Dutch of New Amsterdam, for it is in bloom shortly after Easter. Moreover, its hue being a rich pink, or at least pink and whitish, it would hardly seem suitable for the whiteness of Whitsunday. There are, too, the flame colored azaleas of the Alleghany mountains. These flowers have only a slight fragrance, but a bunch of them in a wood is a glad sight.

Beauty and fragrance are combined in our familiar arbutus and the May flower of the Puritans. Widely spread as it is through north and south, it would seem to be an easy thing to find its pink faces peering from the matted brown green leaves, but it has been so ruthlessly torn up by those desiring it for sale in the city streets or for personal adornment that unless one is initiated into the secrets of its haunts search for it means a long and often fruitless tramp. It only grows wild, for it will not bear trans planting.

The adder's tongue, or dog tooth violet, may also make legitimate pretensions to beauty with its graceful drooping flower bells and its handsome purple spotted leaves. Whence the name dog tooth is derived, or, worse, that uncalled for misnomer, violet, when it is in form and manner of the lily family, is an enigma.

The Canterbury bell is straight as to stem, hairy and branched. Its rather large flowers massed along the ends are of a beautiful bright light blue tinged with pink, while those at the very top are sometimes entirely of a lavender pink. They are often double, but when single are of an oblong bell shape and belong to the same family as the bluebells. They are, however, three times as tall and much larger and coarser in every way.

Canterbury bells naturally suggest miterwort because of the association of ideas in the first parts of the names and not because of any resemblance in the flowers. The miterwort, or bishop's cap, and its relative, the foam flower, or false miterwort, both bloom in May, and both have racemes—feathery white, tipping stems about a foot high. The bishop's cap has its flowers more scattered along its stem, and the petals are deeply fringed. Its name was given it because its seed case is supposed to resemble the form of a bishop's headgear.

Another relative has bloomed a little earlier—the saxifrage. The name, from the Latin, means, "I break rock." It is always found in rocky woods or pastures, sometimes growing so close against the stones that one would not dream that there could be sustenance there for anything but fungus. Early in the spring a soft ball of gray green appears above the grayish green leaves which lie flat against the ground. The ball moves upward and resolves itself into white flowers, arranged in rather a loose cluster, branching, but rather flat than otherwise, supported on a pale green hairy stem.

Another white flower is the sweet cicely. It loves the deep woods and very shady corners. When we are out seeking for the first hepaticas, the woods are full of its young, fernlike leaves, but they grow to be quite large, though never losing their feminess until summer. Long stems shoot up above them to the height of two or three feet and bear the most filmy, flat clusters of small flowers. They breathe the very spirit of the rioting young season. What a change to meet them late in August! The leaves have grown coarser and have broken into a dirty brownish green. Those delicate flowers, alas, have turned to sticklers, ready to catch our clothing as we pass! The root, however, is fragrant and is said to be edible.

The bellwort, a little over a foot high, has a shiny, slender stem, along which the round bottomed, pointed topped leaves are strung at intervals as if the stem had been thrust through them at some time and some one had put them there, as a child strings its beads. Beside some of them start small branches, ending in drooping, lily-like, straw colored bells of flowers which are sweet scented.

The groundsel resembles the yellow wild aster. It is like a small yellow daisy, and as it is apt to be the only one resembling that form so early in the year it is easy to recognize. Its leaves are lyrate—that is, they look as if they had started out to be leaves near the main stem and had then apologized to the stem and shrunk back. After having done that several times it seems to have remembered that it had meant to be a real leaf and swelled itself out beautifully. It is also known as the seneco—from senex, "old man"—because of the white hairs on its pappus. It takes care of its seeds, as the dandelion does.

Running across the pastures is the five finger, or cinquefoil. On seeing great quantities of it one is apt to mistake it for wild strawberries, for the leaves are much like those of the strawberry vine, and they also spread by runners. The cinquefoil has five leaves and three, four or five fingers. The strawberry has always three leaves, finely toothed. The flowers of the cinquefoil are like diminutive roses and are bright yellow. Cinquefoil is the French for five fingers.

There are two plants which do not seem to have any striking colors about them save the green—the blue cohosh and the meadow rue. The early meadow rue has whitish green flowers, sometimes with a hint of cinnamon brown, which seem to be tiny bits or divisions fastened together like the half of a ball. Its great beauty lies in its delicate thin leaves, which are so much like those of the maidenhair fern that one has to look the second time to be sure which it is.

The blue cohosh also is made a little after the same fashion, only you would never think of the maidenhair in connection with it. There is only one leaf on the otherwise naked flower bearing stem, and, as it is much divided and without any common stemlet at the base, it seems like three leaves instead of one. There is another larger leaf or collection of leaflets at the base of this stem. The flowers are small and insignificant. The six sepals are longer than the dull bluish petals within. The plant, though slender and delicate, like the wood anemones, reaches the height of from one to two feet. These all bloom in May.

June brings a new host, but there is one which first looks on the world about the last of May and stays to enjoy June—the blue eyed grass or eyebright. In a meadow or orchard or anywhere among the grass is the eyebright. It is a little paler and stiffer than ordinary grass, and its blades fit into each other in a way grass does not, yet one would hardly suspect it of bearing lily-like flowers. Late in the afternoon in the season of its prime you will see no sign of it until upon close inspection the pale blue buds are perceived. They cannot be seen in the morning, but at high noon, at the warm invitation of the sun, they open wide their bright faces, showing how well they are named, for, small, blue and yellow centered, they seem like fairies' eyes come to make fuller the loveliness of June. The flowers seem to come right out of the ends of the blades on the thinnest little threads of stems. It is really a surprise to meet them, though they are very abundant.

The majority of the flowers which begin to bloom in June last for many weeks through the heart of the summer, for, the weather being more equable, competition is more fierce and the need for a longer life greater.

The Craze For Ornamentation—Evening Jewelry.

The craze for ornamentation of every description is getting daily more marked. A fancy for beautiful designs in precious stones is a very praiseworthy one, but if you would be well dressed avoid tawdry rubbish of every description.

Necklaces of jet are a fad with black gowns, and dog collars and pearls are considered very chic.

Solid ropes of pearls twisted together are used as girdles for priceless lace gowns by the favored few who can spend all they desire on dress.

The squirrel set—stole, hat and muff—though rather common, is undeniably smart and very becoming to a fresh young skin, though this fur should never be worn by a pale or fagged out woman.

Many hats still have most of their trimming on the underside of the brim, but milliners promise a complete change and predict the fall of the single drooping feather. In millinery decorations as well as in every other department of dress oddity is the key note.

trying, for the sunlight on white cloth is not apt to prove flattering to any but dazzling complexions.

At smart "at homes" and receptions, however, there is nothing so dainty as a white gown, provided it is toned down with mink or sable, and is in keeping with its surroundings. A smart gown recently seen at such a function was composed entirely of cream colored crochet lace over crepe de chine in a deep shade of ivory. The bodice seemed to be an inner blouse of accordion crepe de chine with a loose hanging bolero of the lace ornament with a wide waistband of cream panne. The only color introduced was a large bunch of parma violets.

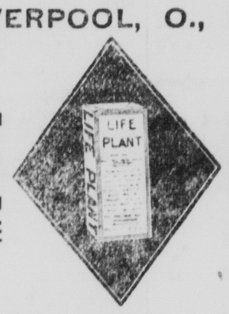
LIFE PLANT



FOR KIDNEY TROUBLE

READ WHAT HE SAYS

East Liverpool, Ohio, Nov. 19th, 1902.

The Life Plant Co.,
Canton, Ohio.

Gentlemen:—I have used nearly two bottles of LIFE PLANT and must say it is a fine medicine for the kidneys. It is the best medicine I have ever taken and I recommend it to all who are suffering from kidney diseases.

F. F. EDWARDS, 136 Third St.

Kidney diseases are very common and very dangerous. They cause more deaths than any other affliction, and yet they can be cured, quickly and easily by taking LIFE PLANT. An improper treatment is worse than none. It excites the kidneys to unusual action for a time, causing a seeming benefit, but the result is increased weakness.

LIFE PLANT leaves you permanently cured or your money is refunded. Whatever the stage of your trouble, your druggist will warrant that LIFE PLANT will succeed with you.

The fearful fatality caused by kidney diseases is the result of neglect and wrong treatment. Commence now by using the only guaranteed treatment, LIFE PLANT. It's a wonder.

V.—A Burst of Bloom.

WHEN Spring has painted the land in her tender, verdant colors and hung the trees with a green fringe, our delight in the whole and our growing accustomedness to the young season cause some of us to think less of the wild flowers because we have so many other beautiful things close at hand.

The most lovely of them all is the wild azalea, or false honeysuckle, of the eastern parts of our country, north and south. It is shrubby and from three to six feet in height. Its flower is not unlike that of the hothouse azalea—that is, it does not open widely from the very beginning of the petals, but holds them in a funnel form for some distance before opening wide and flat. Like the dweller in the hothouse, its pistil and its stamen protrude. It seems strange that this should have been called the Whitsunday flower by the early Dutch of New Amsterdam, for it is in bloom shortly after Easter. Moreover, its hue being a rich pink, or at least pink and whitish, it would hardly seem suitable for the whiteness of Whitsunday. There are, too, the flame colored azaleas of the Alleghany mountains. These flowers have only a slight fragrance, but a bunch of them in a wood is a glad sight.

Beauty and fragrance are combined in our familiar arbutus and the May flower of the Puritans. Widely spread as it is through north and south, it would seem to be an easy thing to find its pink faces peering from the matted brown green leaves, but it has been so ruthlessly torn up by those desiring it for sale in the city streets or for personal adornment that unless one is initiated into the secrets of its haunts search for it means a long and often fruitless tramp. It only grows wild, for it will not bear trans planting.

The adder's tongue, or dog tooth violet, may also make legitimate pretensions to beauty with its graceful drooping flower bells and its handsome purple spotted leaves. Whence the name dog tooth is derived, or, worse, that uncalled for misnomer, violet, when it is in form and manner of the lily family, is an enigma.

The Canterbury bell is straight as to stem, hairy and branched. Its rather large flowers massed along the ends are of a beautiful bright light blue tinged with pink, while those at the very top are sometimes entirely of a lavender pink. They are often double, but when single are of an oblong bell shape and belong to the same family as the bluebells. They are, however, three times as tall and much larger and coarser in every way.

Canterbury bells naturally suggest miterwort because of the association of ideas in the first parts of the names and not because of any resemblance in the flowers. The miterwort, or bishop's cap, and its relative, the foam flower, or false miterwort, both bloom in May, and both have racemes—feathery white, tipping stems about a foot high. The bishop's cap has its flowers more scattered along its stem, and the petals are deeply fringed. Its name was given it because its seed case is supposed to resemble the form of a bishop's headgear.

Another relative has bloomed a little earlier—the saxifrage. The name, from the Latin, means, "I break rock." It is always found in rocky woods or pastures, sometimes growing so close against the stones that one would not dream that there could be sustenance there for anything but fungus. Early in the spring a soft ball of gray green appears above the grayish green leaves which lie flat against the ground. The ball moves upward and resolves itself into white flowers, arranged in rather a loose cluster, branching, but rather flat than otherwise, supported on a pale green hairy stem.

Another white flower is the sweet cicely. It loves the deep woods and very shady corners. When we are out seeking for the first hepaticas, the woods are full of its young, fernlike leaves, but they grow to be quite large, though never losing their fernlness until summer. Long stems shoot up above them to the height of two or three feet and bear the most filmy, flat clusters of small flowers. They breathe the very spirit of the rioting young season. What a change to meet them late in August! The leaves have grown coarser and have broken into a dirty brownish green. Those delicate flowers, alas, have turned to stickers, ready to catch our clothing as we pass! The root, however, is fragrant and is said to be edible.

The bellwort, a little over a foot high, has a shiny, slender stem, along which the round bottomed, pointed topped leaves are strung at intervals as if the stem had been thrust through them at some time and some one had put them there, as a child strings its beads. Beside some of them start small branches, ending in drooping, lily-like, straw colored bells of flowers which are sweet scented.

The groundsel resembles the yellow wild aster. It is like a small yellow daisy, and as it is apt to be the only one resembling that form so early in the year it is easy to recognize. Its leaves are lyrate—that is, they look as if they had started out to be leaves near the main stem and had then apologized to the stem and shrunk back. After having done that several times it seems to have remembered that it had meant to be a real leaf and swelled itself out beautifully. It is also known as the seneco—from senex, "old man"—because of the white hairs on its pappus. It takes care of its seeds, as the dandelion does.

Running across the pastures is the five finger, or cinquefoil. On seeing great quantities of it one is apt to mistake it for wild strawberries, for the leaves are much like those of the strawberry vine, and they also spread by runners. The cinquefoil has five leaves and three, four or five fingers. The strawberry has always three leaves, finely toothed. The flowers of the cinquefoil are like diminutive roses and are bright yellow. Cinquefoil is the French for five fingers.

There are two plants which do not seem to have any striking colors about them save the green—the blue cohosh and the meadow rue. The early meadow rue has whitish green flowers, sometimes with a hint of cinnamon brown, which seem to be tiny bits or divisions fastened together like the half of a ball. Its great beauty lies in its delicate thin leaves, which are so much like those of the maidenhair fern that one has to look the second time to be sure which it is.

The blue cohosh also is made a little after the same fashion, only you would never think of the maidenhair in connection with it. There is only one leaf on the otherwise naked flower bearing stem, and, as it is much divided and without any common stemlet at the base, it seems like three leaves instead of one. There is another larger leaf or collection of leaflets at the base of this stem. The flowers are small and insignificant. The six sepals are longer than the dull bluish petals within. The plant, though slender and delicate, like the wood anemones, reaches the height of from one to two feet. These all bloom in May.

June brings a new host, but there is one which first looks on the world about the last of May and stays to enjoy June—the blue eyed grass or eyebright. In a meadow or orchard or anywhere among the grass is the eyebright. It is a little paler and stiffer than ordinary grass, radical blades fit into each other in a way grass does not, yet one would hardly suspect it of bearing lily-like flowers. Late in the afternoon in the season of its prime you will see no sign of it until upon close inspection the pale blue buds are perceived. They cannot be seen in the morning, but at high noon, at the warm invitation of the sun, they open wide their bright faces, showing how well they are named, for, small, blue and yellow centered, they seem like fairies' eyes come to make fuller the loveliness of June. The flowers seem to come right out of the ends of the blades on the thinnest little threads of stems. It is really a surprise to meet them, though they are very abundant.

The majority of the flowers which begin to bloom in June last for many weeks through the heart of the summer, for, the weather being more equable, competition is more fierce and the need for a longer life greater.

V.—A Burst of Bloom.

WHEN Spring has painted the land in her tender, verdant colors and hung the trees with a green fringe, our delight in the whole and our growing accustomedness to the young season cause some of us to think less of the wild flowers because we have so many other beautiful things close at hand.

The most lovely of them all is the wild azalea, or false honeysuckle, of the eastern parts of our country, north and south. It is shrubby and from three to six feet in height. Its flower is not unlike that of the hothouse azalea—that is, it does not open widely from the very beginning of the petals, but holds them in a funnel form for some distance before opening wide and flat. Like the dweller in the hothouse, its pistil and its stamen protrude. It seems strange that this should have been called the Whitsunday flower by the early Dutch of New Amsterdam, for it is in bloom shortly after Easter. Moreover, its hue being a rich pink, or at least pink and whitish, it would hardly seem suitable for the whiteness of Whitsunday. There are, too, the flame colored azaleas of the Alleghany mountains. These flowers have only a slight fragrance, but a bunch of them in a wood is a glad sight.

Beauty and fragrance are combined in our familiar arbutus and the May flower of the Puritans. Widely spread as it is through north and south, it would seem to be an easy thing to find its pink faces peering from the matted brown green leaves, but it has been so ruthlessly torn up by those desiring it for sale in the city streets or for personal adornment that unless one is initiated into the secrets of its haunts search for it means a long and often fruitless tramp. It only grows wild, for it will not bear transplanting.

The adder's tongue, or dog tooth violet, may also make legitimate pretensions to beauty with its graceful drooping flower bells and its handsome purple spotted leaves. Whence the name dog tooth is derived, or, worse, that uncalled for misnomer, violet, when it is in form and manner of the lily family is an enigma.

The Canterbury bell is straight as to stem, hairy and branched. Its rather large flowers massed along the ends are of a beautiful bright light blue tinged with pink, while those at the very top are sometimes entirely of a lavender pink. They are often double, but when single are of an oblong bell shape and belong to the same family as the bluebells. They are, however, three times as tall and much larger and coarser in every way.

Canterbury bells naturally suggest miterwort because of the association of ideas in the first parts of the names and not because of any resemblance in the flowers. The miterwort, or bishop's cap, and its relative, the foam flower, or false miterwort, both bloom in May, and both have racemes—feathery white, tipping stems about a foot high. The bishop's cap has its flowers more scattered along its stem, and the petals are deeply fringed. Its name was given it because its seed case is supposed to resemble the form of a bishop's headgear.

Another relative has bloomed a little earlier—the saxifrage. The name, from the Latin, means, "I break rock." It is always found in rocky woods or pastures, sometimes growing so close against the stones that one would not dream that there could be sustenance there for anything but fungus. Early in the spring a soft ball of gray green appears above the grayish green leaves which lie flat against the ground. The ball moves upward and resolves itself into white flowers, arranged in rather a loose cluster, branching, but rather flat than otherwise, supported on a pale green hairy stem.

Another white flower is the sweet cicely. It loves the deep woods and very shady corners. When we are out seeking for the first hepaticas, the woods are full of its young, fernlike leaves, but they grow to be quite large, though never losing their feminess until summer. Long stems shoot up above them to the height of two or three feet and bear the most filmy, flat clusters of small flowers. They breathe the very spirit of the rioting young season. What a change to meet them late in August! The leaves have grown coarser and have broken into a dirty brownish green. Those delicate flowers, alas, have turned to sticklers, ready to catch our clothing as we pass! The root, however, is fragrant and is said to be edible.

The bellwort, a little over a foot high, has a shiny, slender stem, along which the round bottomed, pointed topped leaves are strung at intervals as if the stem had been thrust through them at some time and some one had put them there, as a child strings its beads. Beside some of them start small branches, ending in drooping, lily-like, straw colored bells of flowers which are sweet scented.

The groundsel resembles the yellow wild aster. It is like a small yellow daisy, and as it is apt to be the only one resembling that form so early in the year it is easy to recognize. Its leaves are lyrate—that is, they look as if they had started out to be leaves near the main stem and had then apologized to the stem and shrunk back. After having done that several times it seems to have remembered that it had meant to be a real leaf and swelled itself out beautifully. It is also known as the seneco—from senex, "old man"—because of the white hairs on its pappus. It takes care of its seeds, as the dandelion does.

Running across the pastures is the five finger, or cinquefoil. On seeing great quantities of it one is apt to mistake it for wild strawberries, for the leaves are much like those of the strawberry vine, and they also spread by runners. The cinquefoil has five leaves and three, four or five fingers. The strawberry has always three leaves, finely toothed. The flowers of the cinquefoil are like diminutive roses and are bright yellow. Cinquefoil is the French for five fingers.

There are two plants which do not seem to have any striking colors about them save the green—the blue cohosh and the meadow rue. The early meadow rue has whitish green flowers, sometimes with a hint of cinnamon brown, which seem to be tiny bits or divisions fastened together like the half of a ball. Its great beauty lies in its delicate thin leaves, which are so much like those of the maidenhair fern that one has to look the second time to be sure which it is.

The blue cohosh also is made a little after the same fashion, only you would never think of the maidenhair in connection with it. There is only one leaf on the otherwise naked flower bearing stem, and, as it is much divided and without any common stemlet at the base, it seems like three leaves instead of one. There is another larger leaf or collection of leaflets at the base of this stem. The flowers are small and insignificant. The six sepals are longer than the dull bluish petals within. The plant, though slender and delicate, like the wood anemones, reaches the height of from one to two feet. These all bloom in May.

June brings a new host, but there is one which first looks on the world about the last of May and stays to enjoy June—the blue eyed grass or eyebright. In a meadow or orchard or anywhere among the grass is the eyebright. It is a little paler and stiffer than ordinary grass, and its blades fit into each other in a way grass does not, yet one would hardly suspect it of bearing lily-like flowers. Late in the afternoon in the season of its prime you will see no sign of it until upon close inspection the pale blue buds are perceived. They cannot be seen in the morning, but at high noon, at the warm invitation of the sun, they open wide their bright faces, showing how well they are named, for, small, blue and yellow centered, they seem like fairies' eyes come to make fuller the loveliness of June. The flowers seem to come right out of the ends of the blades on the thinnest little threads of stems. It is really a surprise to meet them, though they are very abundant.

The majority of the flowers which begin to bloom in June last for many weeks through the heart of the summer, for, the weather being more equable, competition is more fierce and the need for a longer life greater.

UNCLE BEN WAS AHEAD

"I was in a small village in the interior of the state," said a Chicago man, "and one night at the postoffice I heard a man making certain historical statements that I knew to be incorrect. I felt it my duty to tell him so, and he resented it, and the crowd was with him. A day or two later I got hold of a history and attempted to show wherein the man was wrong, but the villager I was talking with replied:

"'Yes, history agrees with you, but I can't. I've got to stick by Uncle Ben.'

"'But is Uncle Ben better authority than history?'

"'Well, he killed five rattlesnakes while he was mowing this summer, and I've never heard that history has even killed one.'" M. QUAD.

Queer Effect of Generosity.

Miles M. O'Brien, ex president of the board of education, dropped into the offices of the Guardian Trust company the other day to have a chat with Bird S. Coler.

In the course of the conversation he related one of his experiences while visiting a west side grammar school. He asked a number of questions of the various pupils to test their knowledge of the branches taught. Of one of the small boys in the arithmetic class he asked:

"If your father should give your mother $3 today and $6 tomorrow and $4.50 the next day, what would be the result?"

The boy who was at the bottom of the class replied, "She would have a fit."—New York Times.

A Black Eye.

Provided there is no abrasion or cut of the cuticle, a black eye can be removed in one night by an application of an ointment of black hellebore. Rub some black hellebore powder up with some lard and apply, leaving it on all night. In the morning the discoloration has all gone and the swelling also, only leaving a slight wrinkle, which soon disappears by cold water applications.

Rung Her In.

"And when you marry," she softly said, "I hope you'll remember to invite me to the ceremony."

He looked thoughtful. "It will be awfully crowded, no doubt," he said, "but I think I can ring you in somehow."

And a moment or two later she declared the ring was an astonishingly good at.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

FADS AND FASHIONS.

The Craze For Ornamentation—Evening Jewelry.

The craze for ornamentation of every description is getting daily more marked. A fancy for beautiful designs in precious stones is a very praiseworthy one, but if you would be well dressed avoid tawdry rubbish of every description.

Necklaces of jet are a fad with black gowns, and dog collars and pearls are considered very chic.

Solid ropes of pearls twisted together are used as girdles for priceless lace gowns by the favored few who can spend all they desire on dress.

The squirrel set, stole, hat and muff—though rather common, is undeniably smart and very becoming to a fresh young skin, though this fur should never be worn by a pale or fagged out woman.

GRAY SQUIRREL COAT.

Many hats still have most of their trimming on the underside of the brim, but milliners promise a complete change and predict the fall of the single drooping feather. In millinery decorations as well as in every other department of dress oddity is the key note.

The illustration shows a fancy effect in squirrel fur. These coats are at present all the rage.

WHAT IS WORN.

All White Not Always Suitable Cheap Millinery.

The prices of good millinery are greatly reduced, and it is just the time to invest in an extra winter hat.

Fur toques are much more elaborate than of yore, the only simple shape being known as the "shah," in ermine, astrakhan, moleskin and mink, with its big brush in black and white. This is not a shape that suits every one.

White still continues to be very popular, but for out of door wear it is very trying, for the sunlight on white cloth is not apt to prove flattering to any but dazzling complexions.

At smart "at homes" and receptions, however, there is nothing so dainty as a white gown, provided it is toned down with mink or sable, and is in keeping with its surroundings. A smart gown recently seen at such a function was composed entirely of cream colored crochet lace over crepe de chine in a deep shade of ivory. The bodice seemed to be an inner blouse of accordion crepe de chine with a loose hanging bolero of the lace ornament with a wide waistband of cream panne. The only color introduced was a large bunch of parma violets.

The picture shows a smart costume which can be made up in any shade of cloth. The hat is especially good and the plaited skirt worthy of notice.

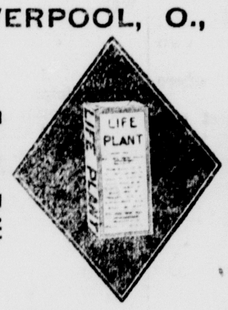
F. F. EDWARDS, PROPRIETOR OF THE HOTEL EDWARDS OF EAST LIVERPOOL, O., RECOMMENDS

LIFE PLANT



FOR KIDNEY TROUBLE

READ WHAT HE SAYS

East Liverpool, Ohio, Nov. 19th, 1902.

The Life Plant Co.,
Canton, Ohio.

Gentlemen:—I have used nearly two bottles of LIFE PLANT and must say it is a fine medicine for the kidneys. It is the best medicine I have ever taken and I recommend it to all who are suffering from kidney diseases.

F. F. EDWARDS, 136 Third St.

Kidney diseases are very common and very dangerous. They cause more deaths than any other affliction, and yet they can be cured, quickly and easily by taking LIFE PLANT. An improper treatment is worse than none. It excites the kidneys to unusual action for a time, causing a seeming benefit, but the result is increased weakness.

LIFE PLANT leaves you permanently cured or your money is refunded. Whatever the stage of your trouble, your druggist will warrant that LIFE PLANT will succeed with you.

The fearful fatality caused by kidney diseases is the result of neglect and wrong treatment. Commence now by using the only guaranteed treatment, LIFE PLANT. It's a wonder.

SENATE AND HOUSE.

Mr. Tillman Again Charges Attorney General With Inactivity Against Trusts.

ARMY APPROPRIATIONS PASSED

House Then Began Considering the Department of Commerce Bill—The Cuban Reciprocity Measure Reported With Two Amendments.

Washington, Jan. 16.—In the senate yesterday Senator Tillman continued his arraignment of trusts and monopolies, and again charged the attorney general was responsible primarily for lack of action against trusts.

The statehood bill was under discussion for a short time, Mr. Foraker urging the right of Oklahoma, Arizona and New Mexico to be admitted into the Union.

Mr. McLaurin (Miss.) called attention to charges that the people of Indianola, Miss., had been guilty of threats and intimidation against the postmaster, and declared them to be untrue, remarking that his object in bringing the matter to the attention of the senate was in order that his denial might go into the Congressional Record as an answer to those who made the charge.

Mr. Fairbanks gave notice that he would call up the immigration bill on Monday.

At 4.50 p. m. the senate went into executive session and soon afterward adjourned until Monday.

In the House.

The house yesterday passed the army appropriation bill and began consideration of the department of commerce bill, under a special rule making it a continuing order until disposed of. The opposition to the measure came entirely from the Democratic side and was based chiefly on the ground that the transfer of the bureau of labor to the new department would subordinate that bureau to a department which would represent capitalistic interests. The friends of the bill denied the assumption that the head of the new department would be hostile to labor. They maintained that the bill would increase the dignity of the bureau of labor by giving the head of the department a seat in the cabinet. Those who participated in the debate were Messrs. Mann (Ill.), Corliss (Mich.), Adamson (Ga.), Scott (Kan.) and Hepburn (Ia.), in favor of the measure, and Messrs. Richardson (Ala.), Haines (Tenn.), Davis (Fla.), Clayton (Ala.), Shackleford (Mo.), Cochran (Mo.) and Wooten (Texas) against it.

At 5:10 p. m. the house adjourned.

Cuban Reciprocity.

The senate committee on foreign relations yesterday agreed to report the Cuban reciprocity treaty to the senate with no amendments. The first of these is the guarantee against a further reduction of the sugar tariff, which was adopted Wednesday, and the other makes a reduction of 40 per cent in the reduction of the duty on American cattle exported to Cuba, instead of 20 per cent, as provided in the treaty as it was originally transmitted to the senate. Senators Bacon and Bailey cast their votes against the resolution for a favorable report, but all the other votes were in the affirmative.

Later in the day, in the executive session of the senate, Senator Cullom reported the treaty as amended by the foreign relations committee, and gave notice that he would call it up Monday next and would endeavor to secure action upon it at the earliest possible day. This notice was in accordance with a general understanding among Republican senators. It is expected that there will be considerable debate on the treaty and that some time will elapse before it can be acted upon.

Anti-Trust Bill.

The following statement was given out by the sub-house judiciary committee, which is charged with the preparation of an anti-trust bill:

"We have had a conference with the attorney general and have been informally considering among other things his suggestions, as well as discussing the general form of the legislation. No definite action has been taken by the sub-committee and we shall not be prepared to report to the full committee before the early part of next week."

The positive statement was made that there has been no hitch to occasion the delay. "It is simply a question now of perfecting the bill," said one member of the sub-committee.

Can't Fill Orders.

New York, Jan. 16.—A coal famine confronts the officials of the Brooklyn navy yard. An inventory taken yesterday disclosed the fact that there is only enough coal on hand to last five days. Contractors it is said, confess their inability to fill orders, notwithstanding that they can be penalized by the government for failure to live up to their contracts.

General Booth at Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, Jan. 16.—General William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, arrived here late yesterday afternoon from St. Louis. He addressed a big meeting at Music hall last night, which was presided over by Lieutenant Governor Harry Gordon. General Booth will leave for Cleveland tonight.

Desert Lizards.

There is no place like the desert for lizards. As a man rides through the white sands or over the black malapai mountains in Arizona or southeastern California and sees the flash and scurry of these brilliant and graceful creatures the suggestion of death and solitude is broken, and, beholding so much life, he is brought to wonder if the country is really a desert or only a land to which a man is not adapted, for here are animals which never drink, yet frisk about through thorns and cactus and fatten on the bitter plants. Many a desert prospector had lain down with his burros to die and seen on the rocks about him the black heads of the chuckwalla lizards outlined against the brazen sky. The chuckwallas were happy and corpulent with good eating. It was their country. For thousands of generations their ancestors had never thirsted for water, and plants which the starving burros passed by furnished both food and drink for the scaly natives on the rocks. Next to the slow moving and deadly Gila monster the chuckwalla is the largest lizard of the desert, being from a foot to a foot and a half in length.—Country Life In America.

How Snakes Fascinate.

The cobra of the Cape fascinates birds by coiling itself on a branch, erecting its head and swinging to and fro. Sundowner states that the snake will go on "fascinating" and keeping the bird twittering and unable to leave the tree in which it is "for hours" and that if the bird is driven away it comes back. This may be a "yarn," but from the curious fascination which monterrifying objects, such as "lark glitters," have for some birds and their apparent inability to resist hovering around the lure the far greater mesmerizing power of the serpent may be conjectured. Movement, more or less regular, is always part of the means of fascination employed by snakes. Their fondness for music of any kind is not extended to the sound of the human voice singing, which snakes clearly do not appreciate at all. They only care for "instrumental music," which includes the concertina, tomtom and Jew's harp. But from experiments made in this country it was evident that they like the bagpipes best.—Spectator.

It Got Tragic, However.

"That report of my death is the most amusing thing on record!" exclaimed Mr. Jinks. "I've just read my own obituary in this newspaper."

"Indeed!" said his wife. "And where does it say you went to?"

And then Mr. Jinks coughed and kicked the cat and told the cook to put some more coal on the fire.—Atlanta Constitution.

SENATOR DOLLIVER ON TRUSTS.

Says Within 20 Years Every Trust Magnate of Today Will be Dead or in Sanitariums.

New York, Jan. 16.—United States Senator J. P. Dolliver, of Iowa, was one of the speakers at a dinner given last night under the auspices of the Nineteenth Assembly District Republican club. Among other guests of the club were General Joseph Wheeler, of Alabama; former Governor Frank S. Black, Congressman James E. Watson, of Indiana; State Senator T. A. Ellsworth, Collector of the Port N. N. Stranahan and Surveyor of the Port J. S. Clarkson.

Senator Dolliver, in a speech which dealt principally with economic conditions in the United States, said there was no need for apprehension for the future or for any distrust of the trusts. The poor, and the children of the poor, he said, have more chance today than ever they had before.

"Within 20 years," he said, "every trust magnate of today will be dead or in a sanitarium for nervous diseases, and the world will be looking out for trained men to do the world's work."

The senator said men should cover their discomforts and annoyances with their patriotism. "In congress," said Mr. Dolliver, "I got to love that old Confederate," referring to General Joseph Wheeler, who sat beside him, "and when he was about to go to Cuba I warned him that he was too old and that he would never return.

"'My boy,' he said, 'I have prayed for 10 years for an opportunity to die in the uniform of the United States.'"

That was an example, Senator Dolliver said, of the principle of discarding old feelings of personal bitterness for patriotism.

Commodore Scheder Fires a Shell at La Vigia, Which Explodes Without Damage.

Puerto Cabello, Jan. 16.—The German cruiser Vineta, at sunset Wednesday night, fired a shell at La Vigia, the fort crowning the hills behind this port. The shell, which was fired because men were believed to be in the fort, exploded without causing damage.

The people of Puerto Cabello were at a loss Wednesday night to understand the action of the German cruiser. Early yesterday morning, however, Commodore Scheder sent the following communication to the Venezuelan authorities through William H. Volkmar, acting American consul here:

"Referring to my letter of the 9th instant, I have to inform you that I fired a shell yesterday at Fort La Vigia, because, against my explicit prohibition, the presence has been observed there of unauthorized persons. Judging from reports, those persons were soldiers."

The statement of the German commodore that there were unauthorized persons in the fort is denied by the authorities here.

Washington, Jan. 16.—The navy department is advised of the departure from Kingston of the Dolphin, with Minister Bowen, for Charleston. The Dolphin should reach this point Sunday and the minister is expected in Washington the following day

Filed for Probate.

Tiffin, O., Jan. 16.—What purports to be the last will of Mrs. Charlotte M. Hoyt, widow of the New York multi-millionaire, was filed yesterday. It is dated Sept. 9, 1902. This being of later origin than the other two wills, Judge J. F. Dunn, of Tiffin, who was in charge of Mrs. Hoyt's interests, is bequeathed the bulk of the estate, valued at several hundred thousand dollars. Her father, Casper Guss, of Tiffin, gets $100 a month during his life and the New York Humane society $50 a month for the care of her pets.

Ohio County Commissioners.

Cincinnati, Jan. 16.—The Ohio Association of County Commissioners adjourned yesterday, to meet next January in Columbus. The following officers were elected: President, S. E. Kemp, Dayton; vice presidents, C. C. Richardson, Cincinnati; William Carlisle, Columbus, and R. H. Nash, Xenia; secretary, D. H. Kennedy, Medina, treasurer, L. H. Oviatt, Akron.

THE NATIONAL BOARD OF TRADE.

Question of Reciprocity Was Extensively Handled and Many Recommendations Were Made.

Washington, Jan. 16.—The thirty-third annual convention of the National Board of Trade came to an end yesterday. The question of reciprocity was probably the most important topic considered.

The board adopted resolutions urging legislation on the part of the national congress regarding reciprocal trade relations along the lines laid down by the late President McKinley in his last address at Buffalo, and by President Roosevelt in his recent message to congress, including the reaffirmation of the treaty with France and the other treaties negotiated under the administration of President McKinley, now pending in the senate, and further urges the negotiation of treaties on the same lines with Germany and other countries.

The board urges the immediate reaffirmation of the treaty with Cuba by the senate of the United States.

The Hay-Bond treaty of reciprocity with Newfoundland, the board thinks, would be of large benefit to the business interests of the country as a whole, and urges that the treaty be reaffirmed by the senate of the United States.

The board also petitions the president and the congress of the United States and the American members of the Anglo-American joint high commission to do all that lies in their respective powers to secure a trade treaty between Canada and the United States upon broad business principles of reciprocal concessions, and as a step in this direction favors the measure now before the United States senate authorizing the president to remove the duties upon Canadian coal in return for similar action by the Dominion of Canada with regard to coal from the United States.

A minority report was submitted signed by John Hopwell, Henry W. Peabody and J. T. McHugh.

The report of the committee on immigration laws was adopted. It urged on congress the importance of prompt and favorable action to prohibit undesirable immigration by means of such educational tests as might seem best adapted to that end, and also favored a more stringent naturalization law.

The committee on postal affairs submitted a report urging on congress the prompt adoption of a universal 1-cent domestic letter postage. The report was adopted unanimously.

The convention also adopted a resolution requesting the official southern and western classification committees to provide for and place in use a uniform bill of lading, where in is clearly stated the rights, duties and liabilities of all parties affected by the shipment.

NATIONAL CAPITAL NOTES.

The president signed the bill suspending the duty on coal yesterday.

The president yesterday nominated Colonel Edward M. Hayes, Thirteenth cavalry, to be brigadier general.

The agricultural appropriation bill has been prepared by the house committee on agriculture. It carries approximately $6,000,000, about $80,000 more than the current appropriation.

The house committee on District of Columbia yesterday authorized a favorable report on the bill authorizing the District of Columbia to borrow $10,000,000 from the United States treasury for a period of 20 years at 2 per cent.

Representative Joy yesterday afternoon introduced a concurring resolution directing the house committee on naval affairs to prepare a bill providing for the construction of 25 additional battleships at a cost not to exceed $5,000,000 each.

Before the senate committee on the District of Columbia President MacFarland, of the board of District commissioners, testified yesterday that on account of the increase in the price of coal the District authorities would be compelled to ask to have the appropriation for fuel for schools doubled. He said that the District was now paying $9 a ton for bituminous coal.

The postoffice department has found it impracticable to forward the Indianola mail to Heathman, instead of to Greenville. The Indianola citizens will therefore have to continue to send to Greenville for their mail. Reiteration of Postmaster General Payne's statement that the office at Indianola would not be reopened until assurances of safety are given was made yesterday.

H. H. Hanna, of Indiana, chairman of the monetary commission, and Postmaster General Payne yesterday conferred with President Roosevelt regarding currency legislation in congress. The Fowler bill, introduced Dec. 17, was talked over. It has the approval of the postmaster general, Secretary Shaw and Mr. Hanna. The president expressed himself in favor of legislation along the lines of that measure.

No News from Overdue Ocean Liner.

New York, Jan. 16.—Up to midnight last night no news had been received of the American line steamship St. Louis. Throughout the day crowds of inquirers called at the offices of the company, where the agents maintained a cheerful view and assured all that there was no need for alarm.

Hahn's Bond Reduced.

Mansfield, O., Jan. 16.—The circuit court here yesterday granted a continuance of the extradition case of former Insurance Commissioner William M. Hahn, wanted by New York authorities, until next September term of court. His habeas corpus bond was reduced from $7,000 to $1,000.

Free to All Women.

Several Drug Stores in This City Will Give Away to Every Lady Absolutely Free, a Trial Bottle of the Most Famous Female Remedy Known.

Zoa Phora is an Absolute and Positive Cure for All the Complaints and Weaknesses of Women—It Brightens Their Eyes, Freshens Their Blood, Gives Them New Strength and Vitality and Corrects All Irregularities.

A Trial Bottle Absolutely Free to Every Lady Next Saturday and Monday—Call on Your Druggist for it.

MRS. CHAS. N. WEST, Chicago.

The experience of the women who have used Zoa Phora is no less interesting than remarkable. It tells of pain and suffering from carelessness and neglect, folly and indiscretion. It tells of turning to the one true "woman's friend" when all doctors and all other remedies have utterly failed to even bring relief from pain, much less cure the disease. It tells of the young girl just budding into womanhood, for it is a staunch supporter of the woman approaching the frightful hours of labor pain. It never fails to bring relief to weak organs, displaced organs or female troubles of any nature. Suppressed periods, change of life, laceration or leucorrhea, kidney, liver or bladder troubles, corrects falling or displacements and builds up the system. In the hundreds of cases where it has been used as a last resort, it has never failed and the grateful women rise up from their beds of pain and call it blessed. Here is a letter that will illustrate what a place the remedy has in the hearts of women who know it:

Mrs. Chas. N. West, 19 Abbott Court, Chicago, under date of Feb. 6, 1902, wrote as follows: "For years I suffered from weakness, often accompanied by inflammation. Every month I was obliged to give up my work and go to bed, and my suffering was intensely painful.

"Through kind advice I used Zoa Phora and this month the pain has almost entirely disappeared and I am cured of the weakness. I know this wonderful improvement is wholly the result of taking Zoa Phora. I feel like a woman of 25 years instead of 40. I give my consent to use my testimonial with the greatest pleasure. I think we women should feel deeply grateful to think we can find such sure relief and cure at so small an expense by using Zoa Phora and thus avoiding doctor bills every month, when these ailments come on."

The following named druggists of this city will distribute free trial bottles and a copy of "Dr. Donelly's Advice to Women" to all who apply on the above days. Unfortunately there are thousands of women who never heard of Zoa Phora. They do not know that this remarkable remedy is a sure cure for the sickness, pain, sorrows and trials of womanhood, and to have them know how to obtain a cure and to be certain about this wonderful medicine is the object of this great free distribution.

Do not fail to call on the days and at any of the drug stores mentioned below for a free trial bottle of the remedy that will cure you and make you a happy woman.

In case you live out of the city or for other reasons cannot possibly call, send your name and address to the Zoa Phora Co., Kalamazoo, Mich., and they will mail you free a trial bottle. Don't neglect this opportunity that may save your life. This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

The following Druggists will give away free trial bottles of Zoa Phora next Saturday and Monday:

CLARENCE G. ANDERSON, Sixth and W. Market; CHAS. F. CRAIG, Fifth and Market; THE W. & W. PHARMACY, 206 Market and Fifth; HODSON'S DRUG STORE, Fifth and Broadway; CHAS. T. LARKINS, WILL REED AND ALVIN H. BULGER, Sixth and West Market.

SENATE AND HOUSE.

Mr. Tillman Again Charges Attorney General With Inactivity Against Trusts.

House Then Began Considering the Department of Commerce Bill—The Cuban Reciprocity Measure Reported With Two Amendments.

Washington, Jan. 16.—In the senate yesterday Senator Tillman continued his arraignment of trusts and monopolies, and again charged the attorney general was responsible primarily for lack of action against trusts.

The statehood bill was under discussion for a short time. Mr. Foraker urging the right of Oklahoma, Arizona and New Mexico to be admitted into the Union.

Mr. McLaurin (Miss.) called attention to charges that the people of Indianola, Miss., had been guilty of threats and intimidation against the postmaster, and declared them to be untrue, remarking that his object in bringing the matter to the attention of the senate was in order that his denial might go into the Congressional Record as an answer to those who made the charge.

Mr. Fairbanks gave notice that he would call up the immigration bill on Monday.

At 4.50 p. m. the senate went into executive session and soon afterward adjourned until Monday.

In the House.

The house yesterday passed the army appropriation bill and began consideration of the department of commerce bill, under a special rule making it a continuing order until disposed of. The opposition to the measure came entirely from the Democratic side and was based chiefly on the ground that the transfer of the bureau of labor to the new department would subordinate that bureau to a department which would represent capitalistic interests. The friends of the bill denied the assumption that the head of the new department would be hostile to labor. They maintained that the bill would increase the dignity of the bureau of labor by giving the head of the department a seat in the cabinet. Those who participated in the debate were Messrs. Mann (Ill.), Corliss (Mich.), Adamson (Ga.), Scott (Kan.) and Hepburn (Ia.), in favor of the measure, and Messrs. Richardson (Ala.), Haines (Tenn.), Davis (Fla.), Clayton (Ala.), Shackleford (Mo.), Cochran (Mo.) and Wooten (Texas), against it.

At 5:10 p. m. the house adjourned.

Cuban Reciprocity.

The senate committee on foreign relations yesterday agreed to report the Cuban reciprocity treaty to the senate with no amendments. The first of these is the guarantee against a further reduction of the sugar tariff, which was adopted Wednesday, and the other makes a reduction of 40 per cent in the reduction of the duty on American cattle exported to Cuba, instead of 20 per cent, as provided in the treaty as it was originally transmitted to the senate. Senators Bacon and Bailey cast their votes against the resolution for a favorable report, but all the other votes were in the affirmative.

Later in the day, in the executive session of the senate, Senator Cullom reported the treaty as amended by the foreign relations committee, and gave notice that he would call it up Monday next and would endeavor to secure action upon it at the earliest possible day. This notice was in accordance with a general understanding among Republican senators. It is expected that there will be considerable debate on the treaty and that some time will elapse before it can be acted upon.

Anti-Trust Bill.

The following statement was given out by the sub-house judiciary committee, which is charged with the preparation of an anti-trust bill:

"We have had a conference with the attorney general and have been informally considering among other things his suggestions, as well as discussing the general form of the legislation. No definite action has been taken by the sub-committee and we shall not be prepared to report to the full committee before the early part of next week."

The positive statement was made that there has been no hitch to occasion the delay. "It is simply a question now of perfecting the bill," said one member of the sub-committee.

Can't Fill Orders.

New York, Jan. 16.—A coal famine confronts the officials of the Brooklyn navy yard. An inventory taken yesterday disclosed the fact that there is only enough coal on hand to last five days. Contractors it is said, confess their inability to fill orders, notwithstanding that they can be penalized by the government for failure to live up to their contracts.

General Booth at Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, Jan. 16.—General William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, arrived here late yesterday afternoon from St. Louis. He addressed a big meeting at Music hall last night, which was presided over by Lieutenant Governor Harry Gordon. General Booth will leave for Cleveland tonight.

A BREATHING SPELL.

If the consumptive could only keep from getting worse it would be some encouragement.

Scott's Emulsion at least gives tired nature a breathing spell. The nourishment and strength obtained from Scott's Emulsion are a great relief to the exhausted system.

Desert Lizards.

There is no place like the desert for lizards. As a man rides through the white sands or over the black malapai mountains in Arizona or southeastern California and sees the flash and scurry of these brilliant and graceful creatures the suggestion of death and solitude is broken, and, beholding so much life, he is brought to wonder if the country is really a desert or only a land to which a man is not adapted, for here are animals which never drink, yet frisk about through thorns and cactus and fatten on the bitter plants. Many a desert prospector had lain down with his burros to die and seen on the rocks about him the black heads of the chuckwalla lizards outlined against the brazen sky. The chuckwallas were happy and corpulent with good eating. It was their country. For thousands of generations their ancestors had never thirsted for water, and plants which the starving burros passed by furnished both food and drink for the scaly natives on the rocks. Next to the slow moving and deadly Gila monster the chuckwalla is the largest lizard of the desert, being from a foot to a foot and a half in length.—Country Life In America.

How Snakes Fascinate.

The cobra of the Cape fascinates birds by coiling itself on a branch, erecting its head and swinging to and fro. Sundowner states that the snake will go on "fascinating" and keeping the bird twittering and unable to leave the tree in which it is "for hours" and that if the bird is driven away it comes back. This may be a "yarn," but from the curious fascination which monterrifying objects, such as "lark glitters," have for some birds and their apparent inability to resist hovering around the lure the far greater mesmerizing power of the serpent may be conjectured. Movement, more or less regular, is always part of the means of fascination employed by snakes. Their fondness for music of any kind is not extended to the sound of the human voice singing, which snakes clearly do not appreciate at all. They only care for "instrumental music," which includes the concertina, tomtom and Jew's harp. But from experiments made in this country it was evident that they like the bagpipes best.—Spectator.

It Got Tragic, However.

"That report of my death is the most amusing thing on record!" exclaimed Mr. Jinks. "I've just read my own obituary in this newspaper."

"Indeed!" said his wife. "And where does it say you went to?"

And then Mr. Jinks coughed and kicked the cat and told the cook to put some more coal on the fire.—Atlanta Constitution.

SENATOR DOLLIVER ON TRUSTS.

Says Within 20 Years Every Trust Magnate of Today Will be Dead or in Sanitariums.

New York, Jan. 16.—United States Senator J. P. Dolliver, of Iowa, was one of the speakers at a dinner given last night under the auspices of the Nineteenth Assembly District Republican club. Among other guests of the club were General Joseph Wheeler, of Alabama; former Governor Frank S. Black, Congressman James E. Watson, of Indiana; State Senator T. A. Ellsworth, Collector of the Port N. N. Stranahan and Surveyor of the Port J. S. Clarkson.

Senator Dolliver, in a speech which dealt principally with economic conditions in the United States, said there was no need for apprehension for the future or for any distrust of the trusts. The poor, and the children of the poor, he said, have more chance today than ever they had before.

"Within 20 years," he said, 'every trust magnate of today will be dead or in a sanitarium for nervous diseases, and the world will be looking out for trained men to do the world's work."

The senator said men should cover their discomforts and annoyances with their patriotism. "In congress," said Mr. Dolliver, "I got to love that old Confederate," referring to General Joseph Wheeler, who sat beside him, "and when he was about to go to Cuba I warned him that he was too old and that he would never return. "'My boy,' he said, 'I have prayed for 10 years for an opportunity to die in the uniform of the United States.'"

That was an example, Senator Dolliver said, of the principle of discarding old feelings of personal bitterness for patriotism.

Commodore Scheder Fires a Shell at La Vigia, Which Explodes Without Damage.

Puerto Cabello, Jan. 16.—The German cruiser Vineta, at sunset Wednesday night, fired a shell at La Vigia, the fort crowning the hills behind this port. The shell, which was fired because men were believed to be in the fort, exploded without causing damage.

The people of Puerto Cabello were at a loss Wednesday night to understand the action of the German cruiser. Early yesterday morning, however, Commodore Scheder sent the following communication to the Venezuelan authorities through William H. Volkmar, acting American consul here:

"Referring to my letter of the 9th instant, I have to inform you that I fired a shell yesterday at Fort La Vigia, because, against my explicit prohibition, the presence has been observed there of unauthorized persons. Judging from reports, those persons were soldiers."

The statement of the German commodore that there were unauthorized persons in the fort is denied by the authorities here.

Filed for Probate.

Tiffin, O., Jan. 16.—What purports to be the last will of Mrs. Charlotte M. Hoyt, widow of the New York multi-millionaire, was filed yesterday. It is dated Sept. 9, 1902. This being of later origin than the other two wills, Judge J. F. Dunn, of Tiffin, who was in charge of Mrs. Hoyt's interests, is bequeathed the bulk of the estate, valued at several hundred thousand dollars. Her father, Casper Guss, of Tiffin, gets $100 a month during his life and the New York Humane society $50 a month for the care of her pets.

Ohio County Commissioners.

Cincinnati, Jan. 16.—The Ohio Association of County Commissioners adjourned yesterday, to meet next January in Columbus. The following officers were elected: President, S. E. Kemp, Dayton; vice presidents, C. C. Richardson, Cincinnati; William Carlisle, Columbus, and R. H. Nash, Xenia; secretary, D. H. Kennedy, Medina; treasurer, L. H. Oviatt, Akron.

THE NATIONAL BOARD OF TRADE.

Question of Reciprocity Was Extensively Handled and Many Recommendations Were Made.

Washington, Jan. 16.—The thirty-third annual convention of the National Board of Trade came to an end yesterday. The question of reciprocity was probably the most important topic considered.

The board adopted resolutions urging legislation on the part of the national congress regarding reciprocal trade relations along the lines laid down by the late President McKinley in his last address at Buffalo, and by President Roosevelt in his recent message to congress, including the reaffirmation of the treaty with France and the other treaties negotiated under the administration of President McKinley, now pending in the senate, and further urges the negotiation of treaties on the same lines with Germany and other countries.

The board urges the immediate reaffirmation of the treaty with Cuba by the senate of the United States.

The Hay-Bond treaty of reciprocity with Newfoundland, the board thinks, would be of large benefit to the business interests of the country as a whole, and urges that the treaty be reaffirmed by the senate of the United States.

The board also petitions the president and the congress of the United States and the American members of the Anglo-American joint high commission to do all that lies in their respective powers to secure a trade treaty between Canada and the United States upon broad business principles of reciprocal concessions, and as a step in this direction favors the measure now before the United States senate authorizing the president to remove the duties upon Canadian coal in return for similar action by the Dominion of Canada with regard to coal from the United States.

A minority report was submitted signed by John Hopwell, Henry W. Peabody and J. T. McHugh.

The report of the committee on immigration laws was adopted. It urged on congress the importance of prompt and favorable action to prohibit undesirable immigration by means of such educational tests as might seem best adapted to that end, and also favored a more stringent naturalization law.

The committee on postal affairs submitted a report urging on congress the prompt adoption of a universal 1-cent domestic letter postage. The report was adopted unanimously.

The convention also adopted a resolution requesting the official southern and western classification committees to provide for and place in use a uniform bill of lading, wherein is clearly stated the rights, duties and liabilities of all parties affected by the shipment.

NATIONAL CAPITAL NOTES.

The president signed the bill suspending the duty on coal yesterday.

The president yesterday nominated Colonel Edward M. Hayes, Thirteenth cavalry, to be brigadier general.

The agricultural appropriation bill has been prepared by the house committee on agriculture. It carries approximately $6,000,000, about $80,000 more than the current appropriation.

The house committee on District of Columbia yesterday authorized a favorable report on the bill authorizing the District of Columbia to borrow $10,000,000 from the United States treasury for a period of 20 years at 2 per cent.

Representative Joy yesterday afternoon introduced a concurring resolution directing the house committee on naval affairs to prepare a bill providing for the construction of 25 additional battleships at a cost not to exceed $5,000,000 each.

Before the senate committee on the District of Columbia President MacFarland, of the board of District commissioners, testified yesterday that on account of the increase in the price of coal the District authorities would be compelled to ask to have the appropriation for fuel for schools doubled. He said that the District was now paying $9 a ton for bituminous coal.

The postoffice department has found it impracticable to forward the Indianola mail to Heathman, instead of to Greenville. The Indianola citizens will therefore have to continue to send to Greenville for their mail. Reiteration of Postmaster General Payne's statement that the office at Indianola would not be reopened until assurances of safety are given was made yesterday.

H. H. Hanna, of Indiana, chairman of the monetary commission, and Postmaster General Payne yesterday conferred with President Roosevelt regarding currency legislation in congress. The Fowler bill, introduced Dec. 17, was talked over. It has the approval of the postmaster general, Secretary Shaw and Mr. Hanna. The president expressed himself in favor of legislation along the lines of that measure.

No News from Overdue Ocean Liner.

New York, Jan. 16.—Up to midnight last night no news had been received of the American line steamship St. Louis. Throughout the day crowds of inquirers called at the offices of the company, where the agents maintained a cheerful view and assured all that there was no need for alarm.

Hahn's Bond Reduced.

Mansfield, O., Jan. 16.—The circuit court here yesterday granted a continuance of the extradition case of former Insurance Commissioner William M. Hahn, wanted by New York authorities, until next September term of court. His habeas corpus bond was reduced from $7,000 to $1,000.

Free to All Women.

Zoa Phora is an Absolute and Positive Cure for All the Complaints and Weaknesses of Women—It Brightens Their Eyes, Freshens Their Blood, Gives Them New Strength and Vitality and Corrects All Irregularities.

A Trial Bottle Absolutely Free to Every Lady Next Saturday and Monday—Call on Your Druggist for it.

MRS. CHAS. N. WEST, Chicago.

The experience of the women who have used Zoa Phora is no less interesting than remarkable. It tells of pain and suffering from carelessness and neglect, folly and indiscretion. It tells of turning to the one true "woman's friend" when all doctors and all other remedies have utterly failed to even bring relief from pain, much less cure the disease. It is good for the young girl just budding into womanhood. It is a staunch supporter of the woman approaching the frightful hours of labor pain. It never fails to bring relief to weak organs, displaced organs or female troubles of any nature. Suppressed periods, change of life, ulceration or leucorrhea, kidney, liver or bladder troubles, "worrets falling or displacements and builds up the system. In the hundreds of cases where it has been used as a last resort, it has never failed and the grateful women rise up from their beds of pain and call it blessed. Here is a letter that well illustrates what a place the remedy has in the hearts of women who know it:

Mrs. Chas. N. West 13 Abbott Court, Chicago, under date of Feb. 6, 1902, wrote as follows: "For years I suffered from weakness, often accompanied by inflammation. Every month I was obliged to give up my work and go to bed, and my suffering was intensely painful.

"Through kind advice I used Zoa Phora and this month the pain has almost entirely disappeared and I am cured of the weakness. I know this wonderful improvement is wholly the result of taking Zoa Phora. I feel like a woman of 25 years instead of 40. I give my consent to use my testimonial with the greatest pleasure. I think we women should feel deeply grateful to think we can find such sure relief and cure at so small an expense by using Zoa Phora and thus avoiding doctor bills every month, when these ailments come on."

The following named druggists of this city will distribute free trial bottles and a copy of "Dr. Pemelly's Advice to Women" to all who apply on the above days. Unfortunately there are thousands of women who never heard of Zoa Phora. They do not know that this remarkable remedy is a sure cure for the sickness, pain, sorrows and trials of womanhood, and to have them know how to obtain a cure and to be certain about this wonderful medicine is the object of this great free distribution.

Do not fail to call on the days and at any of the drug stores mentioned below for a free trial bottle of the remedy that will cure you and make you a happy woman.

In case you live out of the city or for other reasons cannot possibly call, send your name and address to the Zoa Phora Co., Kalamazoo, Mich., and they will mail you free a trial bottle. Don't neglect this opportunity that may save your life. This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

The following Druggists will give away free trial bottles of Zoa Phora next Saturday and Monday:

CLARENCE G. ANDERSON, Sixth and W. Market; CHAS. F. CRAIG, Fifth and Market; THE W. & W. PHARMACY, 206 Market and Fifth; HODSON'S DRUG STORE, Fifth and Broadway; CHAS. T. LARKINS, WILL REED AND ALVIN H. BULGER, Sixth and West Market.

SENATE AND HOUSE.

Mr. Tillman Again Charges Attorney General With Inactivity Against Trusts.

House Then Began Considering the Department of Commerce Bill—The Cuban Reciprocity Measure Reported With Two Amendments.

Washington, Jan. 16.—In the senate yesterday Senator Tillman continued his arraignment of trusts and monopolies, and again charged the attorney general was responsible primarily for lack of action against trusts.

The statehood bill was under discussion for a short time, Mr. Foraker urging the right of Oklahoma, Arizona and New Mexico to be admitted into the Union.

Mr. McLaurin (Miss.) called attention to charges that the people of Indianola, Miss., had been guilty of threats and intimidation against the postmaster, and declared them to be untrue, remarking that his object in bringing the matter to the attention of the senate was in order that his denial might go into the Congressional Record as an answer to those who made the charge.

Mr. Fairbanks gave notice that he would call up the immigration bill on Monday.

At 4.50 p. m. the senate went into executive session and soon afterward adjourned until Monday.

In the House.

The house yesterday passed the army appropriation bill and began consideration of the department of commerce bill, under a special rule making it a continuing order until disposed of. The opposition to the measure came entirely from the Democratic side and was based chiefly on the ground that the transfer of the bureau of labor to the new department would subordinate that bureau to a department which would represent capitalistic interests. The friends of the bill denied the assumption that the head of the new department would be hostile to labor. They maintained that the bill would increase the dignity of the bureau of labor by giving the head of the department a seat in the cabinet. Those who participated in the debate were Messrs. Mann (Ill.), Corliss (Mich.), Adamson (Ga.), Scott (Kan.) and Hepburn (Ia.), in favor of the measure, and Messrs. Richardson (Ala.), Haines (Tenn.), Davis (Fla.), Clayton (Ala.), Shackleford (Mo.), Cochran (Mo.) and Wooten (Texas), against it.

At 5:10 p. m. the house adjourned.

Cuban Reciprocity.

The senate committee on foreign relations yesterday agreed to report the Cuban reciprocity treaty to the senate with no amendments. The first of these is the guarantee against a further reduction of the sugar tariff, which was adopted Wednesday, and the other makes a reduction of 40 per cent in the reduction of the duty on American cattle exported to Cuba, instead of 20 per cent, as provided in the treaty as it was originally transmitted to the senate. Senators Bacon and Bailey cast their votes against the resolution for a favorable report, but all the other votes were in the affirmative.

Later in the day, in the executive session of the senate, Senator Cullom reported the treaty as amended by the foreign relations committee, and gave notice that he would call it up Monday next and would endeavor to secure action upon it at the earliest possible day. This notice was in accordance with a general understanding among Republican senators. It is expected that there will be considerable debate on the treaty and that some time will elapse before it can be acted upon.

Anti-Trust Bill.

The following statement was given out by the sub-house judiciary committee, which is charged with the preparation of an anti-trust bill:

"We have had a conference with the attorney general and have been informally considering among other things his suggestions, as well as discussing the general form of the legislation. No definite action has been taken by the sub-committee and we shall not be prepared to report to the full committee before the early part of next week."

The positive statement was made that there has been no hitch to occasion the delay. "It is simply a question now of perfecting the bill," said one member of the sub-committee.

Can't Fill Orders.

New York, Jan. 16.—A coal famine confronts the officials of the Brooklyn navy yard. An inventory taken yesterday disclosed the fact that there is only enough coal on hand to last five days. Contractors it is said, confess their inability to fill orders, notwithstanding that they can be penalized by the government for failure to live up to their contracts.

General Booth at Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, Jan. 16.—General William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, arrived here late yesterday afternoon from St. Louis. He addressed a big meeting at Music hall last night, which was presided over by Lieutenant Governor Harry Gordon. General Booth will leave for Cleveland tonight.

A BREATHING SPELL.

If the consumptive could only keep from getting worse it would be some encouragement.

Scott's Emulsion at least gives tired nature a breathing spell. The nourishment and strength obtained from Scott's Emulsion are a great relief to the exhausted system.

Desert Lizards.

There is no place like the desert for lizards. As a man rides through the white sands or over the black malapai mountains in Arizona or southeastern California and sees the flash and scurry of these brilliant and graceful creatures the suggestion of death and solitude is broken, and, beholding so much life, he is brought to wonder if the country is really a desert or only a land to which a man is not adapted, for here are animals which never drink, yet frisk about through thorns and cactus and fatten on the bitter plants. Many a desert prospector had lain down with his burros to die and seen on the rocks about him the black heads of the chuckwalla lizards outlined against the brazen sky. The chuckwallas were happy and corpulent with good eating. It was their country. For thousands of generations their ancestors had never thirsted for water, and plants which the starving burros passed by furnished both food and drink for the scaly natives on the rocks. Next to the slow moving and deadly Gila monster the chuckwalla is the largest lizard of the desert, being from a foot to a foot and a half in length.—Country Life In America.

How Snakes Fascinate.

The cobra of the Cape fascinates birds by coiling itself on a branch, erecting its head and swinging to and fro. Sundowner states that the snake will go on "fascinating" and keeping the bird twittering and unable to leave the tree in which it is "for hours" and that if the bird is driven away it comes back. This may be a "yarn," but from the curious fascination which monterrifying objects, such as "lark glitters," have for some birds and their apparent inability to resist hovering around the lure the far greater mesmerizing power of the serpent may be conjectured. Movement, more or less regular, is always part of the means of fascination employed by snakes. Their fondness for music of any kind is not extended to the sound of the human voice singing, which snakes clearly do not appreciate at all. They only care for "instrumental music," which includes the concertina, tomtom and Jew's harp. But from experiments made in this country it was evident that they like the bagpipes best.—Spectator.

It Got Tragic, However.

"That report of my death is the most amusing thing on record!" exclaimed Mr. Jinks. "I've just read my own obituary in this newspaper."

"Indeed!" said his wife. "And where does it say you went to?"

And then Mr. Jinks coughed and kicked the cat and told the cook to put some more coal on the fire.—Atlanta Constitution.

SENATOR DOLLIVER ON TRUSTS.

Says Within 20 Years Every Trust Magnate of Today Will be Dead or in Sanitariums.

New York, Jan. 16.—United States Senator J. P. Dolliver, of Iowa, was one of the speakers at a dinner given last night under the auspices of the Nineteenth Assembly District Republican club. Among other guests of the club were General Joseph Wheeler, of Alabama; former Governor Frank S. Black, Congressman James E. Watson, of Indiana; State Senator T. A. Ellsworth, Collector of the Port N. N. Stranahan and Surveyor of the Port J. S. Clarkson.

Senator Dolliver, in a speech which dealt principally with economic conditions in the United States, said there was no need for apprehension for the future or for any distrust of the trusts. The poor, and the children of the poor, he said, have more chance today than ever they had before.

"Within 20 years," he said, "every trust magnate of today will be dead or in a sanitarium for nervous diseases, and the world will be looking out for trained men to do the world's work."

The senator said men should cover their discomforts and annoyances with their patriotism. "In congress," said Mr. Dolliver, "I got to love that old Confederate," referring to General Joseph Wheeler, who sat beside him, "and when he was about to go to Cuba I warned him that he was too old and that he would never return.

"'My boy,' he said, 'I have prayed for 10 years for an opportunity to die in the uniform of the United States.'"

That was an example, Senator Dolliver said, of the principle of discarding old feelings of personal bitterness for patriotism.

Commodore Scheder Fires a Shell at La Vigia, Which Explodes Without Damage.

Puerto Cabello, Jan. 16.—The German cruiser Vineta, at sunset Wednesday night, fired a shell at La Vigia, the fort crowning the hills behind this port. The shell, which was fired because men were believed to be in the fort, exploded without causing damage.

The people of Puerto Cabello were at a loss Wednesday night to understand the action of the German cruiser. Early yesterday morning, however, Commodore Scheder sent the following communication to the Venezuelan authorities through William H. Volkmar, acting American consul here:

"Referring to my letter of the 9th instant, I have to inform you that I fired a shell yesterday at Fort La Vigia, because, against my explicit prohibition, the presence has been observed there of unauthorized persons. Judging from reports, those persons were soldiers."

The statement of the German commodore that there were unauthorized persons in the fort is denied by the authorities here.

Washington, Jan. 16.—The navy department is advised of the departure from Kingston of the Dolphin, with Minister Bowen, for Charleston. The Dolphin should reach this point Sunday and the minister is expected in Washington the following day

Filed for Probate.

Tiffin, O., Jan. 16.—What purports to be the last will of Mrs. Charlotte M. Hoyt, widow of the New York multi-millionaire, was filed yesterday. It is dated Sept. 9, 1902. This being of later origin than the other two wills, Judge J. F. Dunn, of Tiffin, who was in charge of Mrs. Hoyt's interests, is bequeathed the bulk of the estate, valued at several hundred thousand dollars. Her father, Casper Guss, of Tiffin, gets $100 a month during his life and the New York Humane society $50 a month for the care of her pets.

Ohio County Commissioners.

Cincinnati, Jan. 16.—The Ohio Association of County Commissioners adjourned yesterday, to meet next January in Columbus. The following officers were elected: President, S. E. Kemp, Dayton; vice presidents, C. C. Richardson, Cincinnati; William Carlisle, Columbus, and R. H. Nash, Xenia; secretary, D. H. Kennedy, Medina; treasurer, L. H. Oviatt, Akron.

THE NATIONAL BOARD OF TRADE.

Question of Reciprocity Was Extensively Handled and Many Recommendations Were Made.

Washington, Jan. 16.—The thirty-third annual convention of the National Board of Trade came to an end yesterday. The question of reciprocity was probably the most important topic considered.

The board adopted resolutions urging legislation on the part of the national congress regarding reciprocal trade relations along the lines laid down by the late President McKinley in his last address at Buffalo, and by President Roosevelt in his recent message to congress including the reaffirmation of the treaty with France and the other treaties negotiated under the administration of President McKinley, now pending in the senate, and further urges the negotiation of treaties on the same lines with Germany and other countries.

The board urges the immediate reaffirmation of the treaty with Cuba by the senate of the United States.

The Hay-Bond treaty of reciprocity with Newfoundland, the board thinks, would be of large benefit to the business interests of the country as a whole, and urges that the treaty be reaffirmed by the senate of the United States.

The board also petitions the president and the congress of the United States and the American members of the Anglo-American joint high commission to do all that lies in their respective powers to secure a trade treaty between Canada and the United States upon broad business principles of reciprocal concessions, and as a step in this direction favors the measure now before the United States senate authorizing the president to remove the duties upon Canadian coal in return for similar action by the Dominion of Canada with regard to coal from the United States.

A minority report was submitted signed by John Hopwell, Henry W. Peabody and J. T. McHugh.

The report of the committee on immigration laws was adopted. It urged on congress the importance of prompt and favorable action to prohibit undesirable immigration by means of such educational tests as might seem best adapted to that end, and also favored a more stringent naturalization law.

The committee on postal affairs submitted a report urging on congress the prompt adoption of a universal 1-cent domestic letter postage. The report was adopted unanimously.

The convention also adopted a resolution requesting the official southern and western classification committees to provide for and place in use a uniform bill of lading, wherein is clearly stated the rights, duties and liabilities of all parties affected by the shipment.

NATIONAL CAPITAL NOTES.

The president signed the bill suspending the duty on coal yesterday.

The president yesterday nominated Colonel Edward M. Hayes, Thirteenth cavalry, to be brigadier general.

The agricultural appropriation bill has been prepared by the house committee on agriculture. It carries approximately $6,000,000, about $80,000 more than the current appropriation.

The house committee on District of Columbia yesterday authorized a favorable report on the bill authorizing the District of Columbia to borrow $10,000,000 from the United States treasury for a period of 20 years at 2 per cent.

Representative Joy yesterday afternoon introduced a concurring resolution directing the house committee on naval affairs to prepare a bill providing for the construction of 25 additional battleships at a cost not to exceed $5,000,000 each.

Before the senate committee on the District of Columbia President MacFarland, of the board of District commissioners, testified yesterday that on account of the increase in the price of coal the District authorities would be compelled to ask to have the appropriation for fuel for schools doubled. He said that the District was now paying $9 a ton for bituminous coal.

The postoffice department has found it impracticable to forward the Indianola mail to Heathman, instead of to Greenville. The Indianola citizens will therefore have to continue to send to Greenville for their mail. Reiteration of Postmaster General Payne's statement that the office at Indianola would not be reopened until assurances of safety are given was made yesterday.

H. H. Hanna, of Indiana, chairman of the monetary commission, and Postmaster General Payne yesterday conferred with President Roosevelt regarding currency legislation in congress. The Fowler bill, introduced Dec. 17, was talked over. It has the approval of the postmaster general, Secretary Shaw and Mr. Hanna. The president expressed himself in favor of legislation along the lines of that measure.

No News from Overdue Ocean Liner.

New York, Jan. 16.—Up to midnight last night no news had been received of the American line steamship St. Louis. Throughout the day crowds of inquirers called at the offices of the company, where the agents maintained a cheerful view and assured all that there was no need for alarm.

Hahn's Bond Reduced.

Mansfield, O., Jan. 16.—The circuit court here yesterday granted a continuance of the extradition case of former Insurance Commissioner William M. Hahn, wanted by New York authorities, until next September term of court. His habeas corpus bond was reduced from $7,000 to $1,000.

Free to All Women.

Zoa Phora is an Absolute and Positive Cure for All the Complaints and Weaknesses of Women—It Brightens Their Eyes, Freshens Their Blood, Gives Them New Strength and Vitality and Corrects All Irregularities.

A Trial Bottle Absolutely Free to Every Lady Next Saturday and Monday—Call on Your Druggist for it.

MRS. CHAS. N. WEST, Chicago.

The experience of the women who have used Zoa Phora is no less interesting than remarkable. It tells of pain and suffering from carelessness and neglect, folly and indiscretion. It tells of turning to the one true "woman's friend" when all doctors and all other remedies have utterly failed to even bring relief from pain, much less cure the disease. It is good for the young girl just budding into womanhood. It is a staunch supporter of the woman approaching the fright-ful hours of labor pain. It never fails to bring relief to weak organs, displaced organs or female troubles of any nature. Suppressed periods, change of life, irregularities, kidney, liver or bladder troubles, leucorrhea, falling or displacements and builds up the system. In the hundreds of cases where it has been used as a last resort, it has never failed and the grateful women rise up from their beds of pain and call it blessed. Here is a letter that well illustrates what a place the remedy has in the hearts of women who know it:

Mrs. Chas. N. West, 13 Abbott Court, Chicago, under date of Feb. 6, 1902, wrote as follows: "For years I suffered from weakness, often accompanied by inflammation. Every month I was obliged to give up my work and go to bed, and my suffering was intensely painful.

"Through kind advice I used Zoa Phora and this month the pain has almost entirely disappeared and I am cured of the weakness. I know this wonderful improvement is wholly the result of taking Zoa Phora. I feel like a woman of 25 years instead of 40. I give my consent to use my testimonial with the greatest pleasure. I think we women should feel deeply grateful to think we can find such sure relief and cure at so small an expense by using Zoa Phora and thus avoiding doctor bills every month, when these ailments come on."

The following named druggists of this city will distribute free trial bottles and a copy of "Dr. Pengelly's Advice to Women" to all who apply on the above days. Unfortunately there are thousands of women who never heard of Zoa Phora. They do not know that this remarkable remedy is a sure cure for the sickness, pain, sorrows and trials of womanhood, and to have them know how to obtain a cure and to be certain about this wonderful medicine is the object of this great free distribution.

Do not fail to call on the days and at any of the drug stores mentioned below for a free trial bottle of the remedy that will cure you and make you a happy woman.

In case you live out of the city or for other reasons cannot possibly call, send your name and address to the Zoa Phora Co., Kalamazoo, Mich., and they will mail you free a trial bottle. Don't neglect this opportunity that may save your life. This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

The following Druggists will give away free trial bottles of Zoa Phora next Saturday and Monday:

CLARENCE G. ANDERSON, Sixth and W. Market; CHAS. F. CRAIG, Fifth and Market; THE W. & W. PHARMACY, 206 Market and Fifth; HODSON'S DRUG STORE, Fifth and Broadway; CHAS. T. LARKINS, WILL REED AND ALVIN H. BULGER, Sixth and West Market.

LITIGATION EXPECTED BEFORE SETTLEMENT

Prospect That the Pennsylvania Avenue Matter Will Be Bitterly Fought in Court.

SOME STRONG LEGAL POINTS ARE RAISED

From facts gained by a News Review reporter it seems assured that before the questions arising from the improvement of Pennsylvania avenue have been settled there will be an unlimited amount of argument and controversy and in all probability bitter litigation.

From the day that it was made public that an equalization board was to be appointed to equalize the assessments made by the assessing board, the report of which was accepted by council, interested property holders in the East End have had in consideration the advisability of employing an attorney to defend their rights, and when the council at its last meeting rejected the report of the board they without hesitation decided that it was high time that they were carrying out their proposed plans. Attorney W. F Lones, of Wellsville, was associated with Attorney J. E. Davis, who had previously been retained.

Mr. Lones at once interested himself in the case and came to East Liverpool to make a thorough investigation. Just what he discovered is not known, but it is said that when he makes known his findings to the city council many surprises will be in evidence and that a new phase to the numerous questions involved will be apparent.

A conversation with Mr. Lones revealed the fact that some unexpected truths will be sprung at the proper time and that they will without doubt fall among the parties in ignorance as bomb shells.

"I cannot at the present time give out anything that would be of much interest to the residents of your city," said the attorney. "I can say, however, that we intend to take care of our side of the question, and that the courts will have the opportunity of deciding the matter if a mutual agreement cannot be decided upon."

It is known positively that there are several strong points that have not been adhered to by the council that may result in much litigation, and if they are taken up by the East End citizens, and there is every assurance that they will be, the city will be compelled to make a strong fight or it will lose almost without a struggle on

EAST END CHILD SUFFERING FROM SCARLET FEVER.

Both Father And Mother Mutes And Without Means—A Pathetic Case.

A most pathetic case came to light yesterday when an appeal was made to the township trustees for assistance in the manner of food and fuel for a family under quarantine in the East End, a child being afflicted with the disease, scarlet fever, which has been prevalent in that section of the city for several months.

The family referred to is that of Frank Sells. Early yesterday morning Sanitary Policeman Burgess was summoned to the home by a physician who ordered that the house be placed under quartine. The officer, upon his arrival, met an obstacle altogether unexpected.

The family consists of three members, his wife and the child which lies suffering. Both the man and wife are mutes and under the present circumstances the affliction renders them entirely unable to secure means for a proper sustenance, and but for the kindly assistance of the trustees and the sanitary officer the little child would probably have died for the want of proper medical attention.

The case is one of the most pitiful that has come into the hands of the trustees for some time, owing to the almost helpless condition of the parents and the critical condition of the child.

BADLY SCALDED BY HOT SOUP

SEBRING WOMAN VICTIM OF PAINFUL ACCIDENT.

Scalding Contents of a Kitchen Utensil Upset Upon Mrs. John Horton.

Sebring, January 20.—(Special.)—Mrs. John Horton, wife of the boss of the decorating department at the potteries here, met with a painful accident yesterday while engaged at her usual household duties. She was in the act of removing a pot of boiling water from the stove when, in some unaccountable manner it overturned the contents striking her in the face and breast.

For a time she was blinded and the pain was very severe. Medical aid was summoned and the lady made as comfortable as possible. Yesterday afternoon and last night she suffered excruciating pain, but is slightly improved.

Mrs. Horton is very well known in East Liverpool, where she formerly resided.

WORKHOUSE SENTENCE FOR A SALEM YOUTH

Charles Owens, Guilty of Larceny, Gets 60 Days at Canton.

Lisbon, January 20.—(Special.)—Charles Owens, of Salem, was arraigned in probate court this morning and pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny. Judge Boone sentenced him to the Canton workhouse for 60 days, to stand committed until the costs are paid.

IN A SERIOUS STATE

Young Woman Being Cared for By Township Trustees May Not Survive.

Miss Orpha Osborne, the young lady who was removed from a boarding house near the corner of Third and Market streets by the township trustees and taken to the home of Mrs. Green, where she could be properly cared for while suffering with typhoid fever, is in a precarious condition. Last night her temperature had gone up to 104 and the chances are not very good for her recovery. Her sister Mabel is assisting in caring for her. The home of these girls is said to be at Imperial, Pa.

The mother is dead and the father married again. It is stated that he is a well known citizen of that city and that the news of his daughter's illness has never reached him.

EARLY DATES ARE IN FAVOR

Republican State Convention May Be Held Some Time Next May.

DEMOCRATS WILL FOLLOW

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, January 20.—It is believed both of the leading parties will hold early conventions this year. The leaders favor this and the Republicans may meet as early as May, with the Democrats following close in their wake. Sentiment is general on this point, in order to give ample time in which to prepare for the fall campaign. This will be an important year politically. The voters will be called upon to elect a governor, attorney general, judge of the supreme court, treasurer of state, member of board of public works and a legislature which will elect a United States senator. The fall election will only precede by a few months the opening of what will be an intensely interesting presidential campaign. It is predicted national issues will figure largely in the Ohio campaign.

If General Dick is not made the Republican candidate for governor he will doubtless continue to serve in the capacity of chairman of the Republican state committee, with John R. Malloy filling his usual berth of secretary. It has not been decided who shall manage the campaign for the Democracy. Congressman Harvey C Garber, of the Fourth district, who was the party's chairman last year, is one of the availables this year. His candidacy would probably be opposed by the McLean wing of the party, he and the Cincinnati man being bad friends.

Senator Warrne G. Harding, of Marion, has created a temporary stir by announcing his candidacy for governor. There is no sponsorship for his candidacy, he says, and in making the announcement he simply yielded to the judgment of friends who have urged him to enter the race.

MRS. HEALY'S REMAINS EXPECTED HERE TODAY

Her Sister And Her Husband Will Accompany the Body to This City.

The mystery surrounding the death of Mrs. Healy, better known to East Liverpool as Mary King, at New York has not yet been unveiled. The theory that she was murdered has been accepted locally and the many who knew her are anxiously waiting for further developments. According to a telegram received by the News Review last evening the remains will reach this city on the 4 o'clock train this afternoon. The telegram reads as follows:

"Mary Healy, who died in New York, will arrive Tuesday afternoon, accompanied by her husband and sister, Julia King."

Large Numbers Gaze Upon the Features of the Dead Ball Player.

Hundreds of people called at the Mercer home on Fifth street between the hours of 2 and 4 o'clock this afternoon to view the remains of the dead ball player. They saw him as in a peaceful sleep, almost as they had known him in life. Tonight between 7 and 9 o'clock many more will call to see their dead friend.

Surrounding the bier are the many beautiful floral offerings and a profusion of cut flowers.

Elks Will Entertain.

The local lodge of Elks will entertain Lewis P. Meizger, of Salem, D. D. G. E. R., next Thursday evening, and a stag social will be given in his honor. W. E. Wells will preside and there will be addresses by several prominent members.

Order of Appraisement.

Lisbon, January 20.—(Special.)—An order of appraisement has been issued to J. F. Ward, guardian of Hazel and Bruce M. Barton, of Center township.

An Important Meeting at Dayton at Which This City Ought to Be Represented.

The sixth annual convention of Ohio municipalities will be held February 10, 11, and 12, at Dayton. The question of sending representatives from this city to that convention may be discussed at the meeting of council tonight. This league had done a vast amount of hard work along municipal lines and many knotty problems have been explained at their meetings. East Liverpool has never yet had a representative at any of the conventions held by the league although every municipality in the state is urged to send delegates.

Usually the mayor or city solicitor and sometimes both are sent to represent a city. Since the adoption of the new code in Ohio many questions are liable to arise which puzzle the city councilmen. Many times these are of such a nature that it requires considerable study on the part of the solicitor to explain them. These are just the sort of questions that are discussed at the conventions held by the league. The changes made by the new code will throw many city legislative bodies into chaor unless the members have made a study of the code in detail. As that document is rather lengthy but few have had the time to give it as much attention as it should have.

It is possible that the council tonight may take some action toward selecting delegates to attend the convention to be held next month. The bringing together of the mayor, solicitors and councilmen of so many different municipalities of the state can not help being of great benefit to them. A good program has been arranged for this convention and timely topics will be discussed by able men, well up on city affairs and city government.

Dayton, where the convention is to be held, is a beautiful city of 80,000 inhabitants, well equipped to entertain a convention of this kind. It probably enjoys the distinction of having more electric lines running in it than in any other city, large or small, in the state. While there the delegates would have an opportunity to spend their spare time in various county seat towns about the size of East Liverpool and getting valuable suggestions in regard to city affairs in general.

LIFE CRUSHED OUT BY STREET CAR

Mrs. Alice Orr, Late of This City, Met With a Violent Death in Allegheny.

The westbound train yesterday afternoon bore to this city the remains of Mrs. Alice Orr, a resident of the city from childhood until last March, who, while crossing a crowded thoroughfare in Allegheny last Saturday afternoon suddenly became confused in an attempt to make a way through the throngs and was run down and killed by a street car.

Full particulars of the terrible accident could not be obtained this morning, no one having accompanied the body who had been informed. It was learned, however, that after the spark of life had been crushed out of the body she was removed to the morgue and that it lay there for two days before identification was made.

A young lady working with Mrs Orr at the home of George Boswell, Buena Vista street, Allegheny, identified the body early yesterday morning. She read in Saturday evening's paper of an unknown woman being killed by a street car. Although Mrs. Orr, who left the home shortly after noon Saturday, had not returned it did not occur to her that the woman at the morgue might be Mrs. Orr until Monday morning when she immediately started to investigate. She found several mutilated women lying on the cold slabs and was about to depart without success when she recognized the clothing of one of the inanimate forms to be that worn by her friend. The authorities accepted her arguments as a valid identification and it was later made positive by Carl Weeks, a son by a former marriage.

Mrs. Orr for several years prior to leaving for Allegheny was employed in the warehouse department at the Knowles, Taylor & Knowles china works. She was a highly respected woman and a consistent member of the First Presbyterian church. The funeral services will be conducted Thursday by Rev. C. G. Jordan. She is survived by three children: Carl Weeks, the son who is employed in Pittsburg; Mrs. Mary Atkins, of the East End, this city, and Miss Flossie Orr, who makes her home with her grandmother on Robinson street.

SENTENCES IMPOSED IN COURT

Salem Youth Goes to Reformatory for Stealing. Fines in Liquor Cases.

Lisbon, January 20.—(Special.)—After a brief criminal session yesterday afternoon court adjourned until 9:30 this morning.

Amos Waltacre, aged 17, of Salem, who had previously pleaded not guilty to a charge of having stolen some bank checks from the satchel of M. E Welsh, a traveling man, at the Greiner-Brainard hotel at Salem, decided to change his plea and pleaded guilty to the charge. The penalty for Whitacre's crime is from one to seven years in the penitentiary. The judge sentenced him to the reformatory.

The cases of the three Lisbon saloonists, indicted for selling to minors were also disposed of. Harry Davis, of the Hostetter bar; Daniel J. Jobs and Edward Hicklin, each pleaded guilty to selling to minors. It being Davis first offense he was let off with a fine of $15 and costs. Jobs and Hicklin both having been up before were assessed $25 and costs each.

A continuation of the case against John Michaels, of East Liverpool, charged with selling to a minor, was asked for by his attorney on account of the absence of an important witness. The court consented to pass the case out of the present assignment.

The case against James Walters, of East Liverpool, was also passed.

Chief Turner, of Salem, came here again yesterday afternoon, having in his custody Charles Owens, who was bound over for breaking into Thomas Williams' plumbing shop in Salem and stealing a revolver and a razor. Owens was first released from jail a few days ago, where he had languished for some time on a charge of attempted robbery. When he left he told his fellow prisoners he would be back soon.

BENEFIT GAME YIELDED $1,500

Attendance Was Large At the San Francisco Contest at Base-Ball.

San Francisco, January 20.—The benefit game played here yesterday between the All Americans and Nationals attracted the largest crowd that has witnessed any of the games. The appearance of the two local baseball favorites, Joe Corbett and Hans Iberg, as pitchers, and of Bill Lange, as umpire, drew a big crowd to the diamond Saturday afternoon, but even more powerful was the feeling that the attendance would help the mother of Winnie Mercer, the popular pitcher who recently committed suicide here. The game was well played and resulted in this score: American, 5; National, 3.

The amount realized will be about $1,500, as everyone gave their services free.

Executor Resigns.

Lisbon, January 20.—(Special.)—John Gamble, as executor of the estate of the late John Gamble, of Franklin township, has resigned and James P. Gamble has been appointed administrator under bond of $4,000.

LISBON POSTMASTERS WILL BE BENEFITED

Former Officials to Get Money Under a Resolution Introduced By Senator Hanna.

Columbus, January 20.—Under a resolution introduced by Senator Hanna which will be adopted by congress, between $115,000 and $125,000 will be paid to Ohio postmasters who served in the 60's and 70's, because of a misinterpretation of the postoffice department of a law relating to the compensation of postmasters.

Two Lisbon postmasters will profit by the resolution—H. W. Brown, who will receive $302, and John Robison who will receive $423.

Congressman Tayler Recommends Present Incumbents at Wellsville And East Liverpool.

Congressman Tayler yesterday recommended the appointment of Postmaster W. H. Surles, East Liverpool; T. R. Snowden, Wellsville; George A. Alaback, East Palestine; E. F. Moore Lisbon; George E. McDonald, Minerva.

Licensed to Wed.

Lisbon, January 20.—(Special.)—Joseph Linzey and Margaret A. Franklin, both of East Palestine, have been licensed to marry.

CLOTHING TAKEN IN HIS ABSENCE

A Sebring Potters' Room Was Broken Into And Robbed On Sunday.

Sebring, January 20.—(Special.)—While absent from home over Sunday the room of Frank Watson, a well known potter, was broken open and a quantity of clothing, together with money, were stolen. Mr. Watson did not discover his loss until he returned to Sebring last evening, and at once began an investigation. When he had finished there were well grounded suspicions that a young man who recently left the city had paid the room a visit before departing, and the matter will be further looked into.

If the offense can be laid against the individual in question it will add another to a long list of crimes for which he will be compelel to answer when caught.

ROLLED ALONG AND KILLED BY TRAIN OF COAL CARS

Lisbon, January 20.—(Special.)—Roy Nulf, the 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar E. Nulf, of New Waterford, met with a horrible death in the Fairfield Coal company's mine near that village yesterday. He was employed as "trip" boy in the mines, and was riding on the front end of a string of empty coal cars which were being hauled back into the mines by the weight of a loaded train of cars which were approaching the mouth on another track. The end of a broken rail raised as the string of empties approached him, and when the first car struck it the shock threw Young Nulf forward on the track in front of the cars.

The empties were being propelled with resistless force by the weight of the loaded cars and pushed Nulf along in front, bumping him on the cross ties and other obstructions until every bone in his body was broken.

Funeral services will be held from the New Waterford M. E. church, tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock under the auspices of the Mine Workers' union. Burial at New Waterford.

IMPORTANT SALE OF COAL LAND

Sterling Mining Company Gets Possession of a Valuable Tract at Salineville.

Salineville, January 20.—(Special)—The Sterling Mining company has purchased the Mary E. McDonald farm of 80 acres, which is underlaid with coal. The consideration was $5,000.

The farm lies between the property of the company and other valuable coal lands. it is near the railroad and is considered the key to a tract of 1,000 acres of valuable coal land lying just over the border in Carroll county.

PRISONERS IN TERROR

Over a Fire Which Came Near Burning Them And Toronto City Hall.

Toronto, January 20.—The city hall came near being destroyed by fire yesterday morning. The loss will be about $500. There were three prisoners in the jail part of the building and their cries of distress and terror aroused Marshal Dye, who rescued them. The interior of the building was badly scorched.

Judge Moore Better.

Lisbon, January 20.—(Special.)—The condition of Judge J. G. Moore is slightly improved today, and his friends are much encouraged.

SEBRING POTTER STRANGELY MISSING

EDWARD KENNEDY, A PACKER, GONE UNDER A CLOUD.

Alleged That He Took His Roommate's Money And Also Owed for Board.

Sebring, January 20.—(Special.)—Edward Kennedy, a packer at one of the local potteries and formerly of East Liverpool, has disappeared from this city, it is reported, and under peculiar circumstances. Kennedy roomed with Edward Mellor at the Sebring hotel, and it is alleged that last night he went to the room and packed his grip. This morning Mellor announced that $25 in money belonging to him was missing from the aprtment.

It is also stated that D. C. Morrison, the landlord of the hotel, is Kennedy's creditor to the extent of two weeks' board and that about $47 of borrowed money is owing to other local parties.

His Injuries Were Fatal.

Flagman Charles G. Myers, of Cleveland, the young C. & P. brakeman, who was injured Thursday night at Irondale, is dead at the Alliance hospital, where he was taken soon after the accident.

WITH THE WORKMEN IN THE CLAY PLANTS

USE OF SAGGER CONES.

David C. Thomas, an experienced kiln fireman who has been employed at the United States pottery in Wellsville, is the first kiln fireman in this section to introduce the sagger cone system as a means of telling the temperature of the interior of a kiln which is being fired, and also telling when the kiln has been fired long enough. Mr. Thomas has been using the sagger cones, made by himself, in his work for the past year or so and has always found the system a very satisfactory one. Several East Liverpool potteries have become interested in Mr. Thomas' process and are now purchasing the cones from Mr. Thomas and using them in their own plants. Mr. Thomas first learned to use the system when attending the Ohio State university, and aside from those which are now being made there, none are made in any other place in the world excepting in Germany, where the sagger cones originated.

The sagger cones are about three inches in length and are made out of very delicate clay, which has been put through a process. About 30 of the cones are required for each kiln, each time that it is fired. The cones are placed in such a manner that they can readily be seen by the kiln fireman through the small doors on the sides of the kiln. When the fire is first turned on in the kiln the cones are almost perpendicular. When the kiln has been fired long enough the tapering ends of the cones will curl under until one end nearly touches the other. Mr. Thomas believes that the sagger cone system is the only scientific way of telling the temperature of a kiln. He has succeeded in interesting many pottery firms outside of those at East Liverpool.

FINE MODELING CLAY.

Kenton county, Ky., is now furnishing artists with a very high grade of modeling clay, which answers all purposes and which is superior to all clay exported here. A sample of the clay was recently submitted to J. C. Meyenberg, the well known Covington sculptor who designed the Egbert memorial tablet at Ft. Thomas, and he pronounced it first-class. Meyenberg is now using the clay exclusively for modeling purposes, as is also the Cincinati art school. Persons not acquainted with such matters might think that there is little profit in the quarrying of this clay, but it has become a lucrative business in Covington. Sculptors pay as much as $1 a barrel for the material, and as they use a liberal supply, quarrying men are finding the commodity quite valuable. There is a large number of sculptors in the southern part of Ohio who have tested this new clay thoroughly and they are so pleased with the results that they will henceforth use only the Kentucky clay. Sculptor Meyenberg has obtained the contract for making the allegorical figures for the Covington public library, and is at work on the designs now. They will be of life-size and will be placed around the walls. The fact that he will use the Covington clay in the modeling of the pieces has had a tendency to increase the value of the product.

NEW OFFICERS.

At the annual meeting of the New York Crockery board of trade new officers were elected as follows: President, Henry Wetle; first vice president, Lee Kohns; second vice president, James Davison; treasurer, Charles Holbrook; secretary, L. S Owens; executive committee, Messrs. Butler, Doering, Anderson, Davison Holbrook, Kohns, Briggs; arbitration committee, Messrs. Steinman, Endermann, Swayzee; membership committee, Messrs. Divinger, Miller, Moe Kirchberger, Lyon; trustees for three years, Messrs. Webb, Abbott, Butler, Davison, R. H. Keller.

STUNNING SPECIALTIES.

The Homer Laughlin China company, at its New York salesroom, shows some stunning things in specialties and fancy prices in very light weights, which for warmth of coloring fineness of execution, and shapes leave little to be desired. The company has taken some of the prettiest shapes found in French china and put on them decorations of a very high grade and the result is a line of specialties totally different from anything heretofore attempted.

TRENTON PACKERS.

The packers' local, of Trenton, N. J. has elected the following new officers. President, William Devine; vice president, Patrick Caterson; recording secretary, William Stubbs; financial secretary, L. Cooper; treasurer, Thomas Haggerty; collector, John Meliff; statistician, George Gleaves; trustee, Michael Shanahan; inspector, D. O'Connell; guard, R. Devine.

AMONG THE WORKMEN.

Pat Hester, of Cartwright's, was off duty today.

Clyde McClain has taken a position as a tinter at the East Liverpool.

John Wasson has gone to work at the East Liverpool as a mould runner.

Will Birch, presser at the K., T. & K., new end, is suffering with the mumps.

Aaron Tunstall and Harry Martin have commenced work at the Sevres as saggermakers.

Miss Maud Beach, of the Globe, is confined to her home on the Calcutta road with a serious illness.

Miss Annie Spade, from Cartwright's, is now finishing at the Union for Jiggerman Fred Goppert.

Elmer Davis, of the Thompson bisque, has resigned and will take a job in the new plant at Salineville.

James Wilson has resigned his position as Laughlin No. 1, to take a pressing bench at the D. E. McNicol.

Miss Orilla Treese, of the decorating room at the Thompson, has returned to work after a serious illness.

Miss Linda Hart, of the glost warehouse at the D. E. McNicol, has returned from a visit with relatives at Fairview.

Talcott Rudebaugh, of Thompson's was injured a few night ago in trying to board a moving street car in the East End.

Fred Goppert, jiggerman at the Union, was called to the home of his mother in Chester this morning by her serious illness. Her condition is regarded as critical.

The biscuit kilnmen at the Union are complaining about the strength of Arthur Owen's pipe. They say it is so strong that he has to chain it to the bench at night and it is necessary to keep a constant breeze through the kilnroom.

Thomas Shaw, a cup handler at Harker's, suffered a peculiar injury yesterday afternoon at West End park while skating. He was stooping to adjust his skates when his right hand was struck by another skater, inflicting a deep gash.

LETTER FROM WILL REED

To the Editor of the News Review:

Dear Sir:—Having heard that some people question the sincerity of Will Reed's offer to refund a purchaser's money if Mi-o-na does not cure dyspepsia, increase the flesh and restore health, I am writing you this letter to say over Will Reed's own signature that this offer is made in good faith and will be lived up to by me, both in the spirit and the letter.

So many of my customers have told me of the great good Mi-o-na has done them, that I am more thoroughly convinced than ever that there is but little risk to me in selling Mi-o-na under this guarantee.

Less than two out of every hundred call for a return of their money, and I cheerfully refund it.

The demand for Mi-o-na is increasing rapidly and I believe it is destined to be the most popular of all medicines. If it did not have unusual merit I certainly could not afford to guarantee it.

Please publish this in a prominent place so that your readers may see that they run no risk whatever in buying Mi-o-na, if they wish to gain in weight and be cured of dyspepsia.

Respectfully yours,
WILL REED.

HAD NO INTENTION OF RUNNING AWAY

What One of the Absent Minstrels Says Regarding the Movements of Bradley And Simpson.

The following letter received yesterday will no doubt set right a matter that has been given some publicity lately:

"Editor News Review:

"Having heard that Mr. Simpson and myself have gained no little notoriety recently through several published statements I have decided to write a few lines for the benefit of those who are ignorant of the true facts concerning the costumes which were used by the Twentieth Century Minstrels, and our subsequent departure from East Liverpool. In the first place, the costumes that are mentioned rightfully belong to us. They are said to have been owned by the persons who took part in the last three performances, each member owning a pro rata share. That is nonsense, as they were contracted for by Mr. Simpson and myself and were not paid for out of any 'treasury' of any organization, but were paid for out of the gate receipts. In fact, there was no treasury or organization to it. If the costumes had not been paid for out of the gate receipts Mr. Simpson and myself would have been held responsible, and nobody else. Therefore, I think we were justified in doing whatever we pleased with them whether we left East Liverpool or not.

"And about the full dress suits which we are accused of stealing, I will state here that we never had any intention of evil. I admit that we did take away with us two dress suits, one belonging to Mr. John Gardner, the other to Mr. Sloan, but we had previously gained permission from the above named gentlemen before doing so. So I venture to say that those two gentlemen would never have felt the least apprehension concerning their property. (If they do so now.) Had it not been for a few 'knockers' and 'sore heads'—'sore' simply because we had a trifle more ambition than they and because we did not inform them of our proposed departure.

"For the benefit of those 'soreheads' who are so interested in our personal welfare I will state here, that we are getting along very well, and I don't think we will be compelled to walk home either, as they would have people believe. Trusting this will suffice to explain our position, I am

"Yours Respectfully,
"ERNEST BRADLEY."

Messrs. Bradley and Simpson are now in Alliance, and if their present plans do not miscarry will soon stage a minstrel show, the cast for which will be made up from Alliance talent.

GREATEST PITCHER IN THE BUSINESS

What Dick Harley Says of His Dead Friend, Winnie Mercer.

A GENEROUS TRIBUTE PAID

The Popularity of the East Liverpool Boy Was as Great in Other Cities As at Home—Interesting Reminiscences.

Richard Harley, the clever fielder who played last year on the Detroit team, and who was the intimate friend and close companion of the late Winnie Mercer, feels his loss keenly and will miss him many times during the coming base ball season when he again joins the team that Winnie was to manage. The other members of the team will miss him, too.

"Winnie was the greatest pitcher in the business, bar none," Harley said to a News Review reporter last evening. "He was never known to be other than a perfect gentleman, on the field and off, and he won friends in every town he visited. He probably did not fully realize the great extent of his popularity, but if he did it did not change him in the least. He was always the same big-hearted, manly fellow, ever ready to do a kindness to a stranger as well as to a friend. 'Merc,' if there was any difference, was even more popular in Detroit than in Washington. His society was sought by the best people of the city, and he had hundreds of acquaintances among the wealthiest class of business men. He was the idol of the fans and he appreciated the good will and applause of the lowly as much as he did that of men with famous names. With President Angus, of the Detroit team, he was a great favorite and there was a warm friendship between the two men. Angus is a thorough sportsman and it was his ambition to own a pennant winning team. He looked to Mercer to accomplish this ambition.

"Mercer's selection as manager of the Detroit team, which by the way is one of the highest salaried in the two leagues, justifies the belief of his friends that his career in the base ball world was just beginning. He knew how to handle men and draw out the best there was in them and he did it rather by personal magnetism than the use of authority. From his first appearance on the diamond he was known as a heady player and he used his brains as well as his muscles in pitching. He learned the weak points of every batter who faced him and he was a stumbling block to many of the hardest hitters who ever wielded a bat.

"One of Mercer's best traits was his championship of young players. The lad who came into the big league had the warmest sort of encouragement from him. He has steadied many a nervous youngster and helped them to make good, and he would never permit them to be imposed upon. I have known several instances of him calling down experienced players who had attempted to lay the blame for misplays on the youngsters. Mercer was a square fellow and he had no use for anybody who was not the same way. No truer gentleman ever lived.

"After the teams had reached the coast and the conference between the big leagues had commenced, Mercer was greatly worried, for it looked for a time like he was to lose some of his star players. He feared this would handicap him and that he could not make the proper showing as manager, but this cloud cleared away in a few days when he received a telegram from President Angus that Detroit had fared exceptionally well in the treaty, and that instead of losing his best men he had gained Sam Crawford, the heavy hitting outfielder of the Cincinnati team. When this news came we often poked fun at Crawford in Mercer's presence, warning him that he would have to be good, now that his manager was around.

"Mercer was popular in all the towns we visited on the coast, particularly in San Francisco. In the latter city he made many friends and his companionship was much sought. His sad death cast a gloom over all. The remaining games of the schedule would have been abandoned had it not been that all the players desired to remain in the city and play in the benefit game on Sunday. Hundreds of seats had been sold before I left, some of them at $5 each.

"It seems to me that Mercer had everything to live for. His future was bright and there was no trouble in his life, so far as I or others of his friends knew, that would cause him to take his own life. I am firmly convinced that the deed was done while he was temporarily deranged, mentally."

When asked about the details of the tragedy Harley stated there was very little more to add to what he had given in the interview yesterday. "I know nothing of his movements of that last day after about 9 o'clock in the morning," he said. "I left the hotel and when I returned Mercer was out. During the afternoon I heard several of the boys inquiring for him, but there was nothing unusual in his absence. The next time I saw him he was dead."

The reporter asked about the coroner's inquest, but the result could not be learned, as Harley had commenced his journey east before the verdict was rendered. On the day following the tragedy he visited the coroner's office.

"I saw the rubber hose there that was found in Mercer's room and the farewell letters he had written. All of them had been opened by the official in his investigations and I recognized Mercer's handwriting," Harley said. "In the letter to Tip O'Neil he gave a detailed statement of the individual accounts of the players, some of whom had overdrawn their accounts. The total amount in his hands at the time was not great, as all of us had been getting our share of the receipts from the game every week. A meeting was held and it was found that the accounts as given by Mercer were absolutely correct. The letter stated that the money due players could be found in the safe at the hotel, and this, too, was correct."

Tired

No Sleep for Weeks Nervous, Weak.

Surgical Operation Wrecked My Nerves.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Restored My Health.

"A few years ago I had to submit to a surgical operation which caused me severe spinal trouble. After treatment I could not gain strength because of extreme nervousness. I took everything I could hear of that was supposed to be good for my trouble but all in vain. I had not had a night's sleep in weeks, when one day one of your circulars was thrown into our yard and after reading what your Nervine had done for others, I resolved to try it. The second night after taking it I slept soundly for the first time in many months and after taking a few bottles I was completely cured. I also used the Nerve Plaster for backache with very gratifying results. I shall always be grateful for the benefits received from Dr. Miles' Restorative Remedies."—Mrs. C. W. Beaman, Savannah, Mo.

"I wish to thank you for the good your medicine has done me. It has almost worked wonders in my case. I was subject to nervous headaches for a period of thirty years. I had doctored with several doctors and had taken a number of different kinds of patent medicines, all to no avail. I was discouraged for I could not get permanent relief. At last I began a trial of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and Nerve and Liver Pills. I am now completely cured and words cannot express my thankfulness to you and your medicine. If any one wishes to write to me personally I will gladly answer their letters."—J. W. Brant, Ingrahm, Ills.

Seventh Victim.

San Juan, Jan. 20.—W. W. A. Schert, of Cleveland, O., who was the apprentice on the battleship Massachusetts, died here Sunday, the seventh victim of the explosion on the Massachusetts, Jan. 16. The funerals of Schert and A. S. Tacke, of St. Louis, who was killed in the same accident, took place yesterday and were attended with military honors. Detachments from the company of artillery and an infantry regiment stationed here, as well as marines from the warships, joined in the long funeral procession, in which also was a number of carriages that had been privately hired by sailors and others. Alexander N. Dassett, of Durham, N. C., and James G. Patterson, of Pittsburg, who were injured in the same accident, are still in a serious condition.

Four Burned to Death.

Morrissey, B. C., Jan. 20.—Four men were burned to death in a hotel fire here Sunday night. Four others are missing and it is believed they also perished in the flames. The Spooner hotel, leased by A. Johnson, caught fire by the overturning of a lamp in the barroom. The proprietor aroused the guests, most of whom escaped in their night clothes. All were coal miners or prospectors. It was impossible for the proprietor to reach all the rooms. The remains of the four men have not been identified. Johnson's loss is $4,000. Morrissey is a small coal mining town and has no fire protection.

Two Miners Imprisoned.

Pottsville, Jan. 20.—By a rush of coal two miners, Peter Yeslavige and Joseph Butcavage, were imprisoned at noon yesterday in a chamber of the Silver Creek colliery at New Philadelphia, owned by the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company. Rescuers went vigorously at work, and though hundreds of cars of coal had been removed up to last night the men had not been reached, and there are no indications whether the men are dead or alive. It may take several days' work to ascertain this.

Robbers Got $5,000.

South Bend, Ind., Jan. 20.—Robbers entered the jewelry establishment of R. M. Munich, on South Michigan street, Sunday night and carried away goods valued at $5,000. There is no clue.

EAST END

A STRANGER TAKEN IN

He Went Out Again And With Him a Boarder's $30 Suit And Other Articles.

Joseph Barnard, a boarder at W. C. Smith's boarding house in the East End, is minus a good suit of clothes, the result of a stranger stopping at the boarding house a few days ago. This stranger represented that he was working on the C. & P. and resuested a room which was given him. In the morning he left early without awakening the landlord or any of the boarders.

With him went a new suit of clothes worth $30 and a few other articles of wearing apparel. The fellow who is suspected of taking the clothes was heavy set, dark complexioned and wore very good clothes.

In a Critical Condition.

Philip Dorst is still in a very critical condition at his home on Maryland avenue. Mr. Dorst has been suffering with heart trouble for several weeks and being well up in years it is feared by the family that he will be unable to survive. For some time he has had great difficulty in sleeping but recently fell asleep and did not awaken for almost 24 hours. However, it seems that the sleep brought very little real rest with it as his condition was somewhat weaker after awakening.

Church Well Filled.

The first meeting of the special services now being held at the Erie street M. E. church was held last night by Rev. G. W. Orcutt. The church was fairly well filled and considerable interest appeared to be manifested. These meetings will be conducted for two weeks by Rev. Mr. Orcutt and after that time he will be assisted by the other members of the conference quartet, who earned quite a reputation for themselves at the last session of the Steubenville conference.

REALM OF SPORTS

Culmination Came In Mercer's Death —Kind Words For the Dead Pitcher.

The tragic ending of Winnie Mercer's brilliant career on the baseball diamond, says the San Francisco Daily Post, will cause thousands of sporting men all over the United States to regret the death of the great ball player. Mercer's untimely end caps the climax of misfortunes which have haunted the Nationals and the All American aggregation of stars since their arrival on this coast.

One or more of the pitchers have been continually on the sick list from one cause or another from the moment the teams set foot on California soil. Hard luck worked against the combination all the time and now the saddest event that has ever happened to a ball team puts a damper on the exhibition trip of the two teams.

When the teams arrived in Los Angeles there was among the number a complete set of pitchers, infielders and outfielders. The boys were not in Los Angeles long before Mike Kahoe, the catcher of the National team, fell downstairs and was so badly injured that he had to stay on the bench for two weeks.

From Los Angeles the ball players went to Sacramento to play exhibition games in that city. They were there but a few days when Willie Keeler, the famous Brooklyn outfielder and the star of the National team, fell out of a buggy and broke a bone in his back.

At first the injury was thought to be a slight one, and Keeler came to this city with the intention of playing with his club. He began to grow worse, however, and consulted a physician. The medical man, upon making a thorough examination of the injury, ordered Keeler to return at once to Brooklyn and rest up, otherwse he could never appear on the diamond again.

With Keeler at the time of his injury was Joe Cantillion, the manager of the All American team. Cantillion was also injured in the buggy accident and was forced to go east with Keeler and leave the burden of business of the American team rest on the shoulders of Mercer.

Following close on the injury of Keeler and Cantillion Jimmy Williams, the American second baseman, next fell a victim to the hard luck which haunted the stars. He sprained his ankle while playing a game at Sacramento and has been unable to don a uniform since.

As soon as the two clubs arrived in this city Kahoe was again hurt, this time having his hand torn by being hit by a foul tip. Dick Cooley, the National center fielder, was then taken ill and had to be sent to his home in Boston. Topsy Hartzell sprained his wrist and was out of the game for a week, and then Charley Dexter broke his collar bone. He is still confined to his room.

It seemed that Fate had dealt harshly enough with the ball tossers till last Monday night when the news of the death of Winnie Mercer was flashed over the country. This cast a shadow of gloom over Mercer's team mates, and they are wondering if anything else will happen ere they conclude their visit in thins city.

Winnie Mercer was a credit to the ballplaying fraternity. He was a gentleman on the field as well as off. He was beloved by all who came in contact with him for his manly qualities and good fellowship. Mercer was considered the handsomest man on the diamond. The game loses one of its finest men it has ever had in the death of the old Washington favorite.

A GREAT RACE

Between a Racehorse And a Passenger Train, the Horse Winning in Long Stretch.

To the Sporting Editor, News Review:

Did a racehorse ever beat a passenger train going at full speed?

East Liverpool, Jan. 19.

Yes, at the Lakeside track in Indiana. It so happened that a race was being run when the "limited" on the Fort Wayne railroad came in sight at top speed. (The tracks parallel the Lakeside course at the far turn.) The leader in the race and the express struck the stretch of straight track on even turns, and, according to an eyewitness, the horse beat the train two lengths.

Noted Driver Dead.

J. A. McCausland, breeder of racing horses and a driver with an international reputation, is dead of peritonitis at Denver. He was 42 years old. Mr McCausland was a native of Greensboro, Pa., but had lived in Coloradoand Wyoming for 25 years.

SPORTING MISCELLANY.

Fort Erie offers a purse of $25,000 for a 20-round boxing contest between Jeffries and Corbett.

"Gus" Tuttle, a member of the New York stock exchange, and well known as manager of the late "Jack" Dempsey, is dead of bronchial pneumonia aged 47.

The contest between "Joe" Choynski and Peter Maher has been postponed until January 26.

Dislocated Her Shoulder.

Mrs. Johanna Soderholm, of Fergus Falls, Minn., fell and dislocated her shoulder. She had a surgeon get it back in place as soon as possible, but it was quite sore and pained her very much. Her son mentioned that he had seen Chamberlain's Pain Balm advertised for sprains and soreness, and she asked him to buy her a bottle of it, which he did. It quickly relieved her and enabled her to sleep which she had not done for several days. The son was so much pleased with the relief it gave his mother that he has since recommended it to many others. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger.

B. C. ANSLEY SUCCESSFUL

Induced Dr. Howard Company to Make Special Price.

After a great deal of effort and correspondence, B. C. Ansley, the popular druggist, has succeeded in getting the Dr. Howard Co. to make a special half price introductory offer on the regular fifty-cent size of their celebrated specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia.

This medicine is a recent discovery for the cure of all diseases of the stomach and bowels. It not only gives quick relief, but it makes permanent cures.

Dr. Howard's specific has been so remarkably successful in curing constipation, dyspepsia and all liver troubles, that B. C. Ansley is willing to return the price paid in every case where it does not give relief.

The old fashioned idea of dosing with mineral waters, cathartic pills or harsh purgatives will soon be a thing of the past. The best physicians are prescribing Dr. Howard's specific because it really gives the desired results and on on account of the small and pleasant dose that is needed.

Headaches, coated tongue, dizziness gas on stomach, specks before the eyes, constipation, and all forms of liver and stomach trouble are soon cured by this scientific medicine.

So great is the demand for this specific, that B. C. Ansley has been able to secure only a limited supply, and every one who is troubled with dyspepsia, constipation or liver trouble should call upon him at once, or send 25 cents and get sixty doses of the best medicine ever made, on this special half-price offer, with his personal guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure.

WHAT WOMEN ARE WEARING

Kilted Skirts—Walking Costumes. Kid Hats.

Women are wearing silk, satin or brocade evening petticoats in preference to those composed of cambric and lace. Zenana is of course a favorite winter material and obtainable in delightful shades, but it is better for dressing gowns and peignoirs, for even with shaped bands you cannot do away with a certain amount of thickness.

Cloth walking dresses in brown are much in favor, and they mostly boast the flat kilted skirts. Again, many of the bolero coats show plaits, these being loose either at the front or at the back. Plaits indeed are a fad just now, but they must be fitted and arranged so that their lines follow those of the figure they are to adorn or else disaster will lurk in every fold.

Kid hats are perhaps more new than pretty, though they are useful when devoted to motoring, and one of these in gray, bound with black braid and with bows and ends of braid at the back, has been especially designed for such exercise.

The up to date hat and muff shown in the cut are designed to correspond with the coat of light putty colored cloth. The hat is draped in the popular three cornered shape, with the edge of sable. There is a large ruche of ribbon and a bunch of violets under the brim. The muff is of the same cloth, with two large ruffles in each side, two bands of sable and a large fall of lace and violets on the left side.

FASHION NOTES.

Evening Garnitures—Elaborate Effects the Keynote.

There is a dearth of novelties in evening attire, but the soft textures still prevail, and there is a rage for spotted or speckled net. The slips or foundations worn with net chiffon and transparent skirts are still gored and edged with fussy frills, but the top is cut and fitted in sheath fashion. Slips with separate flounces of the godet order are only worn with heavier or nontransparent materials, as the line of heading is too obtrusive.

The floral garnitures are exceedingly lovely this winter and gain much in effect from a judicious mixture of ribbon. What, for instance, can be lovelier for a net gown than a cluster of salmon pink chrysanthemums resting on a few loops of flame colored satin ribbon and then wandering off into a slender trail of stems from which descend smaller buds and knots of ribbon? Exquisite garnitures of violets are made up with narrow pale blue ribbon.

The elaborate nightgown here shown might also be used for a negligee and will be found especially useful for a convalescent. It is made of nainsook, banded with lace insertion. Some of these form a pointed effect on the yoke. The rest outlines the bolero of all over lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Mull's Grape Tonic Cures Constipation.

When the sewer of a city becomes stopped up, the refuse backs into the streets where it decays and rots, spreading disease-creating germs throughout the entire city. An epidemic of sickness follows. It is the same way when the bowels fail to work. The undigested food backs into the system and there it rots and decays. From this festering mass the blood saps up all the disease germs, and at every heart beat carries them to every tissue, just as the water works of a city forces impure water into every house. The only way to cure a condition like this is to cure the constipation. Pills and the ordinary cathartics will do no good.

MULL'S GRAPE TONIC
which permanently cures the affliction. The tonic properties contained in the grape go into every afflicted tissue and creates strength and health. It will quickly restore lost flesh and make rich, red blood. As a laxative its action is immediate and positive, gentle and natural. Mull's Grape Tonic is guaranteed or money back.

Send 10c. to Lightning Medicine Co., Rock Island, Ill., for large sample bottle. All druggists sell regular sized bottles for 50 cts.

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES UNION LABEL COUNCIL E. LIVERPOOL, O.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 20, 1903.

A glance at the roster of the governors of the country's 45 states in these opening weeks of 1903 shows the Democracy in a feebler condition than it has been at almost any previous time since the foundation of the Republican party. Seldom has the Democratic party in the nation at large cut so small a figure as at this time. In the entrances and exits of governors at the beginning of 1903 there are left only four states outside of the south which are presided over by non-Republicans. One of these states, Montana elected its governor in 1900, and as the term in that state is four years, he has a respite until the beginning of 1905. If Montana had elected a governor in 1902 he would have been a Republican. The other states of the north and west which have Democratic governors are Rhode Island, Nevada and Oregon. Rhode Island was lost to the Republicans on governor in 1902 through a temporary schism in the party, aided by a socialist diversion. Nevada elected a fusionist, as it has been doing for several years. The Democrats, through a Republican factional fight on governor in Oregon captured that official by a very small margin in 1902, the Republicans carrying all the rest of the officers by large pluralities. All these states, with possibly one exception, can safely be counted in the Republican column in 1904. No wonder Democratic leaders are few and hard to find!

There are those who hold that a lie is never justifiable, but Rev. Dr. Frank Gunsaulus, of Chicago, evidently does not think so. In the midst of his sermon last Sunday, he stopped quietly and said that, owing to physical suffering, he was unable to proceed with his discourse. He therefore requested the congregation to receive the benediction and pass out. Now the truth was that Dr. Gunsaulus was just as well able to preach as ever, but he had discovered smoke in the church and feared a conflagration and a panic. Fortunately his alarm was groundless, but his action raises a fine point in ethics which Chicago is discussing as earnestly as if it were a corner in corn. The weight of testimony indicates that Dr. Gunsaulus will be acquitted of the charge of conduct unbecoming a minister, should he ever be tried for it.

A recent outbreak of typhoid fever in England is said to have been traced to bacteria in oysters. An eminent London physician declares that the oyster is "a potential torpedo in the bowels." Maybe, but those who like him will continue to place him there, and if they first take the precaution to cook him thoroughly they need not fear either typhoid or an explosion.

The lieutenant governor of South Carolina is a murderer and it is probable that the Tillman family is permanently retired from politics.

The stuff that the Cleveland physician uses to bring back the spark of life after it has vanished is called adrenalin. The suggestion that it be used on the Democratic party in Ohio is well meant, but it comes too late. Adrenalin must be used promptly. It has no effect on anything that has been dead for months.

President Roosevelt, King Edward and Marconi have made successful use of the wireless telegraph to send messages between Cape Cod and Cornwall. The day is not far distant when everyday folk will be using it, giving no thought and attracting no attention.

Russell Sage declares that he has never paid to have his shoes shined. He doesn't say whose blacking and brush he borrowed.

Mrs. Sophia L. Goppert.

Mrs. Sophia L. Goppert, aged 61, died at her home in lower Chester this morning at 9:15 o'clock after an illness lasting a year or more from a tumor of the stomach. Mrs. Goppert was born in Saxony, Germany, but 45 years ago came to this country, locating at Allegheny. There she married Frederick Goppert about 38 years ago. Twelve years later they moved to Hancock county and since that time have lived in Chester. A few years after coming there Mr. Goppert died. Three children survive Mrs. Goppert, Fred and George and Mrs. Kate Grimm. The funeral arrangements have not been completed, but they will probably be held Saturday. The deceased was a member of the St. John's Evangelical Lutheran church and Rev. J. G. Reinartz will officiate at the funeral services. The interment will take place at Spring Grove cemetery.

Edward Burnside.

Eddie Burnside, a well known farmer and stockman, residing four miles south of Salineville, died at his home Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, from heart failure, after a sickness extending over a period of three weeks. He was in his sixty-seventh year. He was born in Ireland, and came to this country with his parents at an early age. He came to Salineville with his parents and has been a resident of that community all his life. While a boy, going to school in that town, while playing with a number of boys he met with an accident that left him a cripple all his life. He owned at the time of his death a well stocked form of 80 acres well improved. The funeral services took place today at 11 oclock at the Monroeville church, interment at the cemetery adjoining the church. He leaves a sister and brother. He lived with his sister all his life.

Nichalo Barranti.

Nichalo Barranti, the Italian who operated a fruit stand in the East End on Mulberry street, died this morning at the hospital in Steubenville at 1 o'clock. Barranti was about 55 to 60 years of age and had been a resident of the East End for several years. He has been in poor health for several months. Steadily growing worse he was taken to the Steubenville hospital last week. The change failed to benefit him and his son was notified yesterday to come down at once. He left yesterday afternoon and will bring the remains back today. The funeral will be held at Wellsville tomorrow. Interment at the Catholic cemetery.

Mrs. John Finley.

Mrs. John Finley died at her home Friday morning. The deceased lived with her husband's family about one and one-half miles west of Salineville on the Hanover road. She had been sick from a complication of diseases. She was born in England, and came to this country with her husband about 17 years ago. She lived in Salineville with the exception of a few years in East Liverpool. She returned from East Liverpool to Salineville about a year ago. Besides a husband she leaves 11 children, the oldest not more than 17. The funeral took place yesterday forenoon, services being conducted by Rev. Father McMahon. Interment at St. Patrick's cemetery, Salineville.

Thomas C. Hague.

Thomas C. Hague, formerly of this city, died this morning at the state hospital, Massillon. He was 44 years of age and well known in this city. He had been at the hospital about 18 months. The body will be brought to this city to the home of a half-brother, James C. Douglas, who lives near the city hall. The funeral arrangements have not been made at this time. Besides the relative above mentioned his mother, Mrs. Mary J. Hague; a sister, Miss Maggie, and Mrs. John Gilchrist, of this city, survive him.

FREE SCHOLARSHIPS

For Boys And Girls Who Show an Enterprising Spirit.

Fathers and mothers will naturally be interested in knowing how their boys and girls may obtain free scholarships in some of the leading educational institutions of the country, and they ought to be pleased to learn how easy the plan is.

The plan is this: The boy and girl each, who secure the largest number of subscribers to the Pittsburg Sunday Gazette up to June 30 will be given first choice from the list of schools announced in the Gazette. The boy and girl, each, having the second largest number will have second choice, and so on until the list is exhausted. But to every boy and girl who enters this competition will be given 25 cents in cash for each new subscription obtained.

An additional special award is offered: To each boy and girl who sends in 50 new paid subscriptions will be given a gentleman's or lady's gold filled hunting-case watch. Both are excellent timepieces, guaranteed by a leading Pittsburg jeweler.

The Pittsburg Sunday Gazette is the best Sunday paper published in western Pennsylvania, being fully equal to the leading New York Sunday newspapers.

A bright boy or girl should earn a fair salary getting subscribers at 25 cents each, and besides have a chance to secure one of the special rewards—a free scholarship or a watch. Contracts for scholarships have been executed, or are now pending with the University of Pennsylvania, Western University of Pennsylvania, Bucknell University, Washington & Jefferson college and many other institutions. The scholarships are worth from $150 to $1,940 each.

This contest will be run from February 1 to June 30, 1903. Subscription blanks will be ready January 31. For blanks or information call or address The Educational Department, The Gazette, Pittsburg, Pa.

Loss $66,000.

Scranton, Pa., Jan. 20.—An overheated flue caused a fire in the hardware store of Bell & Brown, on Main street, Carbondale, yesterday afternoon, which burned so fiercely for a time that it was feared a good portion of the business part of the town would be destroyed. The fire was subdued after destroying the building in which it started, the adjoining store of J. J. Reigleluth and several barns in the rear of the stores. The loss is estimated at $66,000.

Terrible Work With Shotgun.

Newark, O., Jan. 20.—At Joseph Stotthart's home near Outville, yesterday, Elmer Artz shot and killed Zacnarian Hunt, aged 50, shot and injured Mrs. Stotthart and her daughter Mary and then killed himself with a shotgun. Artz and the girl quarreled and Hurt, who went into the home, was shot down.

Big Fire at Scranton.

Scranton, Pa., Jan. 20.—The large brick department stores of the Ambrose Mulley estate and William Chappell were destroyed yesterday morning, entailing a loss of over $200,000. The fire started in the cellar of the Mulley store, at 1902-4-6 North Main avenue, and spread to the Chappell store, adjoining, at 1908-10-12-14, the same avenue. The Muley loss was $90,000; Chappell's, $100,000, and the loss to surrounding property damaged by the flames, in the neighborhood of $15,000. The loss is about three-fourths covered by insurance. The cause of the fire is not known.

Pending Appeal.

Freehold, N. J., Jan. 20.—Dr. Charles C. Hendricks, convicted with Samuel Stanton of conspiracy to secure for Laura Biggar the whole estate of Henry M. Bennet, and sentenced to two years and six months in jail, was yesterday released on bail, pending an appeal.

Panther Maintains Blockade.

Maracaibo, Venezuela, Jan. 20.—There is no communication between Maracaibo and the fort of San Carlos, which was shelled on Saturday by the German cruiser Panther and which returned the fire, with the result that the warship retreated in the direction of Curacao. One hundred and twenty shots were fired from the fort during the engagement and the walls of the fort were slightly damaged. The Panther has resumed her position at the entrance of Lake Maracaibo, where she maintains the blockade. The reports that the German gunboat at the time of the engagement was trying to force the entrance of the lake in order to capture the Venezuelan gunboat Miranda, which is in hiding there, are generally believed here. The Venezuelan governmnt has givn out a statement to this effect.

Two Burned to Death.

Pittsburg, Jan. 20.—Two persons were burned to death in a fire at Nos. 1406 and 1408 Fifth avenue yesterday morning and a number of others had narrow escapes from cremation. Both buildings were destroyed and several small buildings in the rear were slightly burned. The total loss entailed by the fire was about $40,000. The dead: Hersh Trachenberg, 73 years old; Mrs. Bessie Trachenberg, 73 years old.

Terrible Deed of Aged Woman.

Oakland, Ia., Jan. 20.—Mrs. William Hanna, Sunday night, brained her husband with a hammer, cut his throat from ear to ear with a butcher knife and then killed herself by cutting her throat. She was 78 years old and her husband 76, and, according to a note left to her son, she committed the crime because she feared her husband would die and leave her penniless.

Jumped from Express.

Harrisburg, Jan. 20.—Peter Knapp, aged 30 years, a native of Germany, living at 1604 Mt. Vernon street, Philadelphia, suicided by jumping from the Atlantic express yesterday morning shortly after the train left Harrisburg. The body was picked up near Middletown and has been brought to this city and his relatives notified.

Mills Shut Down.

Lancaster, Pa., Jan. 20.—Owing to the coal shortage the Susquehanna iron and steel mills at Columbia, employing 1,500 men, had to shut down yesterday.

Team Owners' Union.

Among other defects pointed out by the East Enders is that the city council passed the resolution for the improvement when there was not sufficient money in that particular fund to pay for it. It is held by some that the argument will not stand, but if the law according to the revised statutes which follows, is weighed, the argument may not be found so weak after all:

"No contract, agreement or other obligation involving the expenditure of money shall be entered into, nor shall any ordinance, resolution or order for the appropriation or expenditure of money, be passed by the council or by any board or officer of a municipal corporation, unless the auditor of the corporation, and if there is no auditor the clerk thereof, shall first certify that the money required for the contract, agreement or other obligation, or to pay the appropriation or expenditure, is in the treasury to the credit of the fund from which it is to be drawn and not appropriated for any other purpose, which certificate shall be filed and immediately recorded, and the sum so certified shall not thereafter be considered unappropriated until the corporation is discharged from the contract, agreement or obligations, or so long as the ordinance, resolution or order is in force, and all contracts, agreements or other obligations and all ordinances, resolutions and orders entered into or passed contrary to the provisions of this section shall be void."

Another argument that can be presented is that the report of the assessing board was not in conformity with a late decision of the supreme court. This court held that the report of the assessing board must designate the property in every instance and that it shall make an explanation of its work by detail to the letter. This, it is said, the assessing board failed to do, but as the equalization board filled all requirements so admirably, it is thought that the work of the latter will be placed against that of the first and there will conclude the argument.

Many people have expressed much interest in the matter, and they will await the result in anxious anticipation.

WELLSVILLE

IN THE HIGH SCHOOL

Notes of Interest Concerning an Institution of Which Wellsville Is Proud.

The regular monthly meeting of the teachers of all of the public schools of Wellsville was held last evening at the central building on Ninth street.

Many of the scholars of the Wellsville high school are enjoying the benefits of the Carnegie library at East Liverpool and spend many nights in the sister city at the library.

Yesterday was the first day of the latter half of the school year. In view of this fact the freshman class of the high school who have finished the study of civil government, began the study of botany; the sophomore class who have finished the study of physical geography, began the study of English history and geometry; the senior class have commenced the study of ancient history.

Way B. Davidson has been appointed librarian of the high school library and succeeds Corydon Arnold. Albert Goetz is now the assistant librarian

The junior class of the high school have been talking considerably lately of holding an enfertainment in the form of a play at the local opera house this coming spring. Miss Mason, the principal of the school, is at the head of the movement.

About $250 is being expended by the high school for electrical apparatus for the school laboratory.

In Police Court.

J. A. Williams and H. Heppard, two boiler makers, who were arrested last Saturday evening by Chief Houser and Officer Snyder on a charge of being drunk and disorderly, appeared before Mayor Fogo last evening at 7 o'clock. William was fined $4.60, which he paid. Heppard was not fined, but may be brought before the mayor again later. Albert Wheaton, who was arrested Sunday evening on a similar charge, appeared before the mayor yesterday afternoon and pleaded guilty. He was fined $4.90, but was unable to pay and may have to work out his fine.

Preparing for Rural Delivery.

Edward G. Bunting, the new rural free delivery carrier, who is to take the route out of this city on February 2, went over his route today and registered th enames of every person to who he is to deliver mail. The route covers over 20 miles of territory, and is considerably longer than the average free delivery route. Mr. Bunting has already ordered a closed wagon for the purpose and will probably receive the same before February 2.

Potters' Union Meetings.

The regular meeting of local union No. 55, N. B. of O. P., was held last evening in Potters' hall. Only a few were present and the meeting was a short one. No business which can be made public was transacted. Local union No. 24, N. B. of O. P., will hold its regular meeting this evening in the same hall. The meeting is to be followed by a smoker which is to be purely a stag affair. An interesting program will be given.

Mrs. Fife's Funeral.

The funeral of the late Mrs. John Fife, of Eleventh and Commerce streets, who died Sunday evening, was held at 10 o'clock this morning from the residence of her grandson, Frank Burbick, of Eleventh and Short streets. Interment was made at the Madison Presbyterian church cemetery.

NAVICATION AGAIN RESUMED ON THE OHIO

Boats Again Running, But Under Some Disadvantages—River Notes.

Navigation on the Ohio river was partially resumed today, although considerable ice remains in the stream and has been stiffened up again by the cold weather. The Allegheny is frozen over.

The Keystone State left Pittsburg yesterday, but grounded near Lock No 5, half a mile above Rochester. The Queen City was called to her assistance and after several hours of work floated her this morning. The Queen City will be down on her regular time tomorrow afternoon. None of the other packets have resumed.

The stage here is about 7 feet and falling slowly. Business is quiet along the wharf, although heavy shipments are awaiting the boats.

Captain Gus Martindill has booked passage for two prominent local people for the Queen City's excursion trip to New Orleans on February 14.

Captain James Sanford, of the steamer Queen City, visited Captain Thomas Calhoun, at Georgetown, Pa., yesterday and says that he is recovering from an attack of pneumonia. It will be some time before Captain Calhoun will be able to assume command of the Virginia.

Needed Them All.

A well known authoress was once talking with a dilapidated bachelor, who retained little but his conceit.

"It is time now," he said pompously, "for me to settle down as a married man, but I want so much. I want youth, health, wealth, of course; beauty, grace"--

"Yes," said his fair listener sympathetically, "you poor man, you do want them all."

Prophetic.

Shirt Sleeves to Shirt Sleeves.

Oliver Wendell Holmes counted only three generations between shirt sleeves and shirt sleeves. A daughter of Tolstoi in an interview with Henry Norman expressed the same idea in these words: "No Russian ever 'founds a family,' as you say. A man makes his fortune; his son lavishes it; his son disperses it."

SOUTH SIDE

Evicted Tenant Lets Them Lie And Says He Will Have Constable Arrested.

Another chapter in the John Barr ejectment case, which has been hanging fire for weeks in Chester, transpired yesterday. Barr lived in one of the houses in the Rolling Mill Land addition and suit was brought against him by C. A. Smith, trustee, to eject him from the house. The suit was decided against Barr and he was ordered to vacate. For some time he paid no attention to the order. Later the matter was placed in the hands of J. H. Allison, the constable, and Barr was again told to get out. He removed a part of his household goods to a small house on the hill but left a part of them there.

Constable Allison with several deputies removed the balance of his goods yesterday and left them on the street. Barr was informed of the action but refused to move the goods and they are still lying on the street. He said that he expected to cause the arrest of the constable and his helpers but no affidavits have yet been filed.

PROFIT SHARING PLAN

Meets With Some Opposition Among Employes of Chester Tinplate Mill.

The movement on the part of the officials of the American Tin Plate company to have the employes of that company subscribe for stock is meeting with considerable opposition in Chester. Quite a number of the mill men subscribed for a number of the shares which are sold to them below the market quotation of the stock. However, it seems that the stock is not being subscribed for in as large quantities as expected, and inquiries reveal the fact that the terms of the sale of the stock are objectionable to many of the men.

They claim that there is a clause in the contract to which they are to subscribe in which it states that they can not dispose of any of their stock except to the company. The men claim that this is unjust, as they undoubtedly would be able to sell to a better advantage to outside paries should they ever wish to dispose of the stock.

NO CLUE YET

To the New Cumberland Robbers—Believed They Came This Way.

Every effort is being made to locate the gang of robbers who looted the safe of A. W. Scott, the New Cumberland jeweler and druggist. Sheriff C. F. Allison has learned that three men were seen driving in a buggy towards Chester Sunday morning and the night watchman at the bridge said that two men crossed the bridge early Sunday morning who were wrapped up so that their faces could not be seen. He also said that it was possible that someone was under the robe in the buggy but he did not notice carefully.

These men had about time enough to drive to Chester from New Cumberland. The police here were instructed and notified and an attempt will be made to follow this clue, but so far nothing definite has developed.

Church Organization.

Tonight the organization of the Presbyterian church in Chester will be effected. Rev. J. R. Hosick, of Hookstown, Rev. D. A. Greene, of Fairview, and Rev. Mr. Bigger, of Wheeling, will be present at the meeting which will be held at 7:30. An interesting evening is anticipated.

Not Able to Work.

Ben. F. Sayers, who was injured at the Taylor, Smith & Taylor pottery a few days ago by an exploding lamp, and who had a hand badly burned, is able to be out again. He will be unable to go to work for several days but hopes to be able ta take his place again i na week or so.

CHESTER NOTES.

Charles Kochert is in Monroe county, O., on business.

Mrs. J. W. Hunter, of Beaver Falls Pa., is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Thomas Ward, of Carolina avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Maple, of Indiana avenue, are entertaining their daughter, Mrs. Ella Mausser, of Barnesville.

M. A. Logan, of Chester, was called to Coraopolis this morning on account of the death of his brother, J. E. Logan which occured yesterday.

Rev. W. B. Gillis married Miss Minnie Smith, of Calcutta, and Mr. D. D. Pullins, of the East End, a few days ago at the parsonage. The wedding was not announced and was just heard of yesterday. The couple will reside in the East End.

HARD'S. THE BIG STORE.

THE WIFE ACCUSES HUSBAND OF BIGAMY

Sensational Charge Filed With the Police By a Well Known Woman.

Bent upon revenge, declaring that it alone would console her, a well known woman of the city, living on Fairview street appeared at central police station and denounced her husband, also well known locally, as a bigamist. At first she was so angry that it was hard for her to restrain herself, but after relating a part of her story her feminine nature prevailed and it was while hot tears were streaming down her cheeks that she finished.

She stated that her husband, to whom she had been married for quite awhile, had cruelly deserted her and their child during the month of November and had married a young girl of Beaver county, Pa. Though not positive, it was her impression that the husband and his wife No. 2, are now living in this city and that he is working in a local pottery. Being almost in destitute circumstances she applied to the city officials for help in bringing her husband to justice. She wants him apprehended and punished. Her case is a most pitiable one. Her physical condition will not permit laborious work and she is solely dependent upon relatives for a living.

The police have taken the matter in hand. An investigation was made yesterday but it did not result in the finding of a clue as to his location, and it is thought probable that the poor woman may be mistaken in her opinion.

It was learned this morning that the woman was misinformed as to where her husband married his second wife. In telephonic communication with the clerk of Beaver county it was discovered that no man by his name had been issued a license during the year 1902.

Two Remarkable Epitaphs.

The two most remarkable epitaphs in the United States are those of Daniel Barrow, formerly of Sacramento, and of Hank Monk, Horace Greeley's stage driver. The former reads as follows: "Here is laid Daniel Barrow, who was born in Sorrow and Borrowed little from nature except his name and his love to mankind and his hatred for redskins. Who was nevertheless a gentleman and a dead shot, who through a long life never killed his man except in self defense or by accident, and who, when he at last went under beneath the bullets of his cowardly enemies in Jeff Morris' saloon, did so in the sure and certain hope of a glorious and everlasting morrow."

Hank Monk's epitaph reads thus: "Sacred to the memory of Hank Monk, the whitest, biggest hearted and best known stage driver in the west, who was kind to all and brought ill to none. He lived in a strange era and was a hero, and the wheels of his coach are now ringing on the golden streets."

Ancient Football.

Philip Stubbes wrote in 1583 in his book on "The Anatomie of Abuses:"

"For as concerning football I protest unto you it may rather be called a frendly kinde of fight than a play of recreation; a bloody and murthering practice than a felowly sporte of pastyme. For dooth not every one lye in waight for his Adversarie, seeking to overthrow him and to picke him on his nose, though it be on hard stones, so that by this meanes sometimes their necks are broken, sometimes their backs, sometimes their legs, sometimes their arms, sometimes one part thrust out of joynt, sometimes another; sometimes the noses gush out with blood, somgtimes their eyes start out—fighting, brawling, contention, quarrel picking, murther, homicide and great effusion of blood, as experience dayly teacheth."

Chinese Justice.

The China Times relates an extraordinary case of Chinese "justice."

A Mr. Jen was betrothed to Miss Han and paid his money to the woman's parents. Then he called on the parents to have the contract fulfilled and was told that the promised one was the bride of another.

Having paid his money he considered he was entitled to the girl and went to her husband's house to carry her off, but she was not at home. He then laid his case before the magistrate.

The girl was arrested and sentenced to be "kun-ed," the magistrate arguing, "If you are so wicked at twenty years of age, at the age of eighty you will be a menace to the Celestial empire."

The process of kun-ing is very similar to the ling-chih, or slicing to death punishment.

The Population of the Moon.

There is plenty of authority for believing that there is a man in the moon. In fact, there is authority for believing that there are women and other animals there. Dante declares that Cain was banished to the moon and that he can be seen there at any time. Chaucer declares that the man in the moon was guilty of larceny and that he carries a thorn bush. Shakespeare loads him with thorns and gives him a dog. According to the general version, he was banished there for gathering sticks on Sunday, and the Germans have amplified this theory by giving him a woman who had been caught churning butter on Sunday.

A Cheeky Customer.

"I had a unique but tantalizing experience the other day," said a clerk who works in a hair store. "A man came into our place and asked to look at some false beards. Of course he was accommodated, and he spent over an hour going over the lot, trying them on and examining himself in a glass. He took up my time, and after he had examined everything in that line in the store he thanked me and said he was considering whether to raise a beard or not and wished to see how he would look in the different styles."

There Was No Unnecessary Delay

There had been trouble between Mr. William Scott and Mr. Samuel Brown at Red Dog City, and Mr. William Scott started out one evening to locate the exact whereabouts of the other gentleman. When he had done so, he bustled into the saloon with the remark:

"Sorry to disturb anybody, but I'll get through with this matter as quick as possible."

He had scarcely entered when there was a pop! pop! pop! lasting for sixty seconds. Then the fusillade ceased, and the smoke lifted up to reveal two dead men lying on the floor.

"Boys," said the saloonist to the men who crowded in, "it was a fair fout and a genteel fout. They died like reglar gentlemen."

The crowd stared at the faces of the dead and nodded approval.

"And they shall be buried like gentlemen," continued the man. "Here, you Chinese heathen, take this dollar and go out and dig two holes and plant these gentlemen on their backs and give 'em elbow room to shake hands in the next world!" M. QUAD.

Each of the chief organs of the body is a link in the chain of life. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link, the body no stronger than its weakest organ. If there is weakness of heart or lungs, liver or kidneys, there is a weak link in the chain of life which may snap at any time. Often this so-called "weakness" is caused by lack of nutrition, the result of disease of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. Diseases of the stomach and its allied organs are cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. When the diseased stomach is cured, diseases of other organs which seem remote from the stomach but which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, are cured also.

"I was in poor health when I commenced taking Doctor Pierce's medicines," writes Mr. Elmer Lawler, of Volga, Jefferson Co., Ind. "I had stomach, kidney, heart, and lung troubles. Was not able to do any work. I had a severe cough and hemorrhage of the lungs, but after using your medicine a while I commenced to gain in strength and flesh, and stopped coughing right away. Took about six bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I feel like a different person. I gladly recommend your medicine to all sufferers, for I know it cured me."

The use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets will cure that foul breath.

Thin blooded, puny, emaciated conditions are just the kind of cases to which Hagee's Cordial of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda is particularly adapted.

It is a remarkable body and tissue builder—a revitalizer that promptly changes the weak, watery condition of the blood to rich, nourishing, sustaining fluid that puts color into the cheeks and animation—life—vitality—into the entire body.

It creates a good appetite and corrects the evils of digestion and assimilation. Agreeable to the weakest stomach because it contains no grease, nor fishy flavor like other cod liver oils. It is so palatable children take it readily.

Governor Nash Says Stealing of Coal from Trains Must Be Stopped.

Sweeping Result of Investigation of Fuel Famine Made by Special Grand Jury—Shortage at Lancaster, Pa., Will Raise Street Car Fares.

Columbus, O., Jan. 20.—Governor Nash yesterday morning issued a proclamation calling upon the sheriffs, peace officers and citizens of Green county to enforce the laws of the state and maintain order in Xenia. The proclamation was the result of official information which came to the governor concerning the coal riots at that place. "It amounts to common rioting," said the governor. "If the people of Green county cannot maintain order and protect property rights, the power of the state will be invoked without delay in enforcing the law and restoring order."

Chicago, Jan. 20.—A true bill was returned yesterday morning against 45 coal operators and retailers charging conspiracy to do illegal acts injurious to public trade. The indictments are against both corporations and individuals doing business in Illinois and Indiana. Bail was fixed at $1,500.

Following is a list of the corporations and individuals against whom indictments were returned:

The Forty-Five.

Chicago, Wilmington and Vermillion Coal company, Big Four Coal company, Gardner Wilmington Coal company, Wilmington Star Mining company, Bell & Zoller Coal company, Murphy Keenan Coal company, Carbon Coal company, Tilmington Coal Mining company, Cardiff Coal company, Star Coal company, Streeter, Ill.; Braceville Coal company, Acme Coal company, Illinois Third Vein Coal company, Tenona Coal company, Devlin Coal company, Spring Valley Coal company, Marquette Third Vein Coal company, Oglesby Coal company, W. M. Sanford, C. S. Lusk, Frank E. Lukens, Gus Ancutt, E. H. Keeler, Frank McGrew, F. M. Durkee, C. L. Marston, R. C. Brown, Hugh Shirkie, J. J. Higgins, J. Smith Talley, Joseph Martin, Edward Shirkie, H. R. McClellan, John Shirkie, Walter S. Bogle, Bruilletts Creek Coal company, Oak Hill Coal and Mining company, Parke County Coal company, Nevins Coal company, Indiana Fuel company, McClelland Sons & Co., Crescent Coal and Mining company, Glenn Oak Coal and Mining company, Oak Bluff Mining company.

Certain combinations which it deems to be conspirators or combinations in restraint of trade within the meaning of the statutes are as follows:

Two Associations Exonerated.

The Northern Illinois Soft Coal association, the retail dealers' association of Illinois and Wisconsin, is a certain combination of Indiana coal operators with the Crescent Coal and Mining company. While not differing in character and scope from similar combinations in other lines of business, the jurors decided it their duty to present the foregoing indictdictments.

Other associations of operators and coal dealers were found to exist and to have more or less effect in the fixing of prices and restricting competition, but against whom the evidence did not warrant action. They are the Chicago Coal Exchange and the Chicago Track Dealers' association.

Coal Teamsters' Strike.

Cleveland, Jan. 20.—With the temperature a few degrees above zero and hundreds of families throughout the city in urgent need of fuel, a strike was declared yesterday by the teamsters' union No. 267, which is almost exclusively composed of drivers of coal delivery wagons. Practically every yard in the city is affected. The drivers demand advances averaging about $4 per week for each man.

London, Jan. 20.—Four steamers loaded with coal sailed from Blyth yesterday for America. The coal trade of Northumberland has been much stimulated by the American demand.

Stopping Discounts.

Lancaster, Pa., Jan. 20.—As a result of the high price of coal the Edison Electric Illuminating company yesterday discontinued the 20 per cent discount allowed for the prompt payment of bills, and the Lancaster Gas, Light and Fuel company cut its discount from 25 to 12½ per cent. The management of the traction lines in this city and county also announced yesterday that if the rates of coal are further increased they would be forced to raise the fares.

COMPEL THE BAD TRUSTS TO MAKE A SHOWDOWN

By JAMES J. HILL, President of the Great Northern Railroad

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT is all right, and his remedy for what are called trusts is all right, assuming that you want to encourage what is good and prevent what is bad. THERE ARE DIFFERENT KINDS OF TRUSTS. SOME OF THEM ARE FORMED FOR GOOD PURPOSES AND SERVE THE PUBLIC WELFARE, AND THE PRESIDENT AND MEMBERS OF CONGRESS AND OTHER INTELLIGENT PEOPLE OUGHT TO BE ABLE TO DISCRIMINATE BETWEEN HONEST AND DISHONEST CORPORATIONS. Take Herr Krupp, the great German ironmaster, who died the other day, as an example. He was a very rich and powerful and benevolent monopolist and made Germany richer and more prosperous and his 45,000 employees happy. There are other good monopolies.

THE LARGE NUMBER OF CONSOLIDATED CORPORATIONS ARE HONEST AND WELL MANAGED AND ARE FOR THE PUBLIC WELFARE.

Others, however, were organized for speculative purposes and capitalized at enormous figures to sell stock to people who don't know any better than to buy it, and such schemes ought to be crushed out. The remedy is simple. Compel them to make a showdown before they are allowed to put stock on the market. MAKE THEM SHOW WHAT THEY HAVE GOT AND WHAT IT IS WORTH. If a company in Rhode Island wants to sell stock in California, it ought to be required to give people out there an honest statement of its business, as national banks and insurance companies are compelled to do.

EDITOR N. C. GONZALES DEAD.

Colonel Tillman, When Informed of His Victim's Death, Is Said to Have Betrayed No Emotion.

Columbia, S. C. Jan. 20.—Editor N. G. Gonzales, who was shot by Lieutenant Governor Tillman last Thursday, died at 1 p. m. yesterday. Mrs. Gonzales was with her husband when death came.

Late yesterday afternoon an autopsy on the body was held by Dr. A. B. Knowlton, county physician of Richland, assisted by the attending physicians. Every vital organ was examined and found to be typically normal. It is understood that the finding of the autopsy will be that death was due to profound sceptic injection from the gangrenous condition of the tissue consequent upon bullet wounds. A coroner's jury, composed mainly of well-known business men, viewed the body late yesterday afternoon, and then the inquest was adjourned until Thursday night. The body was taken to the residence of Mr. Gonzales.

Attorney Coleman L. Blease, who is said to be one of Colonel Tillman's lawyers, was present when the jury was at the hospital, but took no active part in the proceedings.

Soon after the death of Mr. Gonzales a telephone message carried the news to the county jailer and he apprised Colonel Tillman. It is stated that the latter received the intelligence without any expression or betokening any emotion one way or the other. He was asked last night if he would make a statement and replied, through his brother-in-law, ex-Judge Buchanan, that he had nothing to say.

The funeral will take place from Trinity Episcopal church at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Rt. Rev. Ellison Capers, bishop of the diocese of South Carolina, will conduct the rites. The active pallbearers will be 10 members of The States force.

Throughout yesterday and last night hundreds of telegrams of sympathy have poured in, not only from communities, newspapers and citizens from all over South Carolina, but from many American cities, north and south. Among them were expressions from Hugh S. Thompson, of New York, ex-governor of South Carolina, and the Cuban minister at Washington.

Last night the whole city of Columbia was in deep sorrow. There was no apparent anger or excitement, but an unnatural quiet, as though a great calamity had occurred.

SHOT HIMSELF THROUGH HEART

A. W. Barrett, at One Time Secretary of Legation at Caracas, Suicides at Washington.

Washington, Jan. 20.—A man apparently about 40 years of age, who had been living at the Ebbitt house here for a week and registered as T. Bruce, Ottawa, committed suicide in his room yesterday by shooting himself through the heart. His correct name is believed to be A. W. Barrett, as that name was signed to a letter which evidently had been written while he was contemplating the act, and the initials A. W. B. are on an umbrella which had been purchased in London in 1901. In the letter the man laid his misfortunes primarily to liquor and to his infatuation for a married woman, older than himself, on whom he said he spent all his money. His wife, it appears, had left him last August, and since then he said he had gone to the dogs rapidly. Reference is made in the letter to a Mr. May, presumably the suicide's father-in-law, who has a factory in Toronto.

Later information which the police have received is that Barrett is the brother of former Congressman W. E. Barrett, of Massachusetts. A telegram received from the latter said that Mr. Horace H. Atherton, the secretary to Representative W. E. Roberts, would care for the body of his brother. Mr. Atherton immediately recognized the body as that of Barrett when he saw it at the morgue.

The suicide at one time was secretary of legation at Caracas, Venezuela, when Mr. Scroggs filled the position of minister.

THE NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

Listless and Indeterminate Movement of Last Week Again in Evidence. Bonds Irregular.

New York, Jan. 20.—The scanty orders to buy stock which were found in brokers' offices yesterday morning confirmed the impression of the indifference of the public to the present stock market. While yesterday's opening dealings failed to show any buying demand from outside sources there was no eagerness to sell stocks The consequence was the same listless and indeterminate movement that was increasingly manifest last week

The Saturday bank statement, while favorable on its evidence, gave evidence of the requirements upon the money market resulting from the Reading deal, and was accepted as a warning that the resources of the money market, as they become replenished, are likely to be drawn upon by a syndicate for the pushing of projects held in abeyance. This project of syndicate requirements for money was enforced in its influence by a somewhat firmer tone in the money market and an advance in sterling exchange towards the gold export point.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $2,830,000.

United States 2s, registered, advanced ⅛, the 3s, regular, ¼, and the old 4s, regular, ⅜ per cent on call.

Three Injured in Wreck.

Toledo, Jan. 20.—Passenger train No. 3, on the Wheeling and Lake Erie railroad, due here at 9:20 o'clock last night, was partially wrecked in the yards at 9:10, and the engineer, fireman and baggageman were injured. None of the passengers were hurt. A yard engine, in hurrying on a side track out of the way of the passenger, collided with some box cars on the siding and two of them were thrown onto the main track directly in front of the approaching passenger train. The locomotive of the latter was derailed and badly wrecked and some damage done to the baggage car. Fireman H. A. Flint, of this city, jumped and was seriously hurt about the back and his head was cut. Baggageman H. J. Lowry, of Wheeling, sustained a broken shoulder, while Engineer Robert Cooper, of this city, escaped with some bruises to his head.

Contained Poison.

Reading, Pa., Jan. 20.—Ralph Roland Logan, aged 17, and A. Cameron Lance, aged 18, were rendered very ill late Sunday evening, after eating a sandwich and a cup of coffee obtained in a restaurant, from the effect of which the former died yesterday. Lance will recover, though he is still very weak. From all indications the sandwich and coffee contained poisonous matter of some kind. Coroner Moyer will hold an inquest.

Platt Renominated.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 20.—The joint Republican caucus last night nominated Thomas C. Platt to succeed himself as United States senator by a vote of 109 to 1 for Elihu Root, the latter cast by Assemblyman William A. Denison, of Jefferson. Senators Brackett, Brown and Elsberg, and Assemblyman Clark, of the Twenty-ninth New York district, were absent.

Mrs. Hughson, of Chicago, whose letter follows, is another woman in high position who owes her health to the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I suffered for several years with general weakness and bearing-down pains, caused by womb trouble. My appetite was fitful, and I would lie awake for hours, and could not sleep, until I seemed more weary in the morning than when I retired. After reading one of your advertisements I decided to try the merits of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am so glad I did. No one can describe the good it did me. I took three bottles faithfully, and besides building up my general health, it drove all disease and poison out of my body, and made me feel as spry and active as a young girl. Mrs. Pinkham's medicines are certainly all they are claimed to be."—MRS. M. E. HUGHSON, 347 East Ohio St., Chicago, Ill.

Mrs. Pinkham Tells How Ordinary Tasks Produce Displacements.

Apparently trifling incidents in woman's daily life frequently produce displacements of the womb. A slip on the stairs, lifting during menstruation, standing at a counter, running a sewing machine, or attending to the most ordinary tasks may result in displacement, and a train of serious evils is started. The first indication of such trouble should be the signal for quick action. Don't let the condition become chronic through neglect or a mistaken idea that you can overcome it by exercise or leaving it alone.

More than a million women have regained health by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If the slightest trouble appears which you do not understand write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., for her advice, and a few timely words from her will show you the right thing to do. This advice costs you nothing, but it may mean life or happiness or both.

Mrs. Lelah Stowell, 177 Wellington St., Kingston, Ont., writes:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—You are indeed a godsend to women, and if they all knew what you could do for them, there would be no need of their dragging out miserable lives in agony.

"I suffered for years with bearing-down pains, womb trouble, nervousness, and excruciating headache, but a few bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made life look new and promising to me. I am light and happy, and I do not know what sickness is, and I now enjoy the best of health."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound can always be relied upon to restore health to women who thus suffer. It is a sovereign cure for the worst forms of female complaints,—that bearing-down feeling, weak back, falling and displacement of the womb, inflammation of the ovaries, and all troubles of the uterus or womb. It dissolves and expels tumors from the uterus in the early stage of development, and checks any tendency to cancerous humors. It subdues excitability, nervous prostration, and tones up the entire female system. Its record of cures is the greatest in the world, and should be relied upon with confidence.

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness.
Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Strike Commission.

Philadelphia, Jan. 20.—The examination of Colonel P. A. Phillips, of Scranton, general superintendent of the mining department of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad company, took up the greater part of yesterday's session of the coal strike commission. Superintendent Phillips told of conditions in and about the collieries owned by the Lackawanna company. Like some of the other superintendents who have testified, he believed the men had a right to organize if they wanted to, but no person who is not employed by the company had a right to come into and tell the men or the company what they should do. Much of the witness' testimony was along the same line as that already given by other superintendents.

MR. BAILEY OBJECTED

Opposed to Consideration by Unanimous Consent of Bills from Republican Side.

Anti-Trust Bill Needs Further Work to Make it a Finished Measure. House Had a Busy Day and Transacted Much Business.

Washington, Jan. 20.—Mr., Bailey Texas, objected to consideration by unanimous consent of all bills from the Republican side, on the ground that the senators from New York had interfered with a matter purely local to the state of Texas. A discussion arose which was terminated by Mr. McCullom moving an executive session to consider the Cuban reciprocity treaty. After half an hour in executive session the doors were reopened and Mr. Foraker continued his remarks favoring statehood for Oklahoma, Arizona and New Mexico. The senate at 5:20 adjourned until today.

In the House.

The house transacted considerable business yesterday. Several miscellaneous measures were passed, among them the senate Hawaiian fire claims bill. The consular and diplomatic appropriation bill, the third of the regular budgets, was passed and fair progress was made with the District of Columbia appropriation bill. During consideration of the diplomatic bill Mr. McClelland (N. Y.) precipitated a discussion concerning our diplomatic and consular service, which took a wide range and led to some rather scandalous charges against our consular representatives in Mexico by Mr. Slayden, of Texas.

Mr. McClellan submitted figures to show that our consulates, compared with those of other first-class countries, were underpaid, but overmanned. Mr. Grosvenor, of Ohio, declared the charges against our consular officials were unjustified, maintaining that it was the opinion of European publicists that we had the most efficient consular service in the world.

Anti-Trust Bill Not Ready.

Representatives Littlefield, Overstreet and Powers, of Massachusetts, Republican members of the trusts sub-committee of the house judiciary committee, had a conference with the attorney general yesterday for the purpose of final consideration of the bill the sub-committee will report to the full committee. It was found at the close of the conference that further work would be necessary to make the bill a finished measure.

Cuban Reciprocity.

The senate devoted two brief executive sessions yesterday to the Cuban reciprocity treaty. At the first session the treaty was read at length and at the second session Senator Cullom, who, as chairman of the senate committee on foreign relations, has charge of the treaty, made a statement of its purport and effect. Senator Bacon, also a member of the foreign relations committee, gave notice that he would have some amendments to the treaty to offer, and asked the privilege of making them public, following the example of the senate in making the treaty itself public. This request was denied after considerable discussion, on the ground that it would be impolitic and unwise. Senator Cullom's statement was exhaustive. He produced a mass of figures to show the extent of the commerce between the United States and Cuba, and gave reasons for a belief he expressed that the ratification of the treaty would cause a rapid increase in the trade between the two countries.

Refused to Pay Fine.

Concord, Mass., Jan. 20.—Dr. Harry O. Thompson, veterinarian employed by the United States government, who was fined $15 for alleged cruelty in killing cattle, withdrew his appeal yesterday and refused to pay the fine and was ordered taken to Cambridge jail. The sheriff was served with a writ of habeas corpus and the case will go before the United States court. The cattle killed had been condemned by the government as having foot and mouth disease. The arrest and imposition of a fine under the circumstances is considered a serious matter by the department of agriculture which has been engaged in stamping out the cattle infection in this state.

DON'T OVERLOOK THIS

A Careful Perusal Will Prove Its Value to Every East Liverpool Reader.

The average man is a doubter and there is little wonder that this is so. Misrepresentations make people skeptics. Now-a-days the public ask for better evidence than the testimony of strangers. Here is proof that should convince every East Liverpool reader.

Mr. Samuel Mayer, who is an employe of the McNicol pottery, whose place of residence is 183 Bank street, says: "My health was fairly good until my kidneys began troubling me, causing my back to ache a good part of the time and to get sore and lame across the loins. The pain was often sharp and penetrating especially when stooping or lifting, and I never got rid of the trouble until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at the W. & W. pharmacy and tried them. When I had taken one box the soreness and pains in the back and other symptons of kidney distress passed away."

DISASTROUS CLEVELAND FIRE.

Two Burned to Death and Two Injured and Others Were Rescued With Difficulty.

Cleveland, Jan. 20.—Fire early yesterday destroyed two adjoining apartment houses near the corner of Euclid avenue and Andrews street, East Cleveland, resulting in the death of at least two persons and the injury of several others.

The dead: Mrs. Guy Norton, 20 years old, burned to death; Mrs. Jessie Dickey, widow, 45 years old, burned to death.

The injured: Miss Clara Jackson, servant girl, badly burned; Guy Norton, badly burned, in a serious condition; Rev. N. W. Shoup, pastor the the Windemere Methodist church, slightly burned.

The origin of the fire is unknown. The fifty tenants of the two buildings were asleep when the flames broke out. A panic ensued among them when they were finally aroused, and many were rescued with the greatest difficulty, nearly all escaping in their night clothes. The total pecuniary loss is about $60,000, partially covered by insurance.

ENGINEER AND FIREMAN KILLED

Freight Engine Blew Up and Lake Shore Limited Had Narrow Escape from Wreckage.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 20.—Engine 1767, of the New York Central, drawing the Melrose freight, blew up near Castleton last night, and besides killing Patrick Kemmey, the engineer, and George Woolcock, the fireman, nearly wrecked the Lake Shore limited, bound north. The freight was several miles from Albany at the time of the disaster, and before Conductor Randall could regain his self-possession and send out his crew with warnings the Lake Shore limited, with its big load of passengers, was in the block and rushing toward the spot piled high with wreckage.

The engineer of the limited saw the light of the burning engine and put on his brakes, bringing his train to a standstill close to the wreck. Assistance was lent by passengers and the train crews. Head Brakeman Mattoon, of West Albany, was found to be missing also, but it is thought he may have rushed back to flag the train. The limited had not reached Albany at midnight last night, although it was due at 8:40 p. m. It carries only passengers for west of Buffalo, and the railroad officials at midnight said none were injured.

Remarkable Surgical Operation.

St. Louis, Jan. 20.—A remarkable surgical operation was performed at the city hospital Sunday night to save the life of Edward Spilker, aged 19, who had attempted suicide by shooting himself in the left breast. An aperture was made and between pulsations the wound in the heart was closed with three stitches. The bullet had also perforated the apex of the left lung. A portion of an inch and a half square was cut away, a heavy silk ligature tied about the lung, draining tubes being established and the chest cavity closed. The patient speedily rallied and it is believed he will recover.

Does Not Fear Strike.

Cleveland, Jan. 20.—General Manager Taussig, of the Wheeling and Lake Erie railroad, yesterday said relative to the reports of a possible strike on that railroad: "Our trainmen have no idea of declaring a strike. The relations between the road and its employes are harmonious. The readjustment of the wage scale will take up the rest of the time of this week, and will probably result in an increase of wages, but as to how great the increase will be is not yet determined."

VI.—Habits Which Give Names.

THE Indians were accustomed to wait until their young men did something of note before naming them. But we—how did we get our names? This is too deep a subject to go into here, but whenever we see a new place or thing we apply the rule of the Indians and name it. First we rely upon the deep wells of our childish memories and christen it after what we have known that is similar to it. If some peculiar trait or property strikes us, we name it after that. For instance, when we first observed those green bugs hopping among the grass we most appropriately called them grasshoppers. Later other large bugs came and sang in great numbers on the trees. We had read in our Bibles of the plague of the locusts and gave them that name, although they were not locusts at all. Indeed, it is the grasshoppers that belong to the dread locust family.

Plants have been classified by botanists and dignified with long Latin

names describing their likenesses and peculiarities. Latin words are hard to remember, so plants in most instances were given common names centuries ago, and those names still are theirs. Very frequently it is the appearance, too, which is embodied in the name. Again, it is some habit peculiar to itself which gave it.

There is the Solomon's seal. Jerking it roughly, out comes the root or what seems to be the root. It is the real stem or root stalk. At regular intervals upon it are little round places, scars, just like a seal. We had the memory of our Bibles. What more appropriate than Solomon's seal? Each scar shows the limit of a year's growth. They are the marks left by the different stems above ground, showing where each year one shot up to the sunlight above and died down, leaving, as it detached its dead self, this scar.

The plant is a familiar one in the spring, with its single graceful bending stem and handsome leaves zigzagged up each side. Little yellow pairs of flower bells dangle from beneath the leaves and are followed later in the summer by blue berries.

There is another plant much like it which blooms at the same time. It is called the false Solomon's seal. Children, noticing the manner in which the leaves are arranged on the stem, have sometimes called it Jacob's ladder, although that name is not generally accepted. There are two great differences between the false and the true. The false has no seals, and instead of the pair of yellow flowers there is a feathery cluster of white ones at the top of the stem.

There is the horse chestnut. Did you ever consider how it came to have that name? Look at the branches in the winter, when they are bare. Where the leaves of the past year grew are little marks, scars which seem rather to be the shape of a horse's hoof. It is the outline, the imprint, of the old leaves as they detached themselves thread by thread from their fastenings to make room for the baby bud beneath. Hamilton Gibson thinks that the whole end of the branch is shaped like a horse's leg, with the buds and turns at the end for hoof and fetlock.

Around the sunflower there is the halo of legend as well as habit to give it a name. The story, according to Greek mythology, is this: Clytie, a water nymph, fell in love with Apollo, who is the sun. He would not deign to notice her, and she stood upon the bank with her eyes fixed upon the sun from morning to evening for nine long days. Her feet became rooted to the ground and her face a yellow flower which ever followed the course of the sun.

Indeed, it is this habit of facing so directly toward the sun, as much as that its shape is that of the popular emblem representing the orb, which causes it to be called the sunflower. The plant was also held in sacred esteem by the ancient Peruvians, who were known as the children of the sun and were its worshipers. The sunflower belongs in the garden, but there are many varieties of the sunflower running wild everywhere.

The sycamore owes two of its names to habits. It is the plane tree because of its way of holding up its leaves so flatly and the buttonwood tree because the round, corky pieces inside the balls to which the seeds of the ball are attached are like old fashioned buttons. This tree starts up at twilight in a ghostly manner. Its trunk is very white, the thin outer part having been sloughed off in great patches.

Creeping over the stones in a moss-like manner where there is a little soil to nourish it is the stonecrop. It is to this habit that the plant owes its name; also its Latin one, sedum, which comes from the word meaning to sit—i. e., on the rocks. It is the orpine, too, and some kinds grow in gardens and over old walls, but there are some in the woods. They have small fleshy leaves. The three leaved stonecrop shows pure white starry flowers in the early spring. They are built on the plan of the chickweed and recall snowflakes much magnified.

The jewelweed loves damp places. It has straight and hollow stems and many leaves, especially toward the top. The oddly shaped rich red flowers hang daintily among and below the leaves like little jewels in a green setting. In the early morning crystal globules of dew hang along the edges of the leaves like a rim of diamonds as they flash with the first touch of the sun. When held in the ever near water, the leaves retain a silvery, jewel-like appearance on the under side. From this it is called silver leaf, and the whole list of habits warrants the name jewelweed. The other species has pale yellow flowers, and hence is not so pretty. Its peculiarity in sowing its seeds might almost be included with its habits, which give it its name, but I am not telling now how plants take care of their seeds, and enough is enough.

The scarlet pimpernel is of an odd color, a coppery red terra cotta, but both flower and leaves are very small. The flower is very sensitive, closing its petals whenever a cloud passes over the sun and opening again when the sun shines from behind. On a bright day it begins to unfold about sunrise and is spread out by 9 o'clock. At about 3 it begins to close and at sundown is shut. So much does it fear storms and closes so hastily, to use the sensitive outside of the petal for an umbrella, that it is called the poor man's weather glass and, on account of its regularity, the shepherd's clock.

A climbing vine in country places is the hog peanut. Its leaflets are three in number, rounded at the bottom and pointed at the end. Its stem is hairy, as are the pods, which are about an inch long. The flowers, which are shaped rather like those of the sweet pea, are small and hang in light purple or white clusters. Fearing that the blossoms were not sufficient, because of the few seeds procured from them, to insure its multiplication, this vine, like the violet, bid some flowers, which will always be closed, and worked hard to produce others. This second set of pods from the hidden or cleistogomous flowers, are just at the surface of the earth or more often just below, for they fancy they are more secure when buried. The hogs are very fond of them, and, wandering through the lane, pursuing their ordinary vocation of rooting, they easily turn up the pods and greedily devour them. Thus the name hog peanut.

racemes of greenish white flowers at the ends of the branches, which later develop into beautiful nile green pods. It is the bladder nut, so called because it swells up the pod to such unnecessary proportions for the tiny seeds or nuts within. While young and tender they make amusing playthings, exploding with a loud noise when pinched. Later they stiffen and harden, and the loosened seeds within rattle about, making splendid rattles for children. There are but one or two nuts in each of the three divisions.

So plants, like men, have habits, cultivated for cause or for the effects they wish to bring about for their own ultimate good. The determining forces are sometimes too delicate to detect, but their habits have aided largely in giving recognizable character and distinction of kind.

ODD FURS.

Handsome Coats Are Made of Greenland Seal.

Some odd new skins have appeared on the fur market. Greenland seal is the latest, and it is remarkably pretty. Cream of tone and spotted of surface, it somehow suggests the leopard's skin, yet lacks its harshness when supplied with a collar of skunk or black fox, for it really makes most smart little jackets.

A recent costume was composed of a skirt of mastic cloth and a blouse of surah silk of the same tones. The latter was trimmed with elaborate decorations of Chinese embroidery, having tassels of many colors pendent from straps on the shoulder. A Greenland seal coat lined with mastic satin and a marquis hat of bright colored velvet, the brim upturned, completed the costume, which also had the muff matching the seal coat. This was made in the latest style, large in size, trimmed with bands of skunk on either side.

A pretty three-quarter length evening coat is here shown. It is made of white cloth, with the revers and cuffs strapped in a darker material.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's catarrh cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from ten drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Gentlemen.—Rheumatism is certainly one of the most tedious and painful troubles one can suffer from. I have laid awake many a night and shed many a tear from pain caused by rheumatism. The doctor said it was an excess of uric acid in my system which caused my joints to swell, also my hands, so that I could not use them. A neighbor who had been using told me of the great help derived from its use, and I decided to give it a trial. I used it without any visible results for three weeks, but the fourth the swelling began to diminish, and in six weeks I was like a new woman; my rheumatism gone. I thank and bless you a thousand times for this reliable medicine you have placed before the public.

Sincerely yours, MAMIE O'BRIEN, 180 S. Halsted St.

The author of this letter is only one of hundreds who have written us words of praise as to the qualities of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

N. B.—Although Dr. W. B. Caldwell did not prepare the formula for Syrup Pepsin with the expectation of making it a rheumatic cure, it is nevertheless true that certain ingredients of the medicine are used by practitioners in the treatment of rheumatism, and in a great many cases, of which the above is a notable example, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has been known to effect a permanent cure.

F. F. EDWARDS, PROPRIETOR OF THE HOTEL EDWARDS OF EAST LIVERPOOL, O., RECOMMENDS

LIFE PLANT

FOR KIDNEY TROUBLE

—READ WHAT HE SAYS—

East Liverpool, Ohio, Nov. 19th, 1902.

The Life Plant Co.,
Canton, Ohio.

Gentlemen:—I have used nearly two bottles of LIFE PLANT and must say it is a fine medicine for the kidneys. It is the best medicine I have ever taken and I recommend it to all who are suffering from kidney diseases.

F. F. EDWARDS, 136 Third St.

Kidney diseases are very common and very dangerous. They cause more deaths than any other affliction, and yet they can be cured, quickly and easily by taking LIFE PLANT. An improper treatment is worse than none. It excites the kidneys to unusual action for a time, causing a seeming benefit, but the result is increased weakness.

LIFE PLANT leaves you permanently cured or your money is refunded. Whatever the stage of your trouble, your druggist will warrant that LIFE PLANT will succeed with you.

The fearful fatality caused by kidney diseases is the result of neglect and wrong treatment. Commence now by using the only guaranteed treatment, LIFE PLANT. It's a wonder.

SOCIAL EVENTS

A PLEASANT PARTY

William Blythe Agreeably Entertains a Number of Young Gentlemen.

William Blythe last evening entertained a party of his young friends at his pleasant home on College street. Progressive euchre was the order of the evening, and the number present was just sufficient to fill three tables. The honors were equally divided between Bailey Gipner and Alfred Cartwright on the one side and Blaine Cochran and Ernest Thompson for the other.

A most delightful evening was spent. The guests were all prominent young men, and the fact that the affair was i nthe form of a stag party lent a touch of novelty to the occasion making it one of rare and complete enjoyment.

PRAISE SERVICE

Interesting Program For Woman's Missionary Thursday Afternoon.

The Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary society will hold its annual praise service at the First Presbyterian church Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. An interesting program has been prepared. Mrs. Watson will read a paper on the topics of the month, "A Forward Movement on the Mission Field;" Mrs. Mills Bennett, a paper entitled "Heroines in Mission Work;" Miss McClung will talk of her work as assistant to the pastor.

There will be special music with vocal selections by Mrs. John Thompson and Mrs. Spencer. A large attendance is expected.

Coming Wedding.

Lisbon, January 20.—(Special)—Invitations are out for the marriage of Dr. Charles Dickens Williams, of Cleveland, and Miss Anna Martin, of Lisbon. The wedding will take place in the presence of about 40 guests at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Mary Agnes Martin, in this place at noon, on January 28.

Coming Organ Recital.

The organ recital to be given at St. Stephen's church promises to be a great success. Prof. Paris Myers, said to be the best organist in the state, will contribute. With him will be the wonderful boy soloist of St. Matthew's, Wheeling. The recital will take place at St. Stephen's Thursday evening, January 29.

To Entertain.

Prof. R. E Rayman will entertain his primary Sunday school class at his home next Thursday evening.

WAS GREAT OVATION.

President Mitchel. Given Grandest Reception Ever Offered a Labor Leader.

DELEGATES MAKE RAFTERS RING

Ohio and West Virginia Miners Will Demand an Increase of 25 Per Cent. While Those of Indiana and Illinois Will Ask for 20 Per Cent.

Indianapolis, Jan. 20.—The fourteenth annual convention of the United Mine Workers of America was convened yesterday with an impromptu demonstration in honor of President Mitchell, greater and more enthusiastic than any other ovation ever offered a leader of organized labor. As President Mitchell entered the hall the thousand delegates leaped to their feet and cheered and applauded until the rafters rang.

When quiet was restored Mayor Bookwalter, in welcoming President Mitchell, caused a second outburst by his tribute to the chief executive of the organization. President Mitchell replied briefly, and before he regained his seat he was invited to be the guest of honor at a reception given for him last night.

Annual Report Not Read.

Although President Mitchell's annual report was not read yesterday afternoon, as was intended, it was given out last night that chief among his recommendations will be advise to the bituminous miners to demand a substantial advance.

As a result of this report there were numerous informal meetings of delegates last night devoted to a discussion of the various instructions with which they come to the convention. Delegates from the West Virginia field will insist upon a demand for 25 per cent increase. Delegates from Indiana and Illinois are more conservative and will ask for only a 20 per cent advance. The Pennsylvania delegation will place its demands upon the same basis. Ohio, however, will join West Virginia and insist upon the 25 per cent increase.

Delegation Non-Communicative.

The Pittsburg delegation, headed by Pat Dolan, was averse to making public the text of the particular instructions under which it is seated. Uriah Bellingham, of the same district, was equally non-communicative.

It is not yet known when the subject of the advance will be brought to the attention of the convention. That matter will be determined by the rules of the committee composed of J. P. Gallagher, of Hazleton, Pa., and William Dodd, of Pittsburg.

President Mitchell was officially recognized yesterday by the Indiana general assembly. In a resolution adopted by the house of representatives he was welcomed back to Indiana and invited to address the members at his convenience. Committees were appointed to wait upon him and learn when he could appear before the two branches.

REVIVAL SERVICES

Great Interest Manifested in the Meetings at the First M. E. Church.

The revival service at the First M E. church last night was attended by a fair audience. Rev. Dr. Pratt preached a telling sermon from the text, "Behold I stand and knock at the door. There were a large number of conversions and quite a number of accessions to the church at the service last night.

Great interest was manifested by those present and a large amount of personal work was done by the members in the congregation. These meetings will be continued all week and possibly longer.

A Maniac's Poem.

Probably the mass of prison poetry which has been written on stools and bedposts and scratched on prison walls far exceeds that which has found expression on paper, and many a "mute, inglorious Milton" has begun and finished his poetical career with these "lost to sight" productions.

There is in existence a short poem, said to have been scratched by a maniac on the wall of his cell, which runs thus:

Could I with ink the ocean fill,
Were all the world of parchment made,
Were every reed on earth a quill
And every man a scribe by trade,
To write the love of God alone
Would drain that ocean dry;
Nor could the scroll contain the whole,
Though stretched from sky to sky.

The authenticity of this being the work of a maniac has often been questioned because of the beauty of its expression and its sound reason, but the story stands.—All the Year Round.

Cambronne and His Needle.

The famous General Cambronne had a talent not rare in the French army. He knew how to use a needle. I knew an old lady who preserved with care a Brittany costume he made her for a fancy ball. She spoke of it as a beautiful fit at the time he measured her for it. The ornamental stitching on the corsage and apron formed designs invented by the general as he stitched, though he was of an age when the inventive faculty is dull. "What should I do to prevent tedium killing me," he once said in the hearing of this lady, "were it not for my needle?" He had little book education and never had any taste for reading. He was too sober to seek liveliness in drink, and too good a citizen to seek to play a part as a politician. He also had a loom with which he wove tapestry and furnished some beautiful things to his relatives.—Paris Cor. London News.

An Enduring Record.

Standing side by side in an old Long Island cemetery are four tombstones. They commemorate the virtues of the successive wives of one of the town's inhabitants. A peculiar thing about the monuments is that not alone do they perpetuate the memory of each of his helpmates, but they serve as a sort of financial barometer to record the husband's rising fortunes.

The first wife had a 'modest little headstone. The second wife's memorial was on the same order, but it was at least two feet taller. The third wife differed both as to style and size, being greatly superior to either of the others, while to the fourth and last was granted the distinction of a granite shaft.

Overheard In a Gun Store.

Desperate Looking Party—I want to buy a revolver.

Dealer—Yes, sir. Here's the three latest styles. This plain, substantial arm is much used for self defense; this silver mounted one, with pearl handle, is used for shooting sweethearts, and this cheap, common affair is usually used to shoot wives. It's very popular just now.—Baltimore American.

Honey From the Spelling Bee.

Churchman—We had a spelling bee at the church last week. The pastor gave out the words. Did you hear about it?

Ascum—No. Was it interesting?

Churchman—Rather. The first three words he gave out were "increase," "pastor," "salary."—Philadelphia Press.

Very Strange.

Tourist—I must move. I couldn't get a wink of sleep all night on account of a baby in the next room that cried all night.

Waiter—I don't understand that. The parents slept in the same room, and they never heard it.—Nordiske Blade.

Thoroughly Reliable.

"So you have a system by which you can't lose at roulette?"

"I have," answered the thrifty young nobleman. "I get other people to subscribe the money and charge them a commission for playing it at Monte Carlo."—Washington Times.

The Inquisitive Foreigner.

"Yes," said Mrs. Flasherleigh, smiling sweetly upon the baron, "my daughter once took a prize at a baby show."

"Ah!" the nobleman answered. "How lofely! Vas it for vot you call fairness or der strongest lungs?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

Comparing Notes.

Neighbor—It costs a great deal to raise a boy these days.

Mr. Tucker (father of Tommy)—My experience is that it doesn't cost as much to raise a boy as it does to suppress him.—Chicago Tribune.

Cause For Congratulation.

"I hear the dinner was a great success."

"The best yet. All the people we invited first declined, and we had a chance to ask those we really wanted."—Town Topics.

Heartlessness.

"I wouldn't say anything unkind to a person behind his back," said Maud.

"Neither would I," answered Mamie. "I'd rather say it where he can hear it, so as to have the fun of seeing him get angry."—Washington Star.
